NOTIFICATION.

The 25th September 1876.—It is hereby notified that, under Section 7 of Act XVI of 1875, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal has been pleased to prescribe the following rules for ascertaining and determining what spirit imported into British India shall be deemed to have been effectually and permanently rendered unfit for human consumption :—

1. Spirit imported into British India for use exclusively in arts, manufactures, or chemistry, which has been rendered effectually and permanently unfit for human consumption, is subject only to an ad-valorem duty of ten per cent. under Article 32, Schedule A of the Indian Tariff Act XVI of 1875.

2 Whenever such spirit is imported from the United Kingdom into any port of the Bengal Presidency, before it can be admitted at the reduced rate of duty as aforesaid, the importer must satisfy the Collector of Customs at that port that the spirit has been rendered effectually and permanently unfit for human consumption, by the production of a certificate from a competent Customs or Excise authority of the United Kingdom that the spirit has already been subjected, under proper supervision in the United Kingdom, to a process by which it has been rendered effectually and permanently unfit for human consumption.

3 If the importer cannot so satisfy the Collector of Customs, the latter shall cause such spirit to be examined, and, if necessary, rendered unfit for consumption in the manner hereinafter described as applicable to spirit imported from other countries than the United Kingdom.

4. Whenever such spirit as aforesaid is imported from other countries than the United Kingdom into any port of the Bengal Presidency, the Collector of Customs at that port shall send a sample of such spirit to the Chemical Examiner for examination and report, at the expense of the importer, and if the Chemical Examiner shall certify that the spirit has been rendered effectually and permanently unfit for human consumption, the Collector of Customs shall admit it at the reduced rate of duty.

5. Whenever imported spirit is required to be rendered effectually and permanently unfit for human consumption by officers of Customs Department, the ingredient to be used for admixture with the spirit shall be Caoutchoucine, and it shall be mixed with the spirit in the proportion of one and a half per cent.

6. Under the Board's sanction in each instance, Wood Naptha can be used instead of Caoutchoucine in special cases, where the latter ingredient would damage the spirit so as to make it unsuitable for the purpose intended.

7. The ingredient, however, before its admixture with the spirit, must be tested by the Chemical Examiner to Government, who must certify to the Collector of Customs that it is Caoutchoucine of the proper strength, fitted, if used in the proportions mentioned in Rule 5, to effectually and permanently render unpalatable and unfit for human consumption the spirit with which it is mixed.

8 Any expense which may be incurred by the Collector of Customs in rendering spirit unfit for human consumption, or in ascertaining that it has been so rendered, must be paid by the importer.

No. 954A, dated Naini Tal, the 16th June 1876.

From—B. W. COLVIN, ESQ., Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of the North-Western Provinces,
To—The Offg. Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department.

I AM directed to forward, for the consideration of His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General in Council, an extract from a letter, dated 13th May 1876, regarding the solemnization of marriages by Methodist Episcopalian ministers.

2. Under the Marriage Act (XV of 1872, Section 5,) marriages can be formed without licenses by persons "who have received episcopal ordination." Mr. Parker desires to be informed whether Methodist Episcopalian ministers fall within this category.

Extract from a letter, dated 13th May 1876, from the Superintendent, Methodist Episcopalian Missions for Rohilkhand, to Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces.

MAY I also be permitted to ask one question. In the Marriage Act XV of 1872, part I, paragraph 5, (1) (page 9), it is stated that "marriages may be solemnized in India" (1) "by any person who has received episcopal ordination, provided that the marriage be solemnized according to the rules, rites, ceremonies, and customs of the church of which he is a minister."

This cannot refer alone to the Church of England and the Church of Rome, for in part IV, paragraph 32—"Any person who has received episcopal ordination, but who is not a clergyman of the Church of England or of the Church of Rome," is referred to.

The ordained ministers of the "Methodist Episcopal Church" in India have all received "episcopal ordination." The form of ordination is the same, or nearly the same, as of the Church of England. Our ministers are all under the direction of the bishops of our Church. No one but a bishop can ordain to the ministry in our Church. Our own American Government accepts our Church as episcopal.

Hence, with the above clause in the law, and with these well-known facts concerning the Methodist Episcopal Church, are not all ministers of this Church, who have been duly ordained by a bishop, authorized to solemnize marriages without any further license?

The importance of this question lies in the fact that frequent transfers all over India cause much correspondence as marriage registrars, while if by virtue of the Act we are authorized, having been duly episcopally ordained, then all this extra licensing and changing of licenses each year, as men are transferred, is useless. As all of our ordained ministers are members of conferences which meet annually, and also under the direction of a bishop, there could be no danger of abuse or looseness in this work, as our own law in our Church does not allow any one to solemnize marriages who is not a regularly ordained minister.

As we are thus regularly episcopally ordained, we trust that Government may consider it expedient to allow us to solemnize marriages by virtue of our ordination, as our own Government does in the United States of America.

No. 289, dated Simla, the 9th August 1876.

From—T. J. CHICHELE PLOWDEN, ESQ., Offg. Under-Secy. to the Govt. of India,
To—The Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces.

I AM directed to acknowledge your letter No. 954A, dated the 16th June last, and in reply to say that the Officiating Advocate-General having been consulted, has expressed his opinion that it would be unsafe to accept clergymen of the Episcopal Methodist Church of America as coming within the purview of Section 5, Clause 1 of the Indian Christian Marriage Act of 1872.

RESULT OF THE MEASURES ADOPTED FOR THE DESTRUCTION OF VENOMOUS SNAKES.

JUDICIAL.

Darjeeling, the 2nd October 1876.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Government Circular No. 9, dated the 13th February 1875, to the address of all Divisional Commissioners, sanctioning the grant of a reward of four annas for each cobra, dead or alive, brought into any sudder or sub-divisional station of the several districts in their respective divisions.

Read also—

Circular No. 633, which was addressed on the same date to the Commissioners of the Burdwan, Patna, and Rajshahye Divisions, sanctioning as a special case, during the rains of 1875, the offer of a reward of 8 annas for each cobra found and destroyed within the limits of the towns of Burdwan, Patna, and Moorshedabad.

Read—

Letters from the different Commissioners, reporting the action taken by the several district officers, and the results obtained under the above orders.

IN November 1873 this Government authorized, as an experimental measure for six months, the offer of a reward of two annas a head for all cobras brought alive into sudder stations of districts, and identified by and destroyed before the Civil Surgeon. The experiment, however, did not fulfil the objects desired, owing, as represented, chiefly to the inadequacy of the reward offered.

In 1875, however, the Lieutenant-Governor, being unwilling to relinquish a measure which might possibly be the means of saving the lives of so many people in the interior of the country, sanctioned experimentally the payment of a reward of 4 annas for each cobra, dead or alive, brought into any sudder or sub-divisional station throughout these provinces, and also, as a special case, to the payment of a reward of eight annas for each cobra destroyed within the limits of the towns of Burdwan, Patna, and Moorshedabad.

2. The reports now submitted by the Commissioners as to the effect of the orders granting an increased reward for the destruction of cobras, are not satisfactory as a whole, and show very unequal results. In the districts of Gya, Durbhunga, Dacca, Dinagepore, Maldah, Rajshahye, and Rungpore no rewards at all were claimed, and the number of cobras for which rewards were given in the districts of Bogra, Julpigooree, Tipperah, Mymensingh, Pooree, and Bankoora was less than five in each district. In other districts, and more especially in Midnapore, Purneah, Monghyr, and the Sonthal Pergunnahs, where there are large numbers of aboriginal tribes, who are willing to make a business of catching and destroying snakes, the number of cobras destroyed, and the expenditure incurred on account of rewards, was considerable.

3. The Commissioners generally are of opinion that the amount of reward now offered is ample, if paid promptly and in the presence of the Magistrate, to induce such persons as are likely to undertake it to engage in the occupation of seeking and destroying snakes, but that even double the amount of the present reward would be insufficient to induce villagers and laborers, with fixed occupations, and more especially in those districts where the people are well off, to take the trouble of destroying cobras, or bringing them in from any distance for the sake of the reward.

4. In all a sum of Rs. 7,807 was paid during the past year for the destruction of 32,391 cobras, as against a sum of Rs. 200 paid for the destruction of 1,757 cobras only in 1874. Notwithstanding the large number of cobras destroyed, the number of deaths last year by snake-bite was 8,807, or 1,212 in excess of the number reported during the previous year—a fact which causes much sorrow to the Government, and which must induce us to maintain our enquiries as to whether the cause of so much mortality can be mitigated if not prevented. This increase is general, except in the Dacca and Chota Nagpore Divisions, where a slight decrease is reported in the number of deaths. No conclusions, however, can be drawn from these figures as to the effect of the experiment, as it is apparent that the larger number of deaths reported last year is owing to better statistics having been obtained, and to the fact that figures have now been supplied for several districts for which no figures were given in the returns of the previous year. It is also at present premature to look for any beneficial results from the adoption of the experiment, or to arrive at any final conclusions as to its utility, considering the short period during which the scheme has been in force, and the limited number of districts within which any real effect has been given to it.

5. Having regard to the mischief done by these poisonous reptiles, and to the expediency of reducing their numbers and so saving human life, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to sanction the continuance of the experiment of granting the present scale of rewards for the destruction of cobras at all sudder and sub-divisional stations up to the close of the present financial year ending the 31st March 1877. At the close of this period (April 1877) a further report of the results of the experiment should be submitted, showing particularly whether the rewards have been paid for cobras only as directed; by whom the cobras were identified; what means were taken to prevent their being again presented to secure the reward; what classes of persons applied for the reward; whether professional snake-catchers—Hindoos, Mussulmen, aboriginal tribes, &c.; whether the snakes were generally caught or killed locally, or brought in from a distance; and whether any beneficial results have been observed from the measure, as shown by a decrease in the number of deaths from snake-bite in the immediate vicinity of sudder or sub-divisional stations. The Lieutenant-Governor earnestly hopes that these reports will shew some promise of good being effected by these measures.

6. Several district officers and Commissioners have recommended that a reward should also be offered for the destruction of "keraits," which are as deadly as cobras, and are said to be common in some districts. But the Lieutenant-Governor does not deem it advisable to accord his sanction to this proposal, as the sum available for distribution as rewards is limited, and as it is to be further observed that "keraits" are not easy of identification, and cannot be readily distinguished from several other snakes which are of a harmless kind.

7. Again, it has been recommended by some officers that rewards should be similarly paid for all cobras brought to police stations and to the offices of rural sub-registrars, and that the sub-inspectors of police and the rural sub-registrars should be authorized to disburse the rewards. The Lieutenant-Governor, however, is unable to accede to this recommendation Apart from the question of expense, and the necessity which exists for strict supervision over the payments of the rewards, the Lieutenant-Governor is very doubtful whether any general destruction of snakes is practicable. Nor indeed is the destruction of venomous snakes really necessary in jungly and sparsely inhabited places, where they are but seldom injurious to human life. It must be remembered, moreover, that the measure is still experimental, and that it has yet to be shewn that any benefits have resulted from its extension, as at present, to the most populous centres of each district.

8. In the three large towns of Patna, Burdwan, and Moorshedabad, where, as a special case, a reward of eight annas for each cobra was sanctioned, the results also have been very unequal. While 1,164 cobras were destroyed within the limits of the town of Burdwan, for which Rs. 437-12 were paid as rewards, and 298 were destroyed in the town of Patna, for which rewards amounting to Rs. 149 were disbursed, the number of cobras killed in Moorshedabad was four only. Thus, while the experiment proved fairly successful in the town of Burdwan, and partially successful in Patna, so far as relates to the number of cobras destroyed, it was a complete failure in Moorshedabad. In future, the Lieutenant-Governor is not prepared to sanction a larger reward being given in these towns than is now allowed at other sudder stations, but will leave it to the municipalities, in the case of these three towns and of others, to supplement the reward granted by Government, should they think fit to do so.

9. In conclusion, the Lieutenant-Governor desires that the Commissioners will impress on all district officers subordinate to them that, as the amount available for the payment of rewards is limited, and no extra expenditure on this account can be sanctioned during the current financial year, each Magistrate must ascertain from the Accountant-General precisely what amount is available for expenditure within his district during the current year, and must be careful not to exceed the grant allotted for the purpose without special sanction.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

R. L. MANGLES,

Offg. Secy. to the Government of Bengal.

The 12th September 1876.—The Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal is pleased to declare that the boundary between the Chittagong Hill Tracts and the Lushai country shall be as described in the following memorandum :—

Memorandum describing the boundary between the Chittagong Hill Tracts and the Lushai country.

This line of boundary commences at the hill station marked S* south of Betling Sib, on the Jampoi range of hills forming the Hill Tipperah eastern frontier; it then runs along the whole course of the Tulenpui or Sujjuk river to its junction with the Kurnafuli river a little north of Demagiri; thence it continues eastwards along this stream up to the junction of the Tui Chong river, after which it follows the whole course of this river to a point immediately to the south-east of the hill station of the Oheephoom No. 5; then, turning westwards, crosses the Oheephoom range of hills and joins the Thega Khall at a point midway between the hill stations of Saichal, Nos. 2 and 3, after which it follows the course of the Thega Khall river to its source; then again turns south-westwards, and follows the watershed of the Weybong range of hills until it meets the southern hill station of Keokradong, on the south-eastern boundary of the Chittagong Hill Tracts, following the watershed until it meets the frontier of that portion of the Arracan Hill Tracts in which order and regularity are maintained.

R. L. MANGLES,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

3	Beerbhoom, „ 30, „	3·16	Weather—Showery. State and prospects of the crops continue excellent.
4	Midnapore, „ 30, „	2·00	Weather—Seasonable. If the present weather continues for another fortnight a splendid crop will be secured, especially in the jungle pergunnahs.
5	Hooghly, „ 30, „	1·75	Weather—Sunny, with occasional showers. The aous rice is still being reaped, and the amun is doing well.
	Howrah, „ 30, „	·64	Weather—Fair. The early crops are nearly reaped. The winter crops are excellent, except in a few places.
	Central Districts
PRESIDENCY DIVN. 6	24-Pergunnahs, Oct. 2,† '76	·26	Weather—Fine, with occasional showers. The aous and jute crops have been good, and the prospects of the amun crop are very promising. Fever still continues in the Barripore sub-division.
7	Nuddea, Sept 30, „	·76	Weather—Pleasant; sometimes cloudy, with a little rain. The rain has done much good. The rice crops are favourable. The til and kalai sowings are going on.
8	Jessore, „ 30, „	1·02	Weather—Cloudy and sultry. All the crops promise well.
9	Moorshedabad, „ 30, „	3·69	Weather—Seasonable. There has been some heavy thunder-storms and rain at the Sudder Station. No change in the condition of the crops. The prospects of the late rice could not be better at present. Cholera has not spread. Fever is uniform.
RAJSHAHYE DIVN. 10	Dinagepore, „ 29, „	5·65	Sufficient rain has fallen during the week. The fall at Roygunge is registered 6·02. State and prospects of the crops are good.
11	Maldah, „ 30, „	3·03	Weather—Fair, with occasional cloud and showers of rain. The general prospects are exceedingly good, and the crops are expected to be bumper ones all over the district.
12	Rajshahye, „ 30, „	·50	Slight rain has fallen all over the district. The river Podda has been gradually rising since the 23rd September. The prospects of the rice crops are good.
13	Rungpore, „ 29, „	6·94	Weather—Stormy. The rainfall at Bagdogra has been 11·90, at Kurigram 1·2, and at Gaibanda 1·96. There was a very heavy thunder-storm on the afternoon of the 26th September, and 2·18 inches of rain fell. This rain will improve the crops now ripening, but the general yield except to the north will be somewhat below the average. In the Kurigram sub-division rain is still urgently wanted, and much harm has been done in the past week for want of it. Only an eight-anna crop can now be expected there.
14	Bogra, „ 30, „	2·88	The rainfall has been heavier than during the earlier weeks of September. There has been considerable heat, and the winds from the south and east have been prevailing. The amun rice has derived benefit from this week's rain. This crop is very promising throughout the district.
15	Pubna, „ 30, „	1·38	Weather—Fine, with occasional showers. The rivers have risen unexpectedly. This will benefit the amun rice, but will do some damage to the early sowings of the cold-weather crops.

Patna Divs.	26	Patna	.....	Telegram not received.
	27	Gya, Sept. 30, '76	4·0	Weather—Heavy and apparently general rain fell every morning, and above 4 inches have been reported during the week. 	29	Durbhunga, „ 30, „	5·02	Weather—Rainy and cool. The rain has been heavy all over the district, and has been of immense benefit to the aghani crops, and to the prospects of the rubbee crops. There is at present no further cause for anxiety.
	30	Monufferpore, „ 30, „	13·02	Weather—Cloudy and showery. The reports from the Setamurhee sub-division are favourable, where the rainfall has been general. The prospects in the Sudder are very good owing to the heavy rains. No returns have been received from Hajeepore.

* Telegram of the 2nd October, received on the same day, shows rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

† 1·10 since reported.

BEHAR.—(Contd.)
Patna Divn.—(Contd.) 31	Sarun, Sept. 30, '76	·55	Weather—Cloudy and showery. There was a break in the rains on the 25th and 27th September. The kathia has commenced and more rain is expected. It is raining hard now (3 P.M.), and it seems likely that it will continue to do so. The rain registered at Sewan is 2·49 and at Gopalgunge 4·05. There appears to have been a good fall in most parts of the district. It must have greatly benefited the aghani rice. The seedlings of this rice however could not all be transplanted for want of sufficient early rain, and it is now too late for further transplantation. The gathering of bhadoi is still going on, and the manufacture of indigo is drawing to a close. Cholera is still reported, but it is not raging as previously reported by the Deputy Magistrate of Gopalgunge. Only one death occurred from this cause between the 16th and 22nd September. Prices, though rather higher, will probably fall after the seasonable rain.
32	Chumparun, „ 29, „	Notgiven	Weather—Fine and cool. A continual heavy fall of rain during this week has greatly benefited the rice crop, and there is every prospect of a good harvest.
Bhagulpore Divn. 33	Monghyr, „	4·59	Weather—Cloudy. Heavy rain has fallen during the week, and the rice prospects are excellent.
34	Bhagulpore, Oct. 2,* „	3·07	North-east wind prevailed. 1·75 inches of rain fell at Banka, 4·20 inches at Mudehpoorah, and 3·32 inches at Soopool. This rain must have greatly benefited the aghani rice, and enabled the ploughing for the rubbee crops. If it has fallen at Naradigur, even there all complaints ought to tone down. General health is very good.
35	Purneah, Sept. 30, „	4·58	Very heavy rain fell during the week, and high winds with thunder and lightning often prevailed; 3·29 inches fell at Kissengunge. The prospects of the aghani rice are good throughout the district. There has been a full crop of bhadoi rice, which is being sold at about 30 seers per rupee.
36	Sonthal Pergns. Oct. 1, „	2·4	Weather—Cloudy and warm; showers and sunshine alternately. The registered rainfall at Deoghur is 3·18, at Godda 3·36, and at Rajmehal 1·5. The prospects of the crops are excellent everywhere. The janera has been about a half crop.
ORISSA.
Orissa Divn. 37	Cuttack, Sept. 30, '76	1·46	Weather—Frequent and heavy showers. The crops are in a very promising state. Some slight injury has been done here and there on account of the floods. Public health is good.
38	Pooree, „ 28, „	2·46	Weather—Several days were cloudy. Heavy rain fell in most parts of the district, and the prospects have in consequence slightly improved. The bialí crops are being reaped, and the sarad crops are favourably progressing.
39	Balasore, „ 29, „	3·37	Weather—Showery. The rainfall has been moderate during the week. Some of the earlier kinds of paddy are coming into ear. The general prospects of the crops are good. Health of the district is satisfactory.

NOTIFICATION.

The 25th September 1876.—It is hereby notified that, under Section 7 of Act XVI of 1875, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal has been pleased to prescribe the following rules for ascertaining and determining what spirit imported into British India shall be deemed to have been effectually and permanently rendered unfit for human consumption :—

1. Spirit imported into British India for use exclusively in arts, manufactures, or chemistry, which has been rendered effectually and permanently unfit for human consumption, is subject only to an ad-valorem duty of ten per cent. under Article 32, Schedule A of the Indian Tariff Act XVI of 1875.

2. Whenever such spirit is imported from the United Kingdom into any port of the Bengal Presidency, before it can be admitted at the reduced rate of duty as aforesaid, the importer must satisfy the Collector of Customs at that port that the spirit has been rendered effectually and permanently unfit for human consumption, by the production of a certificate from a competent Customs or Excise authority of the United Kingdom that the spirit has already been subjected, under proper supervision in the United Kingdom, to a process by which it has been rendered effectually and permanently unfit for human consumption.

3. If the importer cannot so satisfy the Collector of Customs, the latter shall cause such spirit to be examined, and, if necessary, rendered unfit for consumption in the manner hereinafter described as applicable to spirit imported from other countries than the United Kingdom.

4. Whenever such spirit as aforesaid is imported from other countries than the United Kingdom into any port of the Bengal Presidency, the Collector of Customs at that port shall send a sample of such spirit to the Chemical Examiner for examination and report, at the expense of the importer, and if the Chemical Examiner shall certify that the spirit has been rendered effectually and permanently unfit for human consumption, the Collector of Customs shall admit it at the reduced rate of duty.

5. Whenever imported spirit is required to be rendered effectually and permanently unfit for human consumption by officers of Customs Department, the ingredient to be used for admixture with the spirit shall be Caoutchoucine, and it shall be mixed with the spirit in the proportion of one and a half per cent.

6. Under the Board's sanction in each instance, Wood Naptha can be used instead of Caoutchoucine in special cases, where the latter ingredient would damage the spirit so as to make it unsuitable for the purpose intended.

7. The ingredient, however, before its admixture with the spirit, must be tested by the Chemical Examiner to Government, who must certify to the Collector of Customs that it is Caoutchoucine of the proper strength, fitted, if used in the proportions mentioned in Rule 5, to effectually and permanently render unpalatable and unfit for human consumption the spirit with which it is mixed.

8 Any expense which may be incurred by the Collector of Customs in rendering spirit unfit for human consumption, or in ascertaining that it has been so rendered, must be paid by the importer.

On the commencement of this Act, the Regulations and Acts specified in the schedule hereto annexed, to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof, shall cease to have effect in the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, save so far as they repeal or modify any other Regulations or Acts, and save so far as regards the partition of any estate which shall be pending at the time of the said commencement.

The partition of any estate which shall be pending at the time of the commencement of this Act shall (except as provided in the next succeeding section) proceed and be completed in the same manner as if this Act had not been passed.

Certain provisions of Act applicable to partition cases pending at the time of its commencement.

3. The provisions of this Act, so far as they relate to the continuation of a partition from the point which it has reached, or to the staying of the partition of an estate, or to striking a partition case off the file, may be applied, at the discretion of the Collector, in all cases of partition of estates pending at the time of the commencement of this Act, provided that before applying such provisions to the continuation of a partition the Collector give due notice in each case to the parties concerned that such provisions will be applied.

Except as hereinafter otherwise expressly provided, the average of the amount of rent which was payable for any land by the cultivating ryots during the three years immediately preceding the year in which proceedings are taken under this Act for the partition of the estate shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the rental of such land; and if any land is not let, but is held and occupied directly by the proprietors or any of them, the annual rent for which such land might reasonably be expected to let shall be deemed to be the rental of such land.

Exception 1.—If the rent payable by the cultivating ryots on account of any land shall have been determined by any Court of competent jurisdiction, or shall have been altered with the consent of the said ryots at any time during the said three years, the amount so determined, or the amount to which the rent may have been so altered, may, if the Collector think proper, be deemed to be the rental of the land.

Exception 2.—If any land is held on a permanent tenure which was created by all the proprietors of the estate, and which by any law for the time being in force is protected against the purchaser at a sale for arrears of revenue, the rent payable by the holder of such tenure shall be deemed to be the rental of such land.

Exception 3.—If any land is held on a tenure which, although not protected as aforesaid, is admitted by all the recorded proprietors of the estate to be a permanent tenure created by all the proprietors of the estate, subject only to the payment of an amount of rent fixed in perpetuity, and of such nature that the rent thereof is not liable to be enhanced under any circumstances by the proprietors of the said estate, or any person deriving his title from such proprietors, the rent payable by the holder of such tenure (whether he be known as talukdar, patnidar, mokarraridar, or by any other designation) shall be deemed to be the rental of such land.

Exception 4.—If any land be unoccupied, such amount as the Collector may determine, with reference to all the circumstances of the case, shall be deemed to be the rental of such land.

PART II.

OF THE RIGHT TO CLAIM PARTITION.

Who entitled to claim partition.

8. Except as hereinafter otherwise provided, every recorded proprietor of a joint undivided estate, who is in actual possession of the interest in respect of which he is so recorded, is entitled to claim a partition of the said estate, and the separation therefrom and assignment to him as a separate estate of lands representing the interest of which he is in such possession, provided that, and as far only as, such partition, separation, and assignment can be made in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

Any two or more such recorded proprietors may claim that lands representing the interests of all such claimants may be formed into one separate estate to be held by them as a joint undivided estate; and every provision of this Act which applies to an applicant for partition shall apply to any two or more persons making such joint claim.

Partition according to interest.

9. (a) If the interest of any recorded proprietor who is entitled to claim partition as aforesaid is an undivided share in an estate held in common tenancy, such person shall be entitled to have assigned to him as his separate estate lands of which the assets shall bear the same proportion to the assets of the parent estate as his undivided share in the parent estate bears to the entire parent estate.

(b) If the interest of such recorded proprietor is the proprietary right of certain specific mouzahs or lands forming part of the parent estate, and held by him in severalty, he shall be entitled to have assigned to him as his separate estate the said mouzahs or lands.

(c) If the interest of such recorded proprietor consists of an undivided share held in common tenancy in certain specific mouzahs or tracts forming part of the parent estate, but not extending over the whole area of the parent estate, he shall be entitled to have assigned to him as his separate estate lands situated within such specific mouzahs or tracts, of which the assets shall bear the same proportion to the assets of such specific mouzahs or tracts as his undivided share in such specific mouzahs or tracts bears to the entire mouzahs or tracts.

Provided that if the interest of such recorded proprietor consists of such undivided share in more than one mouzah or tract, he shall not be entitled to have lands assigned to him in every such mouzah or tract, but the Collector may assign to him as his separate estate lands situated in any one or more of the said mouzahs or tracts, provided that the assets of such lands are in proportion to the aggregate of the interests which he holds in all such mouzahs or tracts.

(d) If such recorded proprietor holds in the parent estate more than one of the kinds of interest specified in this section, lands shall be assigned to him as far as possible in accordance with the principles above laid down.

Life estate.

10. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, no person having a proprietary interest in an estate for the term of his life only shall be deemed to be a person entitled to claim partition under this Act.

No partition of a permanently-settled estate allowed if separate estate liable for less than one rupee annual land revenue until proprietor agrees to redeem.

11. No application for the partition of a permanently settled estate shall be admitted, and if the application shall have been admitted, no partition shall be carried out in accordance with such application, if the separate estate of any of the proprietors would be liable for an annual amount of land revenue not exceeding one rupee, until the proprietor of such separate estate agrees to redeem the amount of revenue for which his estate would be liable, by payment of such sum as the Lieutenant-Governor may fix with reference to the circumstances of such estate.

Partition of an estate in which private division has been made, not to be made except on joint petition of proprietors or on order of Civil Court.

12. Whenever a division of the lands of any estate has been made by private arrangement of the proprietors thereof, and in accordance with such arrangement each proprietor is in possession of separate lands held in severalty as representing his interest in the estate, no such estate shall be brought under partition and no partition of such estate shall be made under this Act otherwise than on a joint petition presented under section one hundred and one or section one hundred and five by all the proprietors thereof, unless such partition shall have been ordered to be made by a Civil Court.

Under certain circumstances Collector may refuse to declare lands held in severalty to be a separate estate.

13. The Collector may refuse to admit an application for the formation of lands held in severalty into a separate estate, if in consequence of such lands being intermingled with those held by other proprietors the result of the partition would be to form out of a compact estate one or more estates consisting of scattered parcels of land, in such a way as, in the opinion of the Collector, to endanger the safety of the land revenue, and the Collector may at any time refuse to proceed with a partition which would have such a result.

But a partition may be allowed in such a case if the recorded proprietors shall agree to such a distribution of land as shall make the estates formed by the partition reasonably compact.

Nothing in this section shall be understood to prohibit the partition into separate estates of a parent estate which before such partition is not compact and consists only of scattered parcels of land.

Interest alienated with special condition as to revenue liability.

14. No proprietor who has alienated any portion of his interest in an estate or in any specific lands of an estate, by private contract, with the condition that the transferee shall be liable in respect of the interest acquired by him to pay a specified amount or a specified share of the land revenue for which the estate is liable (such amount or share being other than the proportionate amount or the proportionate share for which such transferred interest if formed into a separate estate would be liable under the provisions of section six);

and no proprietor who has derived his title from any proprietor who has made any alienation as aforesaid, shall be entitled to claim a separation under this Act of the interest which he continues to hold in the estate;

and no such transferee as aforesaid, and no person deriving his title from such transferee, shall be entitled to claim a separation of the interest which has been so acquired:

Provided that a separation of such interests may be made, if the parties concerned agree to waive the conditions of the contract as regards the proportion of revenue for which the transferor and transferee or their representatives respectively are liable, and to hold the estates which may be allotted to them respectively by the partition, subject to the payment of such amount of land revenue as may be assessed upon them respectively by the revenue authorities under his Act.

Arrears of revenue may be realized by sale of parent estate.

15. Notwithstanding that a parent estate may have been declared to be under partition as provided in section thirty-one, any arrears of revenue accruing due on such estate before the date specified in the notice issued under section one hundred and twenty-three may be realized by sale of the parent estate as if such estate had not been declared to be under partition; and if such sale takes place the partition proceedings shall cease from the date thereof.

Shares may be protected from liability for arrears under laws in force.

16. Nothing contained in the last preceding section shall be deemed to affect the provisions of sections 10, 11, 12, 13, or 14 of Act XI of 1859 (an Act to improve the law relating to sales of lands for arrears of revenue), or any provisions of any similar law for the time being in force in respect to the opening of separate accounts for different shares in an estate, and the protection afforded to such shares thereby:

Provided that if any share in any estate is sold for its own arrears of revenue while such estate is under partition in accordance with the provisions of this Act, such share shall be sold subject to the partition proceedings, which shall proceed as if no such sale had taken place; and the purchaser of the share sold may, from the date of such sale, exercise all the rights which the proprietor whose share he has purchased might have exercised, and shall be subject to all the liabilities to which such proprietor would have been subject, in respect of the partition proceedings.

PART III.

OF THE APPLICATION FOR PARTITION; THE ADMISSION OF AN ESTATE TO PARTITION; AND THE DISCONTINUANCE OF THE PARTITION PROCEEDINGS AFTER SUCH ADMISSION.

Application for partition to be made to Collector of the district.

17. All applications for partition shall be made to the Collector of the district, on the revenue-roll of which the estate is borne, and shall be made in person or by duly authorized agent, on paper bearing such stamp as may be required by any law for the time being in force.

Application to be signed, and certain particulars specified.

18. The application shall be signed by the applicant, and shall supply the following information in regard to the parent estate, so far as the particulars are known to the applicant or can be ascertained by him:—

(a) name of the estate;

(b) number under which the estate is borne on the revenue-roll, and the revenue demand for which it is liable;

(c) number under which the estate is borne on the Collector's General Register of revenue-paying lands;

(d) name and address of every proprietor, whether recorded or unrecorded;

(e) the character and extent of the interest of which each proprietor is in possession;

(f) a specification of any lands held by all or any of the proprietors of the parent estate in common with all or any of the proprietors of other estates, and of the rights of such proprietors respectively in such lands.

Application must be accompanied by copy of rent-roll and statement of rents.

19. Subject to the provisions of section sixty-one, every application shall, if possible, be accompanied by a copy of the rent-roll of the estate, by a statement of the rents collected from such estate on behalf of the applicant during each of the three years immediately preceding such application, and by copies of any measurement papers of the estate which the applicant may have in his possession.

The said rent-roll, statement, and measurement papers shall be attested by the patwaris of the villages, if any, and every such application, rent-roll, and statement shall be presented, subscribed, and verified as provided in section fifty-two.

If the applicant is unable to produce a rent-roll or statement as above required, he shall state the reason of such inability, and the name and address of the person who has in his possession the information necessary for the preparation of such rent-roll and statement, and the Collector may, if he shall think fit, require such person to produce such rent-roll and statement.

Collector may reject application.

20. If the application does not fulfil the requirements of the three last preceding sections, the Collector may reject such application or may order it to be amended.

Procedure of Collector on receipt of application.

21. If, in the opinion of the Collector, the application fulfils the said requirements and there appears to be no objection to making the partition, the Collector shall publish a notification of the application in the manner prescribed in section one hundred and thirty-four and shall also cause copies thereof to be posted up at the Court of the Judge of the district, at the court of every Munsif and Sub-divisional Officer within whose jurisdiction, and at every Police Station within the jurisdiction of which any lands appertaining to the estate are known to be situated, and shall invite any person claiming any proprietary right in the estate, who may object to the partition, to state his objection either in person or by duly authorized agent, on a day to be specified in the notification, not being less than thirty or more than sixty days from the date of the publication of the notification on the estate.

Notice to proprietors who have not joined therein.

22. Notice of the application shall also be served in the manner prescribed by section one hundred and thirty-five on such of the recorded proprietors of the estate as shall not have joined in the application, and on any other proprietor who may have been named in the application.

In case of valid objection being made within time allowed, application may be refused.

23. If any objection be made to the partition by any person claiming a proprietary right as aforesaid on or before the day specified in the notification published under section twenty-one, or at any subsequent time if it shall seem fit to the Collector to admit such objection, and the Collector, on consideration of such objection, shall be of opinion that there is good and sufficient reason for rejecting the application, he may reject the same, and in that case shall record the grounds of such rejection.

Procedure when objection raises any question of title or right.

24. If the objection raises any question of the extent of interest, or of right or title as between any applicant and any other person claiming to be a proprietor of the parent estate, and if it shall appear to the Collector that such question has not been already determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction, the Collector may hold such inquiry as he may deem necessary into the objection, and, if he be satisfied that the applicant is in possession of the extent of the interest for the separation of which he has applied, may, instead of rejecting the application as provided in the last preceding section,

(a) direct that the partition proceedings shall proceed for the purpose of forming and assigning to the applicant a separate estate in accordance with the extent of interest claimed by him in the parent estate; or

(b) direct that such proceedings be postponed for four months.

When Collector to resume proceedings.

25. At the expiration of the said four months, the Collector shall resume the proceedings, unless the person who has made the objection, or some other person, shall have obtained an order from a Civil Court directing that such proceedings be stayed, or shall be able to show that a suit has been instituted before such Court to try some question, of such nature that the Collector shall think fit to stay the proceedings until the question shall have been finally decided, or until the proceedings in such Court in respect thereof shall have terminated.

Suit in Civil Court when not to affect proceedings taken under this Act.

26. No suit instituted in a Civil Court by any person claiming any right or title in the parent estate, after the lapse of four months from the issue of an order of the Collector under clauses (a) and (b) of section twenty-four, or after the lapse of four months from the issue of an order of the Collector under section thirty-one declaring the estate to be under partition, shall avail to stay or affect the progress of any proceedings which shall have been taken under this Act for the partition of an estate; and all rights which may be conferred on any person by the final decree in such suit shall be subject to such proceedings in the manner hereinafter provided.

Decree made while partition proceedings are in progress.

27. Every decree passed in such suit after the parent estate shall have been declared to be under partition as provided in section thirty-one, but before the date specified in the notice under section one hundred and twenty-three, shall be made in recognition of the proceedings then in progress under this Act for the partition of such parent estate, and shall be framed in such manner that the provisions of such decree may be applied to, and may be carried out in reference to the separate estates which the Collector in his proceeding under section thirty-one shall have ordered to be formed out of the parent estate;

and if the effect of any such decree be to declare any person or body of persons entitled to any extent of interest in such parent estate in excess of the extent of interest which the Collector in the said proceeding has declared to be held by such person or body of persons, such decree shall specify, separately in respect of every proprietor or body of proprietors of whose interests the Collector has separately specified the extent in the said proceeding, the proportion of such excess which such person or body of persons is entitled to recover from every such proprietor or body of proprietors;

and every person or body of persons so declared entitled to recover any extent of interest from any such proprietor or body of proprietors shall, for the purposes of the partition proceedings, be deemed to have the same rights, and to be subject to the same liabilities, as a person who has acquired such extent of interest from such proprietor or body of proprietors by private purchase after the estate was brought under partition under section thirty-one, and on the date on which the decree was passed;

and such person or body of persons may apply, as in this Act provided, for the separation and assignment to him, or them, of the lands representing the extent of interest so acquired;

and such application shall be dealt with as provided in section thirty-two.

Decree made after partition proceedings completed.

28. Every decree passed after the date specified in the notice under section one hundred and twenty-three, in a suit which was instituted as mentioned in section twenty-six, shall be made in recognition of the partition proceedings, and shall be framed in such manner as to give effect to such division of the parent estate into separate estates as shall have been made by the Collector, and not to disturb such division; and if the effect of any such decree shall be to declare any person or body of persons to have been entitled to any extent of interest in the parent estate in excess of the extent of interest which is represented by the separate estate assigned to such person or body of persons by the Collector in the partition proceedings, such decree shall specify, separately in respect of the proprietor or joint proprietors of every separate estate formed by the partition, the proportion of such excess of interest which such person or body of persons is entitled to recover from such proprietor or joint proprietors; and every person or body of persons so declared entitled to recover any extent of interest from the proprietor or joint proprietors of a separate estate shall be entitled to recover such extent of interest out of the separate estate which has been assigned to such proprietor or joint proprietors, and out of such separate estate only;

and every such decree as aforesaid shall be executed by placing the person or persons so declared entitled to recover, in the position of a recorded joint proprietor or recorded joint proprietors of such separate estate, holding the same as a joint undivided estate in common tenancy with the proprietor or joint proprietors to whom such separate estate was assigned by the Collector in the partition proceedings, the extent of the interest of the joint proprietors respectively in such estate being such as is declared in the aforesaid decree.

Civil Court may order partition.

29. Subject to the provisions of section eleven, a Civil Court may at any time direct the Collector to assign to any person lands representing a specified interest in any estate or in any specified village or tract of land in an estate, to be held by such person as a separate estate, or to divide off from any estate any specified villages or lands, and to assign them to any person to be held as a separate estate, provided that an application for such partition and separation shall be presented by such person, as required by sections seventeen, eighteen, and nineteen; but no Civil Court shall in any case specify the amount of revenue for which any separate estate which it may direct to be formed under the provisions of this section shall be liable.

Collector to assess land revenue in accordance with this Act.

30. The Collector shall assess the land revenue on every such separate estate in accordance with the provisions of this Act, and no Civil Court shall direct the Collector to carry out at partition otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

Collector may declare the estate to be under partition.

31. If no objection be made within the time allowed under section twenty-one to an application for partition, or when all objections have been disposed of, and if the Collector has no reason to believe that any obstacle exists to his making the partition as applied for, he shall direct that the application be admitted, and record a proceeding declaring the estate to be under partition, for the purpose of forming and assigning to the applicant a separate estate.

In such proceeding the Collector shall declare the extent of interest in the parent estate which he finds to be held by the applicant, or joint applicants; and, if more than one separate application for separation shall have been made and admitted, the extent of interest which he finds to be held by every separate applicant, or body of joint applicants, respectively;

and also the extent of interest which remains to any recorded proprietor, or to any number of recorded proprietors who are not applicants;

and shall order that lands proportionate to the interest so declared to be held by each applicant, or body of joint applicants, respectively, shall be formed into a separate estate, to be assigned to such applicant, or body of joint applicants;

and that lands proportionate to the interest so declared to remain to the recorded proprietor, or the number of recorded proprietors who are not applicants, shall be left forming a separate estate.

Subsequent application for separation of another share.

32. If at any time after the Collector has made an order for partition under the last preceding section, any recorded proprietor in the estate, other than the original applicant, shall apply for the separation of his share, the Collector may either order that the proceedings for effecting such separation shall be carried on simultaneously with those for separating the share of the original applicant, or if he consider that such a course would entail delay in the completion of the original proceedings, he may order that no action shall be taken on such subsequent application until after the proceedings for the separation of the original applicant's share shall have been completed.

In the latter case all or any of the rent-rolls, measurements, and other papers which were used in the separation of the original applicant's share, may be used, as far as they are applicable, in the partition for which subsequent application has been made.

Collector may refer application for partition to any Deputy Collector.

33. The Collector may refer any application for partition to a Deputy Collector for the purpose of making any enquiries and doing anything required by this Part; provided that every order—

(a) rejecting an application under section twenty-three;

(b) directing, under section twenty-four, that the partition shall proceed, or shall be postponed;

(c) directing, under section thirty-one, that an application for partition be admitted, and declaring an estate to be under partition;

(d) made under the first clause of the last preceding section;

(e) appointing a Deputy Collector under the next succeeding section to carry out the partition;

shall be passed by the Collector and not by any Deputy Collector.

As soon as estate declared to be under partition, Collector may appoint Deputy Collector.

34. As soon as the Collector has declared an estate to be under partition as provided in section thirty-one, he may appoint a Deputy Collector to carry out the partition and all or any of the proceedings necessary thereto.

35. If at any time after an order shall have been passed for making a partition all the recorded proprietors of the estate shall present a petition to the effect that they do not wish the partition to proceed, the Collector may, on the report of the Deputy Collector or otherwise, strike the partition case off the file, on payment by the proprietors of all costs and expenses incurred in and about such partition; and any such costs and expenses which shall not already have been levied as provided in section thirty-nine or section forty, shall be levied in proportion to the shares of the respective proprietors.

Partition may be stayed if parties so desire. Recovery of costs.

36. If at any time after an order shall have been passed for making a partition, it shall appear from information which was not before the Collector at the time the partition was ordered, or otherwise, that any sufficient reason exists, why the partition should not be proceeded with, the Commissioner may, on the report of the Collector or otherwise, after issuing a notice calling on the persons interested to show cause why the partition should not be struck off the file, and after considering any objections which may be made, order the partition case to be struck off the file; and in such case any costs and expenses of the partition which shall not already have been levied as provided in section thirty-nine or section forty shall levied in proportion to the shares of the respective proprietors.

Partition may be stayed and proceedings quashed by Commissioner.

OF ESTABLISHMENTS FOR EFFECTING PARTITIONS AND OF THE COST THEREOF.

37. For the purposes of this Act, the Deputy Collector may, with the approval of the Collector, and subject to any rules made in that behalf by the Board, appoint such establishments as may be required for making the measurement and survey of lands, for ascertaining and recording the rates of rent, for making any other local enquiries, for the preparation of the papers and for other matters in each case; and the Collector may appoint such peshkars or other superior officers as may be required to test the work of the amins, and for the performance of similar duties; provided that the scale of remuneration of such officers, and the time for which they shall be employed, shall be sanctioned by the Commissioner.

Deputy Collector may appoint officers for making measurement of lands, &c.

38. In any district or division in which partitions may be so numerous or so extensive as to render necessary the appointment of special establishments in the office of the Collector or of the Commissioner, the Collector and the Commissioner may, with the sanction of the Board, appoint such establishments.

Special establishments may be appointed.

39. As soon as possible after an estate has been declared to be under partition as provided in section thirty-one, the cost of making the partition shall be estimated, and the amount shall be levied from the proprietors in such instalments and at such times during the progress of the partition as may be fixed in accordance with any rules which the Board may make in that behalf.

Cost of partition to be levied from proprietors in accordance with rules laid down by the Board.

If the amount first estimated is found insufficient, supplementary estimates may be made from time to time, and the required amount may be levied as above provided.

40. The cost shall be apportioned on the proprietors of each share in proportion to their shares; but whenever it shall appear to the Commissioner that the partition proceedings have been unnecessarily delayed, and the cost of the partition enhanced by obstacles vexatiously put in the way of their completion by one or more of the proprietors, or by want of due diligence on the part of one or more of the proprietors in carrying out any requisitions made upon him or them, the Commissioner may direct that such portion of the cost as he may think proper in excess of the amount proportionate to his or their share shall be levied from such proprietor or proprietors.

Apportionment of costs.

41. Whenever any local enquiry may be held by the Deputy Collector or any other officer, in consequence of an objection raised by any person to any record of measurements, rent-rolls, or other information which has been laid before the Deputy Collector, the Deputy Collector may declare the cost which has been incurred by such enquiry, and may direct that the entire cost so declared shall be paid by the person making the objection or by any one of the proprietors, or that such cost shall be paid in such proportions as he shall think fit, by the said person and the proprietors or any of them, or that such cost be deemed a part of the general cost of making a partition as prescribed in section thirty-nine.

Deputy Collector may declare cost of local enquiry.

42. Upon the completion of the partition, the Collector shall make an order declaring the total cost thereof. The account shall then be adjusted, either by returning to the proprietors any sums which they may have paid in excess of the total cost, or by levying from them in the manner provided in section one hundred and thirty-eight, if necessary, any sums remaining due.

After completion of partition Collector shall declare total cost thereof.

43. Whenever it shall appear to the Lieutenant-Governor that in any district the work required to be done by Deputy Collectors in connection with partitions under this Act is so great that such work would, if concentrated in the hands of one or more Deputy Collectors, fully occupy the time of such one or more Deputy Collectors, the Lieutenant-Governor may make an order directing that the salary of such one or more Deputy Collectors, as the case may be, shall be recovered from the proprietors of estates under partition in such district as part of the cost of such partitions, and thereupon such charge as the Collector may think fit to make in respect of such salary shall, in addition to the items mentioned in the last preceding section, be deemed to be a portion of the costs of every partition.

Salary of Deputy Collectors when to be deemed part of cost of partition

For the purposes of this section the salary of every Deputy Collector shall be deemed to be the amount of salary which is drawn by a Deputy Collector of the lowest grade.

What are costs leviable from proprietors.

44. For the purposes of sections thirty-nine, forty, and forty-two, the costs of any partition shall be deemed to be

(a) the cost of any establishments entertained for the partition under section thirty-seven, or such amount as the Collector may think proper in respect of the services of any such establishments which are entertained for the purposes of making partitions in the district;

(b) all contingent expenses incurred in and about the partition, and

(c) such portion of the cost of any establishment entertained under section thirty-eight as the Collector may order.

Lieutenant-Governor may direct "Estates' Partition Fund" to be formed.

45. Notwithstanding anything contained in the eight last preceding sections, the Lieutenant-Governor may direct that in any district a fund to be called the "Estates' Partition Fund" shall be formed, into which all sums levied from the proprietors of estates in respect of partitions of their estates shall be paid.

Whenever such a fund shall have been established in any district, all expenses of making partitions of estates in such district shall, except as hereinafter otherwise provided, be defrayed from such fund.

Procedure when Estates' Partition Fund formed in any district.

46. Whenever the Lieutenant-Governor shall have ordered an "Estates' Partition Fund" to be formed in any district, the charges leviable from the proprietors of any estate under partition may be estimated and levied according to the estimate in each case as provided in sections thirty-nine and forty, subject to final adjustment, as provided in section forty-two; or they may be levied according to a general scale of fees to be fixed by the Board.

Scale of fees.

47. Such scale of fees shall be fixed as nearly as may be, so that the receipts and expenditure of the said fund shall balance one another, and shall be revised from time to time by the Board for that purpose.

Such fees shall be levied from the proprietors in such instalments and at such times during the progress of the partition as may be fixed in accordance with any rules which the Board may make in that behalf, and the provisions of section forty shall be applicable to such fees.

Abstract of Estates' Partition Fund to be published.

48. An abstract of the Estates' Partition Fund of each district made up to the end of each year shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and by being posted up at the office of the Collector of the district.

What costs of partition chargeable to Estates' Partition Fund.

49. For the purposes of sections forty-five, forty-six, and forty-seven the expenses of making partitions in any district shall be deemed to be

(a) the cost of all establishments entertained in the district under section thirty-seven;

(b) all contingent expenses incurred in all partitions in the district;

(c) the cost of any special establishment appointed in the office of the Collector under section thirty-eight;

(d) such portion as the Commissioner may direct of the cost of any special establishment appointed in his office under section thirty-eight;

(e) the salary of any one or more Deputy Collectors which the Lieutenant-Governor may have ordered under section forty-three to be recovered from the proprietors of estates under partition.

Civil Court may in certain cases order parties to pay expenses incurred in dividing an estate.

50. Whenever any Civil Court shall make a decree awarding or declaring any proprietary right in an estate, and shall require the Collector to make a partition of the estate, such Court may at the same time direct, that the party or parties who may have withheld the right so decreed shall defray the whole of the expense which may be incurred in and about the partition, or the whole of the fees payable in respect of the partition under section forty-six, or that the said expenses or fees shall be defrayed by all or any of the parties to the suit in which the decree was made in such proportions as the Court may, from a consideration of the particular circumstances of the case, deem equitable;

Copies of all orders which the Court may pass under this section shall be transmitted to the Collector for his guidance, together with the precept which the Court may issue to him, requiring him to divide the estate; and the Collector shall levy the said expenses and fees from the parties in the proportion ordered by such Court in the same manner and by the same means as if the levy of such expenses and fees had been ordered by the Collector.

PART V.

OF THE PARTITION PROCEEDINGS UP TO THE ADOPTION OF A RENT-ROLL AND MEASUREMENT PAPERS.

As soon as estate declared to be under partition, Deputy Collector shall cause notification to be published.

51. As soon as the Collector shall have made an order under section thirty-one declaring an estate to be under partition, the Deputy Collector shall cause a notification to be published in the manner prescribed by section one hundred and thirty-four, and shall also cause copies thereof to be posted up at the Court of the Judge of the district in which any lands appertaining to the parent estate are known to be situated, and at the Court of every Munsif and of every Subdivisional officer within the jurisdiction of whom, and at every Police station within the jurisdiction of which, any such lands are known to be situated, intimating his intention to proceed with the partition, and requiring all the proprietors of the estate to produce before a certain date, being not less than forty days from the date of such notification, either jointly or separately, copies of their rent-rolls and statements of the rents collected during each of the three years next preceding, and also copies of any measurement papers of the estate which may be in their possession.

A notice to the same effect shall also be served as provided in section one hundred and thirty-five on each proprietor of the parent estate.

The Deputy Collector may, on sufficient grounds for so doing being shown to his satisfaction, from time to time extend the period for producing any such return.

Rent-roll filed by a proprietor to be subscribed and verified.

52. Every rent-roll, statement of rents collected, and measurement paper furnished to the Collector under this Act shall be presented by the person who is required to produce the same or by a duly authorized agent of such person who has a personal knowledge of the facts stated therein, and shall be subscribed and verified at the foot by such person or such agent in the manner following, or to the like effect :—

"I, A.B., do declare that this rent-roll (statement, or measurement paper) is correct to the best of my knowledge and belief."

If the rent-roll, statement or measurement paper shall contain any entry which the person making the verification shall know or believe to be false, or shall not believe to be true, such person shall be subject to punishment according to the law for the time being in force for the punishment of giving or fabricating false evidence.

Procedure if person required cannot produce rent-roll or statement.

53. If any proprietor who is required to produce any rent-roll or statement by notice as aforesaid is unable to produce such rent roll or statement, he shall state to the Deputy Collector the cause thereof and the name and address of the person who has in his possession the information necessary for the preparation of such rent-roll and statement, and the Deputy Collector may, if he shall think fit, require such person to produce such rent-roll and statement.

Deputy Collector may order measurement of land and may test rent-roll.

54. The Deputy Collector may, if necessary, make, or may cause to be made, a measurement of all or any of the lands comprised in the estate, and may prepare or cause to be prepared a rent-roll, and may test or cause to be tested on the spot any rent-roll which has been produced as aforesaid, and may make or may cause to be made any local enquiry which he may consider necessary.

Deputy Collector to summon proprietors by proclamation to attend proceedings.

55. Before proceeding or deputing the amin to the spot, the Deputy Collector shall publish a notification in the manner prescribed by section one hundred and thirty-four requiring the several proprietors of the estate, their managers, and any other persons employed in the management of the land, or otherwise interested therein, to attend in person or by agent upon him or upon the amin who is deputed to make the measurement or enquiry, for the purpose of pointing out boundaries and of affording such assistance and information as may be required for the purposes of this Act.

Deputy Collector and Amin may require attendance of proprietor or any other person.

56. The Deputy Collector, and any amin or other person who is specially authorized in that behalf by the Collector, may, by a notice served as provided in section one hundred and thirty-five, require any proprietor or other person whose attendance may be required, to attend before the Deputy Collector or amin who is making such measurement or enquiry, within a specified time at any place for any of the purposes aforesaid.

Deputy Collector to test amin's work.

57. If any objection be made to a measurement, map, or rent-roll prepared by the amin, or if for any other reason it seems desirable, the Deputy Collector shall, as soon as possible after completion of the amin's work, himself test, or shall cause to be tested on the spot such measurement, map, and rent-roll, and may accept, amend, or reject the same, or any of them. If the Deputy Collector shall deem it necessary, he may cause the work or any portion thereof to be done again.

Examination of the parties and their papers.

58. The Deputy Collector may examine any person on solemn affirmation, in regard to the papers produced before him, whether by the proprietors, by the amin, or otherwise, and shall allow the parties concerned to put any necessary questions to such person.

The Deputy Collector shall also allow any proprietor or other person interested to examine the papers so produced, and to take a copy of the same, and after such examination shall hear any objections which any of the persons interested may make in respect of such papers, and shall decide whether any, and (if any), which of the papers as they stand, or with such modifications as he may think necessary, shall be accepted as correct for the purposes of the partition.

Power of Deputy Collector if proprietor fails to file rent-roll.

59. If any proprietor who has been required to produce a rent-roll or statement under section fifty-one, fails to produce the same after the imposition on him of a fine under section one hundred and thirty-seven for thirty days, or fails to state to the Deputy Collector the name and address of any person under section fifty-three, the Deputy Collector may declare that the said proprietor shall, for the purposes of the partition, be bound by such rent-roll as the Deputy Collector may adopt as the basis of the partition as hereinafter provided, and after such declaration any officer exercising authority under this Act may refuse to entertain any objection which such proprietor may make to such rent-roll.

Power of Deputy Collector, if person fails to produce rent-roll.

60. If any person who has been required to produce a rent-roll or statement under section fifty-three shall fail to produce the same after the imposition on him of a fine under section one hundred and thirty-seven for thirty days, the Deputy Collector may declare that the proprietor who may have stated the name of such person under section fifty-three shall, for the purposes of the partition, be bound by the rent-roll which the Deputy Collector may adopt for the basis of the partition as hereinafter provided, and after such declaration any officer exercising authority under this Act may refuse to entertain any objection which such proprietor may make to such rent-roll.

Collector may dispense with rent-roll, maps, and other papers.

61. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, if it shall appear to the Deputy Collector that any measurements, maps, rent-rolls, or other papers relating to the estate which have been prepared otherwise than for the purposes of the partition, or otherwise than for the purposes of this Act, afford information sufficiently trustworthy to enable him to effect the partition, the Deputy Collector may adopt such information and such papers either wholly or in part for the purposes of the partition, and may dispense with any rent-rolls, maps, or other papers for which he is authorized to call, or which an applicant is required to produce under this Act.

Proprietor who has failed to attend shall not be entitled to object subsequently.

62. No proprietor or other person, who shall have failed to attend in person or by agent during the measurement as required by the notification published under section fifty-five, shall be entitled at any subsequent time to make any objection to such measurement, but the Collector may admit any objection made by such proprietor or person if he think fit, provided that any expense entailed by a local inquiry made in consequence of such subsequent objection shall be paid entirely by such proprietor or person.

Notification of date for deciding the mode of partition.

63. When the Deputy Collector is finally satisfied that the papers before him, whether rent-rolls, measurement papers, maps, or other papers are sufficient and sufficiently correct to be accepted or adopted for the purposes of the partition, he shall make an order to that effect, and shall fix a day on which to determine the general arrangement of the partition, and shall publish a notification in the manner prescribed by section one hundred and thirty-four, calling on all the proprietors to be present on the day so fixed, such day being not less than thirty or more than sixty days after the publication of the notification in his office, and shall serve a notice to the same effect on each proprietor or his agent.

OF PARTITION BY AMICABLE ARRANGEMENT OR BY ARBITRATION.

Deputy Collector may allow parties to make a private partition.

64. On the date fixed under the last preceding section, if a petition to that effect signed by all the recorded proprietors shall have been presented, the Deputy Collector may allow such proprietors to make a private partition of the estate amongst themselves on the basis of the papers which have been accepted or adopted for the purposes of the partition by the Deputy Collector, or may refer the partition to be made by an arbitrator or arbitrators on such basis.

If the proprietors who have elected to make such private partition shall fail to make the same within such time as may be fixed by the Deputy Collector, the Deputy Collector may refer the partition to be made by an arbitrator or arbitrators, or may make the partition himself.

Procedure on reference to arbitration.

65. Whenever any partition shall have been referred to arbitration, the proceedings shall be conducted in accordance with the provisions of sections 313 to 325 (both inclusive) of Act VIII of 1859 (an Act for simplifying the procedure of the Court of Civil Judicature not established by Royal Charter) as far as those provisions are applicable, and except as herein otherwise expressly provided Arbitrators to deliver a partition paper.

66. The arbitrators shall deliver, within a time to be fixed by the Deputy Collector, which time may be further extended by him, a full and complete paper of partition, in such form as may be prescribed by the Board for partitions made by the Collector or Deputy Collector.

Remuneration of arbitrators.

67. The arbitrators, on delivering the paper of partition as aforesaid, shall be entitled to reasonable fees for their services, the amount of which shall be fixed, with the approval of the Commissioner, by the officer making the reference to arbitration, and shall be considered to form part of the cost of making the partition.

Partition made under this Part to be subject to approval of Collector, and superior revenue authorities.

68. Every partition made under the provisions of this Part by the parties or by arbitrators appointed by them, shall be subject to the approval of the Deputy Collector and to the confirmation of the Collector and the orders of the superior revenue authorities; provided that neither the Deputy Collector nor any other authority shall disallow any partition so made on any other ground than that of fraud, or that, in the opinion of the Deputy Collector or such other authority, the partition cannot be confirmed without endangering the safety of the land revenue.

Land revenue to be assessed by Collector.

69. Whenever a partition has been made under the provisions of this Part, the land revenue shall be assessed by the Collector on each separate estate into which the parent estate is divided by such partition in the manner prescribed by section six.

In default of delivery of partition paper, Collector may withdraw case from arbitration.

70. If the paper of partition be not delivered within the time fixed by the Deputy Collector, or within any further period to which the time may have been extended, the Deputy Collector may withdraw the case from arbitration and may make the partition himself.

PART VII.

OF THE PROCEDURE FROM THE DETERMINATION OF THE GENERAL ARRANGEMENT OF THE PARTITION BY THE DEPUTY COLLECTOR TO THE APPROVAL OF THE PARTITION BY THE COLLECTOR.

Procedure when no petition presented under section 64.

71. If no petition shall have been presented under section sixty-four, the Deputy Collector shall, on the date fixed under section sixty-three, or on any other date to which the hearing may have been postponed by a notice posted at the office of the Deputy Collector, consult orally each proprietor present, and endeavour, as far as possible, with the concurrence of the proprietors present, to settle a general arrangement of the partition in accordance with the requirements of this Act.

For this purpose he shall endeavour to obtain from each proprietor an acknowledgment of his acceptance of the rent-roll, map, and any other papers which have been adopted by the Deputy Collector for the purposes of the partition, and shall briefly record the objections of any proprietor who still objects to accept such rent-roll, map, or other papers.

Deputy Collector may postpone settlement of general arrangement of partition.

72. If, in consequence of any objections made before the Deputy Collector has settled the general arrangement of the partition as provided in the last preceding section, the Deputy Collector considers it necessary to make further inquiry, he may, by notice to the recorded proprietors, postpone the settlement of the general arrangement of the partition to a date being not less than fifteen days from the service of the notice on any proprietor.

Deputy Collector may award compensation for attendance to proprietor.

73 If the objections on account of which the said settlement is postponed are such that the person making the same might have made them on an earlier day, the Deputy Collector may award to each proprietor who shall have attended in person or by agent in accordance with the notice, such sum, not exceeding sixteen rupees, as he shall think fit by way of compensation for such attendance.

The sum so awarded shall be paid by the person making the objections as aforesaid, and may be recovered from him in the manner provided by section one hundred and thirty-eight.

If no postponement made, Deputy Collector to determine the general arrangement of the partition

74. If the objections have already been enquired into and disposed of, or are such as not to render necessary any further inquiry and postponement, or when any objections which may require further enquiry have been disposed of, the Deputy Collector shall record an order to that effect, and after hearing what each proprietor present may urge, shall hold a proceeding determining the general arrangement of the partition and the mode in which the parent estate shall be divided, and, in a general way, the position of the lands which shall be assigned to each of the separate estates.

In determining the general arrangement of the partition, the Deputy Collector shall be guided by the rules which are laid down in Part VIII, and shall direct the partition to be made in the manner which, in his opinion, is on the whole most in accordance with such rules, and most equitable and most convenient to all parties concerned.

General arrangement of partition to be submitted for sanction of Collector.

75. The general arrangement of the partition as determined under the last preceding section, shall be submitted for the sanction of the Collector, who shall by notice fix a date for the consideration of the same, not being less than fifteen days after the publication of the said notice in his office, and after hearing and disposing of any objection which may be preferred, shall pass such orders as he may think proper, setting aside, amending, or approving the general arrangement made by the Deputy Collector.

Deputy Collector to fix boundaries

76. When the general arrangement has been approved by the Collector, the Deputy Collector shall proceed to fix the exact boundaries of each separate estate, after considering the wishes which the parties may express in respect thereof.

Deputy Collector to draw up paper of partition and map.

77. When the Deputy Collector shall have so determined the boundaries, he shall cause to be drawn up a paper of partition specifying in detail the villages and lands which he has included in each of the separate estates, the rental thereof, with any other assets of each separate estate, the name or names of the recorded proprietor or proprietors of each separate estate, any stipulations which may have been made regarding places of worship, tanks, or other matters as mentioned in Part VIII, and the amount of land revenue to be assessed on each separate estate; he shall also prepare a map showing the lands which fall within each separate estate and the boundaries thereof, unless the preparation of such map shall be dispensed with by special permission of the Collector.

Deputy Collector to submit papers to Collector.

78. The Deputy Collector shall submit the partition paper and map as aforesaid and all other papers of the partition to the Collector with a full report of the proceedings taken, the reasons which influenced the Deputy Collector in selecting the lands included in each separate estate, the nature of the accounts upon which the apportionment of the land revenue assessed thereon has been based, and all other particulars material to the case.

Deputy Collector to prepare extracts of partition papers for each proprietor.

79. The Deputy Collector shall at the same time cause to be prepared a separate extract of the portion of the partition paper which relates to each separate estate, and shall cause to be tendered to any recorded proprietor of a separate estate, or any authorized agent of such proprietor, who may be in attendance at the Deputy Collector's office, the extract which relates to such separate estate;

and the Deputy Collector shall publish a notice at his office calling upon every proprietor to whom or to whose agent an extract from the partition paper has not been tendered as above mentioned, to take out of the Deputy Collector's office the extract of the portion of the partition paper relating to his separate estate.

If the circumstances of the partition so require, an extract of the map prepared by the Deputy Collector, or a copy of such map, shall be annexed to every separate extract from the partition paper herein mentioned.

On receipt of papers and report Collector to publish notification.

80. On receipt of the papers and report mentioned in section seventy-eight, the Collector shall cause a notification to be published in the manner prescribed by section one hundred and thirty-four fixing a date, not being less than six weeks from the date of the publication of such notification on the parent estate, on which he will proceed to take up the case, and to consider any representations and objections which may be preferred in respect of the partition made by the Deputy Collector, and calling on all parties concerned who may wish to do so, to inspect the papers at his office before such date, and to take copies of any such papers as they may require.

The Collector shall also cause a notice to the same effect to be served on each of the recorded proprietors.

81. On the date so fixed, or on any other date to which the hearing may have been postponed, the Collector shall take into consideration the papers as laid before him, and after calling for any further information which he may deem necessary, and disposing of any objections which shall be made to the proposed partition and allotment of land revenue, may approve the partition as made by the Deputy Collector with such amendments as he may think proper, or return it for amendment to the Deputy Collector who made it, or to another Deputy Collector, or make a fresh partition himself.

Procedure of Collector thereupon.

The Collector may return the said papers for amendment or enquiry as often as he may think fit.

82. No proprietor who shall have failed to appear before the Deputy Collector in person or by agent on any date fixed for the arrangement of the partition under section sixty-three or section seventy-two, and no proprietor who shall have failed so to appear before the Collector on any date fixed under either of the two last preceding sections, shall be entitled, at any subsequent time, to make any objection to the orders which may be passed on such dates respectively.

Proprietor when not entitled to make subsequent objection.

83. When the Collector approves the partition made by the Deputy Collector with amendments, he may cause a fresh partition paper and map to be prepared, or may cause the amendments made by him to be noted on the paper and map submitted by the Deputy Collector.

Collector may cause a fresh partition paper and map to be prepared.

When the Collector makes a fresh partition himself, he shall cause a fresh partition paper and map to be prepared.

84. Whenever the Collector shall have approved a partition (whether with or without amendments), he shall cause a notice to be served on each of the recorded proprietors that the papers will be submitted at once for confirmation of the partition by the Commissioner, and that any appeals or objections must be presented to the Commissioner, or to the Collector for transmission to the Commissioner, within thirty days of the date of the service of the said notice, or, if the Collector has approved the partition with amendments, and the notice requires the proprietor to produce the extract of any partition in order that amendments may be noted thereon, or to take out a fresh extract from the partition paper, as provided in the next succeeding section, then within six weeks of such date.

Procedure when Collector approves of a partition without amendment.

85. Whenever the Collector shall have approved a partition with amendments, and shall, under section eighty-three, have caused such amendments to be noted on the partition paper and map submitted by the Deputy Collector, the notice to be served on each of the recorded proprietors under the last preceding section shall, in the case of every such proprietor whose separate estate is affected by such amendments, in addition to the particulars mentioned in the said section, require such proprietor to produce before the Collector, within fifteen days of the service of such notice, the extract from the paper of partition which has been prepared, and any map relating to his separate estate which may have been prepared, under section seventy-nine, in order that the amendments made by the Collector in the partition may be noted thereon; and such amendments shall be noted thereon by the Collector accordingly, and such extract and map shall be returned to the proprietor who produced them.

Procedure when Collector approves partition paper with amendments.

Whenever the Collector shall have caused, under section eighty-three, a new partition paper and map to be prepared, he shall order separate extracts from the portions of the partition paper which relate to each separate estate, and maps, if necessary, to be prepared as required by section seventy-nine, and in such case the notice served under the last preceding section shall, in addition to the particulars mentioned in that section, declare the extracts and maps which were furnished or offered to proprietors under section seventy-nine to be cancelled, and shall require the recorded proprietors to take out of the Collector's office such extracts and maps relating to their respective separate estates.

86. As soon as practicable after the issue of the notice under section eighty-four the Collector shall forward to the Commissioner all papers relating to the partition as approved or as made by the Collector.

Papers to be forwarded to Commissioner.

PART VIII.

OF THE GENERAL PRINCIPLES ON WHICH PARTITIONS SHALL BE MADE.

Rules applicable to the partition of lands which are held by the proprietors in common tenancy.

87. Each separate estate shall be made as compact as is compatible with the primary object of making an equitable partition among the proprietors, and with the other provisions of this Part, but no partition made or approved by a Collector shall be set aside on the ground only that the separate estates are not compact.

Estates formed in course of partition to be as compact as possible.

88. In selecting the villages or lands to be assigned to each separate estate formed out of a parent estate which has been held in common tenancy, the Collector shall take into consideration the advantages or disadvantages arising from situation;

Circumstances to be considered in making partitions.

the vicinity of roads, railways, navigable rivers, or canals;

the nature and quality of the soil and produce;

the quantity of cultivable and uncultivable waste land;

the facilities for irrigation;

the state of the embankments and water-courses;

liability to accretion and diluvion,

and any other circumstances affecting the value of the lands.

89. If a dwelling-house belonging to one proprietor is situated on any land which it may be necessary to include in the separate estate of another proprietor, the owner of such

Rule when dwelling-house belonging to one proprietor is situated on ground to be allotted to another proprietor.

house may retain occupation thereof with the offices, buildings, and grounds immediately attached thereto, upon agreeing to pay rent for the land occupied by such dwelling-house, offices, buildings, and grounds to the proprietor of the separate estate in which such land is included.

The limits of the land so occupied and the rent to be paid for it in perpetuity shall be fixed by the Deputy Collector, and shall be stated in the paper of partition.

In every such case a defined pathway shall, as far as possible, be secured to the owner of the house, leading from his house to some portion of the separate estate allotted to him.

Rule contained in last preceding section may be applied to gardens, orchards, &c.

90. Whenever the Deputy Collector shall think fit, he may apply the rule contained in the last preceding section to gardens, to orchards of trees, to land planted with bamboos, and to any other lands which in his opinion are of special value to the proprietor in whose occupation they are found to be, in consequence of improvements made by such proprietor or of the particular use to which such lands are put.

Calculation of rental.

91. The rent fixed in perpetuity on any land by the Deputy Collector under either of the two last preceding sections shall be considered to be the rental of such land for the purposes of the partition.

Rent may be redeemed.

92. Whenever the dwelling-house of one proprietor, with the offices, buildings, and grounds immediately attached thereto, shall have been included in the separate estate of another proprietor, and the annual rent to be paid in perpetuity in respect of the land occupied thereby shall have been fixed by the Deputy Collector and stated in the paper of partition, the proprietor whose dwelling-house, offices, buildings, and grounds have been included as aforesaid may apply to the Deputy Collector for permission to redeem the annual rent so fixed, and the Deputy Collector shall give such permission, unless he shall be of opinion that such redemption would endanger the safety of the land revenue for the payment of which the separate estate in which such dwelling-house, offices, buildings, and grounds have been included will be liable.

Deputy Collector to certify amount payable in redemption of rent.

93. If the Deputy Collector shall see no such reason to refuse his permission to the redemption being made, he shall certify the amount payable by such proprietor in redemption of such annual rent; and such amount shall be calculated and fixed by the Deputy Collector at ten per centum above the sum which would be required to purchase, at the market prices then prevailing, so much stock of the Government loan which was last issued as would yield an annual amount of interest equal to the annual land rent fixed by the Deputy Collector under section eighty-nine.

But not after possession of separate estate has been given.

94. The proprietor desiring to redeem the rent as aforesaid, may pay to the Deputy Collector the amount so certified at any time before possession is given to the several proprietors of the separate estates allotted to each, as provided in section one hundred and twenty-three, but not after such possession has been given.

Notice of payment to be given; and land to be held rent-free.

95. On receipt of such payment, the Deputy Collector shall give notice to the proprietor in whose separate estate such land is situated that such payment has been made, and that the sum will be paid to him or to his authorized agent on application; and that from the date on which possession as aforesaid may be given, the proprietor who has redeemed the rent of such land will be entitled to hold such land as a rent-free tenure secured against the proprietor of the estate and against any auction purchaser at a sale for arrears of revenue, including the Government; and from such date the lands shall be so held as a rent-free tenure.

Collector to register rent-free tenure.

96. The Deputy Collector shall at the same time also give notice to the Collector of the district of the creation of such tenure; and the Collector of the district shall thereupon cause such tenure to be specially registered in the manner provided by section 42 of Act XI of 1859, or by any similar law for the time being in force.

Lots may be drawn for equal shares.

97. When two or more of the separate estates shall consist of the same proportions of the parent estate, the Deputy Collector may, if he thinks proper, direct the parties entitled thereto respectively to draw lots in his presence for the equal separate estates which have been formed by assignment of lands, unless the recorded proprietors of the equal shares shall agree among themselves as to the allotment of the equal separate estates and shall present a petition to that effect; or unless for any other reason the Deputy Collector shall, with the sanction of the Collector, think proper to assign the equal separate estates to the proprietors of the equal shares without causing lots to be drawn.

Order and method of drawing lots when aggregate of two or more shares equals one other share.

98. When the aggregate of two or more shares equals one other share or equals the aggregate of two or more other shares, the Deputy Collector, with the sanction of the Collector, may cause such aggregate shares to be treated as one share for the purpose of determining by lots as aforesaid which portion of the parent estate shall be assigned to each proprietor as his separate estate; and may decide which shares shall be formed into one aggregate share for the purpose of causing such lots to be drawn;

and may cause lots to be drawn in like manner as often as he shall think proper for such purpose.

And after lots shall have been drawn once (or more than once if necessary) as aforesaid, the Deputy Collector shall proceed to divide the portion of the parent estate which has fallen by lot to each aggregate share, among the proprietors of the different shares which were formed into such aggregate share for the purpose of drawing lots, and shall assign to every such proprietor his separate estate within such portion in such position as the Deputy Collector may think proper.

Provided that lots shall in no case be drawn until after full opportunity shall have been given to the proprietors to advance their objections in respect of the papers accepted as the basis of the partition and in respect of the assets of the different lands as stated in such papers, and until any such objections which may have been made shall have been disposed of.

Illustrations.

I.—The partition of a parent estate is being made into the following shares:—

4 annas.
3 annas.
1 anna.

For the purposes of drawing lots, the 4 annas, 3 annas, and 1 anna share may be taken together, and considered to be an aggregate 8 annas share.

The Deputy Collector will divide the parent estate into two halves of equal value; and will then cause lots to be drawn, in order to determine which of the two halves shall be assigned to the proprietor of the integral 8 annas share, and which shall be divided among the proprietors of the 4 annas, 3 annas, and 1 anna shares.

Subsequently, if necessary, the Deputy Collector may again cause lots to be drawn by the proprietor of the 4 annas share on the one hand, and the proprietors of the aggregate share made up by taking together the 3 annas share and the 1 anna share.

II.—The partition is being made of a parent estate into the following shares:—

6 annas.
4 annas.
3 annas.

Two tracts in the estate may first be marked off, the value of each being equivalent to a 6 annas share, and then, for the purpose of drawing lots in respect of the assignment of these two tracts, the 4 annas share and the 2 annas share may be taken together as an aggregate 6 annas share, and lots may be drawn between the proprietor of the aggregate 6 annas share so formed on the one hand, and the proprietor of the integral 6 annas share on the other.

One of the two 6 annas tracts having thus been finally assigned to the proprietor of the integral 6 annas share, the Deputy Collector will proceed to assign the rest of the estate among the remaining sharers, and he may again, for the purpose of causing lots to be drawn, mark off two tracts the value of each of which shall be equivalent to 5 annas of the parent estate, and may cause lots to be drawn for these two tracts between the proprietors of the 4 annas share and the 1 anna share taken together as an aggregate 5 annas share on the one hand, and the proprietors of the 3 annas share and the 2 annas share taken together as another 5 annas share on the other.

Finally, their separate estates will be assigned to the proprietor of the 4 annas share and of the 1 anna share respectively, within the tract which fell to them jointly by lot; and their separate estates will be assigned to the proprietors of the 3 annas share and of the 2 annas share respectively within the tract which fell to them jointly by lot.

Deputy Collector may require proprietors to attend or appoint agent for the purpose of drawing lots.

99. The Deputy Collector may, by a notice served as provided in section one hundred and thirty-five, require any proprietor in respect of whose share lots are to be drawn as provided in either of the two last preceding sections, to attend at the office of the Deputy Collector in person or by authorized agent at a time to be fixed by the Deputy Collector for the purpose of drawing lots; and may similarly require the proprietors of any shares which he may have ordered to be formed into an aggregate share for the purpose of drawing lots, jointly to appoint an agent to draw lots on their joint behalf; and if at the time fixed for drawing such lots such proprietors have failed to agree to any such joint appointment, or shall fail to cause the attendance of an agent authorized to act jointly for all such proprietors, all such proprietors shall be deemed to have failed to comply with the Deputy Collector's requisition.

In default Deputy Collector may appoint a person to draw lots.

100. Whenever any proprietor or proprietors shall have failed to comply with a requisition of the Deputy Collector under the last preceding section, the Deputy Collector may appoint a person to draw lots on behalf of such proprietor or proprietors.

Rules applicable to the formation into separate estates of lands which are held by proprietors in severalty.

Joint petition may be presented for partition according to private division.

101. Whenever in any parent estate a division of the lands thereof has been made by private arrangement of the proprietors of such estate, and in accordance with such arrangement each proprietor is in possession of separate lands held in severalty as representing his interest in such parent estate, the joint application presented to the Collector by all the recorded proprietors of such estate as required by section twelve may be to the effect that a partition of such estate be made by assigning to each proprietor or to two or more proprietors jointly as his or their separate estate, the lands of which they are in separate possession in accordance with such arrangement, and also that each separate estate so formed be made liable for such portion of the entire land revenue of the parent estate, as was paid by the proprietor or proprietors thereof under the private arrangement aforesaid.

Partition according to private division to be referred to Collector.

102. The Deputy Collector who is appointed to carry out the partition in accordance with such application, shall satisfy himself that the assets of each separate estate which it is proposed to form are sufficient to secure the payment of the annual amount of land revenue for which it is proposed to make such separate estate liable, and if the Deputy Collector be satisfied that in this respect, and with reference to all the circumstances of the case, that the partition of the lands and the assessment of the revenue thereon may be made in the manner proposed without endangering the safety of the revenue, the Deputy Collector shall submit the case with his opinion thereon, and the reasons on which such opinion is founded, to the Collector, who may admit or reject the said application.

Effect of Collector's approval.

103. If the Collector admits the said application, such admission shall be deemed to be the Collector's approval of the general arrangement of the partition as provided in section seventy-five, and the Deputy Collector shall proceed to complete the partition accordingly.

Such partition may be refused

104. If the Deputy Collector, who is appointed to carry out the partition in accordance with a joint application under section one hundred and one, is not satisfied that the partition of the lands and the assessment of the revenue payable thereon can be made in the manner proposed without endangering the safety of the public revenue, or if the Collector rejects the application for such partition, the Deputy Collector shall refuse to make the same.

105. Whenever the proprietors of an estate are, in accordance with a private arrangement as aforesaid, respectively in possession of separate lands held in severalty as representing their respective interests in the estate, the joint application presented to the Collector by all the recorded proprietors of the estate as required by section twelve, may be to the effect that a partition of such estate be made by assigning to each proprietor, or to two or more proprietors jointly, as his or their separate estate, the lands of which they are in possession in accordance with such arrangement, and that the land revenue for which the parent estate is liable may be apportioned among the separate estates so formed in accordance with the provisions of section six.

Joint petition may be presented for partition of land in accordance with private division with proportional redistribution of public revenue

A joint application under this section may be made notwithstanding that a joint application under section one hundred and one has been refused in respect of the same estate.

106. Whenever the Deputy Collector who is appointed to carry out a partition, shall find that in accordance with a private arrangement made by the proprietors of an estate, the proprietors respectively, or any of the proprietors, are in possession of separate lands held in severalty as representing portions only of their respective interests in the parent estate, while other lands of the parent estate are held in common tenancy between such proprietors, a joint application as mentioned in section twelve shall not be necessary to authorize the Collector to make a partition of the estate, but the Deputy Collector shall allot to the separate estate of each proprietor the lands of which such proprietor is found to be in possession in severalty, in accordance with such private arrangement.

Lands of which each proprietor is in possession to be allotted to him

Lands held in the occupation of the several proprietors of an estate as sir, khamar, or nij-jote, or under any other similar denomination, shall not be deemed to be lands held in severalty as representing portions of their respective interests in the parent estate within the meaning of this section, which applied only to cases in which there has been a bond fide division, by private arrangement among the proprietors, of lands held by tenants.

107 Notwithstanding anything contained in the last preceding section, the Collector may cause any transfer of lands agreed to by the parties to be made from the possession of one proprietor to that of another.

Collector may cause transfer of lands agreed to by parties

Rules applicable both to lands held in common tenancy and to lands held in severalty.

108. Places of worship, burning grounds, and burial grounds which have been held in common previous to the partition of an estate, and lands of which the proceeds have been assigned by the proprietors jointly for religious, charitable, or public purposes, shall continue to be held in common, unless the proprietors shall otherwise agree amongst themselves, in which case they shall state in writing the agreement into which they have entered, and the Deputy Collector shall enter a note of the agreement in the paper of partition.

Rule as to places of worship

109. Tanks, wells, water-courses, and embankments shall be considered as attached to the land for the benefit of which they were originally made.

In cases in which, from the extent, situation, or construction of such works, it shall be found necessary that they should remain the joint property of the proprietors of two or more of the separate estates, the paper of partition shall specify, as far as the circumstances may admit, the extent to which the proprietors of each of such estates may make use of the same, and the proportion of the charges for repairs to be borne by them respectively

Rule as to tanks wells, water courses, and embankments

110. Whenever the Deputy Collector shall find in the parent estate lands which are actually held rent-free (whether the proprietors of the estate do or do not claim a right to receive rent from such lands), the Deputy Collector shall make no division or assignment of such lands among the separate estates, but shall specify in the partition papers and proceedings that such lands are left appertaining jointly to all the separate estates which are formed out of the parent estate, in the proportion which each separate estate bears to the parent estate.

Lands held rent-free not to be divided

Provided that such lands or any of them may be allotted among the different separate estates with the consent of all the recorded proprietors of the parent estate, but not otherwise.

111. Whenever the Deputy Collector shall find in the parent estate any lands which are held at a fixed rent on a patni or other permanent intermediate tenure falling within Exception 2 or Exception 3 of section seven, the Deputy Collector may either

Rule as to permanent intermediate tenures

(1) assign the lands which are held on such tenure and the assets thereof entirely to one or more of the separate estates, the rental being calculated as provided in Exception 2 or in Exception 3 (as the case may be) of section seven; or

(2) leave such lands unassigned to any separate estate, and specify in the partition paper and proceedings that the lands are left appertaining jointly to all the separate states which are formed out of the parent estate in the proportion which each separate estate bears to the parent estate In the event of such lands being so left undivided, the Deputy Collector shall assign to each separate estate such share of the rental of the tenure as shall bear the same proportion to the entire rental of the tenure, as the separate estate bears to the parent estate

In dealing with a tenure under this section, the Deputy Collector shall take into consideration the extent of the lands comprised in the tenure, and all other circumstances of the case.

112. Whenever any lands are held in common between the proprietors of two or more estates, one of which is under partition in accordance with the provisions of this Act, the Deputy Collector shall first allot to the estate under partition a portion of such common lands of which the assets are in proportion to the interest which

Lands held in common between the proprietors of two or more estates how to be dealt with the proprietors of such estate hold in the said common lands; and all the provisions of this Act in respect of the allotment between the shareholders in one estate, of lands which are held jointly by such shareholders, shall, as far as possible, apply to the allotment of the proportionate share of such common lands to the estate under partition;

and, in respect of the service of notices, hearing of objections, and all other procedure in view to such allotment, the proprietors of the estate under partition, and the proprietors of all other estates who have an interest in the said common lands, shall be deemed to be joint proprietors of a parent estate consisting only of the lands so held in common.

Provided that all expenses of any division of lands so held in common between the proprietors of two or more estates shall be deemed to be expenses of making the partition of the estate which is under partition, and shall be leviable as provided by this Act from the proprietors of such estate, and the proprietors of any other estate having an interest in such lands shall not be required to bear any portion of such expenses.

Proprietors of other estates may be required to pay a portion of expenses of partition.

113. Notwithstanding anything contained in the last preceding section, if it shall appear to the Commissioner, on the report of the Collector or otherwise, that the proceedings for such division have been unnecessarily delayed, and the cost of such division enhanced by obstacles vexatiously put in the way of the completion of such division by any proprietor of any estate other than that under partition, or by want of due diligence on the part of any such proprietor in carrying out any requisitions made upon him, the Commissioner may direct that such sum as he shall think fit shall be levied from every such proprietor who is responsible for such delay or additional cost, and every sum so levied shall be taken in diminution of the amount payable by the proprietors of the estate under partition as costs of such partition.

Allotment of lands held in common to be sanctioned by Collector.

114. The allotment to the estate under partition of the proportionate share of the lands so held in common shall be submitted for the approval of the Collector who may confirm, amend, or reject the same, and in the case of rejection, may make or direct to be made another allotment.

The portion of such common lands assigned to estate under partition how to be dealt with.

115. As soon as the allotment to the estate under partition of a proportionate share of the said lands shall have been approved by the Collector, the lands so allotted shall be dealt with in every respect as if they were held in common tenancy by such of the proprietors of the estate under partition as were found to hold interests in the common lands.

Procedure when dispute exists as to whether any lands form part of the parent estate.

116. If a dispute or doubt shall be found to exist as to whether any lands form part of the parent estate, the Deputy Collector shall enquire into the fact of possession, and shall report his conclusions, with the reasons thereof, to the Collector; whereupon the Collector may (whether the possession of disputed lands is with the proprietors of the parent estate or otherwise) order that the partition be struck off the file, and in that case no application for a partition of the said estate shall be admitted until the applicant can show that the dispute or doubt has been decided by a court of competent jurisdiction, or has been amicably settled; or, if the Collector shall find that possession of the disputed lands is with the proprietors of the parent estate, and if it shall appear to him that the claim of the other parties to the right in such lands is untenable, he may order that the partition shall proceed, and that the disputed lands be treated as part of the estate under partition.

Procedure when Collector thinks that lands belong to parent estate.

Provided that no partition shall be made under this section, if such partition would involve the assignment to any separate estate of such a quantity of the disputed land that the removal of such land from such estate would, in the opinion of the Collector, endanger the safety of the land revenue for which such estate would be liable after the partition.

Procedure when partition completed and proprietor of an estate dispossessed by order of a competent court.

117. If, after a partition has been completed in accordance with an order passed by the Collector under clause three of the last preceding section, the proprietor of any separate estate shall be dispossessed by a decree of a court of competent jurisdiction of any lands which may have been assigned to his estate by the partition, such proprietor shall not be entitled to claim any modification of the partition (which shall hold good), but shall be entitled to recover from the proprietors of the other separate estates formed by the partition such compensation as may be fair and equitable having regard to the reduction in the proportionate value of his separate estate which is caused by such dispossession; and such compensation may be recovered in a court of competent jurisdiction from the proprietors of those separate estates on which a proportionate share of the total loss caused by the order of dispossession does not fall.

PART IX.

OF THE PROCEDURE BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER UP TO THE COMPLETION OF THE PARTITION.

If no appeal presented, Commissioner may consider the case without issue of notice.

118. If no appeal or objection shall be presented within the time allowed by section eighty-four, the Commissioner may proceed to consider the case without issue of any notice, and may confirm the partition made by the Collector.

Commissioner to fix a day for hearing case.

119. If it shall appear to the Commissioner that the proceedings of the Collector should be amended, or if a petition of appeal or an objection shall have been presented within the time allowed by section eighty-four, the Commissioner shall fix a day for hearing and disposing of the case, and shall cause a notification of the same to be published and a notice of the same to be posted up in his own office.

Commissioner to confirm, amend, or return petition.

120. On the day so fixed, which shall not be less than thirty days after the publication of the said notification at the office of the Collector, or on any subsequent day to which the hearing of the case may extend, or on any subsequent day to which the hearing may have been postponed by a notice published in his own office, the Commissioner shall, after hearing and disposing of all objections, and calling for any further information which may be necessary, either confirm the partition as made by the Collector or amend the same, or return the papers of the partition to the Collector for any changes the Commissioner may think proper to be made.

If the partition is returned to the Collector for amendment, the Collector shall proceed to make the said amendments or to cause them to be made in the same manner as if he had himself passed such orders on a partition submitted to him for approval by a Deputy Collector.

Commissioner may return papers for amendment or inquiry.

121. The Commissioner may, before confirming a partition, return the papers for amendment or inquiry as often as he shall think fit, and as often as he shall so return them the procedure prescribed in the three last preceding sections shall be followed.

Procedure by Collector on receipt of order of Commissioner or of Board of Revenue on appeal.

122. After the expiration of not less than sixty days from the date of the order of the Commissioner confirming a partition, or, if an appeal has been preferred to the Board, or if any proceedings in respect of the partition be pending before the Board, then on receipt of the final order of the Board determining that the partition as sanctioned by the Commissioner shall not be disturbed, the Collector shall cause to be published in his office, and in some conspicuous place in each of the estates separately constituted by such order, a notice that the partition has been finally confirmed as it was sanctioned by the Commissioner, or with any amendments or alterations, as the case may be.

If the partition as finally sanctioned involves any amendments which may conveniently be made on the extracts of the partition paper and on any maps which have been prepared and delivered or offered by notice to the recorded proprietors as required by section seventy-nine or section eighty-five, the Collector shall cause a notice to be served on every recorded proprietor whose estate is affected by such amendments requiring him to produce such extracts and maps in order that such amendments may be noted on them;

and if the alterations made in the partition as finally sanctioned be such as to make it desirable to prepare fresh extracts and maps as aforesaid, the Collector shall cause such fresh extracts and maps to be prepared; and shall cause a notice to be served on each proprietor declaring the extract and map which was furnished or offered to him under section seventy-nine or section eighty-five, as the case may be, to be cancelled, and requiring him to take out of the Collector's office the fresh extract and map which have been prepared.

Procedure as to giving possession of separate estates.

123. The Collector shall then proceed to give the several proprietors possession of the separate estates allotted to each, and if necessary, may require the assistance of the Magistrate in giving such possession; and shall cause to be served on every recorded proprietor of a separate estate a notice informing him that from the date specified in such notice, the separate estate assigned to him (as described in the extract from the partition paper prepared and delivered or offered to him under section seventy-nine, section eighty-five, or the last preceding section, as the case may be) will be deemed to be separated from the parent estate, and to be separately liable for the amount of land revenue specified in such notice, and calling upon him to enter into a separate engagement for the payment of such revenue.

Date specified in notice under preceding section.

124. The date specified in such notice shall not be more than three months after the proprietors have been put in possession of their respective separate estates as herein provided.

Each separate estate to be borne on the revenue roll as separately liable for revenue assessed upon it.

125. From the date specified in such notice, each separate estate shall be borne on the revenue roll and General Register of the Collector as a distinct estate separately liable for the amount of land revenue assessed upon it under this Act; and shall be so liable, whether the proprietor have executed an agreement for the payment of the amount of land revenue so assessed upon the said estate, or whether he shall have failed to execute such agreement.

Collector may direct the construction of boundary marks

126. The Collector may direct the construction of such boundary marks as he may think proper to distinguish the lands of each separate estate, and the cost of such boundary marks shall be deemed to be expenses of the partition.

Boundary marks erected under this Act shall be assigned to zemindars, or to zemindars jointly with tenure-holders, for preservation, as provided in the second clause of section 29 of "The Bengal Survey Act, 1875," and after they have been so assigned, the provisions of sections 19, 20, and 52 to 57 (both inclusive) of the said Act shall apply to such boundary marks.

PART X.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Any point may be referred to arbitration.

127. The Deputy Collector, with the consent of all the parties concerned, may refer to arbitration any point arising in the course of a partition; and the provisions of sections sixty-five and sixty-seven shall, as far as possible, be applicable to such references.

Case of proprietor who has created a tenure.

128. If any proprietor of an estate held in common tenancy and brought under partition in accordance with the provisions of this Act shall have given his share or a portion of it in patni or other tenure or lease, such tenure or lease shall hold good, as regards the lands finally allotted to the share of the lessor, and only as to such land.

Illustrations.

I.—A, the proprietor of a quarter share in a joint undivided estate held in common tenancy, gives to B a patni tenure of the whole of his interest in the estate, entitling B, as long as such estate is held in common tenancy, to collect one-fourth of the rent payable by every ryot on the estate;

Partition of the said estate is made under this Act, and certain specific lands are assigned to A as his separate estate;

B will become patnidar of the entire separate estate which has been assigned to A, and will be entitled to collect the whole of the rents from the ryots on that estate.

II.—A, the proprietor of a quarter share in a joint undivided estate held in common tenancy, gives to B a patni tenure of one-half of his share in the estate, entitling B, as long as such estate is held in common tenancy, to collect one-eighth of the rent payable by every ryot on the estate;

Partition of the estate is made under the Act, and certain specific lands are assigned to A as his separate estate;

B will become patnidar of one-half of A's separate estate, and will hold his patni in common tenancy with the half of A's interest which A has not given in patni so that B will be entitled to collect one-half of the rent payable by every ryot on A's estate, and A will be entitled to collect the other half.

Two estates may be united.

129. If two or more estates shall come into the possession of one proprietor or of the same body of proprietors, such proprietor or body of proprietors, after being recorded as proprietors, may apply to have such estates united, and to hold them as a single estate.

Application for such union how to be made, and how to be dealt with.

130. Such application shall be made in writing to the Collector, and the Collector shall, not less than thirty days after the issue of a notification of such application (provided he see no objection), comply with the same, and cause the necessary entries to be made in the records of his office, and shall report the case to the Commissioner.

Cause of sale of a separate estate for arrears to be ascertained.

131. Whenever any separate estate created under this Act shall fall in arrear so as to require a sale of the land for the discharge of the arrear at any period within twelve years of the date of the confirmation of the partition, the Collector shall, if possible, ascertain the cause of the estate having fallen into arrear, and shall enquire whether such arrear has been caused by any fraudulent or erroneous allotment of the assessment or assignment of lands at the time of the partition, and shall make a report upon the case to the Commissioner for such action as the Commissioner may think proper.

In certain cases Lieutenant-Governor may order a new allotment of the land revenue.

132. If it shall be proved to the satisfaction of the Lieutenant-Governor at any time within twelve years from the date of the final confirmation of a partition by the Commissioner or by the Board, as the case may be, that through any fraud or error at the time of making the partition the assets of the lands assigned to any separate estate were not in proportion to the amount of land revenue for which such estate was made liable, or that the amount of land revenue assessed on any separate estate was not in proportion to the assets of the lands assigned to such estate, the Lieutenant-Governor may order a new allotment of the land revenue upon the separate estates in accordance with the principles prescribed in this Act, on an estimate of the assets of each such estate as they stood at the time of the partition, such estimate being made on such evidence and information as may be procurable respecting the same.

Under-assessed estates to make refund to over-assessed estates.

133. Whenever the Lieutenant-Governor shall pass an order for the re-allotment of the land revenue on any separate estate under the last preceding section, the Lieutenant-Governor may direct that the proprietors whose estates are found to have been under-assessed shall, for each year during which they have held possession of the separate estates, be required to pay to the recorded proprietors of the estates which have been over-assessed, a sum equal to the annual amount in which the latter shall be found to have been over-assessed, and in default of payment the amount shall be leviable as provided in section one hundred and thirty-eight.

No order passed by the Lieutenant-Governor under this section shall be liable to be contested in any court.

Publication of notifications under this Act.

134. Every notification required to be published in and by this Act shall, unless it is otherwise specially directed, be published by posting up copies of the same at the office of the Collector, and of the Deputy Collector who is making or has made the partition, at the mâl cutcherry, or mâl cutcherries (if any) of the proprietors of the parent estate, and at one or more of the principal villages on the said estate.

Service of notice.

135. Every notice in and by this Act required to be served on any person may be served—

(1) by delivering the same to the person to whom it is directed,

or, on failure of such service, by posting the same on some conspicuous part of the house in which the said person usually resides, or by delivering the said notice to a general agent of the person to whom such notice is directed, or to any person who has been appointed in that behalf, or who has been appointed an agent of the person to whom the notice is directed for the general purposes of any partition under this Act; or

(2) by sending a registered letter containing such notice directed to the said person at his usual place of abode or to the place where he may be known to be residing; or

(3) by posting a copy of the notice at any mâl cutcherry of the person to whom the notice is directed;

or, if no such mâl cutcherry be found, and if the notice cannot be served in any of the other modes mentioned in this section, on some conspicuous place on the estate to which such notice relates.

In all cases where two or more persons are joint applicants for the separation of an estate to be held by them jointly as a separate estate, service of notice under this section on any one such joint applicant shall be deemed to be good and sufficient service on each and all of such joint applicants.

136. Provided the directions of this Act be in substance and effect complied with, no proceedings under this Act shall be affected by reason of any mistake or by reason of any other informality, unless any person has suffered, or is in danger of suffering, material injury in consequence of such mistake or informality; and no proceedings under this Act shall be affected by reason of the omission to issue any notification required by this Act, or to serve any notice on any person whose name is not recorded on the Collector's registers as proprietor of the estate in respect of which the notice is required to be served.

No proceedings under this Act to be affected by any mistake or misdescription.

137. If any proprietor or other person shall fail to comply, within the time fixed by a notice served on him as by this Act provided, with any requisition made upon him under this Act by the Collector or Deputy Collector, the Collector or Deputy Collector may impose upon him such daily fine as he may think fit, not exceeding fifty rupees;

Fine in case of non compliance with notice or requisition.

and such fine shall be payable daily until the requisition is complied with,

and the Collector or Deputy Collector may proceed from time to time to levy the amount which has become due in respect of any such fine, notwithstanding that an appeal against the order imposing such fine may be pending;

Provided that whenever the amount levied under any such order shall have exceeded five hundred rupees, the Collector shall report the case specially to the Commissioner, and no further levy in respect of such fine shall be made otherwise than by authority of the Commissioner.

138. Except as herein expressly otherwise provided, all fees, fines, costs, and other sums ordered to be paid by any person under this Act, shall be deemed to be demands under section 1 of Bengal Act VII of 1868 (an Act to make further provision for the recovery of arrears of land revenue and public demands recoverable as arrears of land revenue), and shall be leviable as such.

Fees, &c., to be deemed a demand under Bengal Act VII of 1868.

139. For the purpose of any enquiry under this Act, the Collector and Deputy-Collector shall, in addition to every power conferred specially by this Act, have power to summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses, to examine witnesses, and to compel the production of documents by the same means (as far as may be), and in the same manner as is provided in the case of a Court under the Code of Civil Procedure.

Power of Collector to enforce attendance of witnesses.

140. All powers and functions which are assigned by this Act to a Deputy Collector may be exercised and discharged by the Collector; and whenever it is provided by this Act that any act done, or order made by a Deputy Collector shall require the sanction of the Collector, or shall be appealable to the Collector, if such act shall have been done or such order shall have been made by the Collector, it shall be deemed to have been sanctioned by the Collector, or to have been confirmed by the Collector in appeal, as the case may be.

Powers and functions assigned to Deputy Collector may be exercised by Collector.

141. The Lieutenant-Governor may vest any Collector or Deputy Collector with all or any of the powers which, under the provisions of any law for the time being in force, might be exercised by them respectively, or might be conferred on them respectively, if they were making a settlement of the parent estate.

Government may vest Collector or Deputy Collector with certain powers.

Such powers may be conferred either generally in respect of all estates in the partition of which the Collector or Deputy Collector may at any time and in any District be engaged, or specially in respect of any particular estate.

THE HERBARIUM AT THE BOTANIC GARDENS, CALCUTTA.

Minute by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, dated 9th September 1876.

I HAVE recently had under careful consideration the present position and future prospects of the herbarium of the Royal Botanic Gardens at Calcutta, in consultation with the Superintendent, Dr. George King.

This very important herbarium was founded so long ago as the year 1800 by Roxburgh, who is called the father of Indian Botany, and has gradually grown to its present dimensions, partly by reason of the collections made at various times, under the auspices of Government, by distinguished botanists, such as Wallich, Griffith, Hooker; but chiefly by reason of contributions given by individuals devoted to the cause of botanic science, such as DeCandolle, Fischer, Maximowicz, Thompson, Jenkins, Vicary, Masters, Parish, Stocks, Symonds, Cleghorn, Wight, Von Müller (Melbourne), C. B. Clarke, Kurz, Regel (St. Petersburgh), Anderson; and most particularly by Dr. J. D. Hooker, who, in his individual capacity, has presented at various times a great number of most interesting specimens, and has indeed been the greatest benefactor of the institution. Thus the herbarium possesses many associations which will become classical in the history of Indian Botany.

In this herbarium, as in other herbaria, the dried specimens of the plants are glued on to sheets of paper, and are thus said to be mounted. The specimens so mounted are some hundreds of thousands in number. They are kept in cabinets with glass doors, arranged in a structure sufficiently well lighted, tolerably adequate in size, but not so spacious or commodious as might be desired, and not quite worthy of such an institution, though passably good for the present.

That an herbarium is the only possible basis of systematic botany on a comprehensive scale, as distinguished from morphological and physiological botany, is a proposition too clear to require any attempt on my part to state it. That the completion and maintenance of such an herbarium, as an important adjunct to the Botanic Garden at Calcutta, is of much practical as well as scientific importance, will be manifest from the following considerations :—

Firstly.—It is necessary to have a collection of actual (though dead) specimens authoritatively classified, described, and named, which may serve as decisive tests, whereby all plants collected or obtained in any part of the country may be compared with known species, and have their true position in the vegetable kingdom assigned to them, and whereby it may be determined whether a particular specimen should be regarded as belonging to a species already named, or as representing a new species.

Secondly.—For the same purpose it is necessary to have a series of drawings (executed by competent hands) of the plants while still in life, together with notes taken on the spot at the time of gathering, which drawings and notes will supply many characteristic traits that can hardly be discerned from the same plants when dead and dried in the cabinets of the collection.

Thirdly.—Such a collection is essential to the illustrating of the geographical distribution of the numerous species of plants in the various parts of India, so that all the places where the species naturally grow may be known, and the modifications which their forms and characteristics undergo, under divers climatic conditions, may be perceived.

Fourthly.—The collection is further essential to display the gradations of form by which the allied families and species of plants approach or diverge from each other, so that the affinities or the distinctions between the immense number of specimens may be correctly understood.

Fifthly.—Again, the collection is very desirable to show how the several types of floras (alpine, desert, temperate, tropical) which, existing within the boundaries of British India, are allied to, or are identical with, the floras of surrounding or neighbouring countries—Afghanistan, Persia, Thibet, China, and the Malayan regions.

Sixthly.—The collection is needed for establishing a proper scientific standard, upon which there may be founded a sound system for that botanical instruction which we hope to diffuse more and more in the country, and to incorporate with our national education.

Seventhly.—The collection is, and will always be, most useful in dealing with questions regarding the naturalization of plants, the introduction of new vegetable products into the country, the adaptation of raw produce to the growing requirements of manufacturing industry, the management of the forests, and the scientific improvement of agriculture.

Eighthly.—Such a collection is essential to those who wish to prosecute botanic study to a high degree; and it is to be hoped that the number of such students, both European and Native, will be constantly increasing.

Ninthly.—The collection will be an authentic record of species, and even of genera, which are in danger of becoming extinct from the ravages and other destructive influences to which so many parts of the vegetable kingdom are exposed.

Tenthly.—Such a collection affords absolutely the only means of obtaining in one place anything like a view of the vegetable kingdom; certainly no Botanic Garden, however well stocked, can afford such a sight, as it would contain hardly more than a fractional part of the aggregate of known plants in Nature: for instance, the Botanic Garden at Calcutta contains specimens of some four thousand species; but what are they among the tens of thousands of species in India alone, and the hundreds of thousands of species in the world.

In order to fulfil these several purposes, the herbarium ought to be as complete as possible in respect to the Indian flora, in the broadest sense and to the minutest degree, according to the latest development of our knowledge; and, in the Indian flora, there is represented, as I understand, the greater part of the vegetable kingdom. But inasmuch as many of the species found in India also occur in other countries, and as some families of plants existing in other countries are not found in India, the herbarium ought to contain examples of the flora of foreign regions.

It is therefore desirable to see how far our collection is complete, and in what respects, if any, it is especially deficient—firstly, as regards the Indian flora; and secondly, as regards the foreign floras.

Now, by inquiry I have ascertained, after verification by Mr. Kurz, the Curator, concerning the Indian flora, that the herbarium contains specimens of nearly all the species classified under the following natural orders* :—

Coriarieæ.	Lentibularieæ.	Commelynaceæ.
Moringeæ.	Acanthaceæ.	Restiaceæ.
Leguminosæ.	Verbenaceæ.	Cyperaceæ.
Saxifrageæ.	Labiatæ.	Equisetaceæ.
Droseraceæ.	Plantagineæ.	Marsileaceæ.
Hamamelideæ.	Phytolaccaceæ.	Filices.
Haloragеæ.	Nyctagineæ.

It is satisfactory to find that the collection is so far complete in respect to orders so economically important as the Ternstrœmiaceæ, the Rutaceæ, the Leguminosæ, the Verbenaceæ, and others; and in respect to an order of such beauty and interest as the Filices.

Next, I find that the collection is imperfect in regard to the species in the following natural orders:—

Magnoliaceæ.	Melastomaceæ.	Thymelaceæ.
Menispermaceæ	Cucurbitaceæ.	Loranthaceæ.
Fumariaceæ.	Begoniaceæ.	Lauraceæ.
Cruciferæ.	Umbelliferæ.	Aristolochiaceæ.
Capparideæ.	Araliaceæ.	Euphorbiaceæ.
Bixineæ.	Rubiaceæ.	Cupuliferæ.
Caryophylleæ.	Vacciniaceæ.	Myricaceæ.
Malvaceæ.	Ericaceæ.	Betulaceæ.
Sterculiaceæ.	Monotropeæ.	Salicineæ.
Tiliaceæ.	Primulaceæ.	Urticaceæ.
Geraniaceæ.	Sapotaceæ.	Balanophoreæ.
Simarubeæ.	Oleaceæ.	Coniferæ.
Meliaceæ.	Asclepiadeæ.	Cycadaceæ.
Chailletiaceæ.	Boragineæ.	Hydrocharideæ
Ampelideæ.	Gesneraceæ.	Scitamineæ.
Sapindaceæ.	Bignoniaceæ.	Marantaceæ.
Connaraceæ.	Pedalineæ.	Taccaceæ.
Rosaceæ.	Salsolaceæ.	Irideæ.
Crassulaceæ.	Amarantaceæ.	Dioscoreæ.
Combretaceæ.	Polygonaceæ.	Juncaceæ.
Myrtaceæ.

* In these lists I have followed the list of orders as given by Bentham and Hooker in their work on Genera plantarum so far as it goes; and for the remainder De Candolle's Prodromus and Kunth's Enumeratio.

Of these orders, many are beautiful and interesting, while some are economically important; and having regard to importance, I hope soon to hear of the collection being made complete in respect to such manifestly useful orders as the Magnoliaceæ, the Malvaceæ, the Tiliaceæ, the Myrtaceæ, the Rubiaceæ, the Cupuliferæ, the Urticaceæ, the Coniferæ, and others.

Then I learn that the collection is defective in regard to the species in the following natural orders:—

Anonaceæ.	Connaraceæ.	Aroidèæ.
Guttiferæ.	Apocynaceæ.	Orchidaceæ.
Dipterocarpeæ.	Palmeæ.	Gramineæ.
Burseraceæ.	Pandaneæ.	Lycopodiaceæ.

that it is almost blank as regards the species in the following sections:—

Characeæ.	Hepaticæ.	Lichénes.
Musci.	Algæ.	Fungi.

It is unsatisfactory that the collection should be deficient in respect of such manifestly important orders as the Dipterocarpeæ, the Palmeæ, and the Gramineæ.

But, further, specimens differ perceptibly within the limits of a species, within even each of the varieties of a species, finer specimens of the same variety being met with in one place, poorer in another place, average specimens in another place, and so on; the very finest specimens being perhaps found only in particular spots; fresh specimens, too, being sometimes found finer than any previously known. These diversities, for better for poorer, generally depend on soil and climate. It is therefore necessary that the herbarium should contain not one or two, or a few specimens of each species and variety, but as many specimens as possible from all parts of India. But, in fact, it very often happens that the herbarium, while possessing, for a species or variety, good specimens from some parts of India, is quite deficient in specimens from all other parts—and those perhaps very important parts—of the country. For instance, we have as yet but few specimens from the west coast of India, comprised in the Concan, Malabar, and Travancore; from the Neilgiri, Shevaroy, and Pulnee Hills; from the southern extremity of the Indian Peninsula; from Tipperah, Munnipore, and the Khasia Hills; from the lower Himalayan ranges immediately north of Assam; from Bhootan and Nepal; from the Chota Nagpore country to the west of Bengal; from the valley of the Nerbudda in Central India; from the valley of the Mahanuddy in the Central Provinces; from the Andamans and the Nicobars.

Thus it is that, even with those natural orders which are above set down as represented comparatively well in the herbarium, the collection is yet far from being complete in the fullest sense of the term.

This cursory review then shows that, despite the efforts sustained for so many years, and although the herbarium contains more than half a million of specimens, still a vast work in collecting specimens remains to be undertaken, which can be accomplished only by persistent efforts being put forth, season after season. I have requested the earnest attention of the Superintendent to this, and I trust that each year will bring its additions to the herbarium.

By deputing one or more of the trained assistants from the Botanic Gardens to proceed to distant places in India, and to collect specimens (acting as "Collectors" according to technical designation), we may hope to gradually supply the deficiencies which now exist. This has been done during last year with much advantage, and the operations will be continued during the ensuing season; and, as I hope, during subsequent seasons.

I have separately ordered that the trained officers in the Government Cinchona Plantation should take opportunities of collecting specimens from the abundant vegetation of that neighbourhood.

I will also request the Conservator of Forests to cause the officers of his department to avail themselves of the many opportunities which the forestry operations offer for collecting specimens of plants for the herbarium. Already some collections have been received from our forest officers, and I am sure that these gentlemen will take pride and pleasure in contributing more and more towards that botanic science which is so cognate to their regular work. As the area of our forest conservancy is so largely expanding, I should expect to receive such contributions in yearly increasing numbers.

Again, although most of our civil officers may have hardly leisure or opportunity for collecting plants for the herbarium, still those who serve in hilly districts, or in districts adjacent to hills, such as Orissa, Chutia Nagpore, Sonthalia, Tipperah, may have the ability and the inclination to collect specimens for the herbarium. I shall be glad whenever they are able to do so. I observe that the Superintendent, Dr. King, has prepared a brief paper of directions for drying and preparing herbarium specimens; this should be circulated among all those likely to make use of it.

Further, whenever plant collectors are deputed to gather specimens, they must be enjoined to make drawings and field notes on the spot of the living plants, the importance of which work has been previously described. This work of making drawings and notes has been done already to a large extent in the herbarium, though manifestly there remains yet a vast amount undone.

It is desirable that lithographs should be made from the many botanical drawings which exist in the herbarium; copies might then be sent to the botanic institutions in other countries, whence objects of interest might be obtained in return. Such lithography can be easily and cheaply executed in the Calcutta School of Art, where the native students would make the copies on the stone, while receiving their instruction in lithographic art. Indeed, they have already done this very satisfactorily in several instances for botanical illustration.

In respect to foreign flora, that is, orders found in other countries, but not in India, or Indian orders found in other countries, but doubtless under modifications of form, the herbarium has many specimens from Europe, some from Australia, and from some of the countries of Asia, especially Ceylon; a few from North and South America and from South Africa, but very few, one might almost say none, from some of the principal countries of Asia, such as Siam, Japan, Persia, Georgia; from Northern and Central Africa, from the West Indies; while from the Arctic and Antarctic regions there are none at all. The specimens we possess of foreign flora have been chiefly obtained through or from the Royal Garden at Kew; also from the Botanic Gardens at Kandy, Batavia, Melbourne, Adelaide, St. Petersburgh, Munich, Palermo, Chicago. Having regard to the support continuously rendered to our herbarium by Dr. Hooker, and to his peculiar cognizance of the needs of an herbarium in India, we may hope to receive from him, in the future, that assistance which he is pre-eminently able to afford. By keeping up communication with the Botanic Gardens and institutions of other countries, we may send them specimens of our flora, and obtain specimens of theirs in return. Such a system of interchange will afford the best means of supplying the deficiencies of our herbarium in respect to foreign flora. The attention of our Superintendent has been specially directed to this point.

Lastly, I am anxious that the Superintendent of the Botanic Garden and Herbarium, Dr. King, should, during a portion of each season, visit some part or parts of India and collect specimens for the herbarium—a task which he would discharge with special efficiency, as he must know so well what the herbarium most wants: he should be accompanied by a competent botanical draftsman. I have given him directions accordingly, and I shall hope to receive in due course a general though brief report of the collections he may have succeeded in making. I would leave him to select the ground for his exploration. It is to be borne in mind that he has to deliver a course of lectures in Botany at the Medical College, but it can easily be managed, and I have accordingly ordered that the lectures shall be delivered during months other than those few months when travelling is safely possible in regions botanically interesting.

As already stated, I do not forget that this Minute does no more than touch on systematic botany and the means of studying it, while leaving untouched the other great divisions of botany—the morphological and the physiological. Heretofore the work of the scientific establishment in the Botanic Garden at Calcutta has been mainly in the direction of the systematic branch of botany, in other words, the classification of plants. Whether it will be possible in future to do something in the direction of the other parts of the science—morphological and physiological—will be matter for separate consideration.

INQUIRIES AND EXPERIMENTS IN THE PHYSIOLOGICAL BRANCH OF BOTANY.

Minute by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, dated the 14th September 1876.

When concluding my Minute of the 10th September regarding the herbarium in the Botanic Garden in Calcutta in its immediate relation to systematic botany, or the classification of plants, I stated that there remained for consideration the question as to how our efforts should be best directed to the promotion of the physiological branch of botany in Bengal and its dependencies, and I now address myself to that subject. In doing so, I bear in mind that there is a third branch of botany, namely morphology. This may apparently be regarded as auxiliary both to the systematic and to the physiological branches. At all events, I do not see my way to taking any measures in Bengal with regard to morphological as separate from systematic and physiological botany. If, after having attended to systematic botany, we shall succeed in prosecuting inquiries and experiments respecting physiological botany, that will be as much as we shall be able to do with our very limited resources.

I learn from Dr. King, the Superintendent of the Calcutta Botanic Garden, that of late years (that is, since the time of Dr. Griffith, who, some thirty-five years ago, made many minute physiological inquiries,) our means have not admitted of many inquiries or experiments being made in physiological botany. Despite these disadvantages, however, there have been some things done in this direction, such as Dr. Falconer's report on the soil and structure of the teak; Mr. J. Scott's treatises on the intercrossing of the species of the Verbascum, on the structure of the tree ferns, and on the parasitic relations of the Loranthus.

The portions of physiological botany to which our attention in Bengal is specially required seem to me to be the diseases of plants, the preservation and improvement of their races, their structure and functions, their nutrition by inorganic and organic substances. Manifestly, these matters have much concern with all improvements of agriculture and of raw produce. It does not, indeed, follow that the Botanical Department can devise, apply, or carry out practical and material improvements in these respects; but that department can, and ought to, establish the scientific basis on which all such improvements must be founded. And it is for this reason that the services of our botanists may become not only scientifically interesting, but also actually valuable.

With a view to such investigations, we are fortunate in having the services of Mr. John Scott (already mentioned), the Curator of the Botanic Garden, who possesses skill, practice, and experience in physiological botany. He has for the last three years been employed in making special inquiries regarding the poppy in the Opium Agencies of Patna and Ghazeepore. His work, though primarily devoted to fiscal purposes, will also subserve the ends of physiological botany. While the practical part of his work will be brought into use by the fiscal authorities, the scientific result of his researches will be incorporated in the Botanical Department, to be there dealt with professionally, or communicated to learned authorities. Possibly the conclusions arrived at respecting the poppy may be found applicable to other natural orders of plants.

I have elsewhere proposed that Mr. Scott's deputation to the poppy districts of Behar should be prolonged for some little time in the interest of the opium revenue. But while thus engaged, he can prosecute inquiries and experiments regarding the cognate parts of physiological botany. This, the scientific part of his work—as contradistinguished from the fiscal and practical—will be under the departmental supervision of the Superintendent of the Botanic Garden, who will render every assistance in his power. Mr. Scott will thus make two sets of reports—one to the Board of Revenue regarding practical points relating to the poppy and the opium; the other to the Superintendent of the Botanic Garden relating to scientific points in physiological botany.

In the interest of pure science (as apart from the application of experiments to practical uses), I am assured by Dr. King that the following results in scientific botany may be claimed for Mr. Scott's labours in relation to the poppy (Papaver somniferum) in Behar—namely, original views on the poppy-blight mould or murrain, its habits and reproduction from year to year, its periodic recurrence in a more or less serious form; observation of the circulation of the milky-sap in the poppy plants, and the conditions favourable and unfavourable to its exudation, the proof that it is a vegetative secretion only, and is not related to the functions of reproduction; investigation of the general nature of this milk-sap, and its place in the economy of annual and perennial plants.

Without attempting to fetter the discretion or the original thought of our Botanical Department and of our scientific officers, all which I hope that they will freely exercise, still I think that the present opportunity should be taken of laying down in brief general terms the matters to which our physiological inquiries in Bengal, should be directed in the present and in the immediate future, and after carefully consulting Dr. King and Mr. Scott, I would state these matters thus:—

1*st.*—The diseases of plants.—The blights arising from insects and from fungi, which notoriously cause injury to our cereals and pulses, to the tea and coffee plants, to the opium-poppy and the like.

2*nd.*—The parasites (having roots in the ground or springing from the stem) which destructively feed upon some kinds of cultivated plants, such as tobacco, cressworts and others, but more particularly the timber trees of our forests, the teak, saul, sissoo, and the like.

3*rd.*—The gangrene, canker, and other diseases arising from excessive moisture in the soil, which injure almost all kinds of useful plants.

4*th.*—The preservation and improvement of the races.—The selection for general sowing of the seeds of the best individuals of every species of cultivated plants, that is, the seeds of the individuals which best display the qualities for the sake of which the species was domesticated.

5*th.*—The intercrossing of races and varieties with the same object.

6*th.*—The ascertainment of the causes (with a view to remedy or prevention) of the sterility so often affecting plants either introduced from distant countries or brought from neighbouring jungles to be domesticated or otherwise cultivated under circumstances differing from those of their original habitats.

7*th.*—The same inquiry with reference to the wearing out, the deterioration, and sometimes even the disappearance of races of useful plants, circumstances which are constantly causing remark and regret.

8*th.*—The fertilization of our useful plants in the garden, the field, and the forest, by insects or other unintentional agency.

9*th.*—The structure and functions of plants.—The respiratory organs of plants which so essentially modify the fluids and the secretions, and which are so greatly affected by the extreme temperature, and the alterations of moisture and dryness in a tropical climate.

10*th.*—The circulation of the fluids in plants and the secretions connected therewith, the exudations of which (natural or artificial) supply so many articles of commerce; especially the milk-sap or lactic fluid, which, when thickened, gives such valuable products as opium, caoutchouc, and others.

11*th.*—The development of the stems of the endogenous and acrogenous plants which grow from the top, and their peculiar dichotomous branching—matters of particular interest in Bengal, so rich in palms and canes, in bamboos and grasses.

12*th.*—The growth of the trunks of the exogenous orders, which supply so many of the best timber trees of our forests, some members or species of which orders have trunks of abnormal structure, and sometimes have buttress-like excrescences which diminish the value of the timber.

13*th.*—The nutrition of plants from inorganic and organic substances.—The ascertaining whether any of the staples of our agriculture are deteriorating in quantity or quality, with reference to the yield at previous periods in this country or at the present time in other countries.

14*th.*—The consideration whether such deterioration, wherever it may exist, arises from the inorganic or organic elements being drawn away from the soil by the plants without being replaced naturally or artificially.

15*th.*—The inquiry whether, in any part of the country, this constant abstraction of nutritive elements from the soil is compensated by the action of any natural causes.

16*th.*—The consideration whether, in the absence of such natural compensation, any artificial substitutes can be found in substances within the reach of the peasantry which may serve the purpose of manures.

Without undertaking to say how far these various matters have been already subjected to scientific investigation, I find that upon many of them doubts or questions exist among the best and latest authorities; and, indeed, that upon many of them our knowledge is in these provinces quite defective is a fact but too well known to all who are interested in the progress of the country.

RESOLUTION ON THE BOARD'S REPORT ON THE LAND REVENUE ADMINISTRATION OF BENGAL FOR 1875-76.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.—LAND REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 30th September 1876.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Board's Report on the Land Revenue Administration of the Lower Provinces for the year 1875-76.

The land revenue administration of the year appears to have been marked by few measures of special interest or importance. The record is one of general progress and improvement; the revenue has been more punctually collected; several large settlements have been commenced or continued; the re-organization of the putwaree system has been inaugurated in Behar; and the ordinary work of the department has generally been efficiently conducted. But few changes, either executive or legislative, have been introduced.

2. The estates on the revenue-roll amounted to 151,548, being an increase of 1,362 over the figures of the preceding year. According to the four-fold division, of which the nature was explained in last year's report, the estates on the roll are classified as follows:—

		Number in 1874-75.	Number in 1875-76.
Permanently-settled estates	... ...	139,435	140,704
Temporarily „ „	... ...	8,219	8,286
Government estates	... ...	2,501	2,514
Ryotwari tracts	... ...	31	44
	Total ...	150,186	151,548

The increase is principally due to operations under the partition law, but some additions occurred from escheats and alluvial formations. It appears, however, that some corrections have still to be made in the present classification. The holdings in Calcutta, which are at present shown under the first class, should be transferred to the third, and it is manifestly incorrect that the estates in Noakholly, which are under farming settlements, should appear in the fourth class. These points will be corrected in next year's report.

3. The total demand of land revenue for the year was Rs. 3,86,08,769, of which Rs. 3,45,55,929 represent the current demand, and Rs. 40,52,840 the arrear demand due on account of previous years. The current demand, as compared with that of the previous year, shows an increase of Rs. 1,17,809 due to settlements of newly-acquired lands and to re-settlements of estates at enhanced rentals. This increase in the current revenue is somewhat larger than the average increase of previous years: in 1874-75 it amounted to Rs. 80,333, and in 1873-74 to Rs. 1,09,040, inclusive of the figures belonging to the province of Assam.

4. The collections of the current demand were Rs. 3,33,33,159, or 96·46 per cent., and of the arrear demand Rs. 35,70,074, or 88·08 per cent., were realized. The total collections during the year were consequently Rs. 3,69,03,233, or 95·58 per cent. of the total demand. Details of the collections in each district are given in appendix II of the report. The results were most satisfactory in the Burdwan and Patna Divisions, in which the percentages were 97·54 and 98·12 respectively; whereas in the Presidency Division they amounted to only 90·10, and in the Chittagong Division to only 90·66. In the previous year 1874-75 the collections of the current demand were 96·12 per cent., and of the arrear demand 65·26 per cent., the total collections amounting to 92·36 per cent. of the total demand. There is thus a marked improvement in the realizations of the year now under review.

5. The total remissions granted during the year amounted to Rs. 1,40,291, classified as shewn in the margin. About two-thirds of the whole amount belong to estates of the third and fourth classes. A sum of Rs. 18,485 represents remissions of the suspended balances of 1866 in Orissa. Deducting this amount from the remissions of grace, as not properly belonging to the transactions of the year, it appears that the actual remissions were Rs. 1,21,806, against Rs. 96,686 in the previous year. The increase in the year under review falls entirely under the head of remissions of right.

	Rs.
Nominal remissions ...	30,748
Remissions of right ...	45,349
Remissions of grace ...	64,194
Total ...	1,40,291

6. The total unrealized balance amounts to Rs. 15,65,245, or 4·05 per cent. of the year's demand. The corresponding figures for 1874-75 were Rs. 17,66,233, answering to 4·5 per cent. of the demand. It is satisfactory to find that, with an unusually large increase of the current demand, the actual amount of the balance, and the percentage of balance to the demand, shew a marked decrease. Of the total balance, Rs. 15,06,246 have already been recovered, or are in process of recovery, and only Rs. 58,999 are considered to be irrecoverable or doubtful.

7. When, however, the details of the balance are more closely examined, it is evident that full effect has not yet been given to the orders passed in the Resolution upon last year's report, which required district officers to use their best efforts to ensure greater punctuality in the collections from Government estates. The balances in permanently-settled estates are, as is generally the case, almost entirely due from estates under the Court of Wards; and only a trifling amount (if any) of these will have to be remitted. The collections in temporarily-settled estates show only a slight improvement compared with last year. In Government estates the percentage of balances, which was 33·52 in 1874-75, still stands at the high figure of 26·38, and in ryotwari tracts the balances are 19·87 of the demand. The explanations given in the report do not sufficiently account for these results in a year in which there was no pressure of famine or other public calamity; and the Lieutenant-Governor must repeat an expression of his desire that district officers will pay specially careful attention to this department of their duties. Any Collector who fails to realize at least 90 per cent. of the demand on Government estates in his district should be required to furnish a special explanation; and it is not sufficient to say, as one Collector does in this report, that the ryots were unwilling to pay in consequence of the cheapness of grain, or, with another Collector, that the realization of rents in Government estates is generally slow and dilatory. The Lieutenant-Governor must now ask for a special report from the Board by as early a date as possible, regarding the progress made in the realization of these arrears up to the present time. He hopes that this report will show that greater punctuality is being secured.

8. Only ten Government estates, bearing a jumma of Rs. 644, were sold during the year for a total sum of Rs. 2,179, and the sales were confined to the Dacca and Presidency Divisions. A list of Government estates to be recommended for sale, on the principle noticed in the 9th paragraph of the Resolution on last year's report, is now under preparation in the Board's office. Some plots of relinquished railway lands were also sold during the year.

9. The management of Government estates on the tehsildari system is in force in 15 districts, and the working of the plan is in general favorably reported on by the local officers, especially in Julpigoree, Darjeeling, Chittagong, and Lohardugga. The results in Shahabad and Hooghly were very unsatisfactory, the balances in those two districts amounting to no less than Rs. 39,992 out of a total demand of Rs. 64,037. The total charges of collection in all Government estates under direct management amounted to only 5·8 per cent. on the revenue realized.

10. The number of settlements completed during the year was 618, of which 10 were original settlements, 261 were re-settlements, and 347 were summary settlements. The total increase of revenue was Rs. 34,046. The most important settlements were in Midnapore, Julpigoree, Chittagong, Backergunge, and Pooree. In Midnapore the settlement of the Jallamoota and Majnamoota estates will be completed during the current year, and is expected to result in an increase of Rs. 1,33,000, though it is not clear from the report whether this is gross rental on Government revenue. It is apprehended, however, that there will be difficulty in inducing the ryots to accept the enhanced rates. In Julpigoree considerable progress was made in the settlement of the Western Dooars, but the work had to be suspended owing to the insufficiency of budget funds to complete it. The operations now in progress in Chittagong include the re-settlement of the Noabad estates and the definition of the boundary between the Hill Tracts and the Regulation District. A very large increase of revenue is anticipated from these re-settlements, but the operations involve great labour, and some years will be required for their completion. In Backergunge the most important work was the re-settlement of the large Government estate of Tooshkhali, which is not yet finished. In Pooree the survey and re-settlement of the Khoordáh estate was commenced during the last quarter of the year. This settlement is expected to occupy four years, and to produce an increased revenue of fully a lakh of rupees. The settlement of the Sonthal Pergunnahs, which is a work of great magnitude and interest, is not noticed in the report, as it is not under the supervision of the Board of Revenue. Separate orders upon this settlement have already been recorded by the Lieutenant-Governor.

11. The settlement work in the Patna Division is noticed in the report as not having made satisfactory progress, and it should now receive the special attention of the Commissioner. The Lieutenant-Governor desires a special report from the Board shewing progress up to date. He hopes that this report will shew that the want of progress has been remedied. In the remaining division the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to observe that a fair amount of work was done, especially in the Presidency, the Rajshahye, and the Dacca Divisions. There is probably no department of a revenue officer's duties which is of more value to himself, to the Government, and to the cultivating classes of the community. It gives the settling officer an accurate knowledge of the land tenures, the capabilities and the economic condition of his district; it benefits the Government by an increase of the land revenue, while it confers on the agricultural classes the boon of a permanent record of their several rights. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that care is taken that all revenue officers, of whatever grade, shall have an opportunity of making themselves practically acquainted with the details of this important branch of administration.

12. In the Resolution upon last year's report, the Lieutenant-Governor was compelled to notice the fact that the fund for the improvement of Government estates had been very imperfectly utilized. This was not the case in the year now under review, the disbursements having been very considerable. Some difficulty still appears to be felt in complying with the rule that the funds raised on each estate must be laid out for the benefit of that particular estate. The Lieutenant-Governor, while maintaining the general principle of this rule, so far as it may be practicable to do so, would not desire that the rule should be so rigidly interpreted as to be an obstruction to useful expenditure, and he would allow the Commissioner to exercise a certain discretion in determining the objects to which the fund shall be devoted.

13. The paragraphs of the report which deal with the subjects of irrigation and embankments will be considered by the Lieutenant-Governor in the Irrigation Branch of the Department of Public Works.

14. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to find that the favorable opinion which was expressed last year of the usefulness of the subordinate executive establishments is repeated in the present report. With scarcely an exception the divisional and district officers consider the services of these establishments to be of great value, and to supply a want which has been long felt in the Lower Provinces. Some alterations in the system of appointing and promoting sub-deputies and canoongoes are suggested in the report; but as new rules on the subject have recently been issued, the Lieutenant-Governor does not consider that any changes are required at present.

15. Under Regulation VIII of 1800, 6,403 applications for the registration of mutation of names were decided during the year. It is universally admitted that the number of applications bears a very small proportion to the transfers actually made. The recent enactment on the subject—Act VII (B.C.) of 1876—will entirely change the present system, both by prescribing suitable penalties for neglect to register, and by requiring the extent of each proprietor's interest to be separately entered; so that the register (it is hoped) will supply a record of landed property and its owners in Bengal far more complete than has hitherto been attempted to be made. The Lieutenant-Governor has fixed the 1st November 1876 as the date on or before which applications for registry must be made, and steps have been taken for the issue of the necessary notices and for the distribution of forms of application.

16. Of 4,309 estates and shares in estates which became liable to sale for arrears of revenue, 591 estates and 53 shares, or rather more than one-seventh of the whole number, were actually sold at prices which average about nine times the Government demand. In eight cases the sales were annulled on appeal, and in four more cases the sale was cancelled by Government on the recommendation of the Board. The large proportion of exemptions is sufficient evidence of the leniency with which the law has been enforced, and in fact it appears to be an unusual thing for an estate to be sold except by the wish of its proprietors, or at least of some one of them. The number of separate accounts opened under Act XI of 1859 was 906, of which 819 were under section 10, and 87 under section 11 of the Act. It is suggested by one Collector that the large fee levied upon these transactions tends to discourage applications, but the true explanation is no doubt that given by the Collector of Backergunge, that the paucity of cases is due to the condition that the applicant, for opening a separate account, must be a recorded sharer, and that at present the great majority of proprietors are not recorded in the Collector's books. It may be confidently expected that one effect of the new Registration Act will be a large increase in the number of applications for the opening of separate accounts.

17. The partition cases disposed of during the year were 366, of which nearly five-sixths belonged to the Patna and Bhagulpore Divisions. The arrears of these cases are heavy, as no less than 1,373 partitions, many of them of several years' standing, remained for disposal in these two divisions. In the Dacca Division 22 cases were disposed of and 86 remained pending, and some of these are stated to have been instituted upwards of half a century ago. The urgent necessity for an improved procedure in partition suits has long been manifest, and if the Bill on the subject which has passed the Bengal Legislative Council should become law, it is hoped that future progress will be much facilitated, and many difficulties will be removed.

18. The cases of redemption of land revenue were few and unimportant. Redemption is permitted only in petty estates in Chittagong, with a revenue of less than one rupee, and in tenures held direct from Government in Calcutta, the Suburbs, and Chinsurah. The rate of redemption is fixed in all cases at 25 years' purchase of the Government revenue or rental, and this rate is practically found to be almost prohibitory. Only four estates and 38 holdings were redeemed during the year.

19. The area of lands taken up for public purposes during the year amounted to 3,286 acres, which were acquired at a cost of Rs. 10,14,509. The value of land in Calcutta is strikingly illustrated by the fact that the plots acquired for the Calcutta Port Trust, amounting to less than 12 acres, cost very nearly 5 lakhs of rupees. Nearly a lakh of rupees was expended for lands required for irrigation projects. Some defects in the working of the law are noticed in the report, and will be duly considered in the event of a revision of the Act being undertaken. Amended rules for the instruction of district officers in the conduct of operations under the Act have been prepared by the Board of Revenue.

20. There were no sales of waste lands during the year. A number of leases, partly for tea-planting and partly for ordinary agricultural cultivation, were granted in Julpigoree under the new rules promulgated for lease-hold tenures in the Western Dooars. It is remarked in the report that some applications for lands in Lohardugga were complied with after the close of the year, but the Lieutenant-Governor is not aware of the terms upon which these grants have been made, and he would request to be furnished with a report on the subject before final orders are passed.

21. An interesting section of the report is devoted to the subject of the number of notices of enhancement and relinquishment issued during the year. Notices of the former class showed a marked decrease as compared with the figures of 1874-75, while the number of relinquishment notices varied very little from the preceding year's returns. The relations between landlords and tenants are still reported to be unsatisfactory, especially in the eastern districts; and if no actual outbreak occurred during the year, this appears to be due to the fact that both the parties to the dispute are in expectation of an early settlement of the points in issue by the action of the legislature. An application which has lately been made for the introduction of the Agrarian Disputes' Act into an estate in Noakholly is now under the Lieutenant-Governor's consideration. The difficulty felt in collecting rents in Noakholly is noticed by the Commissioner of Chittagong, but his remark that certain portions of an estate under the Court of Wards will shortly be leased out in talook at fixed rates, simply because of the recusancy of the tenantry, seems to call for some further explanation. The creation of permanent under-tenures in a Ward's estate is a measure which can only be authorized under circumstances of urgent and exceptional necessity.

22. In the nine districts in which rent suits are still decided by revenue officers under Act X of 1859, the cases instituted were somewhat more numerous than in the previous year, but not so as to call for any special remarks. In Chota Nagpore proprietors are stated to find it altogether impracticable to obtain exhancements of rents, and some other provisions of the rent-law have been found inapplicable to the circumstances of the province. The introduction of a special rent-law for Chota Nagpore is under consideration.

23. The inspection of treasuries and offices is reported to have been carefully attended to in the great majority of districts. But the Lieutenant-Governor is compelled to remark that instances of laxity of supervision and of inattention to rules have from time to time been brought to the notice of Government, which not only show the necessity for a continuance of the strictest vigilance and carefulness, but indicate that, in some cases at least, the duty of inspection was not completely and efficiently performed.

24. The working of the system of sub-divisional treasuries continued to be satisfactory. It is complained of by some officers on account of the increased work which it involves; but there can be no doubt of its great convenience both to the Government and to the general public. The amounts of receipts and disbursements were much below those of the previous year, owing to the large transactions which took place in 1874-75 connected with the scarcity in that year.

25. The records, both English and Vernacular, are stated to be in good order, except in a very few districts in which measures are being taken to correct mistakes and to supply deficiencies.

26. The Member in charge has expressed himself generally satisfied with the manner in which Commissioners of Divisions have conducted their duties during the year. The Lieutenant-Governor notes that special commendation is stated to be due to Messrs. Bayley, Barlow, F. R. Cockerell, Metcalfe, Peacock, and Ravenshaw, and to Lord H. Ulick Browne. The covenanted and uncovenanted officers mentioned in the 170th paragraph of the report are also commended for their efficient performance of their duties. To the Member in charge, Mr. V. H. Schalch, the thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are due for the care and ability with which he has supervised the land revenue administration of the year, and for the assistance he has rendered to Government upon many questions, both executive and legislative, connected with the working of the department over which he presides.

Presidency Div. 9	Moorshedabad, „ 7, „	Nil	Weather—Hot and clear; the mornings are beginning to be colder. A little more rain is wanted in the higher tracts of Rampore Haut. A few heavy showers in the middle of the month would secure a fine crop.
Rajshahye Div. 10	Dinagepore, „ 6, „	5·92	Weather—Hot. Very heavy rain fell on the night of the 30th September. The rainfall at Roygunge is 7·73 inches. The prospects of the crops are very favourable. Much fever prevails.

For the last four days the sky has been clear, and the weather hot, and the nights chilly, with heavy dew. The prospects of the winter rice are generally good, but more rain is required to ensure a good harvest, especially in those parts where the rapid recession of the inundation water made the cultivators fee uneasy. Sugarcane, mulberry, and til (sesamum), promise well. Lands are being prepared for the rubbee crops, and kalai is being sown. Fever is very prevalent everywhere, and there have been a few cases of cholera in the Nattore sub-division.

In Bagdogra the rainfall is 4·24 inches, and the prospects of amun continue excellent. In Kurigram 5·56 has fallen, and the prospects are much better than at the time of last report, though the crop will still be a short one. The registered rainfall at Ojibanda is 2·22 inches.

	27	Gya, „ 7, „	1·71	Weather—On the whole cool and pleasant. All cause for anxiety regarding the khareef has been removed. Good accounts received from all parts of the district. The outturn of makai in Nowada reported as only twelve annas, the crop having suffered from want of rain at the beginning of the season. Fever has abated in Jehanabad. [In the report of 30th September from this district, published in last Gazette, for "heavy and apparently general rain fell every morning, and above 4 inches have been reported during the week" read "heavy and apparently general rain fell all morning over and above the 4 inches reported."]
	28	Shahabad, „ 7, „	1 13	Weather—Cloudy and hot. There has been very general and in most places very heavy rain. Aghani is looking well, and there is moisture sufficient for the rubbee crops. Public health is good.
	29	Durbhunga, „ 7, „	·34	Weather—Cool; sometimes cloudy. The bhadoi harvest in Tajpore is reported by the sub-divisional officer to have been a fourteen-anna crop. The prospects of the aghani crop are good everywhere.
	30	Muzufferpore, „ 7, „	·27	Weather—Cloudy. In the Hajeepore sub-division 2·77 inches of rain fell during the week, and the prospects are good. In the Seetamurhee sub-division the fall has been 46, and the prospects are everywhere good. The sowings of the cold-weather crops have not yet commenced on account of excessive moisture in the soil. The prospects are also good in the sudder sub-division.
	31	Sarun, „ 7, „	1·40	There was rain on the 7th instant; 5·63 inches fell at Sewan, and 5·61 inches at Gopalgunge. The bhadoi harvest is nearly completed, and the aghani rice is generally doing well. Fields are being prepared for poppy and the rubbee crops. Cholera has disappeared.
	32	Chumparun, „ 6, „	1 80	There has been ample rain everywhere, and the prospects of the crops are excellent.

* Telegram of the 9th October, received on the same day, shows rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

No.	District and date of return.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather, state and prospects of the crops, and state of health at date.
	BEHAR.—(Contd.)
Bhagulpore Divn. 33	Monghyr, Oct. 7, '76	4·7	Weather—Cloudy. The rainfall at Begusarai has been 2·33. The year hitherto has been remarkably bountiful. The bhadoi was good, and it was followed by unusually good mokua and many other crops (important food-staples in this district). The rice prospects at present are all that can be desired. The only cause which the ryot now has for grumbling is the low price offered for his grain.
Bhagulpore Divn. 34	Bhagulpore, „ 9,* „	3·01	Weather—Strong east wind with heavy rain on the 8th instant. 2·55 of rain has fallen at Banka up to 7th, and the aghani rice is now ensured as a bumper crop, though complaints are being made of too much rain. ·34 is registered at Soopole, but very heavy rain has fallen in the Naradigur thana during the last ten days. The river Dimrah is in full flood, and the country is under water. The sub-divisional officer says that even the cultivators are satisfied. ·86 is reported from Mudehpoorah, where the aghani crops are excellent in all parts. All this heavy late rain will enable the rubbee prospects to commence particularly well. The fall in the prices in the north of the district is remarkable. General health is very good.
Bhagulpore Divn. 35	Purneah, „ 7, „	2·41	Weather—Cloudy; more rain threatening. The rain at Kissengunge has been 1·23 and at Arrareah 1·04. The prospects are all that can be desired.
Bhagulpore Divn. 36	Sonthal Perghs. „ 8, „	1·19	Weather—Cloudy and hot. The crops are favourable. It has been raining since the 7th instant; and if the rain continues longer it will do injury to existing crops, and retard the preparation of the land for the cold-weather sowings. 1·92 of rain fell at Deoghur and 1·2 at Rajmehal.
	ORISSA.
Orissa Divn. 37	Cuttack, Oct. 7, '76	·93	There has been very little rain till the 6th instant. The 6th and 7th were very wet and stormy. The crops are progressing favourably. Bialí is being cut with a good outturn. Public health is good.

Orissa Divn. 39	Balasore, „ 6, „	1·51	The rainfall has been moderate and the wind variable. The earliest kinds of rice are in an advanced state, and the crops generally are very promising. Health of the district is good.
	CHOTA NAGPORE.
	South-Western Frontier Agency.
40	Hazareebagh, Oct. 6, '76	1·14	Weather—Seasonable. The prospects of the crops continue to be favourable.
41	Lohardugga, „ 7, „	·68	Weather—Seasonable. The prospects are most favourable, and an excellent late rice harvest is looked for. Cholera has now almost disappeared.
42	Singbhoom, „ 6, „	·13	Weather—Seasonable. The prospects of the crops are still very favourable. The district is reported healthy.
43	Manbhoom, „ 7, „	1·29	Weather—Seasonable. The prospects could not be better as far as the principal crop is concerned. The Indian-corn and gundli are reported to be poor.

* Telegram of the 9th October, received on the same day, shows rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

The mean barometer, as likewise the dry and wet bulb thermometer means, are derived from the twenty-four hourly observations made during the day.

The dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants. The figures in column 10 represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity. The receiver of the lower rain-gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the anemometer 70 feet 10 inches above the level of the ground. The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

The mean barometer, as likewise the dry and wet bulb thermometer means, are derived from the twenty-four hourly observations made during the day.

The dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants. The figures in column 10 represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity. The receiver of the lower rain-gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the anemometer 70 feet 10 inches above the level of the ground The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

The partition of any estate which shall be pending at the time of the commencement of this Act shall (except as provided in the next succeeding section) proceed and be completed in the same manner as if this Act had not been passed.

Certain provisions of Act applicable to partition cases pending at the time of its commencement.

3. The provisions of this Act, so far as they relate to the continuation of a partition from the point which it has reached, or to the staying of the partition of an estate, or to striking a partition case off the file, may be applied, at the discretion of the Collector, in all cases of partition of estates pending at the time of the commencement of this Act, provided that before applying such provisions to the continuation of a partition the Collector give due notice in each case to the parties concerned that such provisions will be applied.

Revenue to be assessed on each separate estate.

7. Except as hereinafter otherwise expressly provided, the average of the amount of rent which was payable for any land by the cultivating ryots during the three years immediately preceding the year in which proceedings are taken under this Act for the partition of the estate shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the rental of such land; and if any land is not let, but is held and occupied directly by the proprietors or any of them, the annual rent for which such land might reasonably be expected to let shall be deemed to be the rental of such land.

Exception 1.—If the rent payable by the cultivating ryots on account of any land shall have been determined by any Court of competent jurisdiction, or shall have been altered with the consent of the said ryots at any time during the said three years, the amount so determined, or the amount to which the rent may have been so altered, may, if the Collector think proper, be deemed to be the rental of the land.

Exception 2.—If any land is held on a permanent tenure which was created by all the proprietors of the estate, and which by any law for the time being in force is protected against the purchaser at a sale for arrears of revenue, the rent payable by the holder of such tenure shall be deemed to be the rental of such land.

Exception 3.—If any land is held on a tenure which, although not protected as aforesaid, is admitted by all the recorded proprietors of the estate to be a permanent tenure created by all the proprietors of the estate, subject only to the payment of an amount of rent fixed in perpetuity, and of such nature that the rent thereof is not liable to be enhanced under any circumstances by the proprietors of the said estate, or any person deriving his title from such proprietors, the rent payable by the holder of such tenure (whether he be known as talukdar, patnidar, mokarraridar, or by any other designation) shall be deemed to be the rental of such land.

Exception 4.—If any land be unoccupied, such amount as the Collector may determine, with reference to all the circumstances of the case, shall be deemed to be the rental of such land.

PART II.

OF THE RIGHT TO CLAIM PARTITION.

Who entitled to claim partition.

8. Except as hereinafter otherwise provided, every recorded proprietor of a joint undivided estate, who is in actual possession of the interest in respect of which he is so recorded, is entitled to claim a partition of the said estate, and the separation therefrom and assignment to him as a separate estate of lands representing the interest of which he is in such possession, provided that, and as far only as, such partition, separation, and assignment can be made in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

Any two or more such recorded proprietors may claim that lands representing the interests of all such claimants may be formed into one separate estate to be held by them as a joint undivided estate; and every provision of this Act which applies to an applicant for partition shall apply to any two or more persons making such joint claim.

Partition according to interest.

9. (a) If the interest of any recorded proprietor who is entitled to claim partition as aforesaid is an undivided share in an estate held in common tenancy, such person shall be entitled to have assigned to him as his separate estate lands of which the assets shall bear the same proportion to the assets of the parent estate as his undivided share in the parent estate bears to the entire parent estate.

(b) If the interest of such recorded proprietor is the proprietary right of certain specific mouzahs or lands forming part of the parent estate, and held by him in severalty, he shall be entitled to have assigned to him as his separate estate the said mouzahs or lands.

(c) If the interest of such recorded proprietor consists of an undivided share held in common tenancy in certain specific mouzahs or tracts forming part of the parent estate, but not extending over the whole area of the parent estate, he shall be entitled to have assigned to him as his separate estate lands situated within such specific mouzahs or tracts, of which the assets shall bear the same proportion to the assets of such specific mouzahs or tracts as his undivided share in such specific mouzahs or tracts bears to the entire mouzahs or tracts.

Provided that if the interest of such recorded proprietor consists of such undivided share in more than one mouzah or tract, he shall not be entitled to have lands assigned to him in every such mouzah or tract, but the Collector may assign to him as his separate estate lands situated in any one or more of the said mouzahs or tracts, provided that the assets of such lands are in proportion to the aggregate of the interests which he holds in all such mouzahs or tracts.

(d) If such recorded proprietor holds in the parent estate more than one of the kinds of interest specified in this section, lands shall be assigned to him as far as possible in accordance with the principles above laid down.

Life estate.

10. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, no person having a proprietary interest in an estate for the term of his life only shall be deemed to be a person entitled to claim partition under this Act.

No partition of a permanently-settled estate allowed if separate estate liable for less than one rupee annual land revenue until proprietor agrees to redeem.

11. No application for the partition of a permanently settled estate shall be admitted, and if the application shall have been admitted, no partition shall be carried out in accordance with such application, if the separate estate of any of the proprietors would be liable for an annual amount of land revenue not exceeding one rupee, until the proprietor of such separate estate agrees to redeem the amount of revenue for which his estate would be liable, by payment of such sum as the Lieutenant-Governor may fix with reference to the circumstances of such estate.

Partition of an estate in which private division has been made, not to be made except on joint petition of proprietors or on order of Civil Court.

12. Whenever a division of the lands of any estate has been made by private arrangement of the proprietors thereof, and in accordance with such arrangement each proprietor is in possession of separate lands held in severalty as representing his interest in the estate, no such estate shall be brought under partition and no partition of such estate shall be made under this Act otherwise than on a joint petition presented under section one hundred and one or section one hundred and five by all the proprietors thereof, unless such partition shall have been ordered to be made by a Civil Court.

Under certain circumstances Collector may refuse to declare lands held in severalty to be a separate estate.

13. The Collector may refuse to admit an application for the formation of lands held in severalty into a separate estate, if in consequence of such lands being intermingled with those held by other proprietors the result of the partition would be to form out of a compact estate one or more estates consisting of scattered parcels of land, in such a way as, in the opinion of the Collector, to endanger the safety of the land revenue, and the Collector may at any time refuse to proceed with a partition which would have such a result.

But a partition may be allowed in such a case if the recorded proprietors shall agree to such a distribution of land as shall make the estates formed by the partition reasonably compact.

Nothing in this section shall be understood to prohibit the partition into separate estates of a parent estate which before such partition is not compact and consists only of scattered parcels of land.

14. No proprietor who has alienated any portion of his interest in an estate or in any specific lands of an estate, by private contract, with the condition that the transferee shall be liable in respect of the interest acquired by him to pay a specified amount or a specified share of the land revenue for which the estate is liable (such amount or share being other than the proportionate amount or the proportionate share for which such transferred interest if formed into a separate estate would be liable under the provisions of section six) ;

Interest alienated with special condition as to revenue liability.

and no proprietor who has derived his title from any proprietor who has made any alienation as aforesaid, shall be entitled to claim a separation under this Act of the interest which he continues to hold in the estate;

and no such transferee as aforesaid, and no person deriving his title from such transferee, shall be entitled to claim a separation of the interest which has been so acquired:

Provided that a separation of such interests may be made, if the parties concerned agree to waive the conditions of the contract as regards the proportion of revenue for which the transferor and transferee or their representatives respectively are liable, and to hold the estates which may be allotted to them respectively by the partition, subject to the payment of such amount of land revenue as may be assessed upon them respectively by the revenue authorities, under his Act.

15. Notwithstanding that a parent estate may have been declared to be under partition as provided in section thirty-one, any arrears of revenue accruing due on such estate before the date specified in the notice issued under section one hundred and twenty-three may be realized by sale of the parent estate as if such estate had not been declared to be under partition; and if such sale takes place the partition proceedings shall cease from the date thereof.

Arrears of revenue may be realized by sale of parent estate.

16. Nothing contained in the last preceding section shall be deemed to affect the provisions of sections 10, 11, 12, 13, or 14 of Act XI of 1859 (an Act to improve the law relating to sales of lands for arrears of revenue), or any provisions of any similar law for the time being in force in respect to the opening of separate accounts for different shares in an estate, and the protection afforded to such shares thereby:

Shares may be protected from liability for arrears under laws in force

Provided that if any share in any estate is sold for its own arrears of revenue while such estate is under partition in accordance with the provisions of this Act, such share shall be sold subject to the partition proceedings, which shall proceed as if no such sale had taken place; and the purchaser of the share sold may, from the date of such sale, exercise all the rights which the proprietor whose share he has purchased might have exercised, and shall be subject to all the liabilities to which such proprietor would have been subject, in respect of the partition proceedings.

PART III.

OF THE APPLICATION FOR PARTITION; THE ADMISSION OF AN ESTATE TO PARTITION; AND THE DISCONTINUANCE OF THE PARTITION PROCEEDINGS AFTER SUCH ADMISSION.

17. All applications for partition shall be made to the Collector of the district on the revenue-roll of which the estate is borne, and shall be made in person or by duly authorized agent, on paper bearing such stamp as may be required by any law for the time being in force.

Application for partition to be made to Collector of the district.

18. The application shall be signed by the applicant, and shall supply the following information in regard to the parent estate, so far as the particulars are known to the applicant or can be ascertained by him:—

Application to be signed, and certain particulars specified.

(a) name of the estate;

(b) number under which the estate is borne on the revenue-roll, and the revenue demand for which it is liable;

(c) number under which the estate is borne on the Collector's General Register of revenue-paying lands;

(d) name and address of every proprietor, whether recorded or unrecorded;

(e) the character and extent of the interest of which each proprietor is in possession;

(f) a specification of any lands held by all or any of the proprietors of the parent estate in common with all or any of the proprietors of other estates, and of the rights of such proprietors respectively in such lands.

19. Subject to the provisions of section sixty-one, every application shall, if possible, be accompanied by a copy of the rent-roll of the estate, by a statement of the rents collected from such estate on behalf of the applicant during each of the three years immediately preceding such application, and by copies of any measurement papers of the estate which the applicant may have in his possession.

Application must be accompanied by copy of rent-roll and statement of rents.

The said rent-roll, statement, and measurement papers shall be attested by the patwaris of the villages, if any, and every such application, rent-roll, and statement shall be presented, subscribed, and verified as provided in section fifty-two.

If the applicant is unable to produce a rent-roll or statement as above required, he shall state the reason of such inability, and the name and address of the person who has in his possession the information necessary for the preparation of such rent-roll and statement, and the Collector may, if he shall think fit, require such person to produce such rent-roll and statement.

20. If the application does not fulfil the requirements of the three last preceding sections, the Collector may reject such application or may order it to be amended.

Collector may reject application

21. If, in the opinion of the Collector, the application fulfils the said requirements and there appears to be no objection to making the partition, the Collector shall publish a Procedure of Collector on receipt of application.

notification of the application in the manner prescribed in section one hundred and thirty-four and shall also cause copies thereof to be posted up at the Court of the Judge of the district, at the court of every Munsif and Sub-divisional Officer within whose jurisdiction, and at every Police Station within the jurisdiction of which any lands appertaining to the estate are known to be situated, and shall invite any person claiming any proprietary right in the estate, who may object to the partition, to state his objection either in person or by duly authorized agent, on a day to be specified in the notification, not being less than thirty or more than sixty days from the date of the publication of the notification on the estate

Notice to proprietors who have not joined therein.

22. Notice of the application shall also be served in the manner prescribed by section one hundred and thirty-five on such of the recorded proprietors of the estate as shall not have joined in the application, and on any other proprietor who may have been named in the application.

In case of valid objection being made within time allowed, application may be refused.

23. If any objection be made to the partition by any person claiming a proprietary right as aforesaid on or before the day specified in the notification published under section twenty-one, or at any subsequent time if it shall seem fit to the Collector to admit such objection, and the Collector, on consideration of such objection, shall be of opinion that there is good and sufficient reason for rejecting the application, he may reject the same, and in that case shall record the grounds of such rejection.

Procedure when objection raises any question of title or right

24. If the objection raises any question of the extent of interest, or of right or title as between any applicant and any other person claiming to be a proprietor of the parent estate, and if it shall appear to the Collector that such question has not been already determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction, the Collector may hold such inquiry as he may deem necessary into the objection, and, if he be satisfied that the applicant is in possession of the extent of the interest for the separation of which he has applied, may, instead of rejecting the application as provided in the last preceding section,

(a) direct that the partition proceedings shall proceed for the purpose of forming and assigning to the applicant a separate estate in accordance with the extent of interest claimed by him in the parent estate; or

(b) direct that such proceedings be postponed for four months.

When Collector to resume proceedings

25. At the expiration of the said four months, the Collector shall resume the proceedings, unless the person who has made the objection, or some other person, shall have obtained an order from a Civil Court directing that such proceedings be stayed, or shall be able to show that a suit has been instituted before such Court to try some question, of such nature that the Collector shall think fit to stay the proceedings until the question shall have been finally decided, or until the proceedings in such Court in respect thereof shall have terminated.

Suit in Civil Court when not to affect proceedings taken under this Act

26. No suit instituted in a Civil Court by any person claiming any right or title in the parent estate, after the lapse of four months from the issue of an order of the Collector under clauses (a) and (b) of section twenty-four, or after the lapse of four months from the issue of an order of the Collector under section thirty-one declaring the estate to be under partition, shall avail to stay or affect the progress of any proceedings which shall have been taken under this Act for the partition of an estate; and all rights which may be conferred on any person by the final decree in such suit shall be subject to such proceedings in the manner hereinafter provided.

Decree made while partition proceedings are in progress.

27. Every decree passed in such suit after the parent estate shall have been declared to be under partition as provided in section thirty-one, but before the date specified in the notice under section one hundred and twenty-three, shall be made in recognition of the proceedings then in progress under this Act for the partition of such parent estate, and shall be framed in such manner that the provisions of such decree may be applied to, and may be carried out in reference to the separate estates which the Collector in his proceeding under section thirty-one shall have ordered to be formed out of the parent estate;

and if the effect of any such decree be to declare any person or body of persons entitled to any extent of interest in such parent estate in excess of the extent of interest which the Collector in the said proceeding has declared to be held by such person or body of persons, such decree shall specify, separately in respect of every proprietor or body of proprietors of whose interests the Collector has separately specified the extent in the said proceeding, the proportion of such excess which such person or body of persons is entitled to recover from every such proprietor or body of proprietors;

and every person or body of persons so declared entitled to recover any extent of interest from any such proprietor or body of proprietors shall, for the purposes of the partition proceedings, be deemed to have the same rights, and to be subject to the same liabilities, as a person who has acquired such extent of interest from such proprietor or body of proprietors by private purchase after the estate was brought under partition under section thirty-one, and on the date on which the decree was passed;

and such person or body of persons may apply, as in this Act provided, for the separation and assignment to him, or them, of the lands representing the extent of interest so acquired;

and such application shall be dealt with as provided in section thirty-two.

Decree made after partition proceedings completed.

28. Every decree passed after the date specified in the notice under section one hundred and twenty-three, in a suit which was instituted as mentioned in section twenty-six, shall be made in recognition of the partition proceedings, and shall be framed in such manner as to give effect to such division of the parent estate into separate estates as shall have been made by the Collector, and not to disturb such division; and if the effect of any such decree shall be to declare any person or body of persons to have been entitled to any extent of interest in the parent estate in excess of the extent of interest which is represented by the separate estate assigned to such person or body of persons by the Collector in the partition proceedings, such decree shall specify, separately in respect of the proprietor or joint proprietors of every separate estate formed by the partition, the proportion of such excess of interest which such person or body of persons is entitled to recover from such proprietor or joint proprietors; and every person or body of persons so declared entitled to recover any extent of interest from the proprietor or joint proprietors of a separate estate shall be entitled to recover such extent of interest out of the separate estate which has been assigned to such proprietor or joint proprietors, and out of such separate estate only;

and every such decree as aforesaid shall be executed by placing the person or persons so declared entitled to recover, in the position of a recorded joint proprietor or recorded joint proprietors of such separate estate, holding the same as a joint undivided estate in common tenancy with the proprietor or joint proprietors to whom such separate estate was assigned by the Collector in the partition proceedings, the extent of the interest of the joint proprietors respectively in such estate being such as is declared in the aforesaid decree.

Civil Court may order partition.

29. Subject to the provisions of section eleven, a Civil Court may at any time direct the Collector to assign to any person lands representing a specified interest in any estate or in any specified village or tract of land in an estate, to be held by such person as a separate estate, or to divide off from any estate any specified villages or lands, and to assign them to any person to be held as a separate estate, provided that an application for such partition and separation shall be presented by such person, as required by sections seventeen, eighteen, and nineteen; but no Civil Court shall in any case specify the amount of revenue for which any separate estate which it may direct to be formed under the provisions of this section shall be liable.

Collector to assess land revenue in accordance with this Act.

30. The Collector shall assess the land revenue on every such separate estate in accordance with the provisions of this Act, and no Civil Court shall direct the Collector to carry out at partition otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

Collector may declare the estate to be under partition.

31. If no objection be made within the time allowed under section twenty-one to an application for partition, or when all objections have been disposed of, and if the Collector has no reason to believe that any obstacle exists to his making the partition as applied for, he shall direct that the application be admitted, and record a proceeding declaring the estate to be under partition, for the purpose of forming and assigning to the applicant a separate estate.

In such proceeding the Collector shall declare the extent of interest in the parent estate which he finds to be held by the applicant, or joint applicants; and, if more than one separate application for separation shall have been made and admitted, the extent of interest which he finds to be held by every separate applicant, or body of joint applicants, respectively;

and also the extent of interest which remains to any recorded proprietor, or to any number of recorded proprietors who are not applicants;

and shall order that lands proportionate to the interest so declared to be held by each applicant, or body of joint applicants, respectively, shall be formed into a separate estate, to be assigned to such applicant, or body of joint applicants;

and that lands proportionate to the interest so declared to remain to the recorded proprietor, or the number of recorded proprietors who are not applicants, shall be left forming a separate estate.

Subsequent application for separation of another share.

32. If at any time after the Collector has made an order for partition under the last preceding section, any recorded proprietor in the estate, other than the original applicant, shall apply for the separation of his share, the Collector may either order that the proceedings for effecting such separation shall be carried on simultaneously with those for separating the share of the original applicant, or if he consider that such a course would entail delay in the completion of the original proceedings, he may order that no action shall be taken on such subsequent application until after the proceedings for the separation of the original applicant's share shall have been completed.

In the latter case all or any of the rent-rolls, measurements, and other papers which were used in the separation of the original applicant's share, may be used, as far as they are applicable, in the partition for which subsequent application has been made.

Collector may refer application for partition to any Deputy Collector.

33. The Collector may refer any application for partition to a Deputy Collector for the purpose of making any enquiries, and doing anything required by this Part; provided that every order—

(a) rejecting an application under section twenty-three;

(b) directing, under section twenty-four, that the partition shall proceed, or shall be postponed;

(c) directing, under section thirty-one, that an application for partition be admitted, and declaring an estate to be under partition;

(d) made under the first clause of the last preceding section;

(e) appointing a Deputy Collector under the next succeeding section to carry out the partition;

shall be passed by the Collector and not by any Deputy Collector.

As soon as estate declared to be under partition, Collector may appoint Deputy Collector.

34. As soon as the Collector has declared an estate to be under partition as provided in section thirty-one, he may appoint a Deputy Collector to carry out the partition and all or any of the proceedings necessary thereto.

35. If at any time after an order shall have been passed for making a partition all the recorded proprietors of the estate shall present a petition to the effect that they do not wish the partition to proceed, the Collector may, on the report of the Deputy Collector or otherwise, strike the partition case off the file, on payment by the proprietors of all costs and expenses incurred in and about such partition; and any such costs and expenses which shall not already have been levied as provided in section thirty-nine or section forty, shall be levied in proportion to the shares of the respective proprietors.

Partition may be stayed if parties so desire. Recovery of costs.

36. If at any time after an order shall have been passed for making a partition, it shall appear from information which was not before the Collector at the time the partition was ordered, or otherwise, that any sufficient reason exists, why the partition should not be proceeded with, the Commissioner may, on the report of the Collector or otherwise, after issuing a notice calling on the persons interested to show cause why the partition should not be struck off the file, and after considering any objections which may be made, order the partition case to be struck off the file; and in such case any costs and expenses of the partition which shall not already have been levied as provided in section thirty-nine or section forty shall levied in proportion to the shares of the respective proprietors.

Partition may be stayed and proceedings quashed by Commissioner.

OF ESTABLISHMENTS FOR EFFECTING PARTITIONS AND OF THE COST THEREOF.

37. For the purposes of this Act, the Deputy Collector may, with the approval of the Collector, and subject to any rules made in that behalf by the Board, appoint such establishments as may be required for making the measurement and survey of lands, for ascertaining and recording the rates of rent, for making any other local enquiries, for the preparation of the papers and for other matters in each case; and the Collector may appoint such peshkars or other superior officers as may be required to test the work of the amins, and for the performance of similar duties; provided that the scale of remuneration of such officers, and the time for which they shall be employed, shall be sanctioned by the Commissioner.

Deputy Collector may appoint officers for making measurement of lands, &c.

38. In any district or division in which partitions may be so numerous or so extensive as to render necessary the appointment of special establishments in the office of the Collector or of the Commissioner, the Collector and the Commissioner may, with the sanction of the Board, appoint such establishments.

Special establishments may be appointed.

39. As soon as possible after an estate has been declared to be under partition as provided in section thirty-one, the cost of making the partition shall be estimated, and the amount shall be levied from the proprietors in such instalments and at such times during the progress of the partition as may be fixed in accordance with any rules which the Board may make in that behalf.

Cost of partition to be levied from proprietors in accordance with rules laid down by the Board.

If the amount first estimated is found insufficient, supplementary estimates may be made from time to time, and the required amount may be levied as above provided.

40. The cost shall be apportioned on the proprietors of each share in proportion to their shares; but whenever it shall appear to the Commissioner that the partition proceedings have been unnecessarily delayed, and the cost of the partition enhanced by obstacles vexatiously put in the way of their completion by one or more of the proprietors, or by want of due diligence on the part of one or more of the proprietors in carrying out any requisitions made upon him or them, the Commissioner may direct that such portion of the cost as he may think proper in excess of the amount proportionate to his or their share shall be levied from such proprietor or proprietors.

Apportionment of costs.

41. Whenever any local enquiry may be held by the Deputy Collector or any other officer, in consequence of an objection raised by any person to any record of measurements, rent-rolls, or other information which has been laid before the Deputy Collector, the Deputy Collector may declare the cost which has been incurred by such enquiry, and may direct that the entire cost so declared shall be paid by the person making the objection or by any one of the proprietors, or that such cost shall be paid in such proportions as he shall think fit, by the said person and the proprietors or any of them, or that such cost be deemed a part of the general cost of making a partition as prescribed in section thirty-nine.

Deputy Collector may declare cost of local enquiry.

42. Upon the completion of the partition, the Collector shall make an order declaring the total cost thereof. The account shall then be adjusted, either by returning to the proprietors any sums which they may have paid in excess of the total cost, or by levying from them in the manner provided in section one hundred and thirty-eight, if necessary, any sums remaining due.

After completion of partition Collector shall declare total cost thereof.

43. Whenever it shall appear to the Lieutenant-Governor that in any district the work required to be done by Deputy Collectors in connection with partitions under this Act is so great that such work would, if concentrated in the hands of one or more Deputy Collectors, fully occupy the time of such one or more Deputy Collectors, the Lieutenant-Governor may make an order directing that the salary of such one or more Deputy Collectors, as the case may be, shall be recovered from the proprietors of estates under partition in such district as part of the cost of such partitions, and thereupon such charge as the Collector may think fit to make in respect of such salary shall, in addition to the items mentioned in the last preceding section, be deemed to be a portion of the costs of every partition.

Salary of Deputy Collectors when to be deemed part of cost of partition.

For the purposes of this section the salary of every Deputy Collector shall be deemed to be the amount of salary which is drawn by a Deputy Collector of the lowest grade.

44. For the purposes of sections thirty-nine, forty, and forty-two, the costs of any partition shall be deemed to be

What are costs leviable from proprietors

(b) all contingent expenses incurred in and about the partition, and

(c) such portion of the cost of any establishment entertained under section thirty-eight as the Collector may order.

45. Notwithstanding anything contained in the eight last preceding sections, the Lieutenant-Governor may direct that in any district a fund to be called the "Estates' Partition Fund" shall be formed, into which all sums levied from the proprietors of estates in respect of partitions of their estates shall be paid.

Lieutenant-Governor may direct "Estates' Partition Fund" to be formed.

Whenever such a fund shall have been established in any district, all expenses of making partitions of estates in such district shall, except as hereinafter otherwise provided, be defrayed from such fund.

46. Whenever the Lieutenant-Governor shall have ordered an "Estates' Partition Fund" to be formed in any district, the charges leviable from the proprietors of any estate under partition may be estimated and levied according to the estimate in each case as provided in sections thirty-nine and forty, subject to final adjustment, as provided in section forty-two; or they may be levied according to a general scale of fees to be fixed by the Board.

Procedure when Estates' Partition Fund formed in any district.

47. Such scale of fees shall be fixed as nearly as may be, so that the receipts and expenditure of the said fund shall balance one another, and shall be revised from time to time by the Board for that purpose.

Scale of fees.

Such fees shall be levied from the proprietors in such instalments and at such times during the progress of the partition as may be fixed in accordance with any rules which the Board may make in that behalf, and the provisions of section forty shall be applicable to such fees.

48. An abstract of the Estates' Partition Fund of each district made up to the end of each year shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and by being posted up at the office of the Collector of the district.

49. For the purposes of sections forty-five, forty-six, and forty-seven the expenses of making partitions in any district shall be deemed to be

(e) the salary of any one or more Deputy Collectors which the Lieutenant-Governor may have ordered under section forty-three to be recovered from the proprietors of estates under partition.

50. Whenever any Civil Court shall make a decree awarding or declaring any proprietary right in an estate, and shall require the Collector to make a partition of the estate, such Court may at the same time direct, that the party or parties who may have withheld the right so decreed shall defray the whole of the expense which may be incurred in and about the partition, or the whole of the fees payable in respect of the partition under section forty-six,

Civil Court may in certain cases order parties to pay expenses incurred in dividing an estate.

or that the said expenses or fees shall be defrayed by all or any of the parties to the suit in which the decree was made in such proportions as the Court may, from a consideration of the particular circumstances of the case, deem equitable;

Copies of all orders which the Court may pass under this section shall be transmitted to the Collector for his guidance, together with the precept which the Court may issue to him, requiring him to divide the estate; and the Collector shall levy the said expenses and fees from the parties in the proportion ordered by such Court in the same manner and by the same means as if the levy of such expenses and fees had been ordered by the Collector.

PART V.

51. As soon as the Collector shall have made an order under section thirty-one declaring an estate to be under partition, the Deputy Collector shall cause a notification to be published in the manner prescribed by section one hundred and thirty-four, and shall also cause copies thereof to be posted up at the Court of the Judge of the district in which any lands appertaining to the parent estate are known to be situated, and at the Court of every Munsif and of every Subdivisional officer within the jurisdiction of whom, and at every Police station within the jurisdiction of which, any such lands are known to be situated, intimating his intention to proceed with the partition, and requiring all the proprietors of the estate to produce before a certain date, being not less than forty days from the date of such notification, either jointly or separately, copies of their rent-rolls and statements of the rents collected during each of the three years next preceding and also copies of any measurement papers of the estate which may be in their possession.

As soon as estate declared to be under partition, Deputy Collector shall cause notification to be published.

A notice to the same effect shall also be served as provided in section one hundred and thirty-five on each proprietor of the parent estate.

The Deputy Collector may, on sufficient grounds for so doing being shown to his satisfaction, from time to time extend the period for producing any such return.

Rent-roll filed by a proprietor to be subscribed and verified.

52. Every rent-roll, statement of rents collected, and measurement paper furnished to the Collector under this Act shall be presented by the person who is required to produce the same or by a duly authorized agent of such person who has a personal knowledge of the facts stated therein, and shall be subscribed and verified at the foot by such person or such agent in the manner following, or to the like effect:—

"I, A.B., do declare that this rent-roll (statement, or measurement paper) is correct to the best of my knowledge and belief."

If the rent-roll, statement or measurement paper shall contain any entry which the person making the verification shall know or believe to be false, or shall not believe to be true, such person shall be subject to punishment according to the law for the time being in force for the punishment of giving or fabricating false evidence.

Procedure if person required cannot produce rent-roll or statement.

53. If any proprietor who is required to produce any rent-roll or statement by notice as aforesaid is unable to produce such rent roll or statement, he shall state to the Deputy Collector the cause thereof and the name and address of the person who has in his possession the information necessary for the preparation of such rent-roll and statement, and the Deputy Collector may, if he shall think fit, require such person to produce such rent-roll and statement.

Deputy Collector may order measurement of land and may test rent-roll.

54. The Deputy Collector may, if necessary, make, or may cause to be made, a measurement of all or any of the lands comprised in the estate, and may prepare or cause to be prepared a rent-roll, and may test or cause to be tested on the spot any rent-roll which has been produced as aforesaid, and may make or may cause to be made any local enquiry which he may consider necessary.

Deputy Collector to summon proprietors by proclamation to attend proceedings.

55. Before proceeding or deputing the amin to the spot, the Deputy Collector shall publish a notification in the manner prescribed by section one hundred and thirty-four requiring the several proprietors of the estate, their managers, and any other persons employed in the management of the land, or otherwise interested therein, to attend in person or by agent upon him or upon the amin who is deputed to make the measurement or enquiry, for the purpose of pointing out boundaries and of affording such assistance and information as may be required for the purposes of this Act.

Deputy Collector and Amin may require attendance of proprietor or any other person.

56. The Deputy Collector, and any amin or other person who is specially authorized in that behalf by the Collector, may, by a notice served as provided in section one hundred and thirty-five, require any proprietor or other person whose attendance may be required, to attend before the Deputy Collector or amin who is making such measurement or enquiry, within a specified time at any place for any of the purposes aforesaid.

Deputy Collector to test amin's work.

57. If any objection be made to a measurement, map, or rent-roll prepared by the amin, or if for any other reason it seems desirable, the Deputy Collector shall, as soon as possible after completion of the amin's work, himself test, or shall cause to be tested on the spot such measurement, map, and rent-roll, and may accept, amend, or reject the same, or any of them. If the Deputy Collector shall deem it necessary, he may cause the work or any portion thereof to be done again.

Examination of the parties and their papers.

58. The Deputy Collector may examine any person on solemn affirmation, in regard to the papers produced before him, whether by the proprietors, by the amin, or otherwise, and shall allow the parties concerned to put any necessary questions to such person.

The Deputy Collector shall also allow any proprietor or other person interested to examine the papers so produced, and to take a copy of the same, and after such examination shall hear any objections which any of the persons interested may make in respect of such papers, and shall decide whether any, and (if any), which of the papers as they stand, or with such modifications as he may think necessary, shall be accepted as correct for the purposes of the partition.

Power of Deputy Collector if proprietor fails to file rent-roll.

59. If any proprietor who has been required to produce a rent-roll or statement under section fifty-one, fails to produce the same after the imposition on him of a fine under section one hundred and thirty-seven for thirty days, or fails to state to the Deputy Collector the name and address of any person under section fifty-three, the Deputy Collector may declare that the said proprietor shall, for the purposes of the partition, be bound by such rent-roll as the Deputy Collector may adopt as the basis of the partition as hereinafter provided, and after such declaration any officer exercising authority under this Act may refuse to entertain any objection which such proprietor may make to such rent-roll.

Power of Deputy Collector, if person fails to produce rent-roll.

60. If any person who has been required to produce a rent-roll or statement under section fifty-three shall fail to produce the same after the imposition on him of a fine under section one hundred and thirty-seven for thirty days, the Deputy Collector may declare that the proprietor who may have stated the name of such person under section fifty-three shall, for the purposes of the partition, be bound by the rent-roll which the Deputy Collector may adopt for the basis of the partition as hereinafter provided, and after such declaration any officer exercising authority under this Act may refuse to entertain any objection which such proprietor may make to such rent-roll.

Collector may dispense with rent-roll, maps, and other papers.

61. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, if it shall appear to the Deputy Collector that any measurements, maps, rent-rolls, or other papers relating to the estate which have been prepared otherwise than for the purposes of the partition, or otherwise than for the purposes of this Act, afford information sufficiently trustworthy to enable him to effect the partition, the Deputy Collector may adopt such information and such papers either wholly or in part for the purposes of the partition, and may dispense with any rent-rolls, maps, or other papers for which he is authorized to call, or which an applicant is required to produce under this Act.

Proprietor who has failed to attend shall not be entitled to object subsequently.

62. No proprietor or other person, who shall have failed to attend in person or by agent during the measurement as required by the notification published under section fifty-five, shall be entitled at any subsequent time to make any objection to such measurement, but the Collector may admit any objection made by such proprietor or person if he think fit, provided that any expense entailed by a local inquiry made in consequence of such subsequent objection shall be paid entirely by such proprietor or person.

Notification of date for deciding the mode of partition.

63. When the Deputy Collector is finally satisfied that the papers before him, whether rent-rolls, measurement papers, maps, or other papers are sufficient and sufficiently correct to be accepted or adopted for the purposes of the partition, he shall make an order to that effect, and shall fix a day on which to determine the general arrangement of the partition, and shall publish a notification in the manner prescribed by section one hundred and thirty-four, calling on all the proprietors to be present on the day so fixed, such day being not less than thirty or more than sixty days after the publication of the notification in his office, andshall serve a notice to the same effect on each proprietor or his agent.

PART VI.

OF PARTITION BY AMICABLE ARRANGEMENT OR BY ARBITRATION.

Deputy Collector may allow parties to make a private partition.

64. On the date fixed under the last preceding section, if a petition to that effect signed by all the recorded proprietors shall have been presented, the Deputy Collector may allow such proprietors to make a private partition of the estate amongst themselves on the basis of the papers which have been accepted or adopted for the purposes of the partition by the Deputy Collector, or may refer the partition to be made by an arbitrator or arbitrators on such basis.

If the proprietors who have elected to make such private partition shall fail to make the same within such time as may be fixed by the Deputy Collector, the Deputy Collector may refer the partition to be made by an arbitrator or arbitrators or may make the partition himself.

Procedure on reference to arbitration.

65. Whenever any partition shall have been referred to arbitration, the proceedings shall be conducted in accordance with the provisions of sections 313 to 325 (both inclusive) of Act VIII of 1859 (an Act for simplifying the procedure of the Court of Civil Judicature not established by Royal Charter) as far as those provisions are applicable, and except as herein otherwise expressly provided

Arbitrators to deliver a partition paper

66. The arbitrators shall deliver, within a time to be fixed by the Deputy Collector, which time may be further extended by him, a full and complete paper of partition, in such form as may be prescribed by the Board for partitions made by the Collector or Deputy Collector.

Remuneration of arbitrators.

67. The arbitrators, on delivering the paper of partition as aforesaid, shall be entitled to reasonable fees for their services, the amount of which shall be fixed, with the approval of the Commissioner, by the officer making the reference to arbitration, and shall be considered to form part of the cost of making the partition.

Partition made under this Part to be subject to approval of Collector, and superior revenue authorities.

68. Every partition made under the provisions of this Part by the parties or by arbitrators appointed by them, shall be subject to the approval of the Deputy Collector and to the confirmation of the Collector and the orders of the superior revenue authorities; provided that neither the Deputy Collector nor any other authority shall disallow any partition so made on any other ground than that of fraud, or that, in the opinion of the Deputy Collector or such other authority, the partition cannot be confirmed without endangering the safety of the land revenue.

Land revenue to be assessed by Collector.

69. Whenever a partition has been made under the provisions of this Part, the land revenue shall be assessed by the Collector on each separate estate into which the parent estate is divided by such partition in the manner prescribed by section six.

In default of delivery of partition paper, Collector may withdraw case from arbitration.

70. If the paper of partition be not delivered within the time fixed by the Deputy Collector, or within any further period to which the time may have been extended, the Deputy Collector may withdraw the case from arbitration and may make the partition himself.

PART VII.

OF THE PROCEDURE FROM THE DETERMINATION OF THE GENERAL ARRANGEMENT OF THE PARTITION BY THE DEPUTY COLLECTOR TO THE APPROVAL OF THE PARTITION BY THE COLLECTOR.

Procedure when no petition presented under section 64.

71. If no petition shall have been presented under section sixty-four, the Deputy Collector shall, on the date fixed under section sixty-three, or on any other date to which the hearing may have been postponed by a notice posted at the office of the Deputy Collector, consult orally each proprietor present, and endeavour, as far as possible, with the concurrence of the proprietors present, to settle a general arrangement of the partition in accordance with the requirements of this Act.

For this purpose he shall endeavour to obtain from each proprietor an acknowledgment of his acceptance of the rent-roll, map, and any other papers which have been adopted by the Deputy Collector for the purposes of the partition, and shall briefly record the objections of any proprietor who still objects to accept such rent-roll, map, or other papers.

Deputy Collector may postpone settlement of general arrangement of partition.

72. If, in consequence of any objections made before the Deputy Collector has settled the general arrangement of the partition as provided in the last preceding section, the Deputy Collector considers it necessary to make further inquiry, he may, by notice to the recorded proprietors, postpone the settlement of the general arrangement of the partition to a date being not less than fifteen days from the service of the notice on any proprietor.

Deputy Collector may award compensation for attendance to proprietor.

73. If the objections on account of which the said settlement is postponed are such that the person making the same might have made them on an earlier day, the Deputy Collector may award to each proprietor who shall have attended in person or by agent in accordance with the notice, such sum, not exceeding sixteen rupees, as he shall think fit by way of compensation for such attendance.

The sum so awarded shall be paid by the person making the objections as aforesaid, and may be recovered from him in the manner provided by section one hundred and thirty-eight.

If no postponement made, Deputy Collector to determine the general arrangement of the partition

74. If the objections have already been enquired into and disposed of, or are such as not to render necessary any further inquiry and postponement, or when any objections which may require further enquiry have been disposed of, the Deputy Collector shall record an order to that effect, and after hearing what each proprietor present may urge, shall hold a proceeding determining the general arrangement of the partition and the mode in which the parent estate shall be divided, and, in a general way, the position of the lands which shall be assigned to each of the separate estates.

In determining the general arrangement of the partition, the Deputy Collector shall be guided by the rules which are laid down in Part VIII, and shall direct the partition to be made in the manner which in his opinion, is on the whole most in accordance with such rules, and most equitable and most convenient to all parties concerned.

General arrangement of partition to be submitted for sanction of Collector.

75. The general arrangement of the partition as determined under the last preceding section, shall be submitted for the sanction of the Collector, who shall by notice fix a date for the consideration of the same, not being less than fifteen days after the publication of the said notice in his office, and after hearing and disposing of any objection which may be preferred, shall pass such orders as he may think proper, setting aside, amending, or approving the general arrangement made by the Deputy Collector.

Deputy Collector to fix boundaries.

76. When the general arrangement has been approved by the Collector, the Deputy Collector shall proceed to fix the exact boundaries of each separate estate, after considering the wishes which the parties may express in respect thereof.

Deputy Collector to draw up paper of partition and map.

77. When the Deputy Collector shall have so determined the boundaries, he shall cause to be drawn up a paper of partition specifying in detail the villages and lands which he has included in each of the separate estates, the rental thereof, with any other assets of each separate estate, the name or names of the recorded proprietor or proprietors of each separate estate, any stipulations which may have been made regarding places of worship, tanks, or other matters as mentioned in Part VIII, and the amount of land revenue to be assessed on each separate estate; he shall also prepare a map showing the lands which fall within each separate estate and the boundaries thereof, unless the preparation of such map shall be dispensed with by special permission of the Collector

Deputy Collector to submit papers to Collector.

78. The Deputy Collector shall submit the partition paper and map as aforesaid and all other papers of the partition to the Collector with a full report of the proceedings taken, the reasons which influenced the Deputy Collector in selecting the lands included in each separate estate, the nature of the accounts upon which the apportionment of the land revenue assessed thereon has been based, and all other particulars material to the case.

Deputy Collector to prepare extracts of partition papers for each proprietor.

79. The Deputy Collector shall at the same time cause to be prepared a separate extract of the portion of the partition paper which relates to each separate estate, and shall cause to be tendered to any recorded proprietor of a separate estate, or any authorized agent of such proprietor, who may be in attendance at the Deputy Collector's office, the extract which relates to such separate estate;

and the Deputy Collector shall publish a notice at his office calling upon every proprietor to whom or to whose agent an extract from the partition paper has not been tendered as above mentioned, to take out of the Deputy Collector's office the extract of the portion of the partition paper relating to his separate estate.

If the circumstances of the partition so require, an extract of the map prepared by the Deputy Collector, or a copy of such map, shall be annexed to every separate extract from the partition paper herein mentioned.

On receipt of papers and report Collector to publish notification.

80. On receipt of the papers and report mentioned in section seventy-eight, the Collector shall cause a notification to be published in the manner prescribed by section one hundred and thirty-four fixing a date, not being less than six weeks from the date of the publication of such notification on the parent estate, on which he will proceed to take up the case, and to consider any representations and objections which may be preferred in respect of the partition made by the Deputy Collector, and calling on all parties concerned who may wish to do so, to inspect the papers at his office before such date, and to take copies of any such papers as they may require.

The Collector shall also cause a notice to the same effect to be served on each of the recorded proprietors.

81. On the date so fixed, or on any other date to which the hearing may have been postponed, the Collector shall take into consideration the papers as laid before him, and after calling for any further information which he may deem necessary, and disposing of any objections which shall be made to the proposed partition and allotment of land revenue, may approve the partition as made by the Deputy Collector with such amendments as he may think proper, or return it for amendment to the Deputy Collector who made it, or to another Deputy Collector, or make a fresh partition himself

Procedure of Collector thereupon.

The Collector may return the said papers for amendment or enquiry as often as he may think fit.

82. No proprietor who shall have failed to appear before the Deputy Collector in person or by agent on any date fixed for the arrangement of the partition under section sixty-three or section seventy-two, and no proprietor who shall have failed so to appear before the Collector on any date fixed under either of the two last preceding sections, shall be entitled, at any subsequent time, to make any objection to the orders which may be passed on such dates respectively.

Proprietor when not entitled to make subsequent objection.

83. When the Collector approves the partition made by the Deputy Collector with amendments, he may cause a fresh partition paper and map to be prepared, or may cause the amendments made by him to be noted on the paper and map submitted by the Deputy Collector.

Collector may cause a fresh partition paper and map to be prepared.

When the Collector makes a fresh partition himself, he shall cause a fresh partition paper and map to be prepared.

84. Whenever the Collector shall have approved a partition (whether with or without amendments), he shall cause a notice to be served on each of the recorded proprietors that the papers will be submitted at once for confirmation of the partition by the Commissioner, and that any appeals or objections must be presented to the Commissioner, or to the Collector for transmission to the Commissioner, within thirty days of the date of the service of the said notice, or, if the Collector has approved the partition with amendments, and the notice requires the proprietor to produce the extract of any partition in order that amendments may be noted thereon, or to take out a fresh extract from the partition paper, as provided in the next succeeding section, then within six weeks of such date.

Procedure when Collector approves of a partition without amendment.

85. Whenever the Collector shall have approved a partition with amendments, and shall, under section eighty-three, have caused such amendments to be noted on the partition paper and map submitted by the Deputy Collector, the notice to be served on each of the recorded proprietors under the last preceding section shall, in the case of every such proprietor whose separate estate is affected by such amendments, in addition to the particulars mentioned in the said section, require such proprietor to produce before the Collector, within fifteen days of the service of such notice, the extract from the paper of partition which has been prepared, and any map relating to his separate estate which may have been prepared, under section seventy-nine, in order that the amendments made by the Collector in the partition may be noted thereon; and such amendments shall be noted thereon by the Collector accordingly, and such extract and map shall be returned to the proprietor who produced them.

Procedure when Collector approves partition paper with amendments.

Whenever the Collector shall have caused, under section eighty-three, a new partition paper and map to be prepared, he shall order separate extracts from the portions of the partition paper which relate to each separate estate, and maps, if necessary, to be prepared as required by section seventy-nine, and in such case the notice served under the last preceding section shall, in addition to the particulars mentioned in that section, declare the extracts and maps which were furnished or offered to proprietors under section seventy-nine to be cancelled, and shall require the recorded proprietors to take out of the Collector's office such extracts and maps relating to their respective separate estates.

86. As soon as practicable after the issue of the notice under section eighty-four the Collector shall forward to the Commissioner all papers relating to the partition as approved or as made by the Collector.

Papers to be forwarded to Commissioner.

PART VIII.

OF THE GENERAL PRINCIPLES ON WHICH PARTITIONS SHALL BE MADE.

Rules applicable to the partition of lands which are held by the proprietors in common tenancy.

87. Each separate estate shall be made as compact as is compatible with the primary object of making an equitable partition among the proprietors, and with the other provisions of this Part, but no partition made or approved by a Collector shall be set aside on the ground only that the separate estates are not compact.

Estates formed in course of partition to be as compact as possible.

88. In selecting the villages or lands to be assigned to each separate estate formed out of a parent estate which has been held in common tenancy, the Collector shall take into consideration

Circumstances to be considered in making partitions.

the advantages or disadvantages arising from situation;

the vicinity of roads, railways, navigable rivers, or canals;

the nature and quality of the soil and produce;

the quantity of cultivable and uncultivable waste land;

the facilities for irrigation;

the state of the embankments and watercourses;

liability to accretion and diluvion,

and any other circumstances affecting the value of the lands.

89. If a dwelling-house belonging to one proprietor is situated on any land which it may be necessary to include in the separate estate of another proprietor, the owner of such

Rule when dwelling-house belonging to one proprietor is situated on ground to be allotted to another proprietor.

house may retain occupation thereof with the offices, buildings, and grounds immediately attached thereto, upon agreeing to pay rent for the land occupied by such dwelling-house, offices, buildings, and grounds to the proprietor of the separate estate in which such land is included.

The limits of the land so occupied and the rent to be paid for it in perpetuity shall be fixed by the Deputy Collector, and shall be stated in the paper of partition.

In every such case a defined pathway shall, as far as possible, be secured to the owner of the house, leading from his house to some portion of the separate estate allotted to him.

Rule contained in last preceding section may be applied to gardens, orchards, &c.

90. Whenever the Deputy Collector shall think fit, he may apply the rule contained in the last preceding section to gardens, to orchards of trees, to land planted with bamboos, and to any other lands which in his opinion are of special value to the proprietor in whose occupation they are found to be, in consequence of improvements made by such proprietor or of the particular use to which such lands are put.

Calculation of rental.

91. The rent fixed in perpetuity on any land by the Deputy Collector under either of the two last preceding sections shall be considered to be the rental of such land for the purposes of the partition.

Rent may be redeemed.

92. Whenever the dwelling-house of one proprietor, with the offices, buildings, and grounds immediately attached thereto, shall have been included in the separate estate of another proprietor, and the annual rent to be paid in perpetuity in respect of the land occupied thereby shall have been fixed by the Deputy Collector and stated in the paper of partition, the proprietor whose dwelling-house, offices, buildings, and grounds have been included as aforesaid may apply to the Deputy Collector for permission to redeem the annual rent so fixed, and the Deputy Collector shall give such permission, unless he shall be of opinion that such redemption would endanger the safety of the land revenue for the payment of which the separate estate in which such dwelling-house, offices, buildings, and grounds have been included will be liable.

Deputy Collector to certify amount payable in redemption of rent

93. If the Deputy Collector shall see no such reason to refuse his permission to the redemption being made, he shall certify the amount payable by such proprietor in redemption of such annual rent; and such amount shall be calculated and fixed by the Deputy Collector at ten per centum above the sum which would be required to purchase, at the market prices then prevailing, so much stock of the Government loan which was last issued as would yield an annual amount of interest equal to the annual land rent fixed by the Deputy Collector under section eighty nine.

But not after possession of separate estates has been given.

94. The proprietor desiring to redeem the rent as aforesaid, may pay to the Deputy Collector the amount so certified at any time before possession is given to the several proprietors of the separate estates allotted to each, as provided in section one hundred and twenty-three, but not after such possession has been given.

Notice of payment to be given; and land to be held rent-free.

95. On receipt of such payment, the Deputy Collector shall give notice to the proprietor in whose separate estate such land is situated that such payment has been made, and that the sum will be paid to him or to his authorized agent on application; and that from the date on which possession as aforesaid may be given, the proprietor who has redeemed the rent of such land will be entitled to hold such land as a rent-free tenure secured against the proprietor of the estate and against any auction purchaser at a sale for arrears of revenue, including the Government; and from such date the lands shall be so held as a rent-free tenure.

Collector to register rent-free tenure.

96. The Deputy Collector shall at the same time also give notice to the Collector of the district of the creation of such tenure; and the Collector of the district shall thereupon cause such tenure to be specially registered in the manner provided by section 42 of Act XI of 1859, or by any similar law for the time being in force.

Lots may be drawn for equal shares.

97. When two or more of the separate estates shall consist of the same proportions of the parent estate, the Deputy Collector may, if he thinks proper, direct the parties entitled thereto respectively to draw lots in his presence for the equal separate estates which have been formed by assignment of lands, unless the recorded proprietors of the equal shares shall agree among themselves as to the allotment of the equal separate estates and shall present a petition to that effect; or unless for any other reason the Deputy Collector shall, with the sanction of the Collector, think proper to assign the equal separate estates to the proprietors of the equal shares without causing lots to be drawn.

Order and method of drawing lots when aggregate of two or more shares equals one other share.

98. When the aggregate of two or more shares equals one other share or equals the aggregate of two or more other shares, the Deputy Collector, with the sanction of the Collector, may cause such aggregate shares to be treated as one share for the purpose of determining by lots as aforesaid which portion of the parent estate shall be assigned to each proprietor as his separate estate;

and may decide which shares shall be formed into one aggregate share for the purpose of causing such lots to be drawn;

and may cause lots to be drawn in like manner as often as he shall think proper for such purpose.

And after lots shall have been drawn once (or more than once if necessary) as aforesaid, the Deputy Collector shall proceed to divide the portion of the parent estate which has fallen by lot to each aggregate share, among the proprietors of the different shares which were formed into such aggregate share for the purpose of drawing lots, and shall assign to every such proprietor his separate estate within such portion in such position as the Deputy Collector may think proper.

Provided that lots shall in no case be drawn until after full opportunity shall have been given to the proprietors to advance their objections in respect of the papers accepted as the basis of the partition and in respect of the assets of the different lands as stated in such papers, and until any such objections which may have been made shall have been disposed of.

Illustrations.

I.—The partition of a parent estate is being made into the following shares:—

8 annas.
4 annas.
3 annas.
1 anna.

For the purposes of drawing lots, the 4 annas, 3 annas, and 1 anna share may be taken together, and considered to be an aggregate 8 annas share.

The Deputy Collector will divide the parent estate into two halves of equal value; and will then cause lots to be drawn, in order to determine which of the two halves shall be assigned to the proprietor of the integral 8 annas share, and which shall be divided among the proprietors of the 4 annas, 3 annas, and 1 anna shares.

Subsequently, if necessary, the Deputy Collector may again cause lots to be drawn by the proprietor of the 4 annas share on the one hand, and the proprietors of the aggregate share made up by taking together the 3 annas share and the 1 anna share.

II.—The partition is being made of a parent estate into the following shares:—

6 annas.
4 annas.
3 annas.
2 annas.
1 anna.

Two tracts in the estate may first be marked off, the value of each being equivalent to a 6 annas share, and then, for the purpose of drawing lots in respect of the assignment of these two tracts, the 4 annas share and the 2 annas share may be taken together as an aggregate 6 annas share, and lots may be drawn between the proprietor of the aggregate 6 annas share so formed on the one hand, and the proprietor of the integral 6 annas share on the other.

One of the two 6 annas tracts having thus been finally assigned to the proprietor of the integral 6 annas share, the Deputy Collector will proceed to assign the rest of the estate among the remaining sharers, and he may again, for the purpose of causing lots to be drawn mark off two tracts, the value of each of which shall be equivalent to 5 annas of the parent estate, and may cause lots to be drawn for these two tracts between the proprietors of the 4 annas share and the 1 anna share taken together as an aggregate 5 annas share on the one hand, and the proprietors of the 3 annas share and the 2 annas share taken together as another 5 annas share on the other.

Finally, their separate estates will be assigned to the proprietor of the 4 annas share and of the 1 anna share respectively, within the tract which fell to them jointly by lot; and their separate estates will be assigned to the proprietors of the 3 annas share and of the 2 annas share respectively within the tract which fell to them jointly by lot.

Deputy Collector may require proprietors to attend or appoint agent for the purpose of drawing lots.

99. The Deputy Collector may, by a notice served as provided in section one hundred and thirty-five, require any proprietor in respect of whose share lots are to be drawn as provided in either of the two last preceding sections, to attend at the office of the Deputy Collector in person or by authorized agent at a time to be fixed by the Deputy Collector for the purpose of drawing lots;

and may similarly require the proprietors of any shares which he may have ordered to be formed into an aggregate share for the purpose of drawing lots, jointly to appoint an agent to draw lots on their joint behalf; and if at the time fixed for drawing such lots such proprietors have failed to agree to any such joint appointment, or shall fail to cause the attendance of an agent authorized to act jointly for all such proprietors, all such proprietors shall be deemed to have failed to comply with the Deputy Collector's requisition.

In default Deputy Collector may appoint a person to draw lots.

100. Whenever any proprietor or proprietors shall have failed to comply with a requisition of the Deputy Collector under the last preceding section, the Deputy Collector may appoint a person to draw lots on behalf of such proprietor or proprietors.

Rules applicable to the formation into separate estates of lands which are held by proprietors in severalty.

Joint petition may be presented for partition according to private division.

101. Whenever in any parent estate a division of the lands thereof has been made by private arrangement of the proprietors of such estate, and in accordance with such arrangement each proprietor is in possession of separate lands held in severalty as representing his interest in such parent estate, the joint application presented to the Collector by all the recorded proprietors of such estate as required by section twelve may be to the effect that a partition of such estate be made by assigning to each proprietor or to two or more proprietors jointly as his or their separate estate, the lands of which they are in separate possession in accordance with such arrangement, and also that each separate estate so formed be made liable for such portion of the entire land revenue of the parent estate, as was paid by the proprietor or proprietors thereof under the private arrangement aforesaid.

Partition according to private division to be referred to Collector.

102. The Deputy Collector who is appointed to carry out the partition in accordance with such application, shall satisfy himself that the assets of each separate estate which it is proposed to form are sufficient to secure the payment of the annual amount of land revenue for which it is proposed to make such separate estate liable, and if the Deputy Collector be satisfied that in this respect, and with reference to all the circumstances of the case, that the partition of the lands and the assessment of the revenue thereon may be made in the manner proposed without endangering the safety of the revenue, the Deputy Collector shall submit the case with his opinion thereon, and the reasons on which such opinion is founded, to the Collector, who may admit or reject the said application.

Effect of Collector's approval.

103. If the Collector admits the said application, such admission shall be deemed to be the Collector's approval of the general arrangement of the partition as provided in section seventy-five, and the Deputy Collector shall proceed to complete the partition accordingly.

Such partition may be refused.

104. If the Deputy Collector, who is appointed to carry out the partition in accordance with a joint application under section one hundred and one, is not satisfied that the partition of the lands and the assessment of the revenue payable thereon can be made in the manner proposed without endangering the safety of the public revenue, or if the Collector rejects the application for such partition, the Deputy Collector shall refuse to make the same.

105. Whenever the proprietors of an estate are, in accordance with a private arrangement as aforesaid, respectively in possession of separate lands held in severalty as representing their respective interests in the estate, the joint application presented to the Collector by all the recorded proprietors of the estate as required by section twelve, may be to the effect that a partition of such estate be made by assigning to each proprietor, or to two or more proprietors jointly, as his or their separate estate, the lands of which they are in possession in accordance with such arrangement, and that the land revenue for which the parent estate is liable may be apportioned among the separate estates so formed in accordance with the provisions of section six.

Joint petition may be presented for partition of land in accordance with private division with proportional redistribution of public revenue.

A joint application under this section may be made notwithstanding that a joint application under section one hundred and one has been refused in respect of the same estate.

106. Whenever the Deputy Collector who is appointed to carry out a partition, shall find that in accordance with a private arrangement made by the proprietors of an estate, the proprietors respectively, or any of the proprietors, are in possession of separate lands held in severalty as representing portions only of their respective interests in the parent estate, while other lands of the parent estate are held in common tenancy between such proprietors, a joint application as mentioned in section twelve shall not be necessary to authorize the Collector to make a partition of the estate, but the Deputy Collector shall allot to the separate estate of each proprietor the lands of which such proprietor is found to be in possession in severalty, in accordance with such private arrangement.

Lands of which each proprietor is in possession to be allotted to him.

Lands held in the occupation of the several proprietors of an estate as sir, khamar, or nij-jote, or under any other similar denomination, shall not be deemed to be lands held in severalty as representing portions of their respective interests in the parent estate within the meaning of this section, which applied only to cases in which there has been a bonâ fide division, by private arrangement among the proprietors, of lands held by tenants.

107. Notwithstanding anything contained in the last preceding section, the Collector may cause any transfer of lands agreed to by the parties to be made from the possession of one proprietor to that of another.

Collector may cause transfer of lands agreed to by parties.

Rules applicable both to lands held in common tenancy and to lands held in severalty.

108. Places of worship, burning grounds, and burial grounds which have been held in common previous to the partition of an estate, and lands of which the proceeds have been assigned by the proprietors jointly for religious, charitable, or public purposes, shall continue to be held in common, unless the proprietors shall otherwise agree amongst themselves, in which case they shall state in writing the agreement into which they have entered, and the Deputy Collector shall enter a note of the agreement in the paper of partition.

Rule as to places of worship.

109. Tanks, wells, water-courses, and embankments shall be considered as attached to the land for the benefit of which they were originally made.

Rule as to tanks, wells, water-courses, and embankments.

In cases in which, from the extent, situation, or construction of such works, it shall be found necessary that they should remain the joint property of the proprietors of two or more of the separate estates, the paper of partition shall specify, as far as the circumstances may admit, the extent to which the proprietors of each of such estates may make use of the same, and the proportion of the charges for repairs to be borne by them respectively.

110. Whenever the Deputy Collector shall find in the parent estate lands which are actually held rent-free (whether the proprietors of the estate do or do not claim a right to receive rent from such lands), the Deputy Collector shall make no division or assignment of such lands among the separate estates, but shall specify in the partition papers and proceedings that such lands are left appertaining jointly to all the separate estates which are formed out of the parent estate, in the proportion which each separate estate bears to the parent estate.

Lands held rent-free not to be divided.

Provided that such lands or any of them may be allotted among the different separate estates with the consent of all the recorded proprietors of the parent estate, but not otherwise.

111. Whenever the Deputy Collector shall find in the parent estate any lands which are held at a fixed rent on a patni or other permanent intermediate tenure falling within Exception 2 or Exception 3 of section seven, the Deputy Collector may either

Rule as to permanent intermediate tenures.

(1) assign the lands which are held on such tenure and the assets thereof entirely to one or more of the separate estates, the rental being calculated as provided in Exception 2 or in Exception 3 (as the case may be) of section seven; or

(2) leave such lands unassigned to any separate estate, and specify in the partition paper and proceedings that the lands are left appertaining jointly to all the separate estates which are formed out of the parent estate in the proportion which each separate estate bears to the parent estate. In the event of such lands being so left undivided, the Deputy Collector shall assign to each separate estate such share of the rental of the tenure as shall bear the same proportion to the entire rental of the tenure, as the separate estate bears to the parent estate.

In dealing with a tenure under this section, the Deputy Collector shall take into consideration the extent of the lands comprised in the tenure, and all other circumstances of the case.

112. Whenever any lands are held in common between the proprietors of two or more estates, one of which is under partition in accordance with the provisions of this Act, the Deputy Collector shall first allot to the estate under partition a portion of such common lands of which the assets are in proportion to the interest which Lands held in common between the proprietors of two or more estates how to be dealt with.

the proprietors of such estate hold in the said common lands; and all the provisions of this Act in respect of the allotment between the shareholders in one estate, of lands which are held jointly by such shareholders, shall, as far as possible, apply to the allotment of the proportionate share of such common lands to the estate under partition;

and, in respect of the service of notices, hearing of objections, and all other procedure in view to such allotment, the proprietors of the estate under partition, and the proprietors of all other estates who have an interest in the said common lands, shall be deemed to be joint proprietors of a parent estate consisting only of the lands so held in common.

Provided that all expenses of any division of lands so held in common between the proprietors of two or more estates shall be deemed to be expenses of making the partition of the estate which is under partition, and shall be leviable as provided by this Act from the proprietors of such estate, and the proprietors of any other estate having an interest in such lands shall not be required to bear any portion of such expenses.

Proprietors of other estates may be required to pay a portion of expenses of partition.

113. Notwithstanding anything contained in the last preceding section, if it shall appear to the Commissioner, on the report of the Collector or otherwise, that the proceedings for such division have been unnecessarily delayed, and the cost of such division enhanced by obstacles vexatiously put in the way of the completion of such division by any proprietor of any estate other than that under partition, or by want of due diligence on the part of any such proprietor in carrying out any requisitions made upon him, the Commissioner may direct that such sum as he shall think fit shall be levied from every such proprietor who is responsible for such delay or additional cost, and every sum so levied shall be taken in diminution of the amount payable by the proprietors of the estate under partition as costs of such partition.

Allotment of lands held in common to be sanctioned by Collector.

114. The allotment to the estate under partition of the proportionate share of the lands so held in common shall be submitted for the approval of the Collector, who may confirm, amend, or reject the same, and in the case of rejection, may make or direct to be made another allotment.

The portion of such common lands assigned to estate under partition how to be dealt with.

115. As soon as the allotment to the estate under partition of a proportionate share of the said lands shall have been approved by the Collector, the lands so allotted shall be dealt with in every respect as if they were held in common tenancy by such of the proprietors of the estate under partition as were found to hold interests in the common lands.

Procedure when dispute exists as to whether any lands form part of the parent estate.

116. If a dispute or doubt shall be found to exist as to whether any lands form part of the parent estate, the Deputy Collector shall enquire into the fact of possession, and shall report his conclusions, with the reasons thereof, to the Collector; whereupon the Collector may (whether the possession of disputed lands is with the proprietors of the parent estate or otherwise) order that the partition be struck off the file, and in that case no application for a partition of the said estate shall be admitted until the applicant can show that the dispute or doubt has been decided by a court of competent jurisdiction, or has been amicably settled; or, if the Collector shall find that possession of the disputed lands is with the proprietors of the parent estate, and if it shall appear to him that the claim of the other parties to the right in such lands is untenable, he may order that the partition shall proceed, and that the disputed lands be treated as part of the estate under partition.

Procedure when Collector thinks that lands belong to parent estate.

Provided that no partition shall be made under this section, if such partition would involve the assignment to any separate estate of such a quantity of the disputed land that the removal of such land from such estate would, in the opinion of the Collector, endanger the safety of the land revenue for which such estate would be liable after the partition.

Procedure when partition completed and proprietor of an estate dispossessed by order of a competent court.

117. If, after a partition has been completed in accordance with an order passed by the Collector under clause three of the last preceding section, the proprietor of any separate estate shall be dispossessed by a decree of a court of competent jurisdiction of any lands which may have been assigned to his estate by the partition, such proprietor shall not be entitled to claim any modification of the partition (which shall hold good), but shall be entitled to recover from the proprietors of the other separate estates formed by the partition such compensation as may be fair and equitable having regard to the reduction in the proportionate value of his separate estate which is caused by such dispossession;

and such compensation may be recovered in a court of competent jurisdiction from the proprietors of those separate estates on which a proportionate share of the total loss caused by the order of dispossession does not fall.

PART IX.

OF THE PROCEDURE BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER UP TO THE COMPLETION OF THE PARTITION.

If no appeal presented, Commissioner may consider the case without issue of notice.

118. If no appeal or objection shall be presented within the time allowed by section eighty-four, the Commissioner may proceed to consider the case without issue of any notice, and may confirm the partition made by the Collector.

Commissioner to fix a day for hearing case.

119. If it shall appear to the Commissioner that the proceedings of the Collector should be amended, or if a petition of appeal or an objection shall have been presented within the time allowed by section eighty-four, the Commissioner shall fix a day for hearing and disposing of the case, and shall cause a notification of the same to be published and a notice of the same to be posted up in his own office.

Commissioner to confirm, amend, or return petition.

120. On the day so fixed, which shall not be less than thirty days after the publication of the said notification at the office of the Collector, or on any subsequent day to which the hearing of the case may extend, or on any subsequent day to which the hearing may have been postponed by a notice published in his own office, the Commissioner shall, after hearing and disposing of all objections, and calling for any further information which may be necessary, either confirm the partition as made by the Collector or amend the same, or return the papers of the partition to the Collector for any changes the Commissioner may think proper to be made.

If the partition is returned to the Collector for amendment, the Collector shall proceed to make the said amendments or to cause them to be made in the same manner as if he had himself passed such orders on a partition submitted to him for approval by a Deputy Collector.

Commissioner may return papers for amendment or inquiry.

121. The Commissioner may, before confirming a partition, return the papers for amendment or inquiry as often as he shall think fit, and as often as he shall so return them the procedure prescribed in the three last preceding sections shall be followed.

Procedure by Collector on receipt of order of Commissioner or of Board of Revenue on appeal.

122. After the expiration of not less than sixty days from the date of the order of the Commissioner confirming a partition, or, if an appeal has been preferred to the Board, or if any proceedings in respect of the partition be pending before the Board, then on receipt of the final order of the Board determining that the partition as sanctioned by the Commissioner shall not be disturbed, the Collector shall cause to be published in his office, and in some conspicuous place in each of the estates separately constituted by such order, a notice that the partition has been finally confirmed as it was sanctioned by the Commissioner, or with any amendments or alterations, as the case may be.

If the partition as finally sanctioned involves any amendments which may conveniently be made on the extracts of the partition paper and on any maps which have been prepared and delivered or offered by notice to the recorded proprietors as required by section seventy-nine or section eighty-five, the Collector shall cause a notice to be served on every recorded proprietor whose estate is affected by such amendments requiring him to produce such extracts and maps in order that such amendments may be noted on them;

and if the alterations made in the partition as finally sanctioned be such as to make it desirable to prepare fresh extracts and maps as aforesaid, the Collector shall cause such fresh extracts and maps to be prepared; and shall cause a notice to be served on each proprietor declaring the extract and map which was furnished or offered to him under section seventy-nine or section eighty-five, as the case may be, to be cancelled, and requiring him to take out of the Collector's office the fresh extract and map which have been prepared.

Procedure as to giving possession of separate estates.

123. The Collector shall then proceed to give the several proprietors possession of the separate estates allotted to each, and if necessary, may require the assistance of the Magistrate in giving such possession; and shall cause to be served on every recorded proprietor of a separate estate a notice informing him that from the date specified in such notice, the separate estate assigned to him (as described in the extract from the partition paper prepared and delivered or offered to him under section seventy-nine, section eighty-five, or the last preceding section, as the case may be) will be deemed to be separated from the parent estate, and to be separately liable for the amount of land revenue specified in such notice, and calling upon him to enter into a separate engagement for the payment of such revenue.

Date specified in notice under preceding section.

124. The date specified in such notice shall not be more than three months after the proprietors have been put in possession of their respective separate estates as herein provided.

Each separate estate to be borne on the revenue roll as separately liable for revenue assessed upon it.

125. From the date specified in such notice, each separate estate shall be borne on the revenue roll and General Register of the Collector as a distinct estate separately liable for the amount of land revenue assessed upon it under this Act; and shall be so liable, whether the proprietor have executed an agreement for the payment of the amount of land revenue so assessed upon the said estate, or whether he shall have failed to execute such agreement.

Collector may direct the construction of boundary marks

126. The Collector may direct the construction of such boundary marks as he may think proper to distinguish the lands of each separate estate, and the cost of such boundary marks shall be deemed to be expenses of the partition.

Boundary marks erected under this Act shall be assigned to zemindars, or to zemindars jointly with tenure-holders, for preservation, as provided in the second clause of section 29 of "The Bengal Survey Act, 1875," and after they have been so assigned, the provisions of sections 19, 20, and 52 to 57 (both inclusive) of the said Act shall apply to such boundary marks.

PART X.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Any point may be referred to arbitration.

127. The Deputy Collector, with the consent of all the parties concerned, may refer to arbitration any point arising in the course of a partition; and the provisions of sections sixty-five and sixty-seven shall, as far as possible, be applicable to such references.

Case of proprietor who has created a tenure.

128. If any proprietor of an estate held in common tenancy and brought under partition in accordance with the provisions of this Act shall have given his share or a portion of it in patni or other tenure or lease, such tenure or lease shall hold good, as regards the lands finally allotted to the share of the lessor, and only as to such land.

Illustrations.

I.—A, the proprietor of a quarter share in a joint undivided estate held in common tenancy, gives to B a patni tenure of the whole of his interest in the estate, entitling B, as long as such estate is held in common tenancy, to collect one-fourth of the rent payable by every ryot on the estate;

Partition of the said estate is made under this Act, and certain specific lands are assigned to A as his separate estate;

B will become patnidar of the entire separate estate which has been assigned to A, and will be entitled to collect the whole of the rents from the ryots on that estate.

II.—A, the proprietor of a quarter share in a joint undivided estate held in common tenancy, gives to B a patni tenure of one-half of his share in the estate, entitling B, as long as such estate is held in common tenancy, to collect one-eighth of the rent payable by every ryot on the estate;

Partition of the estate is made under the Act, and certain specific lands are assigned to A as his separate estate;

B will become patnidar of one-half of A's separate estate, and will hold his patni in common tenancy with the half of A's interest which A has not given in patni so that B will be entitled to collect one-half of the rent payable by every ryot on A's estate, and A will be entitled to collect the other half.

Two estates may be united.

129. If two or more estates shall come into the possession of one proprietor or of the same body of proprietors, such proprietor or body of proprietors, after being recorded as proprietors, may apply to have such estates united, and to hold them as a single estate.

Application for such union how to be made, and how to be dealt with.

130. Such application shall be made in writing to the Collector, and the Collector shall, not less than thirty days after the issue of a notification of such application (provided he see no objection), comply with the same, and cause the necessary entries to be made in the records of his office, and shall report the case to the Commissioner.

Cause of sale of a separate estate for arrears to be ascertained.

131. Whenever any separate estate created under this Act shall fall in arrear so as to require a sale of the land for the discharge of the arrear at any period within twelve years of the date of the confirmation of the partition, the Collector shall, if possible, ascertain the cause of the estate having fallen into arrear, and shall enquire whether such arrear has been caused by any fraudulent or erroneous allotment of the assessment or assignment of lands at the time of the partition, and shall make a report upon the case to the Commissioner for such action as the Commissioner may think proper.

In certain cases Lieutenant-Governor may order a new allotment of the land revenue.

132. If it shall be proved to the satisfaction of the Lieutenant-Governor at any time within twelve years from the date of the final confirmation of a partition by the Commissioner or by the Board, as the case may be, that through any fraud or error at the time of making the partition the assets of the lands assigned to any separate estate were not in proportion to the amount of land revenue for which such estate was made liable, or that the amount of land revenue assessed on any separate estate was not in proportion to the assets of the lands assigned to such estate, the Lieutenant-Governor may order a new allotment of the land revenue upon the separate estates in accordance with the principles prescribed in this Act, on an estimate of the assets of each such estate as they stood at the time of the partition, such estimate being made on such evidence and information as may be procurable respecting the same.

Under-assessed estates to make refund to over-assessed estates.

133. Whenever the Lieutenant-Governor shall pass an order for the re-allotment of the land revenue on any separate estate under the last preceding section, the Lieutenant-Governor may direct that the proprietors whose estates are found to have been under-assessed shall, for each year during which they have held possession of the separate estates, be required to pay to the recorded proprietors of the estates which have been over-assessed, a sum equal to the annual amount in which the latter shall be found to have been over-assessed, and in default of payment the amount shall be leviable as provided in section one hundred and thirty-eight.

No order passed by the Lieutenant-Governor under this section shall be liable to be contested in any court.

Publication of notifications under this Act.

134. Every notification required to be published in and by this Act shall, unless it is otherwise specially directed, be published by posting up copies of the same at the office of the Collector, and of the Deputy Collector who is making or has made the partition, at the mâl cutcherry, or mâl cutcherries (if any) of the proprietors of the parent estate, and at one or more of the principal villages on the said estate.

Service of notice.

135. Every notice in and by this Act required to be served on any person may be served—

(1) by delivering the same to the person to whom it is directed,

or, on failure of such service, by posting the same on some conspicuous part of the house in which the said person usually resides, or by delivering the said notice to a general agent of the person to whom such notice is directed, or to any person who has been appointed in that behalf, or who has been appointed an agent of the person to whom the notice is directed for the general purposes of any partition under this Act; or

(2) by sending a registered letter containing such notice directed to the said person at his usual place of abode or to the place where he may be known to be residing; or

or, if no such mâl cutcherry be found, and if the notice cannot be served in any of the other modes mentioned in this section, on some conspicuous place on the estate to which such notice relates.

In all cases where two or more persons are joint applicants for the separation of an estate to be held by them jointly as a separate estate, service of notice under this section on any one such joint applicant shall be deemed to be good and sufficient service on each and all of such joint applicants.

136. Provided the directions of this Act be in substance and effect complied with, no proceedings under this Act shall be affected by reason of any mistake or by reason of any other informality, unless any person has suffered, or is in danger of suffering, material injury in consequence of such mistake or informality; and no proceedings under this Act shall be affected by reason of the omission to issue any notification required by this Act, or to serve any notice on any person whose name is not recorded on the Collector's registers as proprietor of the estate in respect of which the notice is required to be served.

No proceedings under this Act to be affected by any mistake or misdescription.

137. If any proprietor or other person shall fail to comply, within the time fixed by a notice served on him as by this Act provided, with any requisition made upon him under this Act by the Collector or Deputy Collector, the Collector or Deputy Collector may impose upon him such daily fine as he may think fit, not exceeding fifty rupees;

Fine in case of non-compliance with notice or requisition.

and such fine shall be payable daily until the requisition is complied with,

and the Collector or Deputy Collector may proceed from time to time to levy the amount which has become due in respect of any such fine, notwithstanding that an appeal against the order imposing such fine may be pending;

Provided that whenever the amount levied under any such order shall have exceeded five hundred rupees, the Collector shall report the case specially to the Commissioner, and no further levy in respect of such fine shall be made otherwise than by authority of the Commissioner.

138. Except as herein expressly otherwise provided, all fees, fines, costs, and other sums ordered to be paid by any person under this Act, shall be deemed to be demands under section 1 of Bengal Act VII of 1868 (an Act to make further provision for the recovery of arrears of land revenue and public demands recoverable as arrears of land revenue), and shall be leviable as such.

Fees, &c., to be deemed a demand under Bengal Act VII of 1868.

139. For the purpose of any enquiry under this Act, the Collector and Deputy-Collector shall, in addition to every power conferred specially by this Act, have power to summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses, to examine witnesses, and to compel the production of documents by the same means (as far as may be), and in the same manner as is provided in the case of a Court under the Code of Civil Procedure.

Power of Collector to enforce attendance of witnesses.

140. All powers and functions which are assigned by this Act to a Deputy Collector may be exercised and discharged by the Collector; and whenever it is provided by this Act that any act done, or order made by a Deputy Collector shall require the sanction of the Collector, or shall be appealable to the Collector, if such act shall have been done or such order shall have been made by the Collector, it shall be deemed to have been sanctioned by the Collector, or to have been confirmed by the Collector in appeal, as the case may be.

Powers and functions assigned to Deputy Collector may be exercised by Collector.

141. The Lieutenant-Governor may vest any Collector or Deputy Collector with all or any of the powers which, under the provisions of any law for the time being in force, might be exercised by them respectively, or might be conferred on them respectively, if they were making a settlement of the parent estate.

Government may vest Collector or Deputy Collector with certain powers.

Such powers may be conferred either generally in respect of all estates in the partition of which the Collector or Deputy Collector may at any time and in any District be engaged, or specially in respect of any particular estate.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONER OF THE BURDWAN DIVISION FOR THE YEAR 1875-76.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.—MISCELLANEOUS.—No. 2714.

Calcutta, the 12th October 1876.

READ—

The Annual Administration Report of the Commissioner of the Burdwan Division for the year 1875-76.

THIS report has been submitted late, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that in another year greater punctuality will be observed and enforced from the district officers. The value of the present year's report is, moreover, impaired by the fact that the report has unavoidably been prepared by a Commissioner who was not in charge of the division during the year under review.

2. There was a sufficient and seasonable rainfall all over Western Bengal, and the crops on the whole were abundant. In the large rice-producing district of Midnapore it is said that the year was almost the most favourable ever known. The public health was also good, and the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to be able to say that the terrible scourge, known as the Burdwan fever, which has in past years devastated all the districts of this division, now seems to have worn itself out, and that it exists only in a mild form in scattered localities.

3. It is remarked by the Commissioner that the relief which the plentiful harvest of 1875 brought the cultivators was to some extent counterbalanced by the low prices they got for their crops, and the Lieutenant-Governor sees that Sir William Herschel, of Hooghly, the only Collector who has adverted to the subject, does not fail to note that the depreciation of silver has had no appreciable effect, up to the middle of August, on the prices of food and labour in that district. This statement corroborates the observations that have been made in other parts of Bengal; but it is a circumstance calculated to excite some surprise that there should have been no rise in prices in a metropolitan district like Hooghly, which is more than ordinarily affected by Calcutta influences. The Lieutenant-Governor is struck also by the following remarks recorded by the same Collector regarding the material condition of the people:—"I see," writes Sir W. Herschel, "no general mark of material improvement in the condition that the people enjoyed twenty years ago; the number of good houses and of pucca buildings has, however, certainly increased among, and more clothes are worn by, all classes above the labourer or agriculturalist. Well-fed cattle are more common, but starved ones decidedly more scarce than they used to be. Milk is now so valuable that calves have little chance of growing; grazing lands are few, and the Cattle Trespass Law is strong." The truth appears to be that Hooghly, more than the 24-Pergunnahs even, or any other district, has become, as it were, the Suburban settlement of Calcutta, and that the densely populated villages all along the banks of the river for more than twenty miles north of Howrah are peopled with a well-to-do metropolitan population, who are increasing in comfort and prosperity, while farther in the interior the increase in population and in the demand for food has put pressure on the cultivators, who have been gradually compelled to place even the worst soil under the plough, and are, as was clearly shown in the recent enquiries that were made, far inferior in material condition and prospects of improvement to the ryots of the eastern and north-eastern districts of these provinces. In parts of the Burdwan Division, such as Midnapore, the people have been in a very depressed condition, owing to the effects of the fever and to successive calamities of drought, inundation, and cyclones, but they have been fortunately much relieved by the good harvests of the past year.

4. The Burdwan Division is important as regards its manufactures. The jute and cotton mill industries are said to be enlarging themselves. There are at present five jute mills and three cotton mills in the division. The jute mills are mostly supplied with produce from Eastern Bengal, but Hooghly, and especially the southern part of the district, supplies a considerable quantity of the raw fibre which is said to be valuable on account of its superior strength. The manufacturing population is composed about equally of the natives of the place and of immigrants from western districts. It is observed by the Collector that the coolie population is beginning to acquire factory characteristics and to need the special attention of the Police and Excise Departments. Of other manufactures the most considerable are silk and indigo. The principal concerns in both these industries are those belonging to Messrs. Watson and Company in the Midnapore district. Although the indigo produce of the year was not favourable, yet it is said that at the end the yield turned out to be better than had been expected, and in some factories was above the average. The season was also a bad one for the mulberry; the silk-worms died, and the cocoons were few and bad. It is reported, moreover, that the year was generally an unfavourable one to the coal industry. There are stone quarries on the Sussunnia Hill in Bankoora which are again worked and will probably be extended, and there are also chalk quarries in this district.

5. No information is furnished in the Commissioner's report regarding the trade and commerce of the division during the year. The trade returns now being prepared by Government will, however, when they are complete, throw the fullest light upon this subject. Excluding the toll stations on the Midnapore canals, there is only one traffic registering station in the division, viz. that established at Hooghly. This has succeeded well. The Collector reports that there has never been the smallest difficulty in getting the boats to come to, and that the detention of boats has been scarcely ten minutes on the average. The boatmen have given the information required of them faithfully and readily, the registration of miscellaneous cargoes only occasioning some inconvenience.

6. The collection of trade statistics at Hooghly and on the Midnapore canals has been the most important statistical work of the year. In the district of Beerbhoom there are statistical enquiries of a general nature still in progress, which are conducted by a Special Deputy Collector, Baboo Janokee Nath Mozoomdar. The services of this officer have been made available for the current year also, and it is expected that the statistical survey of the whole district will be completed within this period. In the Midnapore district experiments were made by the Canal Engineers and the Deputy Revenue Superintendent of Canals, with a view to ascertain the yield of amun rice in similarly situated tracts of irrigated and unirrigated fields. The results may be summarised as follow :—

		Irrigated Land.		Unirrigated Land.
	Name of officer	Number of experiments	Average outturn per acre of paddy on irrigated land	Number of experiments.	Average outturn per acre of paddy on unirrigated land.
			Mds.		Mds
Midnapore weir	Executive Engineer	346	21 94	126	17 96
	Deputy Revenue Superintendent	109	20 89	75	15 75
Panchkoorah weir .	Executive Engineer	39	28 86	39	22 56
	Deputy Revenue Superintendent	25	25·60	25	25·90

7. These statistics, as Mr. Harrison, the Collector of Midnapore, observes, would seem to show that even in a year of such excellent rainfall as 1875 the water is worth more than its cost, i. e., Re. 1-8 an acre. But the Lieutenant-Governor cannot but remark that the outturn, both as regards irrigated and unirrigated areas, shows inequalities that were not to have been expected, and is smaller than is ordinarily derived from fertile soil in a favourable year. Separate experiments made at the Midnapore Jail, which have been elsewhere published by Government, show that as regards weight two-thirds of the paddy may be taken to be rice and one-third husk, but that as regards the cubical contents of unhusked rice, the proportions of rice and chaff are nearly equal.

8. The Lieutenant-Governor has read with much satisfaction the following remarks of the Collector of Hooghly regarding the administration of justice. Sir William Herschel writes :—"The great increase in respect for personal rights, the immense improvement in the personal behaviour of the police, especially in municipalities, the astonishing change in the style of evidence given in courts, the comparatively truthful, fearless, and untutored bearing of the common rustic when put on his affirmation, the disuse of false defences under a system of wholesome cross-examination of the prosecution, the large decrease in cases wholly artificial, the development of individual activity in the protection of public rights, the enlarged familiarity with the machinery of our judicial administration which the people show,—all these things, but most signally the hopeful change in the character of the evidence laid before the the court, afford me the strongest assurance that the system we are pursuing is radically affecting the character of the people in favour of truthfulness and right-minded self-respect" These remarks, from an officer of Sir William Herschel's ability and wide experience, afford a valuable testimony in favour of the administration of justice at the present compared with former times.

9. The most important irrigation work in the Burdwan Division is the Midnapore High Level Canal, which connects Oolooberiah, on the banks of the Hooghly, with the town of Midnapore. The Midnapore range of this canal commands about 100,000 acres of land, an area which is constantly expanding. The Panchkoorah range commands perhaps 50,000 acres more. There is also the Tidal Canal in Hidgellee, which contains brackish water, and is therefore unsuited for irrigation purposes, but is a very important channel for traffic. Among other large public works must be mentioned the embankments in Midnapore, of which nearly 1,000 miles in length are under management. The most important of all is the great sea dyke which has been finally placed in a state of complete efficiency from end to end during the year. The Dankoonee drainage works, in the district of Hooghly, which are reported to have been "of immense benefit to this part of the country," have been completed, but difficulty has been found in apportioning the cost against the proprietors of the lands which have been improved by the scheme.

10. The Road Cess and School Committees are said to have taken interest in their duties. In some of the districts the road operations have been hampered by want of funds, but the finances are now, it is believed, in a better condition. Education has been well attended to. In Midnapore, mass education, under the system of payment by results, admirably controlled by Mr. Harrison, continues to make rapid progress. In 1873 the number of boys at the village pathsalas was 28,000; in 1874 it was 35,000; by the end of 1875 it was 41,000: and the number of pathsalas during the three years had increased in proportion. The Commissioner reports that the Bankoora zillah school has been distinguished by sending up the candidate who passed first in Bengal at the entrance examination.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor observes with pleasure that amicable arrangements exist between landlords and tenants in the Bankoora district, and that Baboos Radha Bullubh Singh Deo, Damoodar Singh, and the Banerjees of Ajudhya, are specially commended among the resident landlords of the district for their liberality. The Maharanee of Burdwan and Rajah Jotendro Mohun Tagore are highly spoken of by the Collector of Midnapore as animated by a genuine desire to do their duty to their tenantry and spend money on drainage and improvements. Messrs. Watson and Co. are reported to be "strict and unsympathetic landlords, but able, and on the whole just."

Some very disastrous breaches took place, and Ghatal and the country round are reported to be all under water, and much damage has been done. Some hundred square miles of crop will have been more or less seriously injured, but everywhere else the late rice will yield a bumper crop.

NOTE.

Barometric Pressure.—The pressures in column 2 of the above table for all stations below 500 feet are reduced from those given in column 3 of the table on the previous page, by adding the weight of a column of air of the temperatures given in column 17. For stations above 500 feet elevation the reduction is made by Captain Allan Cunningham's table,—"Prof. papers on Indian Engineering. No. CXIII." The temperatures at the sea-level are taken from column 3 of the above table.

Temperature.—The temperatures in column 3 are reduced from those in column 17 on the preceding page, by adding 1° Fahrenheit for every 450 feet.

Wind Resultant.—The resultant wind direction and its comparative predominance are calculated from the whole number of wind observations recorded during the month. The relative predominance in the direction of the resultant is given as a percentage of the whole number of observations. The direction is computed in the usual way by Lambert's formula.

Clouds.—This column gives the average proportion of clouded sky, a cloudless sky being indicated by 0, and one completely overcast by 10.

The above being all comparable, afford the data for constructing a meteorological chart for the month, which shall show the isobaric and isothermal lines and the resultant wind directions, which last may be represented by arrows of varying length, proportioned to the prevalence of the wind. To these may be added the rainfall from the previous tables.

The mean barometer, as likewise the dry and wet bulb thermometer means, are derived from the twenty-four hourly observations made during the day.

The dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants. The figures in column 10 represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity. The receiver of the lower rain-gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the anemometer 70 feet 10 inches above the level of the ground. The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

PURNEAH COLLECTORATE, the 19th October 1876. W. KEMBLE, Collector.

NOTICE is hereby given, under Section 6, Act XI of 1859, that the undermentioned estates in the district of Midnapore will be put up to public and unreserved sale at the Collector's office of that district on the 28th day of November 1876, corresponding with 14th Ughran 1283 B.S. and 15th Ughran 1284 U.S., for arrears of revenue and other demands, which, by the Regulations and Acts in force, are directed to be realized in the same manner as arrears of revenue, due on the 28th day of June 1876. The Government share of the estate, 3 annas 8 gundas 3 koras 8½ tils, under Section 10, Act XI of 1859, the sudder jumma of which is Rs. 530-3-5, having been left unpaid to the extent of Rs. 936-7-3 on the last mentioned date, was brought under sale by fixing the date of sale on the 20th of September 1876, and on that date, as no one came forward to bid for it, the sale was postponed for ten days, to allow the other shareholder of the estate to pay the arrears of Government revenue and thus purchase the Government portion, but as he would neither pay the Government due nor purchase it, the whole estate is therefore brought under sale under Section 14 of the Act to be sold on the above-mentioned date.

Definition of rental.

and if any land is not let, but is held and occupied directly by the proprietors or any of them, the annual rent for which such land might reasonably be expected to let shall be deemed to be the rental of such land.

Exception 1.—If the rent payable by the cultivating ryots on account of any land shall have been determined by any Court of competent jurisdiction, or shall have been altered with the consent of the said ryots at any time during the said three years, the amount so determined, or the amount to which the rent may have been so altered, may, if the Collector think proper, be deemed to be the rental of the land.

Exception 2.—If any land is held on a permanent tenure which was created by all the proprietors of the estate, and which by any law for the time being in force is protected against the purchaser at a sale for arrears of revenue, the rent payable by the holder of such tenure shall be deemed to be the rental of such land.

Exception 3.—If any land is held on a tenure which, although not protected as aforesaid, is admitted by all the recorded proprietors of the estate to be a permanent tenure created by all the proprietors of the estate, subject only to the payment of an amount of rent fixed in perpetuity, and of such nature that the rent thereof is not liable to be enhanced under any circumstances by the proprietors of the said estate, or any person deriving his title from such proprietors, the rent payable by the holder of such tenure (whether he be known as talukdar, patnidar, mokarraridar, or by any other designation) shall be deemed to be the rental of such land.

Exception 4.—If any land be unoccupied, such amount as the Collector may determine, with reference to all the circumstances of the case, shall be deemed to be the rental of such land.

PART II.

OF THE RIGHT TO CLAIM PARTITION.

Who entitled to claim partition.

8. Except as hereinafter otherwise provided, every recorded proprietor of a joint undivided estate, who is in actual possession of the interest in respect of which he is so recorded, is entitled to claim a partition of the said estate, and the separation therefrom and assignment to him as a separate estate of lands representing the interest of which he is in such possession, provided that, and as far only as, such partition, separation, and assignment can be made in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

Any two or more such recorded proprietors may claim that lands representing the interests of all such claimants may be formed into one separate estate to be held by them as a joint undivided estate; and every provision of this Act which applies to an applicant for partition shall apply to any two or more persons making such joint claim.

Partition according to interest.

9. (a) If the interest of any recorded proprietor who is entitled to claim partition as aforesaid is an undivided share in an estate held in common tenancy, such person shall be entitled to have assigned to him as his separate estate lands of which the assets shall bear the same proportion to the assets of the parent estate as his undivided share in the parent estate bears to the entire parent estate.

(b) If the interest of such recorded proprietor is the proprietary right of certain specific mouzahs or lands forming part of the parent estate, and held by him in severalty, he shall be entitled to have assigned to him as his separate estate the said mouzahs or lands.

(c) If the interest of such recorded proprietor consists of an undivided share held in common tenancy in certain specific mouzahs or tracts forming part of the parent estate, but not extending over the whole area of the parent estate, he shall be entitled to have assigned to him as his separate estate lands situated within such specific mouzahs or tracts, of which the assets shall bear the same proportion to the assets of such specific mouzahs or tracts as his undivided share in such specific mouzahs or tracts bears to the entire mouzahs or tracts.

Provided that if the interest of such recorded proprietor consists of such undivided share in more than one mouzah or tract, he shall not be entitled to have lands assigned to him in every such mouzah or tract, but the Collector may assign to him as his separate estate lands situated in any one or more of the said mouzahs or tracts, provided that the assets of such lands are in proportion to the aggregate of the interests which he holds in all such mouzahs or tracts.

(d) If such recorded proprietor holds in the parent estate more than one of the kinds of interest specified in this section, lands shall be assigned to him as far as possible in accordance with the principles above laid down.

Life estate.

10. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, no person having a proprietary interest in an estate for the term of his life only shall be deemed to be a person entitled to claim partition under this Act.

No partition of a permanently-settled estate allowed if separate estate liable for less than one rupee annual land revenue until proprietor agrees to redeem.

11. No application for the partition of a permanently-settled estate shall be admitted, and if the application shall have been admitted, no partition shall be carried out in accordance with such application, if the separate estate of any of the proprietors would be liable for an annual amount of land revenue not exceeding one rupee, until the proprietor of such separate estate agrees to redeem the amount of revenue for which his estate would be liable, by payment of such sum as the Lieutenant-Governor may fix with reference to the circumstances of such estate.

Partition of an estate in which private division has been made, not to be made except on joint petition of proprietors or on order of Civil Court.

12. Whenever a division of the lands of any estate has been made by private arrangement of the proprietors thereof, and in accordance with such arrangement each proprietor is in possession of separate lands held in severalty as representing his interest in the estate, no such estate shall be brought under partition and no partition of such estate shall be made under this Act otherwise than on a joint petition presented under section one hundred and one or section one hundred and five by all the proprietors thereof, unless such partition shall have been ordered to be made by a Civil Court.

Under certain circumstances Collector may refuse to declare lands held in severalty to be a separate estate.

13. The Collector may refuse to admit an application for the formation of lands held in severalty into a separate estate, if in consequence of such lands being intermingled with those held by other proprietors the result of the partition would be to form out of a compact estate one or more estates consisting of scattered parcels of land, in such a way as, in the opinion of the Collector, to endanger the safety of the land revenue, and the Collector may at any time refuse to proceed with a partition which would have such a result.

But a partition may be allowed in such a case if the recorded proprietors shall agree to such a distribution of land as shall make the estates formed by the partition reasonably compact.

Nothing in this section shall be understood to prohibit the partition into separate estates of a parent estate which before such partition is not compact and consists only of scattered parcels of land.

14. No proprietor who has alienated any portion of his interest in an estate or in any specific lands of an estate, by private contract, with the condition that the transferee shall be liable in respect of the interest acquired by him to pay a specified amount or a specified share of the land revenue for which the estate is liable (such amount or share being other than the proportionate amount or the proportionate share for which such transferred interest if formed into a separate estate would be liable under the provisions of section six) ;

Interest alienated with special condition as to revenue liability.

and no proprietor who has derived his title from any proprietor who has made any alienation as aforesaid, shall be entitled to claim a separation under this Act of the interest which he continues to hold in the estate;

and no such transferee as aforesaid, and no person deriving his title from such transferee, shall be entitled to claim a separation of the interest which has been so acquired:

Provided that a separation of such interests may be made, if the parties concerned agree to waive the conditions of the contract as regards the proportion of revenue for which the transferor and transferee or their representatives respectively are liable, and to hold the estates which may be allotted to them respectively by the partition, subject to the payment of such amount of land revenue as may be assessed upon them respectively by the revenue authorities under his Act.

15. Notwithstanding that a parent estate may have been declared to be under partition as provided in section thirty-one, any arrears of revenue accruing due on such estate before the date specified in the notice issued under section one hundred and twenty-three may be realized by sale of the parent estate as if such estate had not been declared to be under partition; and if such sale takes place the partition proceedings shall cease from the date thereof.

Arrears of revenue may be realized by sale of parent estate.

16. Nothing contained in the last preceding section shall be deemed to affect the provisions of sections 10, 11, 12, 13, or 14 of Act XI of 1859 (an Act to improve the law relating to sales of lands for arrears of revenue), or any provisions of any similar law for the time being in force in respect to the opening of separate accounts for different shares in an estate, and the protection afforded to such shares thereby:

Shares may be protected from liability for arrears under laws in force.

Provided that if any share in any estate is sold for its own arrears of revenue while such estate is under partition in accordance with the provisions of this Act, such share shall be sold subject to the partition proceedings, which shall proceed as if no such sale had taken place; and the purchaser of the share sold may, from the date of such sale, exercise all the rights which the proprietor whose share he has purchased might have exercised, and shall be subject to all the liabilities to which such proprietor would have been subject, in respect of the partition proceedings.

PART III.

OF THE APPLICATION FOR PARTITION; THE ADMISSION OF AN ESTATE TO PARTITION; AND THE DISCONTINUANCE OF THE PARTITION PROCEEDINGS AFTER SUCH ADMISSION.

17. All applications for partition shall be made to the Collector of the district on the revenue-roll of which the estate is borne, and shall be made in person or by duly authorized agent, on paper bearing such stamp as may be required by any law for the time being in force.

Application for partition to be made to Collector of the district.

18. The application shall be signed by the applicant, and shall supply the following information in regard to the parent estate, so far as the particulars are known to the applicant or can be ascertained by him :—

Application to be signed, and certain particulars specified.

(a) name of the estate;

(b) number under which the estate is borne on the revenue-roll, and the revenue demand for which it is liable;

(c) number under which the estate is borne on the Collector's General Register of revenue-paying lands;

(d) name and address of every proprietor, whether recorded or unrecorded;

(e) the character and extent of the interest of which each proprietor is in possession;

(f) a specification of any lands held by all or any of the proprietors of the parent estate in common with all or any of the proprietors of other estates, and of the rights of such proprietors respectively in such lands.

19. Subject to the provisions of section sixty-one, every application shall, if possible, be accompanied by a copy of the rent-roll of the estate, by a statement of the rents collected from such estate on behalf of the applicant during each of the three years immediately preceding such application, and by copies of any measurement papers of the estate which the applicant may have in his possession.

Application must be accompanied by copy of rent-roll and statement of rents.

The said rent-roll, statement, and measurement papers shall be attested by the patwaris of the villages, if any, and every such application, rent-roll, and statement shall be presented, subscribed, and verified as provided in section fifty-two.

If the applicant is unable to produce a rent-roll or statement as above required, he shall state the reason of such inability, and the name and address of the person who has in his possession the information necessary for the preparation of such rent-roll and statement, and the Collector may, if he shall think fit, require such person to produce such rent-roll and statement.

20. If the application does not fulfil the requirements of the three last preceding sections, the Collector may reject such application or may order it to be amended.

Collector may reject application.

21. If, in the opinion of the Collector, the application fulfils the said requirements and there appears to be no objection to making the partition, the Collector shall publish a Procedure of Collector on receipt of application.

and every person or body of persons so declared entitled to recover any extent of interest from any such proprietor or body of proprietors shall, for the purposes of the partition proceedings, be deemed to have the same rights, and to be subject to the same liabilities, as a person who has acquired such extent of interest from such proprietor or body of proprietors by private purchase after the estate was brought under partition under section thirty-one, and on the date on which the decree was passed;

and such person or body of persons may apply, as in this Act provided, for the separation and assignment to him, or them, of the lands representing the extent of interest so acquired;

and such application shall be dealt with as provided in section thirty-two.

28. Every decree passed after the date specified in the notice under section one hundred and twenty-three, in a suit which was instituted as mentioned in section twenty-six, shall be made in recognition of the partition proceedings, and shall be framed in such manner as to give effect to such division of the parent estate into separate estates as shall have been made by the Collector, and not to disturb such division; and if the Civil Court may order partition.

29. Subject to the provisions of section eleven, a Civil Court may at any time direct the Collector to assign to any person lands representing a specified interest in any estate or in any specified village or tract of land in an estate, to be held by such person as a separate estate, or to divide off from any estate any specified villages or lands, and to assign them to any person to be held as a separate estate, provided that an application for such partition and separation shall be presented by such person, as required by sections seventeen, eighteen, and nineteen; but no Civil Court shall in any case specify the amount of revenue for which any separate estate which it may direct to be formed under the provisions of this section shall be liable.

In such proceeding the Collector shall declare the extent of interest in the parent estate which he finds to be held by the applicant, or joint applicants; and, if more than one separate application for separation shall have been made and admitted, the extent of interest which he finds to be held by every separate applicant, or body of joint applicants, respectively;

and that lands proportionate to the interest so declared to remain to the recorded proprietor, or the number of recorded proprietors who are not applicants, shall be left forming a separate estate.

Subsequent application for separation of another share.

32. If at any time after the Collector has made an order for partition under the last preceding section, any recorded proprietor in the estate, other than the original applicant, shall apply for the separation of his share, the Collector may either order that the proceedings for effecting such separation shall be carried on simultaneously with those for separating the share of the original applicant, or if he consider that such a course would entail delay in the completion of the original proceedings, he may order that no action shall be taken on such subsequent application until after the proceedings for the separation of the original applicant's share shall have been completed.

In the latter case all or any of the rent-rolls, measurements, and other papers which were used in the separation of the original applicant's share, may be used, as far as they are applicable, in the partition for which subsequent application has been made.

Collector may refer application for partition to any Deputy Collector.

40. The cost shall be apportioned on the proprietors of each share in proportion to their shares; but whenever it shall appear to the Commissioner that the partition proceedings have been unnecessarily delayed, and the cost of the partition enhanced by obstacles vexatiously put in the way of their completion by one or more of the proprietors,. or by want of due diligence on the part of one or more of the proprietors in carrying out any requisitions made upon him or them, the Commissioner may direct that such portion of the cost as he may think proper in excess of the amount proportionate to his or their share shall be levied from such proprietor or proprietors.

Apportionment of costs.

Deputy Collector may declare cost of local enquiry.

42. Upon the completion of the partition, the Collector shall make an order declaring the total cost thereof. The account shall then be adjusted, either by returning to the proprietors any sums which they may have paid in excess of the total cost, or by levying from them in the manner provided in section one hundred and thirty-eight, if necessary, any sums remaining due.

After completion of partition Collector shall declare total cost thereof.

43. Whenever it shall appear to the Lieutenant-Governor that in any district the work required to be done by Deputy Collectors in connection with partitions under this Act is so great that such work would, if concentrated in the hands of one or more Deputy Collectors, fully occupy the time of such one or more Deputy Collectors, the Lieutenant-Governor may make an order directing that the salary of such one or more Deputy Collectors, as the case may be, shall be recovered from the proprietors of estates under partition in such district as part of the cost of such partitions, and thereupon such charge as the Collector may think fit to make in respect of such salary shall, in addition to the items mentioned in the last preceding section, be deemed to be a portion of the costs of every partition.

Scale of fees.

47. Such scale of fees shall be fixed as nearly as may be, so that the receipts and expenditure of the said fund shall balance one another, and shall be revised from time to time by the Board for that purpose.

Such fees shall be levied from the proprietors in such instalments and at such times during the progress of the partition as may be fixed in accordance with any rules which the Board may make in that behalf, and the provisions of section forty shall be applicable to such fees.

that the party or parties who may have withheld the right so decreed shall defray the whole of the expense which may be incurred in and about the partition, or the whole of the fees payable in respect of the partition under section forty-six,

General arrangement of partition to be submitted for sanction of Collector.

75. The general arrangement of the partition as determined under the last preceding section, shall be submitted for the sanction of the Collector, who shall by notice fix a date for the consideration of the same, not being less than fifteen days after the publication of the said notice in his office, and after hearing and disposing of any objection which may be preferred, shall pass such orders as he may think proper, setting aside, amending, or approving the general arrangement made by the Deputy Collector.

Deputy Collector to fix boundaries.

76. When the general arrangement has been approved by the Collector, the Deputy Collector shall proceed to fix the exact boundaries of each separate estate, after considering the wishes which the parties may express in respect thereof.

Deputy Collector to draw up paper of partition and map.

77. When the Deputy Collector shall have so determined the boundaries, he shall cause to be drawn up a paper of partition specifying in detail the villages and lands which he has included in each of the separate estates, the rental thereof, with any other assets of each separate estate, the name or names of the recorded proprietor or proprietors of each separate estate, any stipulations which may have been made regarding places of worship, tanks, or other matters as mentioned in Part VIII, and the amount of land revenue to be assessed on each separate estate; he shall also prepare a map showing the lands which fall within each separate estate and the boundaries thereof, unless the preparation of such map shall be dispensed with by special permission of the Collector.

Deputy Collector to submit papers to Collector.

78. The Deputy Collector shall submit the partition paper and map as aforesaid and all other papers of the partition to the Collector with a full report of the proceedings taken, the reasons which influenced the Deputy Collector in selecting the lands included in each separate estate, the nature of the accounts upon which the apportionment of the land revenue assessed thereon has been based, and all other particulars material to the case.

Deputy Collector to prepare extracts of partition papers for each proprietor.

79. The Deputy Collector shall at the same time cause to be prepared a separate extract of the portion of the partition paper which relates to each separate estate, and shall cause to be tendered to any recorded proprietor of a separate estate, or any authorized agent of such proprietor, who may be in attendance at the Deputy Collector's office, the extract which relates to such separate estate;

and the Deputy Collector shall publish a notice at his office calling upon every proprietor to whom or to whose agent an extract from the partition paper has not been tendered as above mentioned, to take out of the Deputy Collector's office the extract of the portion of the partition paper relating to his separate estate.

If the circumstances of the partition so require, an extract of the map prepared by the Deputy Collector, or a copy of such map, shall be annexed to every separate extract from the partition paper herein mentioned.

On receipt of papers and report Collector to publish notification.

80. On receipt of the papers and report mentioned in section seventy-eight, the Collector shall cause a notification to be published in the manner prescribed by section one hundred and thirty-four fixing a date, not being less than six weeks from the date of the publication of such notification on the parent estate, on which he will proceed to take up the case, and to consider any representations and objections which may be preferred in respect of the partition made by the Deputy Collector, and calling on all parties concerned who may wish to do so, to inspect the papers at his office before such date, and to take copies of any such papers as they may require.

The Collector shall also cause a notice to the same effect to be served on each of the recorded proprietors.

81. On the date so fixed, or on any other date to which the hearing may have been postponed, the Collector shall take into consideration the papers as laid before him, and after calling for any further information which he may deem necessary, and disposing of any objections which shall be made to the proposed partition and allotment of land revenue, may approve the partition as made by the Deputy Collector with such amendments as he may think proper, or return it for amendment to the Deputy Collector who made it, or to another Deputy Collector, or make a fresh partition himself.

Procedure of Collector thereupon.

The Collector may return the said papers for amendment or enquiry as often as he may think fit.

82. No proprietor who shall have failed to appear before the Deputy Collector in person or by agent on any date fixed for the arrangement of the partition under section sixty-three or section seventy-two, and no proprietor who shall have failed so to appear before the Collector on any date fixed under either of the two last preceding sections, shall be entitled, at any subsequent time, to make any objection to the orders which may be passed on such dates respectively.

Proprietor when not entitled to make subsequent objection.

83. When the Collector approves the partition made by the Deputy Collector with amendments, he may cause a fresh partition paper and map to be prepared, or may cause the amendments made by him to be noted on the paper and map submitted by the Deputy Collector.

Collector may cause a fresh partition paper and map to be prepared.

When the Collector makes a fresh partition himself, he shall cause a fresh partition paper and map to be prepared.

84. Whenever the Collector shall have approved a partition (whether with or without amendments), he shall cause a notice to be served on each of the recorded proprietors that the papers will be submitted at once for confirmation of the partition by the Commissioner, and that any appeals or objections must be presented to the Commissioner, or to the Collector for transmission to the Commissioner, within thirty days of the date of the service of the said notice, or, if the Collector has approved the partition with amendments, and the notice requires the proprietor to produce the extract of any partition in order that amendments may be noted thereon, or to take out a fresh extract from the partition paper, as provided in the next succeeding section, then within six weeks of such date.

Procedure when Collector approves of a partition without amendment.

85. Whenever the Collector shall have approved a partition with amendments, and shall, under section eighty-three, have caused such amendments to be noted on the partition paper and map submitted by the Deputy Collector, the notice to be served on each of the recorded proprietors under the last preceding section shall, in the case of every such proprietor whose separate estate is affected by such amendments, in addition to the particulars mentioned in the said section, require such proprietor to produce before the Collector, within fifteen days of the service of such notice, the extract from the paper of partition which has been prepared, and any map relating to his separate estate which may have been prepared, under section seventy-nine, in order that the amendments made by the Collector in the partition may be noted thereon; and such amendments shall be noted thereon by the Collector accordingly, and such extract and map shall be returned to the proprietor who produced them.

Procedure when Collector approves partition paper with amendments.

Whenever the Collector shall have caused, under section eighty-three, a new partition paper and map to be prepared, he shall order separate extracts from the portions of the partition paper which relate to each separate estate, and maps, if necessary, to be prepared as required by section seventy-nine, and in such case the notice served under the last preceding section shall, in addition to the particulars mentioned in that section, declare the extracts and maps which were furnished or offered to proprietors under section seventy-nine to be cancelled, and shall require the recorded proprietors to take out of the Collector's office such extracts and maps relating to their respective separate estates.

86. As soon as practicable after the issue of the notice under section eighty-four the Collector shall forward to the Commissioner all papers relating to the partition as approved or as made by the Collector.

Papers to be forwarded to Commissioner.

PART VIII.

OF THE GENERAL PRINCIPLES ON WHICH PARTITIONS SHALL BE MADE.

Rules applicable to the partition of lands which are held by the proprietors in common tenancy.

87. Each separate estate shall be made as compact as is compatible with the primary object of making an equitable partition among the proprietors, and with the other provisions of this Part, but no partition made or approved by a Collector shall be set aside on the ground only that the separate estates are not compact.

Estates formed in course of partition to be as compact as possible.

88. In selecting the villages or lands to be assigned to each separate estate formed out of a parent estate which has been held in common tenancy, the Collector shall take into consideration

Circumstances to be considered in making partitions.

the advantages or disadvantages arising from situation;

the vicinity of roads, railways, navigable rivers, or canals;

the nature and quality of the soil and produce;

the quantity of cultivable and uncultivable waste land;

the facilities for irrigation;

the state of the embankments and water-courses;

liability to accretion and diluvion,

and any other circumstances affecting the value of the lands.

89. If a dwelling-house belonging to one proprietor is situated on any land which it may be necessary to include in the separate estate of another proprietor, the owner of such

Rule when dwelling-house belonging to one proprietor is situated on ground to be allotted to another proprietor.

house may retain occupation thereof with the offices, buildings, and grounds immediately attached thereto, upon agreeing to pay rent for the land occupied by such dwelling-house, offices, buildings, and grounds to the proprietor of the separate estate in which such land is included.

The limits of the land so occupied and the rent to be paid for it in perpetuity shall be fixed by the Deputy Collector, and shall be stated in the paper of partition.

In every such case a defined pathway shall, as far as possible, be secured to the owner of the house, leading from his house to some portion of the separate estate allotted to him.

Rule contained in last preceding section may be applied to gardens, orchards, &c.

90. Whenever the Deputy Collector shall think fit, he may apply the rule contained in the last preceding section to gardens, to orchards of trees, to land planted with bamboos, and to any other lands which in his opinion are of special value to the proprietor in whose occupation they are found to be, in consequence of improvements made by such proprietor or of the particular use to which such lands are put.

Calculation of rental.

91. The rent fixed in perpetuity on any land by the Deputy Collector under either of the two last preceding sections shall be considered to be the rental of such land for the purposes of the partition.

Rent may be redeemed.

92. Whenever the dwelling-house of one proprietor, with the offices, buildings, and grounds immediately attached thereto, shall have been included in the separate estate of another proprietor, and the annual rent to be paid in perpetuity in respect of the land occupied thereby shall have been fixed by the Deputy Collector and stated in the paper of partition, the proprietor whose dwelling-house, offices, buildings, and grounds have been included as aforesaid may apply to the Deputy Collector for permission to redeem the annual rent so fixed, and the Deputy Collector shall give such permission, unless he shall be of opinion that such redemption would endanger the safety of the land revenue for the payment of which the separate estate in which such dwelling-house, offices, buildings, and grounds have been included will be liable.

Deputy Collector to certify amount payable in redemption of rent.

93. If the Deputy Collector shall see no such reason to refuse his permission to the redemption being made, he shall certify the amount payable by such proprietor in redemption of such annual rent; and such amount shall be calculated and fixed by the Deputy Collector at ten per centum above the sum which would be required to purchase, at the market prices then prevailing, so much stock of the Government loan which was last issued as would yield an annual amount of interest equal to the annual land rent fixed by the Deputy Collector under section eighty nine.

But not after possession of separate estates has been given.

94. The proprietor desiring to redeem the rent as aforesaid, may pay to the Deputy Collector the amount so certified at any time before possession is given to the several proprietors of the separate estates allotted to each, as provided in section one hundred and twenty-three, but not after such possession has been given.

Notice of payment to be given; and land to be held rent-free.

95. On receipt of such payment, the Deputy Collector shall give notice to the proprietor in whose separate estate such land is situated that such payment has been made, and that the sum will be paid to him or to his authorized agent on application; and that from the date on which possession as aforesaid may be given, the proprietor who has redeemed the rent of such land will be entitled to hold such land as a rent-free tenure secured against the proprietor of the estate and against any auction purchaser at a sale for arrears of revenue, including the Government; and from such date the lands shall be so held as a rent-free tenure.

Collector to register rent-free tenure.

96. The Deputy Collector shall at the same time also give notice to the Collector of the district of the creation of such tenure; and the Collector of the district shall thereupon cause such tenure to be specially registered in the manner provided by section 42 of Act XI of 1859, or by any similar law for the time being in force.

Lots may be drawn for equal shares.

97. When two or more of the separate estates shall consist of the same proportions of the parent estate, the Deputy Collector may, if he thinks proper, direct the parties entitled thereto respectively to draw lots in his presence for the equal separate estates which have been formed by assignment of lands, unless the recorded proprietors of the equal shares shall agree among themselves as to the allotment of the equal separate estates and shall present a petition to that effect; or unless for any other reason the Deputy Collector shall, with the sanction of the Collector, think proper to assign the equal separate estates to the proprietors of the equal shares without causing lots to be drawn.

Order and method of drawing lots when aggregate of two or more shares equals one other share.

98. When the aggregate of two or more shares equals one other share or equals the aggregate of two or more other shares, the Deputy Collector, with the sanction of the Collector, may cause such aggregate shares to be treated as one share for the purpose of determining by lots as aforesaid which portion of the parent estate shall be assigned to each proprietor as his separate estate;

and may decide which shares shall be formed into one aggregate share for the purpose of causing such lots to be drawn;

and may cause lots to be drawn in like manner as often as he shall think proper for such purpose.

And after lots shall have been drawn once (or more than once if necessary) as aforesaid, the Deputy Collector shall proceed to divide the portion of the parent estate which has fallen by lot to each aggregate share, among the proprietors of the different shares which were formed into such aggregate share for the purpose of drawing lots, and shall assign to every such proprietor his separate estate within such portion in such position as the Deputy Collector may think proper.

Provided that lots shall in no case be drawn until after full opportunity shall have been given to the proprietors to advance their objections in respect of the papers accepted as the basis of the partition and in respect of the assets of the different lands as stated in such papers, and until any such objections which may have been made shall have been disposed of.

Illustrations.

I.—The partition of a parent estate is being made into the following shares:—

8 annas.
4 annas.
3 annas.
1 anna.

For the purposes of drawing lots, the 4 annas, 3 annas, and 1 anna share may be taken together, and considered to be an aggregate 8 annas share.

The Deputy Collector will divide the parent estate into two halves of equal value; and will then cause lots to be drawn, in order to determine which of the two halves shall be assigned to the proprietor of the integral 8 annas share, and which shall be divided among the proprietors of the 4 annas, 3 annas, and 1 anna shares.

Subsequently, if necessary, the Deputy Collector may again cause lots to be drawn by the proprietor of the 4 annas share on the one hand, and the proprietors of the aggregate share made up by taking together the 3 annas share and the 1 anna share.

II.—The partition is being made of a parent estate into the following shares:—

6 annas.
4 annas.
3 annas.
2 annas.
1 anna.

Two tracts in the estate may first be marked off, the value of each being equivalent to a 6 annas share, and then, for the purpose of drawing lots in respect of the assignment of these two tracts, the 4 annas share and the 2 annas share may be taken together as an aggregate 6 annas share, and lots may be drawn between the proprietor of the aggregate 6 annas share so formed on the one hand, and the proprietor of the integral 6 annas share on the other.

One of the two 6 annas tracts having thus been finally assigned to the proprietor of the integral 6 annas share, the Deputy Collector will proceed to assign the rest of the estate among the remaining sharers, and he may again, for the purpose of causing lots to be drawn mark off two tracts the value of each of which shall be equivalent to 5 annas of the parent estate, and may cause lots to be drawn for these two tracts between the proprietors of the 4 annas share and the 1 anna share taken together as an aggregate 5 annas share on the one hand, and the proprietors of the 3 annas share and the 2 annas share taken together as another 5 annas share on the other.

Finally, their separate estates will be assigned to the proprietor of the 4 annas share and of the 1 anna share respectively, within the tract which fell to them jointly by lot; and their separate estates will be assigned to the proprietors of the 3 annas share and of the 2 annas share respectively within the tract which fell to them jointly by lot.

Deputy Collector may require proprietors to attend or appoint agent for the purpose of drawing lots.

99. The Deputy Collector may, by a notice served as provided in section one hundred and thirty-five, require any proprietor in respect of whose share lots are to be drawn as provided in either of the two last preceding sections, to attend at the office of the Deputy Collector in person or by authorized agent at a time to be fixed by the Deputy Collector for the purpose of drawing lots;

and may similarly require the proprietors of any shares which he may have ordered to be formed into an aggregate share for the purpose of drawing lots, jointly to appoint an agent to draw lots on their joint behalf; and if at the time fixed for drawing such lots such proprietors have failed to agree to any such joint appointment, or shall fail to cause the attendance of an agent authorized to act jointly for all such proprietors, all such proprietors shall be deemed to have failed to comply with the Deputy Collector's requisition.

In default Deputy Collector may appoint a person to draw lots.

100. Whenever any proprietor or proprietors shall have failed to comply with a requisition of the Deputy Collector under the last preceding section, the Deputy Collector may appoint a person to draw lots on behalf of such proprietor or proprietors.

Rules applicable to the formation into separate estates of lands which are held by proprietors in severalty.

Joint petition may be presented for partition according to private division.

101. Whenever in any parent estate a division of the lands thereof has been made by private arrangement of the proprietors of such estate, and in accordance with such arrangement each proprietor is in possession of separate lands held in severalty as representing his interest in such parent estate, the joint application presented to the Collector by all the recorded proprietors of such estate as required by section twelve may be to the effect that a partition of such estate be made by assigning to each proprietor or to two or more proprietors jointly as his or their separate estate, the lands of which they are in separate possession in accordance with such arrangement, and also that each separate estate so formed be made liable for such portion of the entire land revenue of the parent estate, as was paid by the proprietor or proprietors thereof under the private arrangement aforesaid.

Partition according to private division to be referred to Collector.

102. The Deputy Collector who is appointed to carry out the partition in accordance with such application, shall satisfy himself that the assets of each separate estate which it is proposed to form are sufficient to secure the payment of the annual amount of land revenue for which it is proposed to make such separate estate liable, and if the Deputy Collector be satisfied that in this respect, and with reference to all the circumstances of the case, that the partition of the lands and the assessment of the revenue thereon may be made in the manner proposed without endangering the safety of the revenue, the Deputy Collector shall submit the case with his opinion thereon, and the reasons on which such opinion is founded, to the Collector, who may admit or reject the said application.

Effect of Collector's approval.

103. If the Collector admits the said application, such admission shall be deemed to be the Collector's approval of the general arrangement of the partition as provided in section seventy-five, and the Deputy Collector shall proceed to complete the partition accordingly.

Such partition may be refused.

104. If the Deputy Collector, who is appointed to carry out the partition in accordance with a joint application under section one hundred and one, is not satisfied that the partition of the lands and the assessment of the revenue payable thereon can be made in the manner proposed without endangering the safety of the public revenue, or if the Collector rejects the application for such partition, the Deputy Collector shall refuse to make the same.

105. Whenever the proprietors of an estate are, in accordance with a private arrangement as aforesaid, respectively in possession of separate lands held in severalty as representing their respective interests in the estate, the joint application presented to the Collector by all the recorded proprietors of the estate as required by section twelve, may be to the effect that a partition of such estate be made by assigning to each proprietor, or to two or more proprietors jointly, as his or their separate estate, the lands of which they are in possession in accordance with such arrangement, and that the land revenue for which the parent estate is liable may be apportioned among the separate estates so formed in accordance with the provisions of section six.

Joint petition may be presented for partition of land in accordance with private division with proportional redistribution of public revenue.

A joint application under this section may be made notwithstanding that a joint application under section one hundred and one has been refused in respect of the same estate.

106. Whenever the Deputy Collector who is appointed to carry out a partition, shall find that in accordance with a private arrangement made by the proprietors of an estate, the proprietors respectively, or any of the proprietors, are in possession of separate lands held in severalty as representing portions only of their respective interests in the parent estate, while other lands of the parent estate are held in common tenancy between such proprietors, a joint application as mentioned in section twelve shall not be necessary to authorize the Collector to make a partition of the estate, but the Deputy Collector shall allot to the separate estate of each proprietor the lands of which such proprietor is found to be in possession in severalty, in accordance with such private arrangement.

Lands of which each proprietor is in possession to be allotted to him.

Lands held in the occupation of the several proprietors of an estate as sir, khamar, or nij-jote, or under any other similar denomination, shall not be deemed to be lands held in severalty as representing portions of their respective interests in the parent estate within the meaning of this section, which applied only to cases in which there has been a bond fide division, by private arrangement among the proprietors, of lands held by tenants.

107. Notwithstanding anything contained in the last preceding section, the Collector may cause any transfer of lands agreed to by the parties to be made from the possession of one proprietor to that of another.

Collector may cause transfer of lands agreed to by parties.

Rules applicable both to lands held in common tenancy and to lands held in severalty.

108. Places of worship, burning grounds, and burial grounds which have been held in common previous to the partition of an estate, and lands of which the proceeds have been assigned by the proprietors jointly for religious, charitable, or public purposes, shall continue to be held in common, unless the proprietors shall otherwise agree amongst themselves, in which case they shall state in writing the agreement into which they have entered, and the Deputy Collector shall enter a note of the agreement in the paper of partition.

Rule as to places of worship.

109. Tanks, wells, water-courses, and embankments shall be considered as attached to the land for the benefit of which they were originally made.

Rule as to tanks, wells, water-courses, and embankments.

In cases in which, from the extent, situation, or construction of such works, it shall be found necessary that they should remain the joint property of the proprietors of two or more of the separate estates, the paper of partition shall specify, as far as the circumstances may admit, the extent to which the proprietors of each of such estates may make use of the same, and the proportion of the charges for repairs to be borne by them respectively

110. Whenever the Deputy Collector shall find in the parent estate lands which are actually held rent-free (whether the proprietors of the estate do or do not claim a right to receive rent from such lands), the Deputy Collector shall make no division or assignment of such lands among the separate estates, but shall specify in the partition papers and proceedings that such lands are left appertaining jointly to all the separate estates which are formed out of the parent estate, in the proportion which each separate estate bears to the parent estate.

Lands held rent-free not to be divided.

Provided that such lands or any of them may be allotted among the different separate estates with the consent of all the recorded proprietors of the parent estate, but not otherwise.

111. Whenever the Deputy Collector shall find in the parent estate any lands which are held at a fixed rent on a patni or other permanent intermediate tenure falling within Exception 2 or Exception 3 of section seven, the Deputy Collector may either

Rule as to permanent intermediate tenures.

(1) assign the lands which are held on such tenure and the assets thereof entirely to one or more of the separate estates, the rental being calculated as provided in Exception 2 or in Exception 3 (as the case may be) of section seven; or

(2) leave such lands unassigned to any separate estate, and specify in the partition paper and proceedings that the lands are left appertaining jointly to all the separate estates which are formed out of the parent estate in the proportion which each separate estate bears to the parent estate. In the event of such lands being so left undivided, the Deputy Collector shall assign to each separate estate such share of the rental of the tenure as shall bear the same proportion to the entire rental of the tenure, as the separate estate bears to the parent estate.

In dealing with a tenure under this section, the Deputy Collector shall take into consideration the extent of the lands comprised in the tenure, and all other circumstances of the case.

112. Whenever any lands are held in common between the proprietors of two or more estates, one of which is under partition in accordance with the provisions of this Act, the Deputy Collector shall first allot to the estate under partition a portion of such common lands of which the assets are in proportion to the interest which Lands held in common between the proprietors of two or more estates how to be dealt with.

the proprietors of such estate hold in the said common lands; and all the provisions of this Act in respect of the allotment between the shareholders in one estate, of lands which are held jointly by such shareholders, shall, as far as possible, apply to the allotment of the proportionate share of such common lands to the estate under partition;

and, in respect of the service of notices, hearing of objections, and all other procedure in view to such allotment, the proprietors of the estate under partition, and the proprietors of all other estates who have an interest in the said common lands, shall be deemed to be joint proprietors of a parent estate consisting only of the lands so held in common.

Provided that all expenses of any division of lands so held in common between the proprietors of two or more estates shall be deemed to be expenses of making the partition of the estate which is under partition, and shall be leviable as provided by this Act from the proprietors of such estate, and the proprietors of any other estate having an interest in such lands shall not be required to bear any portion of such expenses.

Proprietors of other estates may be required to pay a portion of expenses of partition.

113. Notwithstanding anything contained in the last preceding section, if it shall appear to the Commissioner, on the report of the Collector or otherwise, that the proceedings for such division have been unnecessarily delayed, and the cost of such division enhanced by obstacles vexatiously put in the way of the completion of such division by any proprietor of any estate other than that under partition, or by want of due diligence on the part of any such proprietor in carrying out any requisitions made upon him, the Commissioner may direct that such sum as he shall think fit shall be levied from every such proprietor who is responsible for such delay or additional cost, and every sum so levied shall be taken in diminution of the amount payable by the proprietors of the estate under partition as costs of such partition.

Allotment of lands held in common to be sanctioned by Collector.

114. The allotment to the estate under partition of the proportionate share of the lands so held in common shall be submitted for the approval of the Collector, who may confirm, amend, or reject the same, and in the case of rejection, may make or direct to be made another allotment.

The portion of such common lands assigned to estate under partition how to be dealt with.

115. As soon as the allotment to the estate under partition of a proportionate share of the said lands shall have been approved by the Collector, the lands so allotted shall be dealt with in every respect as if they were held in common tenancy by such of the proprietors of the estate under partition as were found to hold interests in the common lands.

Procedure when dispute exists as to whether any lands form part of the parent estate.

116. If a dispute or doubt shall be found to exist as to whether any lands form part of the parent estate, the Deputy Collector shall enquire into the fact of possession, and shall report his conclusions, with the reasons thereof, to the Collector; whereupon the Collector may (whether the possession of disputed lands is with the proprietors of the parent estate or otherwise) order that the partition be struck off the file, and in that case no application for a partition of the said estate shall be admitted until the applicant can show that the dispute or doubt has been decided by a court of competent jurisdiction, or has been amicably settled; or, if the Collector shall find that possession of the disputed lands is with the proprietors of the parent estate, and if it shall appear to him that the claim of the other parties to the right in such lands is untenable, he may order that the partition shall proceed, and that the disputed lands be treated as part of the estate under partition.

Procedure when Collector thinks that lands belong to parent estate.

Provided that no partition shall be made under this section, if such partition would involve the assignment to any separate estate of such a quantity of the disputed land that the removal of such land from such estate would, in the opinion of the Collector, endanger the safety of the land revenue for which such estate would be liable after the partition.

Procedure when partition completed and proprietor of an estate dispossessed by order of a competent court.

117. If, after a partition has been completed in accordance with an order passed by the Collector under clause three of the last preceding section, the proprietor of any separate estate shall be dispossessed by a decree of a court of competent jurisdiction of any lands which may have been assigned to his estate by the partition, such proprietor shall not be entitled to claim any modification of the partition (which shall hold good), but shall be entitled to recover from the proprietors of the other separate estates formed by the partition such compensation as may be fair and equitable having regard to the reduction in the proportionate value of his separate estate which is caused by such dispossession;

and such compensation may be recovered in a court of competent jurisdiction from the proprietors of those separate estates on which a proportionate share of the total loss caused by the order of dispossession does not fall.

PART IX.

OF THE PROCEDURE BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER UP TO THE COMPLETION OF THE PARTITION.

If no appeal presented, Commissioner may consider the case without issue of notice.

118. If no appeal or objection shall be presented within the time allowed by section eighty-four, the Commissioner may proceed to consider the case without issue of any notice, and may confirm the partition made by the Collector.

Commissioner to fix a day for hearing case.

119. If it shall appear to the Commissioner that the proceedings of the Collector should be amended, or if a petition of appeal or an objection shall have been presented within the time allowed by section eighty-four, the Commissioner shall fix a day for hearing and disposing of the case, and shall cause a notification of the same to be published and a notice of the same to be posted up in his own office.

Commissioner to confirm, amend, or return petition.

120. On the day so fixed, which shall not be less than thirty days after the publication of the said notification at the office of the Collector, or on any subsequent day to which the hearing of the case may extend, or on any subsequent day to which the hearing may have been postponed by a notice published in his own office, the Commissioner shall, after hearing and disposing of all objections, and calling for any further information which may be necessary, either confirm the partition as made by the Collector or amend the same, or return the papers of the partition to the Collector for any changes the Commissioner may think proper to be made.

If the partition is returned to the Collector for amendment, the Collector shall proceed to make the said amendments or to cause them to be made in the same manner as if he had himself passed such orders on a partition submitted to him for approval by a Deputy Collector.

Commissioner may return papers for amendment or inquiry.

121. The Commissioner may, before confirming a partition, return the papers for amendment or inquiry as often as he shall think fit, and as often as he shall so return them the procedure prescribed in the three last preceding sections shall be followed.

Procedure by Collector on receipt of order of Commissioner or of Board of Revenue on appeal.

122. After the expiration of not less than sixty days from the date of the order of the Commissioner confirming a partition, or, if an appeal has been preferred to the Board, or if any proceedings in respect of the partition be pending before the Board, then on receipt of the final order of the Board determining that the partition as sanctioned by the Commissioner shall not be disturbed, the Collector shall cause to be published in his office, and in some conspicuous place in each of the estates separately constituted by such order, a notice that the partition has been finally confirmed as it was sanctioned by the Commissioner, or with any amendments or alterations, as the case may be.

If the partition as finally sanctioned involves any amendments which may conveniently be made on the extracts of the partition paper and on any maps which have been prepared and delivered or offered by notice to the recorded proprietors as required by section seventy-nine or section eighty-five, the Collector shall cause a notice to be served on every recorded proprietor whose estate is affected by such amendments requiring him to produce such extracts and maps in order that such amendments may be noted on them;

and if the alterations made in the partition as finally sanctioned be such as to make it desirable to prepare fresh extracts and maps as aforesaid, the Collector shall cause such fresh extracts and maps to be prepared; and shall cause a notice to be served on each proprietor declaring the extract and map which was furnished or offered to him under section seventy-nine or section eighty-five, as the case may be, to be cancelled, and requiring him to take out of the Collector's office the fresh extract and map which have been prepared.

Procedure as to giving possession of separate estates.

123. The Collector shall then proceed to give the several proprietors possession of the separate estates allotted to each, and if necessary, may require the assistance of the Magistrate in giving such possession; and shall cause to be served on every recorded proprietor of a separate estate a notice informing him that from the date specified in such notice, the separate estate assigned to him (as described in the extract from the partition paper prepared and delivered or offered to him under section seventy-nine, section eighty-five, or the last preceding section, as the case may be) will be deemed to be separated from the parent estate, and to be separately liable for the amount of land revenue specified in such notice, and calling upon him to enter into a separate engagement for the payment of such revenue.

Date specified in notice under preceding section.

124. The date specified in such notice shall not be more than three months after the proprietors have been put in possession of their respective separate estates as herein provided.

Each separate estate to be borne on the revenue roll as separately liable for revenue assessed upon it.

125. From the date specified in such notice, each separate estate shall be borne on the revenue roll and General Register of the Collector as a distinct estate separately liable for the amount of land revenue assessed upon it under this Act; and shall be so liable, whether the proprietor have executed an agreement for the payment of the amount of land revenue so assessed upon the said estate, or whether he shall have failed to execute such agreement.

Collector may direct the construction of boundary marks.

126. The Collector may direct the construction of such boundary marks as he may think proper to distinguish the lands of each separate estate, and the cost of such boundary marks shall be deemed to be expenses of the partition.

Boundary marks erected under this Act shall be assigned to zemindars, or to zemindars jointly with tenure-holders, for preservation, as provided in the second clause of section 29 of "The Bengal Survey Act, 1875," and after they have been so assigned, the provisions of sections 19, 20, and 52 to 57 (both inclusive) of the said Act shall apply to such boundary marks.

PART X.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Any point may be referred to arbitration.

127. The Deputy Collector, with the consent of all the parties concerned, may refer to arbitration any point arising in the course of a partition; and the provisions of sections sixty-five and sixty-seven shall, as far as possible, be applicable to such references.

Case of proprietor who has created a tenure.

128. If any proprietor of an estate held in common tenancy and brought under partition in accordance with the provisions of this Act shall have given his share or a portion of it in patni or other tenure or lease, such tenure or lease shall hold good, as regards the lands finally allotted to the share of the lessor, and only as to such land.

Illustrations.

I.—A, the proprietor of a quarter share in a joint undivided estate held in common tenancy, gives to B a patni tenure of the whole of his interest in the estate, entitling B, as long as such estate is held in common tenancy, to collect one-fourth of the rent payable by every ryot on the estate;

Partition of the said estate is made under this Act, and certain specific lands are assigned to A as his separate estate;

B will become patnidar of the entire separate estate which has been assigned to A, and will be entitled to collect the whole of the rents from the ryots on that estate.

II.—A, the proprietor of a quarter share in a joint undivided estate held in common tenancy, gives to B a patni tenure of one-half of his share in the estate, entitling B, as long as such estate is held in common tenancy, to collect one-eighth of the rent payable by every ryot on the estate;

Partition of the estate is made under the Act, and certain specific lands are assigned to A as his separate estate;

B will become patnidar of one-half of A's separate estate, and will hold his patni in common tenancy with the half of A's interest which A has not given in patni so that B will be entitled to collect one-half of the rent payable by every ryot on A's estate, and A will be entitled to collect the other half.

Two estates may be united.

129. If two or more estates shall come into the possession of one proprietor or of the same body of proprietors, such proprietor or body of proprietors, after being recorded as proprietors, may apply to have such estates united, and to hold them as a single estate.

Application for such union how to be made, and how to be dealt with.

130. Such application shall be made in writing to the Collector, and the Collector shall, not less than thirty days after the issue of a notification of such application (provided he see no objection), comply with the same, and cause the necessary entries to be made in the records of his office, and shall report the case to the Commissioner.

Cause of sale of a separate estate for arrears to be ascertained.

131. Whenever any separate estate created under this Act shall fall in arrear so as to require a sale of the land for the discharge of the arrear at any period within twelve years of the date of the confirmation of the partition, the Collector shall, if possible, ascertain the cause of the estate having fallen into arrear, and shall enquire whether such arrear has been caused by any fraudulent or erroneous allotment of the assessment or assignment of lands at the time of the partition, and shall make a report upon the case to the Commissioner for such action as the Commissioner may think proper.

In certain cases Lieutenant-Governor may order a new allotment of the land revenue.

132. If it shall be proved to the satisfaction of the Lieutenant-Governor at any time within twelve years from the date of the final confirmation of a partition by the Commissioner or by the Board, as the case may be, that through any fraud or error at the time of making the partition the assets of the lands assigned to any separate estate were not in proportion to the amount of land revenue for which such estate was made liable, or that the amount of land revenue assessed on any separate estate was not in proportion to the assets of the lands assigned to such estate, the Lieutenant-Governor may order a new allotment of the land revenue upon the separate estates in accordance with the principles prescribed in this Act, on an estimate of the assets of each such estate as they stood at the time of the partition, such estimate being made on such evidence and information as may be procurable respecting the same.

Under assessed estates to make refund to over-assessed estates.

133. Whenever the Lieutenant-Governor shall pass an order for the re-allotment of the land revenue on any separate estate under the last preceding section, the Lieutenant-Governor may direct that the proprietors whose estates are found to have been under-assessed shall, for each year during which they have held possession of the separate estates, be required to pay to the recorded proprietors of the estates which have been over-assessed, a sum equal to the annual amount in which the latter shall be found to have been over-assessed, and in default of payment the amount shall be leviable as provided in section one hundred and thirty-eight.

No order passed by the Lieutenant-Governor under this section shall be liable to be contested in any court.

Publication of notifications under this Act.

134. Every notification required to be published in and by this Act shall, unless it is otherwise specially directed, be published by posting up copies of the same at the office of the Collector, and of the Deputy Collector who is making or has made the partition, at the mâl cutcherry, or mâl cutcherries (if any) of the proprietors of the parent estate, and at one or more of the principal villages on the said estate.

Service of notice.

135. Every notice in and by this Act required to be served on any person may be served—

(1) by delivering the same to the person to whom it is directed,

or, on failure of such service, by posting the same on some conspicuous part of the house in which the said person usually resides, or by delivering the said notice to a general agent of the person to whom such notice is directed, or to any person who has been appointed in that behalf, or who has been appointed an agent of the person to whom the notice is directed for the general purposes of any partition under this Act; or

(2) by sending a registered letter containing such notice directed to the said person at his usual place of abode or to the place where he may be known to be residing; or

or, if no such mâl cutcherry be found, and if the notice cannot be served in any of the other modes mentioned in this section, on some conspicuous place on the estate to which such notice relates.

In all cases where two or more persons are joint applicants for the separation of an estate to be held by them jointly as a separate estate, service of notice under this section on any one such joint applicant shall be deemed to be good and sufficient service on each and all of such joint applicants.

No proceedings under this Act to be affected by any mistake or misdescription.

136. Provided the directions of this Act be in substance and effect complied with, no proceedings under this Act shall be affected by reason of any mistake or by reason of any other informality, unless any person has suffered, or is in danger of suffering, material injury in consequence of such mistake or informality;

and no proceedings under this Act shall be affected by reason of the omission to issue any notification required by this Act, or to serve any notice on any person whose name is not recorded on the Collector's registers as proprietor of the estate in respect of which the notice is required to be served.

Fine in case of non compliance with notice or requisition.

137. If any proprietor or other person shall fail to comply, within the time fixed by a notice served on him as by this Act provided, with any requisition made upon him under this Act by the Collector or Deputy Collector, the Collector or Deputy Collector may impose upon him such daily fine as he may think fit, not exceeding fifty rupees;

and such fine shall be payable daily until the requisition is complied with,

and the Collector or Deputy Collector may proceed from time to time to levy the amount which has become due in respect of any such fine, notwithstanding that an appeal against the order imposing such fine may be pending;

Provided that whenever the amount levied under any such order shall have exceeded five hundred rupees, the Collector shall report the case specially to the Commissioner, and no further levy in respect of such fine shall be made otherwise than by authority of the Commissioner.

Fees, &c., to be deemed a demand under Bengal Act VII of 1868.

138. Except as herein expressly otherwise provided, all fees, fines, costs, and other sums ordered to be paid by any person under this Act, shall be deemed to be demands under section 1 of Bengal Act VII of 1868 (an Act to make further provision for the recovery of arrears of land revenue and public demands recoverable as arrears of land revenue), and shall be leviable as such.

Power of Collector to enforce attendance of witnesses.

139. For the purpose of any enquiry under this Act, the Collector and Deputy-Collector shall, in addition to every power conferred specially by this Act, have power to summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses, to examine witnesses, and to compel the production of documents by the same means (as far as may be), and in the same manner as is provided in the case of a Court under the Code of Civil Procedure.

Powers and functions assigned to Deputy Collector may be exercised by Collector.

140. All powers and functions which are assigned by this Act to a Deputy Collector may be exercised and discharged by the Collector; and whenever it is provided by this Act that any act done, or order made by a Deputy Collector shall require the sanction of the Collector, or shall be appealable to the Collector, if such act shall have been done or such order shall have been made by the Collector, it shall be deemed to have been sanctioned by the Collector, or to have been confirmed by the Collector in appeal, as the case may be.

Government may vest Collector or Deputy Collector with certain powers.

141. The Lieutenant-Governor may vest any Collector or Deputy Collector with all or any of the powers which, under the provisions of any law for the time being in force, might be exercised by them respectively, or might be conferred on them respectively, if they were making a settlement of the parent estate.

Such powers may be conferred either generally in respect of all estates in the partition of which the Collector or Deputy Collector may at any time and in any District be engaged, or specially in respect of any particular estate.

Proceedings connected with giving possession may be set aside within three months of date of giving possession.

146. Any proceedings of a revenue officer connected with giving possession to the proprietors of their respective separate estates as provided in section one hundred and twenty-three, may be set aside or amended as above provided by any supervising and controlling revenue authority, provided that such supervising and controlling authority shall within three months of the date on which such possession may have been given, make an order to the effect that such proceedings are under the consideration of such authority.

Such order shall be communicated to the Collector of the district, who shall cause the same to be published by notification in the manner prescribed by section one hundred and thirty-four.

Aug. 21st..	131	8vo. ..	First ...	500	ditto ...	1 4 0	Dinéshcharan Basu, of Tangyle.	Containing eighteen poems on different subjects, some of them reprinted from the Bengali Magazine Bándhava. Two poems are original, and entitled respectively Bángálir Sharashajyá; or, the Bengali's Bed of Spear-points (Anglice Bed of Thorns), and Arjya-nám; or, Name of Aryan. The former describes the low and fallen condition of the Bengali, through a too free use of brandy, whence the poet takes occasion to appeal to Victoria in the following strain—"Hail Victoria! you have rescued India by means of red Ganges water." In the latter, the Bengali is called a coward, and taunted with being so accustomed to the chains of slavery, and so delighted with it, as to forget the very name and meaning of "independence." The poet reminds his countrymen of their noble ancestors and their valorous deeds; describes "independence" as a precious jewel, the very sound of the name of which gives life to the dead; also, that the Americans esteemed it so great a treasure as to have flown to arms with one accord to preserve it.

„ 31st...	108	8vo. ...	First ...	1,200	ditto ...	0 2 6	.....	This drama describes how the hero of the tale, who was rich though a fool and an idiot, married Káminí, who pledged her word that she would make her husband do all her behests, even to filling her tobacco-bowl. After marriage, the hero set out for Cashmere on a trading expedition; but his new and artful wife procured for herself swifter means of locomotion, and arrived at every stage of the journey before him, disguised herself, induced him to lavish money and at length lent him large sums and took receipts for them. The drama details the particulars at every stage of the hero's progress: showing the heroine fulfilled her pledge; and concludes most happily by having all matters mutually explained on the arrival of the couple at home and their subsequent happy life.

LIME AND CEMENT CONCRETES FOR USE IN FLOORS AND FLAT ROOFS.

From P. DEJOUX, ESQ., C.E., Executive Engineer, Cement Experiments Division, to the Superintending Engineer, South-Western Circle,—(No. 935, dated the 26th August 1876.)

WITH reference to your memorandum No. 2452, dated 21st July 1876, and its enclosure, herewith returned, I have the honor to submit a report on the working capabilities of lime and cement concretes for use in floors and flat roofs, without any support other than the walls of buildings, as recommended by Major Mant.

2. A little delay has taken place in the submission of this report in consequence of the collection of some certificates which were not in my possession, but which having since been obtained are embodied herein in demonstration of works of the kind referred to.

3. Flat roofs of concrete for spans of 15 feet have been very successfully laid in France by Mr. Coignet; the concrete used was either pure artificial stone, or a mixture of materials used in the fabrication of artificial stone and broken pieces of stone or gravel. As I was one of the Engineers of Mr. Coignet, and chiefly in charge of the then new experiments tried from 1863 to 1865, many such roofings were constructed under my direct supervision.

4. The following is an extract from Mr. Coignet's pamphlet, published in 1865, relating to the subject:—

"Terraced Roofs."

"With regard to terraced roofs, the monolithism and resistance of agglomerated beton "(artificial stone) will give entirely new results and resistance until now unknown in "architecture.

"If small spaces of 12 or 15 feet have to be covered in, it will be sufficient to lay on the "walls a layer of artificial stone of sufficient thickness, say from 10 to 12 inches, which will "form a roof and terrace of great stability. Should large spaces have to be dealt with in the "same way, a system of some double girders must be used, crossed by joists at a distance of "3 feet from one another. These light girders are fitted in the artificial stone like in a tight "case of hard stone, and being confined at all parts of their surface will not deflect, but act "rather as tension bars. Spaces of 70 × 22 feet have been covered in this manner. A floor- "ing of this kind on the top of a house forms a perfectly impermeable terrace, resisting the "inclemencies of frost and heat.

"We have therefore for the first time attained the possibility of making in our damp "and variable climate roofs and terraces perfectly water-tight.

FRANCOIS COIGNET."

5. Mr. Coignet was always of opinion, and practical experience subsequently quite proved, that such flat roofs on obtaining sufficient hardness act as flat slabs, resting on the walls without exerting any outward thrust on them.

6. The same remarks may be applied to the arches made in artificial stone with a low rise varying from one-fifteenth to one-tenth. I made some of 20 and 25 feet span, resting like a beam on two solid walls without any buttresses.

7. The following is a certificate for 3 280 square yards of vaults which were used as stable floors of the barracks for the Municipal Horse-guards in Paris.

"City Paris.

"Architectural works of the 5th Arrondissement.

Paris, 8th August 1865.

"The Chief Architect of the barracks and staff quarters of the city certifies that Messrs. "Coignet and Company, constructors in agglomerated betons (artificial stone), have under "his direction executed the following work for the city of Paris:—

"Low-roofed arches, with a rise of one-tenth and 17 feet 6 inches span, at the city barracks; "these have undergone numerous experiments to try their resistance, and we have had every "reason to be pleased with the use of Coignet's Beton in the celerity of execution as well "as for the appearance and solidity of the work.

"This work has fully proved that 'Coignet's Beton' could be usefully employed in public "works, and decided us to order monolithic flat roofs, which will bear the same loads and "undergo the same wear as ordinary ones.

V. CALLIATT,
Chief Architect."

P S.—"At Mr. Coignet's request I specify the following experiments made to prove the "resistance of the vaults:—

"1*st.*—A cube weighing 29 tons placed as a pyramid in the middle of a vault 17 feet 6 inches span.

"2*nd.*—108 cubic feet of sand (4½ tons) on a base of 10 square feet.

"3*rd.*—And lastly, the passage of loaded waggons and the unloading on these vaults of stones destined for the building of the walls; all of which did not cause the least crack or fracture.

V. CALLIATT."

8. This work was made under my personal supervision, and before leaving France, I had time to superintend the building of a dozen monolithic flat roofs (mentioned in the certificate of Monsr. Calliatt), which proved a perfect success.

These were hollowed in the centre, and, as well as I recollect, their span was 15 or 16 feet, with an ornamental moulding. The question was for a long time discussed, so as to decide whether flat roofs of this kind were better when made with the same thickness right through, or when they were hollowed in the centre. Opinions were divided; however I agreed with those who were in favor of the latter system; besides it caused a considerable saving in the quantity of material used.

9. For flat arches of a large span we used to put about 3 layers per foot in thickness of small pieces of either square or round iron wire, one-twelfth to one-eighth in diameter, not exceeding 2 feet in length.

These pieces of iron were found quite sufficient to prevent any accident in case of slight cracks on the roof, arising either from accidental causes or bad workmanship; and in fact if such an arch cracked (even throughout) it would bear considerable weight before giving way.

It may be added that iron is free from rust when buried in artificial stone, and I can show specimens made ten years ago, which have been under water a long time, and which, when broken, show the iron in its original state.

10. Some experiments were also made by me in India in both small and large vaults in artificial stone on Coignet's system when I was Chief Engineer of the Patent Stone Company, and one particularly was made at the request of Government; but owing to my absence then from Calcutta the experiment was conducted by Mr. Downes, according to instructions left by me, and the result of it will be seen from the certificate below :—

"Experiments with artificial stone, Coignet's system, in vaulted floors.

"With the view of testing the applicability of this artificial stone in the construction of "vaulted floors proposed to be used in flooring of the upper stories of the new warehouses "in the Naval Store-keeper's Department, Government Dock-yard, Kidderpore, and the "advisability of its general introduction in public works, the Association were invited to con- "struct a series of vaulted floors on wrought-iron girders.

"The girders used were 8½ inches in depth with a clear space of 11 feet 2 inches, the "vault was 6 inches thick at the crown with a rise of 5 inches, and the vault tested was 4½ "feet span; the whole series being constructed of a single block of artificial stone, present- "ing a uniform level surface at top for the floor of the upper story.

"A load of 22—78 tons was placed over the vault covering a surface of 44·61 square "feet, giving a distributed load of 0·41 tons on the square foot.

"Although the vaulted flooring which was constructed on the 9th June had remained "exposed to the alternating influence of sun and rain for nearly a period of three months, it "was entirely free from fissure, and was perfectly water-tight.

"The load was applied on the 21st August, and the experimental vaults were inspected "on the 28th by Captain W. R. Tucker, R E., Executive Engineer, Presidency Division, "and Mr. Vernon, Assistant Engineer, and on their report, we, the undersigned, certify that "the experiment which was conducted throughout by Mr. Downes, Engineer to the Associa- "tion, was satisfactory in every respect.

Superintending Engineer, Presidency Circle.

W. R. TUCKER, Captain, R. E., Executive Engineer, Presidency Division."

NOTE.

I may state that the contract for the vaults of the new warehouses was not given to the Patent Stone Company on account of the estimate being found a little too high. This could have been easily avoided by putting the girders 12 feet apart instead of 4 feet 6 inches. I feel certain that it would have been quite as strong, and thus the total cost of the roof would have been somewhat less by using artificial stone instead of brick arches of 4 feet 6 inches span.

11 If such floors or vaults are to be made in India, I would strongly suggest the use of either artificial stone on Coignet's system, or what I may call mixture of artificial stone and concrete, which will be almost as good and cost less.

In the first case, when good hydraulic lime is obtained, I recommend a mixture of—

4 to 5 parts of sand,
1½ „ hydraulic line, and ½ „ Portland cement.

But if the cement is not quite fresh, three-fourth parts should be used instead of half.

The lime must be very fine, free from all impurities, and should be passed through a sieve of at least 20 meshes to the lineal inch.

Fat lime always gives poor results, so does soorkee; coarse and sharp sand is the best, and must therefore be used instead of soorkee.

12. If a mixture of artificial stone and concrete is used, it should be done in the following manner:—

Put first a layer of the (artificial stone) mixture, ram it well, scratch the surface, pour broken pieces of stones over it, so as not to stick together (these stones must be first soaked in water, in which it will be as well to add some cement), and lastly, spread over (so as to cover entirely) some mixture of artificial stone and ram it well. This process is to be carried on alternately, the top layer being laid with only artificial stone.

The proportion should be from one or one-half parts of broken stone to one of artificial stone mixture.

The preparation of this mixture is made in a special pug-mill, and I consider it unadvisable to use any other process.

Such mill may be worked either by hand, by bullock, or by steam.

13. Should any new experiments be required by Government, as proposed by Major Mant, I shall be very glad to undertake them, and the experimental arches and roofs could be erected in my office compound on my being provided with the necessary funds, for which an estimate will be submitted if necessary.

14. I feel quite sure that roofs of the descriptions above noticed will be reckoned of great importance in India, particularly as vast savings would accrue from dispensing with supporting beams of wood and iron in buildings; and indeed I have for the last ten years been trying to introduce them in the Public Works Department; but it must be urged that such works cannot be brought to satisfactory results, unless they are placed under careful supervision and constructed with only first class materials.

15. I annex for readier reference a copy of a letter from the Executive Engineer, Cossye Division, reporting on the quality of the artificial stone made under my directions in Hidgellee seven or eight years ago, of which, while portions were in blocks of sizes, others were monolithic, and which have been ever since exposed to the action of salt water.

16. In conclusion, I need add that over three lakhs cubic feet of artificial stone have already been manufactured in India for various works.

From J. H. ARJOHN, Esq., C.E., Executive Engineer, Cossye Division, to the Superintending Engineer, South-Western Circle,—(No. 2745, dated Midnapore, the 30th June 1876.)

AT the time of fixing the portevalets to Tarapakea and Itamugra locks I failed to bring distinctly to notice the very superior quality of the artificial stone used for coping and quoins in the above locks. In cutting out the recesses for the portevalets it was necessary in both the locks to cut through the coping, and in the Tarapakea lock also through a considerable portion of the quoin stones: so hard was the stone that it had to be hewed out with pointed cold chisels like granite, and having to do this caused very consider delay in the execution of the work.

The brickwork in these locks was also of a very superior quality. If you have no objection, I would be glad if you would furnish Mr. Dejoux (who, as contractor's agent made the stone), with a copy of this letter.

Memorandum by COLONEL J. F. STODDARD, M. S. C., Superintending Engineer, South-Western Circle,—(No. 2214, dated the 3rd July 1876.)

COPY of the above forwarded to the Executive Engineer, Cement Experiments Division, for information.

In the east and north-east the late rice is scarcely an average crop, owing to severe losses from inundations; in other parts of the district this crop is magnificent.
BURDWAN DIVN. 5	Hooghly, „ 21, „	Nil	The weather is getting cooler. Land is being ploughed for the rubbee crops, and sowings of potatoes, mustard, kalai, wheat, and barley, have commenced in places. The amun rice is in ear, and the prospects of the other crops on the ground continue excellent. Fever is slightly on the increase.
BURDWAN DIVN.	Howrah, „ 21, „	·05	Weather—Seasonable. The state and prospects of the crops continue as good as ever.
	Central Districts.
PRESIDENCY DIVN. 6	24-Pergunnahs, Oct. 23,† '76	·06	Weather—Seasonable. The prospects of the amun or late rice are very satisfactory. Land is being prepared for the cold-weather crops. Fever is reported to be still prevalent at Satkhira and Barripore.
PRESIDENCY DIVN. 7	Nuddea, „ 21, „	Nil	There was a little rain in parts of the district during the early part of the week. The weather is now settled. The days are sunny and bright, and the nights cold. The rice is all that can be desired, and the weather is very favourable for the cold-weather sowings. Much fever prevails in parts of the district.
PRESIDENCY DIVN. 8	Jessore, „ 21, „	·25	The weather during the week was somewhat variable—clear and cloudy. The mornings were cool, with strong sun in the middle of the day. The state and prospects of the amun crop continue to be favourable. The sowings of the cold-weather crops are going on well.
PRESIDENCY DIVN. 9	Moorshedabad, „ 21, „	·21	Weather—Seasonable. There was a heavy rain with storm at Rampore Haut on the 16th October. The state and prospects of the crops continue to be good. Cholera is disappearing.

RAJSHAHYE DIVN. 11	Maldah, „ 21, „	·06	Weather—A few drops of rain fell on the 15th instant; the latter days of the week were agreeable and fair. State and prospects of the crops are exceedingly good.
RAJSHAHYE DIVN. 12	Rajshahye, „ 21, „	·30	Weather—Cloudy, and cooler than in the last week. Slight rain fell in the first part of the week in nearly all parts of the district. The prospects of the standing amun crop, though good, would be improved by a further fall of rain. The sowing of mashkulai and other cereals is fast going on.
RAJSHAHYE DIVN. 13	Rungpore, „ 20, „	·19	Weather—Cool. Copious rain fell during the week; ·51 is registered at Gaibanda and ·91 at Bagdogra. The prospects of the amun rice, as well as those of the hymanti rice, are good. The rubbee sowings are likely to be delayed owing to the late heavy rains. Mustard is being generally sown in the Kurigram sub-division. Sugarcane is good in the Borobarea thana. Fever is prevalent.
RAJSHAHYE DIVN. 14	Bogra, „ 21, „	Nil	Weather—Dry. Nights and mornings are getting cooler. Both paddy and sugarcane are very flourishing. Of the former a twenty-anna crop (in local parlance) is expected.
RAJSHAHYE DIVN. 15	Pubna, „ 21, „	·54	Weather—Clear and fine. The state and prospects of the crops are good.

Cooch Behar Divn.	16	Darjeeling, Oct. 20, '76	·48	The rainy season seems to be drawing to a close. There were, however, several showers during the week. The weather has been favourable for the crops, and the prospects are good throughout the district.

		Cooch Behar, „ 19, „	4·0	There was a heavy shower of rain accompanied by a high wind on the night of the 13th instant. The weather has since cleared up, and is just beginning to be cold. The prospects of the tobacco crop are not very good. As stated in the last report, the seedlings have been spoiled in many places by the rains, and fresh seeds are again being sown. The rains have also retarded the sowing of mustard and other cold-weather crops. The prospects of the late rice continue favourable. General health of the people appears to be good.
		Eastern Districts
Dacca Divn.	18	Dacca, Oct. 23,* '76	Nil	The cold-weather is just beginning. State and prospects of the crops are good all round.
	19	Furreedpore, „ 21, „	·47	Weather—Fine, barring occasional showers. The rainfall at Goalundo is 3·83 and at Madaripore 1·18. State and prospects of the crops are very favourable. Cholera is abating at Madaripore, but has broken out near the Hobegunge outpost and in the Sudderpore thana, and medicines have been sent.
	20	Backergunge, „ 19, „	1·80	The prospects of the crops are good everywhere. The health of the district, as usual in this season of the year, is indifferent, cholera and fever being present in no less than ten thanas. Cattle disease has completely disappeared.
	21	Mymensingh, „ 20, „	·37	Change of weather has set in, and the cold season has commenced. State and prospects of the crops are favourable.
	22	Tipperah, „ 20, „	·72	Weather—Seasonable. More rain would be beneficial to the crops; at present the prospects are good.
Chittagong Divn.	23	Chittagong, „ 19, „	·52	The mornings and evenings are foggy and cool. Rain is wanted in all parts of the district, especially in Kutubdia.
	24	Noakholly, „ 19, „	·19	Weather—Seasonable. The late rice crop is coming on well, and gives much promise at present. General health continues good.
	25	Chittagong Hill Tracts, 17, „	1·48	Weather—Seasonable. The prospects of the cotton crop are good. This crop is being gathered in small quantities in some parts of the district. Land is being ploughed for the sowing of mustard.
		Hill Tipperah, „ 18. „	·83	Weather—Rainy; showers now and then. State and prospects of the crops are good.
BEHAR.
Patna Divn.	26	Patna, Oct. 23*, '76	·06	The district has now had sufficient rain for all purposes. Most of the bhadoi crops have been harvested and have yielded well. The rice crops are promising. Health of the district is good.
	27	Gya, „ 21, „	·24	Cold weather is apparently well established. Prospects of the winter rice continue quite favourable, and the rubbee sowings are going on.
	28	Shahabad, „ 21, „	·57	Weather—Cool and seasonable. The prospects of the crops continue favourable, but the monsoon is not over yet, which interferes with the rubbee sowings.
	29	Durbhunga, „ 21, „	1·19	Weather—Generally clear and cool. The cold weather seems to have set in. The prospects of the aghani crop are excellent. The ground is in good order for the rubbee sowings.
	30	Mozufferpore, „ 21, „	·70	Weather—Clear and cool, but sometimes foggy in the morning. Prospects of the winter crops are very good. The rubbee sowings have commenced. The river Bagmuttee has again overflowed its banks, causing damage to the dhan crops. Health of the district continues good.
	31	Sarun, „ 21, „	·72	Weather—Clear and bright. The mornings and evenings are cool. There has been more or less rain throughout the district, and the country is thoroughly saturated. The rainfall at Sewan is 1·95 and at Gopalgunge 3·57. The aghani rice is generally doing well. Fields are being prepared for indigo, opium, and other rubbee crops. In some places poppy and other rubbee crops are being sown. If we have no more rain for the next few days, a prosperous season may be anticipated. In order to give an idea of the excellent prospects of the rubbee crops this year, it will be sufficient to compare the rate of rainfall of the present year with that of the past. In the last year only ·65 fell after the 15th September, while in this year, since that date and up to the 18th October, 13·31 inches have fallen. General health is good.
	32	Chumparun, „ 20, „	1·34	There have been sporadic showers in most parts of the district, which have done more harm than good. The general prospects of the late rice are excellent. A good deal of bado and some late rice have been destroyed by the floods following the recent heavy rains. An unusually good cold-weather crop is expected.

* Telegram of the 23rd October, received on the same day, shows rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

The paddy crop in the high embanked lands is being harvested, and the yield is said to be most satisfactory. The oil-seeds and cold-weather pulses have been sown and look very promising. The district is reported healthy. A few cases of kot-kotea or jhin-jhinea have been reported.
	43	Manbhoom, „ 21 „	·12	Weather—Seasonable. The prospects of the crops are excellent.

* Telegram of the 23rd October, received on the same day, shows rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding

The mean barometer, as likewise the dry and wet bulb thermometer means, are derived from the twenty-four hourly observations made during the day.

The dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants. The figures in column 10 represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity. The receiver of the lower rain-gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the anemometer 70 feet 10 inches above the level of the ground. The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

WORKING OF THE SYSTEM OF SUMMARY TRIALS

JUDICIAL

Darjeeling, the 25th October 1876.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Government circular No. 50, issued to all Magistrates, under date the 4th August last, requesting them to submit returns showing separately for each Bench of Magistrates, and for each Magistrate in their respective districts, the number of cases decided summarily from the 1st January to the 30th June last

Read also—

The statements received from the several District Magistrates furnishing the information called for.

WHEN the new Code of Criminal Procedure which provided for the summary trial of petty cases by magisterial officers was introduced in 1872, the Government was not without some apprehension that, while the system of summary trial would be undoubtedly attended with many advantages, it was still liable to chance of partial failure if not well guarded, and might possibly in some cases result in trials being held in a hurried and imperfect manner. The Government therefore, in introducing the system, deemed it necessary to proceed with care and caution, and those officers only who were shewn to be of proved experience and judgment were vested with the power of holding summary trials. It was also arranged that summary trials should be held by certain Benches of Honorary Magistrates, presided over by salaried Magistrates, as it was deemed that such a course would be calculated to win the public confidence. At the same time the District Magistrates were required to exercise a careful supervision over the proceedings of their subordinates, and to bring to notice all instances in which the powers of summary trial were indiscreetly exercised. Similarly, the Commissioners of Divisions were required to examine when on tour the files of each court, and to submit periodical reports on the manner in which the powers conferred on the several officers within their respective jurisdictions had been exercised.

2. These precautions, with reference both to the investing of officers with the power of holding summary trials, and the supervision to be exercised over their proceedings, have since been strictly adhered to. But few instances have been brought to notice in which the powers accorded have not been exercised with care and discretion, and the reports which have been received from time to time from the District Magistrates and the Commissioners of Divisions have shewn that the summary provisions of the law have been worked successfully; that the proceedings of all officers have been carefully watched; that there has been a marked absence of any complaints; and that the system has resulted in the greatest possible convenience to the public as well as to judicial officers. The people have had their complaints disposed of rapidly and without involving the necessity of irksome and prolonged attendance at the courts; and judicial officers have been enabled to devote more of their time to duties of greater importance than the disposal of petty criminal charges. In short, it has been shewn by these reports that the disfavor and apprehension with which the measure was at one time regarded by some important classes of the community, when the summary procedure was first introduced, have no longer any shadow of foundation, and that the benefits of the system are now generally admitted.

3. In place of the general reports which have been hitherto submitted, the Lieutenant-Governor in August last called for detailed statements from each district, showing the number of cases disposed of and persons tried under the summary procedure, as well as the results of trials during the first-half of the present year. The returns which have been received from the several Magistrates, and an abstract of which is embodied in a general statement prepared in this office and appended to this Resolution, show that the results during the past six months have been even more favorable than those which have been reported in previous years.

4. It will be seen from this statement that the total number of cases disposed of summarily during the period in question was 10,279, and that convictions were obtained in 7,485 cases, of which, with reference to the sentences passed, 1,532 cases were appealable and 5,953 cases were not appealable. Notwithstanding the large number of cases disposed of, the total number of cases in which appeals were filed, or in which the proceedings were called for by the superior courts for purposes of revision, was 145 only. This result, even considering that the cases disposed of were for the most part of a petty nature, cannot but be looked upon as very satisfactory. It is still more satisfactory to observe that on appeal and revision the decisions of the lower courts were reversed in 17 and modified in 14 cases only. This result the Lieutenant-Governor considers to be eminently creditable to the discretion and judgment with which the large and very responsible powers vested in the several Magistrates and Benches of holding summary trials have been exercised.

5. Again, it is very creditable to the proceedings of the Magistrates to notice the large proportion of persons convicted to acquitted, and that, although the total number of persons tried summarily during the first-half of the current year was so large as 15,091, of whom 10,562 were convicted, 22 persons only were released or acquitted on appeal, or on revision of the proceedings of the lower courts.

6. The Lieutenant-Governor is also glad to notice, from the general statement above referred to, which shows the number of summary trials held by single Magistrates and by Benches separately, that 3,312 cases, or about one-third of the whole number, were disposed of by Honorary Magistrates sitting with salaried Magistrates. Although the work performed by the Benches during the period in question is still small, it is far in excess of what has been reported to have been done by them in previous years; and the figures given in the statement also show that the Bench of Magistrates have exercised the special powers entrusted to them with the greatest care and discretion. Out of a total number of 2,164 cases tried by them, in which convictions were obtained, the decisions in five cases only were reversed or modified; and of 2,718 persons convicted, four only were acquitted or released on appeal, or revision of the sentence passed.

7. The Bench system has now been fairly organized and brought into working order in each district, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that future returns will show that a far larger proportion of the summary trials have been held by Benches of Magistrates. The method of trial by Benches has already proved a success, and has met with the general approval and confidence of the Native public.

Although, owing to the various difficulties which have arisen, there has been some delay in the general extension of the system, 128 separate Benches have now been established, and there has been a gradual and marked improvement in the outturn of work performed by them. For the most part the Benches now sit regularly and perform a fair share of the work in each district. During the first-half of the past year 2,594 cases of all kinds were disposed of by Benches of Magistrates; in the second-half of that year 4,745 cases were disposed of, while in the first-half of the current year the number has risen to 6,426. In the Lieutenant-Governor's judgment it would be hard to over-estimate the moral importance of Native gentlemen, whether belonging to the landholding, the commercial, or the professional classes, or living on fixed incomes of any sort, undertaking magisterial functions more and more—functions which they ought to be pre-eminently qualified to discharge to the satisfaction of their countrymen. He is confident that the Native gentry of Bengal will be brought to regard the matter in this light.

8. The Lieutenant-Governor has every confidence that the several Magistrates and Benches of Magistrates who have been entrusted with the powers of summary trial will continue to exercise these powers with the marked degree of judgment and discretion which has hitherto generally characterised their proceedings.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

R. L. MANGLES,

Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

CINCHONA CULTIVATION AND MANUFACTURE INTO FEBRIFUGE

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.—AGRICULTURE

Calcutta, the 30th October 1876.

READ—

The Annual Report of the Government Cinchona Plantations, British Sikkim, for the year ending 31st March 1876, submitted with Dr. King's letter No. 30C, dated the 8th August 1870.

The Annual Report of the Government Quinologist for 1875-76, submitted with Mr. Wood's letter No 1, dated the 1st August 1876.

A letter No. 12Q, dated the 12th September 1876, from the Superintendent of Cinchona Cultivation, remarking on the foregoing report.

The results of the working of the Cinchona Plantation during 1875-76 differ materially from those obtained in any previous year. Hitherto the establishment has been employed first in experimental cultivation, and afterwards in systematic planting, while the yield of bark has been comparatively small. In the past season no addition has been made to the permanent plantation, and the main work of the year has consisted in gathering a crop of 211,931lb. of red bark, the produce of Cinchona Succirubra. This outturn exceeds by 62,000lb the amount estimated by the Government of India in their letter No. 208 of 21st June 1873 as the probable yield of the plantation in 1877. The following statement of the quantities of bark collected yearly since the establishment of the plantation shows that the yield of 1875-76 is more than five-times as great as that of the previous year :—

The Lieutenant-Governor considers these results to indicate a very marked degree of success.

2. It is observed that in gathering the bark attention has been paid to the important objects of assisting future cultivation, and of adding as much as possible to the practical knowledge of the best methods of harvesting. Thus on three plots of land, where the trees had become luxuriant and required space for growth, thinning and pruning have been largely resorted to; while in eight other places the plants were either coppiced or uprooted in such proportions, and with such arrangements for filling the vacant spaces, as seemed likely to furnish the most ample facilities for comparing the merits of these two modes of gathering bark. At the same time, much valuable experience has already been gained. The practice of uprooting the entire tree was adopted in order to save the loss of bark which arises from the fact that after coppicing a certain proportion of the stools fail to shoot. Mr. Wood's analysis further shows that the root bark thus made available for manufacture contains about eight per cent. of alkaloids, or one per cent. more than the finest stem bark. The cost of uprooting slightly exceeds that of coppicing; but as the process thoroughly turns up the soil, it is hoped that it will answer to replant the same ground immediately with cinchona, and "thus to secure gratuitously the advantage of a very complete kind of digging." Further experience will show whether the soil has been too much exhausted by its former crop to admit of immediate replanting; but attempts are being made to guard against this by allowing the leaves, branches, and wood of the uprooted trees to decay upon and manure the ground, and also by avoiding as far as possible the exact spots occupied by the uprooted trees.

3. The practice of stripping bark from living trees was not resorted to during the past year, as it was found that the renewal of bark under moss was rendered impossible in Sikkim by the attacks of ants. A few trees which had been stripped in 1874 have partially renewed their bark without mossing, but although eighteen months old, it is only about half as thick as the original bark. Three hundred healthy trees will be stripped during the current year; but Dr. King does not anticipate very favourable results from the experiment, and it is probable on the whole that this method of harvesting bark, so successful on the Nilgiri plantations, will be entirely abandoned in Sikkim. The comparative advantages of coppicing and uprooting will be fully inquired into during the next two or three seasons, but at present it is uncertain which process will turn out to be the best.

4. Owing to the unusual drought of last cold weather no additions have been made to the permanent plantation. But the nursery stock of Cinchona Succirubra has been largely increased, and 125,000 young plants have been provided for the new plantation at Sittong. The 116,000 seedlings of yellow bark (Cinchona Calisaya) returned in last year's report have been written off as worthless, "experience having shown that Calisaya seed, however carefully it may have been collected from the varieties yielding only good bark, produces an uncertain and mongrel offspring." The stock plants of the variety described in last year's report as a hybrid have been increased from 1,000 to 5,000, but as yet none have been planted out, and the seedlings have been rejected as showing the same tendencies to variation which are observed in Calisaya. Further experiments will be made with the object of ascertaining whether manure can be profitably used in cinchona cultivation. Dr. King observes that the manured plants reported on last year cannot now be distinguished in appearance from their neighbours, and points out that vegetable manure is supplied to a considerable extent to all the trees on the plantation by the practice of leaving the cut and uprooted weeds to decay on the ground between the trees.

5. Excluding an item of Rs. 754, transferred to the debit of the quinology account, the total expenditure on the plantation during 1875-76 amounts to Rs. 52,714. Out of this, Rs. 42,937 represent the actual working expenses, while Rs. 9,777 are debitable to the capital account recently opened under the orders of Government. The latter sum includes Rs. 2,134 laid out on the new Sittong plantation, the accounts of which are kept separately. The Quinologist's pay has also been added to capital, as this charge cannot fairly be debited against the crop until the plantation is in full working. It has been noted above that the total yield of bark amounted to 211,931lb. After deducting 16,640lb destroyed by an accidental fire, there remain 195,291lb to set against the working expenses of the year. Dr. King calculates that the cost of production of each pound of dry bark may be stated at a fraction above three annas and a half, or a fraction below four annas and nine pie if interest on capital at the rate of 4 per cent. be taken into account. During the year 92,400lb. of dry bark were made over to the Quinologist for conversion into cinchona febrifuge, and 2,000lb. were supplied to the Presidency Medical Depôt. The remainder of the crop is stored at Mungpoo, and is made over to the factory from time to time as it is required for manufacture.

6. Turning to the Quinologist's report, it appears that the actual quantity of dry bark used in manufacture during the year was 107,130lb, which yielded only 1,989lb of cinchona febrifuge, or rather less than two per cent. More than one-half of the bark, however, was branch bark, which is always poor in alkaloids, from the worst part of the plantation, and the amount shown above includes all the bark consumed in experimental manufacture. The actual working expenses of the Quinologist's Department for 1875-76 are given by Mr. Wood as Rs. 30,355, against which are to be set Rs. 31,824, the value of the febrifuge at Rs. 16 per pound. It is observed that in this statement the prime cost of the dried bark is shown as three and a half annas per pound. If interest at 4 per cent. on the capital invested in the cinchona plantation is to be charged against the bark produced, the prime cost of the bark will amount to four annas nine pie per pound, and that of the alkaloid to Rs. 20-8. But as it is estimated that if the full working outturn of the plantation were taken into account, the cost of the dry bark would not exceed three and a half annas per pound, the Lieutenant-Governor considers that the figures given by the Quinologist may be allowed to stand, and that Rs. 8,370, being the amount of interest chargeable, should be debited to the capital account which it is proposed to open for the Quinologist's Department. This account will also include the cost of manufacturing plant, of the preliminary experiments made in Calcutta, of the analytical laboratory, and of the Quinologist's salary for the past year. The latter item will be transferred from the capital account of the Cinchona Plantation.

7. In Dr. King's opinion 366,000lb of dry bark may advantageously be collected from the plantations at Rungbee, Rishap, and Mungpoo during 1876-77; but the Quinologist submits an estimate for working up only 240,000lb. Under recent orders the alkaloid factory will be transferred from Rungbee to Calcutta, and will be worked upon a large scale either in the Presidency or the Alipore Jail. It is hoped that there will be no difficulty in manufacturing the larger amount of bark shown in Dr. King's estimate into cinchona febrifuge, and supplying it to the public at a cost of less than one rupee per ounce. The Lieutenant-Governor therefore accepts Dr. King's estimate of the amount of bark to be collected during the current year, and the Government Quinologist will be instructed to amend his estimate so as to provide for the conversion into febrifuge of 366,000lb of cinchona bark. It is observed that Mr. Wood's estimate contains an item of Rs. 10,000 for the Quinologist's pay. This has already been included in the cost of the dried bark, which is estimated at three and a half annas per pound, provided that 366,000lb are collected from the plantation. But as the pay of the Quinologist does not properly form an element in the cost of production of cinchona bark, it appears desirable to enter it as a separate item and to reduce the charge for dried bark proportionately. It will thus be possible to define with accuracy the separate cost both of the raw material and of the manufactured alkaloids.

8. During the autumn and winter of 1875 experiments were conducted by medical officers in various parts of India with the cinchonidine and cinchona febrifuge prepared by Mr. Wood. The experiments resulted in a considerable divergence of opinion, and the Surgeon-General expressed his view that, while there could be no doubt of the efficacy of both remedies against the ordinary intermittent fever of Bengal, the question of their general adoption must be considered as still sub-judice. The intermittent fevers of last year had been of an exceptionally mild type, and the medicines had not been sufficiently tested for any final judgment in the matter to be possible. It is understood that further investigations are now being conducted, and that their results will be communicated to this Government in February 1877. Meanwhile the Lieutenant-Governor, in his Minute of the 10th September, has already recorded his opinion that any decision on the precise febrifugal power of these alkaloids must be a work of some little time, depending on medical testimony, on actual experience, and on popular acceptance.

9. The Lieutenant-Governor acknowledges with thanks the good services rendered by Dr. King, by Mr. Gammie, the resident manager of the cinchona plantations, and by Mr. Wood. The latter gentleman has added to his official report a minute and clear account of the process followed in manufacturing the cinchona febrifuge. Dr. King's labours in compiling a manual of cinchona cultivation have already been acknowledged in a separate Resolution on the Botanical Garden.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE SALT DEPARTMENT FOR THE YEAR 1875-76.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.—MIS. REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 30th October 1876.

READ—

The Report of the Board of Revenue on the Administration of the Salt Department during the year 1875-76.

There is a considerable decrease in the receipts from salt during the past year. As compared with previous years, the accounts stand as follow :—

	Rs.		Rs.
1872-73 ...	2,61,19,562	1874-75 ...	2,64,87,143
1873-74 ...	2,59,92,661	1875-76 ...	2,53,41,925

There is a decrease both in the duty on imported salt amounting to 10½ lakhs of rupees, and in the duties on excise salt amounting to 1½ lakhs of rupees; there was a small increase in golah rents, rowannah fees, and miscellaneous receipts.

2. The salt supplies for the past four years have been as follow :—

	1872-73.	1873-74.	1874-75.	1875-76.
	Mds.	Mds.	Mds.	Mds.
Quantity imported and manufactured	75,31,304	78,41,600	82,88,081	1,00,24,736
Quantity cleared for consumption	79,81,286	79,44,247	81,99,389	79,14,513
Quantity in stock at close of year	23,26,766	20,59,418	20,87,917	41,53,880

There was a large increase during the past year in importations, which amounted to 97,00,310 maunds against 76,99,599 maunds in 1874-75. The imports into Calcutta were 95,36,664 maunds against 73,31,810 maunds. This is far the largest total of imported salt on record; and it is to be noted that the figures of imported salt into Calcutta have of recent years shown a progressive increase. The importations into Chittagong show a decrease, being only 1,63,646 maunds against 3,67,769 maunds; but it is explained that this decrease is attributable to excessive stocks in hand, the result of over-importation in 1874-75, and that the demand for salt at Chittagong is always evenly balanced by the supply.

3. The whole of the Chittagong imports came from Great Britain. Of the Calcutta imports, 74,91,883 maunds came from Great Britain. The remainder of the supplies was derived as follows:—From British India ports eight lakhs of maunds; from the Arabian and Persian Gulfs 5,84,941 maunds; from Italy 4,32,269 maunds; from France 1,51,971 maunds, and small supplies were received from Spain, Aden, and Egypt. The Lieutenant-Governor observes, as a satisfactory sign, that the salt trade with the ports of Europe, other than those of England, is growing in importance.

4. But although there was so large an increase in importations, the quantity cleared for consumption was less than in the previous year, and in consequence there was, as already stated, a decline in the duty realised. An unusually large supply of salt—41½ lakhs of maunds—sufficient for more than six months' consumption for the whole of Bengal, remained in stock at the close of the year.

5. The excise manufacture of salt shows a considerable decrease. The manufacture of salt in Bengal is prohibited, except under license, and at present licenses are granted only in the three districts of Orissa, and in the 24-Pergunnahs district, on account of a manufacture in Saugor Island. The following statement shows the quantities of salt manufactured under the Excise Rules :—

	1874-75.	1875-76.
	Mds.	Mds.
24-Pergunnahs	26,611	31,646
Balasore	1,89,480	1,97,548
Cuttack	12,298	26,519
Pooree	3,56,657	67,170
Total ...	5,85,046	3,22,883

The decrease exists exclusively in Pooree, and is attributed by the Board of Revenue to "heavy rains retarding manufacture; to the traders having been deterred from any very vigorous exertion to work up to their contracts by the heavy stocks in hand; and to discouragement caused by the invasion of Ganjam salt." It was explained in last year's Resolution that the Act X of 1874 had abolished the frontier customs line between Orissa and Madras. The selling price of salt in Ganjam was then raised from Rs. 2 to Rs. 2-4, and a graduated scale of duty was imposed in Orissa, beginning with Rs. 2-4 per maund on the southern frontier where it joins Ganjam, and ascending by six gradations to the northern boundary where it meets the Rs. 3-4 duty that prevails in Bengal. An immediate effect of these measures has been to stimulate the import of Ganjam salt into Orissa. The imports from Ganjam have been in 1873-74, 1,419 maunds; in 1874-75, 11,638 maunds; and in 1875-76, 1,14,338 maunds, showing an increase last year of 1,02,700 maunds. It is impossible not to connect this increase of importation with the decrease in Pooree manufacture, and the facts seem to support Mr. Ravenshaw's opinion that the Pooree trade is being gradually, but certainly, extinguished. The Lieutenant-Governor observes that the Member in charge of the Board of Revenue thinks this view of the case unnecessarily gloomy, "as Pooree has manufactured in 1875-76 nearly three times as much salt as in the year before;" but, as shown above, the Pooree manufacture has in fact largely decreased, and not increased, and it is presumed therefore that the remark of the Board was recorded under some misapprehension of the circumstances of the Pooree manufacture.

6. The clearances of salt for consumption during the past year were as follow :—

	Quantity.	Duty.
	Mds.	Rs.
Imported salt from ship-board	58,04,733	1,86,10,162
Ditto from bond	17,46,745	55,58,212
Excise salt	3,63,034	9,79,666
Total ...	79,14,512	2,51,48,040

7. The actual consumption in Orissa was 3,97,398 maunds against 3,81,639 maunds in 1874-75. The sales of Orissa-made salt on the other hand were 3,40,987 maunds against 4,09,683 maunds, showing a decrease attributable to the influx of Ganjam salt. The Orissa salt supplies and consumption may be illustrated by the following statement :—

		1874-75. Mds.	1875-76. Mds.
Orissa-made salt passed into consumption	...	4,09,683	3,40,987
Salt imported into Orissa from Ganjam	...	11,638	1,14,338
Total available for consumption	...	4 21,321	4,55,325
Total of actual consumption	...	3,81,639	3,97 389
Surplus	...	39,682	57,936

The surplus is principally consumed in the Tributary States, and partly crosses over the Balasore frontier into the district of Midnapore. The Balasore salt now pays duty at two annas per maund less than Midnapore salt, and in consequence more of the manufactured salt crosses the frontier than formerly.

8. With the decrease in the sale of excise salt there is a decrease in the duty realised; but the Board of Revenue rightly explain that this decrease is nominal, and in no way affects the Imperial revenues. The Orissa duty in 1875-76 was Rs. 9,79,666; in 1874-75 it was Rs. 11,37,960; but in the past year no less than Rs. 2,57,260 were paid in the Madras Presidency on the Ganjam salt imported into Orissa, and if this be added to the duty locally realised, it will give an increase of Rs. 98,966, or 8·6 per cent. The only real sufferers are the manufacturers in the Poorec district, and for their relief special measures have been proposed and are still under consideration by Government.

9. The total sales for consumption in the parts of the ten districts of Bengal that lie within the Salt Law limits are in—

	Mds.
1873-74	13,45,033
1874-75	13,63,728
1875-76	13,93,618

There has thus been a satisfactory progressive increase during the past three years. The population within the Salt Law limits is 10,548,039, who, at the rate of 10lbs per head would consume 13,18,504 maunds of salt within the year. The actual consumption is considerably above the rate of 10lbs per head, and it seems certain therefore that illicit manufacture for sale is not general.

10. The total amount of salt available for consumption in Bengal during the past year was as follows :—

	Mds.
Imported from beyond sea	75,51,487
Imported from Ganjam	1,14,338
Manufactured under license	3,63,035
Total ..	80,28,860

The average of the past three years shows that eighty lakhs of maunds and upwards may be taken as the average annual supply of salt available for consumption in Bengal. A certain amount of Agra and Delhi salt is imported into Behar and Chota Nagpore, but the amount cannot be accurately stated, and it is certainly less than the supply of salt annually derived from Bengal by Goruckpore in the south-east corner of the North-West Provinces. The Goruckpore imports must amount to between two and three lakhs of maunds in the year. As far as can be ascertained at present, the Assam imports of salt amount to more than three lakhs of maunds derived from Bengal. On the other hand, there is an import amounting to a few thousand maunds in the year of Arracan salt imported into Chittagong, and along the Eastern frontier of Bengal there is to some extent an importation and consumption of foreign salt. This foreign salt is also consumed in Assam. The net result remains that about five lakhs of the eighty lakhs available for Bengal are exported beyond the limits of the province. Seventy-five lakhs of maunds thus remain for a population of 62,706, 774 souls in Bengal, which allows for consumption at a rate of 4 75 seers, or 9½lbs per head. This is less than the rate which has been taken above as the normal rate of consumption. It is shown by the statistics of internal trade, which are being separately compiled, that there is no insufficiency of salt consumption anywhere, except in the districts of Behar, where the population is impoverished and illicit salt is manufactured.

11. The total amount of salt sent from Calcutta for consumption in the provinces, and registered at the several pass stations, amounted to 75,02,607 maunds during the year. Of this amount, 56,48,601 maunds went by the river and canal routes; 17,37,935 maunds by the East Indian Railway; and 1,16,171 maunds by the Eastern Bengal Railway. There is a marked and satisfactory increase in the amount of the railway despatches, especially in the amount sent by the Eastern Bengal Railway.

12. The question of the abolition of the rowannah system has during the past year been under consideration. Under that system no person is allowed to be in possession of more than five seers of salt, unless the salt is covered by a protective document, issued by the Collector or by a wholesale merchant. The area within which this system is in force has from time to time been narrowed, and it is now proposed to reduce the area to the very smallest limits consistent with fiscal safety. The manufacture of salt in Bengal is confined to a belt of country not exceeding five miles from the sea-coast, and the Lieutenant-Governor, after maturely considering the arguments that have been adduced on both sides of the question, is of opinion that effectual precautions could be taken against risk, and that it would tend to the great convenience of the people, without endangering the revenue, if a strict detective supervision were exercised within this belt only, and if the country outside these limits were left free from the pass or rowannah rules. The local authorities and the police would be answerable for the strictness of supervision within this narrow strip of country.

13. It seems to be the case that illicit manufacture of salt on any scale to be of sufficient importance to the revenue can be effectually suppressed by the existing police. The cases of illicit manufacture that actually occur in Orissa, which is the most important of the salt tracts in Bengal, are of the most trivial character. In Cuttack, during the past year, 17 persons were convicted of illicit manufacture, and the amount of fines and forfeitures imposed was Rs. 14-5-5; in Pooree 8 persons were fined Rs. 5-7-3; in Balasore 42 persons were fined Rs. 39-9. It is not illicit manufacture, but smuggling, that is of real importance. At the same time the Lieutenant-Governor sees from the present report that, owing no doubt to the extensive manufacture of salt under license in Orissa, illicit manufacture is much less common there than in other saliferous districts. The salt-producing area is penetrated in all directions by the officers of Government, and the Commissioner thinks that no cases of illicit manufacture escape detection. But it appears that, while there were only 75 prosecutions for illicit manufacture in 1875-76 in the whole of Orissa, there were 153 such cases in the 24-Pergunnahs, and 265 in Midnapore. This fact is sufficient to show that unremitting precautions are still required, and that the success or otherwise of the policy of reducing the rowannah limits will depend largely on the vigilance and efficiency of the local officers whose duty it is to repress illicit manufacture and smuggling.

14. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to acknowledge the services of the Commissioners of Orissa and Chittagong, Messrs. Ravenshaw and Lowis, for the attention they have given to their duties in salt matters. The following officers are also mentioned by the Board of Revenue as deserving of special mention:—

Covenanted Officers.

Mr. Harrison.	Mr. Norman.
„ Armstrong.	„ Kirkwood.

Uncovenanted Officers.

Mr. Marshall.	Mr. Green.
„ Reily.	Baboo Jogodesh Nath Roy.

15. The thanks of Government are also due to Mr. Dampier, who officiated as the Member in charge of the Board of Revenue, and to Mr. Money, the permanent Member in charge, for the ability and care with which they have supervised the Salt Department during the year.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. J. S. COTTON,

Junior Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE STAMP DEPARTMENT FOR THE YEAR 1875-76.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.—MIS. REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 30th October 1876.

READ—

The Report of the Board of Revenue on the Administration of the Stamp Department for the year 1875-76.

The following statement shows the return of the sale of stamps, exclusive of Postage, Service, and Telegraph stamps, from the Stamp Office in Calcutta for the years 1860-61, 1870-71, 1874-75, 1875-76 :—

2. As usual, the revenue realised in Bengal is more than equal to the revenue realised from all the other provinces, and a marked increase is again noticeable in the total collections.

3. As regards Bengal only, the gross revenue of the year, as compared with the results of the two previous years, may be shown in the following statement :—

Years.	Duties under General Stamp Act.					Duties under Court Fees Act.	Total under both Acts.
	Non-Judicial stamps.	Special Adhesive stamps.	Receipt, Revenue, Share Transfer, and Foreign Bill stamps.	Hoondees or Bills of Exchange.	Total of General stamps.

4. The receipts from both General and Judicial stamps show a progressive increase, especially from Judicial stamps. There was an inconsiderable decrease only in the past year from Special Adhesive stamps and from Revenue, Share Transfer, and Foreign Bill stamps.

5. The subjoined statement shows the several districts of Bengal from which the largest stamp revenue is derived :—

Backergunge	86,923	2,18,165	3,05,088	2,97,665	2,87,708
Chittagong	86,531	2,16,128	3,02,959	2,79,729	2,63,475

6. Next to these districts comes Tipperah, where the receipts are just below three lakhs of rupees, and then Nuddea, with a revenue of Rs. 2,57,702. It will be observed that all the principal stamp revenue districts are in Eastern Bengal and in the neighbourhood of Calcutta, and it is in Eastern Bengal particularly that the revenue from General stamps is largest. Every one of the districts above specified shows a marked increase in receipts during the past three years, and this increase is general among the other districts where the sales are smaller. The stamp receipts are smallest in the following districts:—

	Rs.		Rs.
Singbhoom	5,108	Balasore	41,937
Darjeeling	21,410	Pooree	45,749
Chumparun	38,313	Sonthal Pergunnahs ...	46,680

In seven other districts of Bengal the receipts are less than one lakh of rupees.

7. The sales of Postage, Service, and Telegraph stamps during the three past years show also a progressive increase as follows:—

	Postage.	Service.	Telegraph.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1873-74	15,15,614	4,16,354	14,30,620
1874-75	16,35,688	4,30,253	15,68,424
1875-76	17,22,063	4,33,263	15,81,071

8. The increase in the sale of non-Judicial stamps is Rs. 17,71,571 in the year from 30 districts, 13 districts only showing a falling off in the revenue from this source. The past year was, generally speaking, a prosperous one, and the increase is normal. The falling off in the Special Adhesive and Share Transfer and Foreign Bill stamps is probably attributable to the prevalence of an unfavourable rate of exchange with Europe, which restricted operations. There is a small decrease in the sale of Adhesive revenue stamps, which can be attributable to no other reason than an evasion of the stamp law, which, it is feared, is very general throughout Bengal and also in Calcutta, where tradesmen, in acknowledging remittances from the mofussil, frequently omit to affix a receipt stamp to the letter of acknowledgment. A special notification has been published, and widely circulated by the Board of Revenue, directing the attention of the public to their liabilities in this matter. The sale of Hoondee stamps has slightly increased, and would have increased much more were it not that the extended use of currency notes for remittances is now rapidly taking the place of Bills of Exchange. The 24-Pergunnahs, Moorshedabad, and Dacca are the districts in which the sale of these stamps is largest. The increase in Postage and Telegraph stamps is principally due to increased confidence in the Postal and Telegraph Departments of Government, and may be regarded with unmixed satisfaction. The increase in Court Fee stamps, amounting to no less than Rs. 3,32,768 during the past year, is due to increase in litigation, many heavy suits having, it is said, been instituted for the recovery of rents and debts which fell into arrears or accrued during the famine.

9. Attention was prominently drawn in the Resolution on last year's report to the slow growth in the revenue from General stamps, and to the fact that this could be attributable to no other cause than a systematic evasion of the provisions of the stamp law. It was stated, moreover, that, in the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion, the present law would prove sufficient if all the servants of Government who had to deal with the matter really co-operated to compel observance of the law. It cannot be doubted that the due enforcement of the law is a matter which rests entirely with the Revenue authorities. Accordingly in December last the Board of Revenue, at the desire of Government, addressed a circular to all district officers pointing out what their duties were in cases in which unstamped or insufficiently stamped documents were produced before them, and the district officers in their turn made known the contents of the circular to all magisterial officers and registrars of assurances, with instructions to bring to notice all cases of non-compliance with the provisions of the stamp law. The assistance of the High Court has also been accorded in the same direction. The Lieutenant-Governor has since received satisfactory reports from the Board of the prosecutions instituted during recent months, whereby persons to blame in this respect have been subjected to moderate penalties, which will, it is hoped, have a deterring and warning effect for the future. But it is premature to estimate the effect of these measures at present: they will be best shown by the financial results of the current year's operations under the Stamp Act. It can only now be said that the increased vigilance that has been bestowed on the subject shows clearly that evasions of the stamp law are widely prevalent, perhaps even more so than had been thought.

10. The Board's report on the stamp prosecutions during the year (some of which have been alluded to above) shows that cases were generally instituted with care and circumspection, and that they have already produced the effect of forcibly bringing the obligations imposed by the law to the notice of all classes of the community. The Government is determined to enforce the provisions of the law in this respect; and, with this view, reliance is placed on the vigilance of the Board and of the Collectors of districts. It seems to the Lieutenant-Governor that the Court of Wards' case reported by the Collector of Midnapore should properly have led to a criminal prosecution instituted by the Revenue authorities against the money-lender whose bond was only stamped with an ordinary one-anna receipt stamp. This matter will form the subject of a separate correspondence.

11. The Board of Revenue have furnished but a brief paragraph regarding the fraudulent abstraction of Court Fees stamps from records, in which it is stated that cases have been detected at Nuddea, Julpigoree, Tipperah, Patna, and Cuttack, and the offenders brought to justice. It may be hoped that the successful prosecution of these cases during the past and previous years has deterred offenders from the more frequent commission of stamp embezzlement.

12. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to observe the favourable mention accorded by the Board of Revenue to Messrs. F. B. Peacock, Commissioner of Dacca, and E. E. Lowis, Commissioner of Chittagong, and to Collectors Sir William Herschel and Messrs. Alexander, Lyall, and Pawsey for the attention they have accorded to this branch of the revenue. Mr. J. B. Roberts, the Superintendent of Stamps, Mr. J. Mackenzie, Collector of Stamp Revenue, Calcutta, and Mr. C. Longhurst and Baboo Prankissen Sen, of the office of the Superintendent of Stamps, are also well spoken of for their efficiency. The Lieutenant-Governor's thanks are due to Mr. Money, the Member in charge, for his careful supervision of the department during the year.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE EXCISE DEPARTMENT FOR THE YEAR 1875-76.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—MIS. REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 28th October 1876.

READ—

The Report of the Board of Revenue on the Administration of the Excise Department in the Lower Provinces for the year 1875-76.

The excise report of last year showed a falling off of revenue to the amount of nearly two lakhs of rupees, a result which was attributed to the scarcity in Northern Bengal and Behar. It was anticipated that the receipts of a single prosperous season would make up for this temporary diminution. The returns of the year now under review show that this expectation has been completely realized. The collections in 1873-74 were Rs. 58,09,325, in 1874-75 they were Rs. 56,29,367, while in 1875-76 they rose to Rs. 60,86,919, showing an increase, compared with the returns of 1874-75, of Rs. 4,57,552, and a revenue largely exceeding the receipts of any previous year. The increase was principally under the heads of country-spirits, rum, and ganja. The revenue from pachwai displayed a marked recovery, but still falls considerably short of the average of the five preceding years.

2. The amount remitted during the year was Rs. 580. The balances at the close of the year were Rs. 3,003; but of this only a sum of Rs. 141 is considered to be irrecoverable. The charges of the department amounted to Rs. 2,98,093, or 4·9 on the amount collected, being not only a lower percentage than that of the previous year, but an absolutely smaller expenditure, notwithstanding the large increase of revenue.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor observes with much satisfaction that these successful financial results have been achieved without any infraction of the principles which the Government desires to be maintained in the administration of the Department of Excise. Considering the special circumstances of 1874-75, it was inevitable that there should be some increase this year in the consumption of country spirits, but the number of licenses for the sale of country-spirits has been reduced from 5,173 to 4,426. The licenses for imported wines and spirits were 822 in 1874-75 and 748 in 1875-76; the licences for pachwai decreased from 1,863 to 1,843; those for ganja from 4,394 to 3,340; and those for opium from 3,836 to 3,296. The increase of revenue has not been obtained by any multiplication of the facilities for obtaining liquor and drugs, but it is due partly to a larger consumption, owing to the improved condition of the people, and partly to the issue of licenses at higher rates, and to additions to the selling price of opium in several districts.

4. The total receipts from country-spirits amounted to Rs. 25,10,064. The outstill system, which is found to be better adapted than the fixed duty system to thinly populated tracts, in which efficient supervision cannot easily be maintained, was introduced during the year into a part of Tipperah, and was considerably extended in Chittagong and Chota Nagpore. The number of licenses under this system increased from 719 to 756, but only 3,670 licenses were issued under the fixed duty system, against 4,454 in the previous year. The figures for all districts under the head of country-spirits show a net increase of 171,633 gallons in the consumption and of Rs. 2,82,002 in the revenue—in other words, every additional gallon of the consumption yielded an addition of about Rs. 1-10 to the revenue. The details varied considerably in different parts of the country. In the Chittagong, Rajshahye, and Chota Nagpore Divisions there was a decrease of consumption combined with a large increase of revenue; in Orissa both the consumption and the revenue fell off; and in the remaining divisions there was an increase of both. The plan of disposing of licenses by auction is not found to work well in Orissa, and the Member in charge proposes to discontinue it. Since the close of the year the rates of duty on country-spirits have been raised in almost all the districts of the Lower Provinces.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor observes that the report does not notice the experiments made in the Bhagulpore and Patna Divisions for taxing the materials used in the distillation of country-spirits. A separate correspondence on this subject has passed between Government and the Board of Revenue. The experiments have not hitherto been successful, but the Lieutenant-Governor does not desire to abandon them till the system has been more fully tried, and he has directed that a scientific inquiry into the subject shall be held by a special officer in conjunction with a selected Deputy Collector of the Excise Department.

6. The return of spirits manufactured in India by the English method shows an increase, as compared with last year, in both consumption and revenue, though the consumption is still below the average of the last five years. The increase is probably due to the higher rate of duty imposed on imported spirits by the Tariff Act of 1875; but it is also stated that in the Dacca Division the people prefer country rum as being more wholesome than the cheap descriptions of imported brandy.

7. The revenue from licenses for the sale of imported wines and spirits exhibited a small increase of Rs. 1,019, notwithstanding the large diminution in the number of licenses. The imports of beer and spirits were much smaller than in the previous year; but there was an increased import of wines, and, owing to the higher tariff rates, the customs revenue improved from Rs. 12,23,507 to Rs. 12,81,519.

8. Under the heading of Tari there was again a decrease in the number of licenses, but an increased revenue owing to the settlement of shops at higher rates. The net increase amounted to Rs. 4,448 in excess of the collections of 1874-75. A similar result was attained in the issue of licenses for the sale of pachwai, the increase of revenue being Rs. 21,101. The collections from pachwai, however, are still below the average of the five preceding years, the recovery since the scarcity of 1873-74 having as yet been only partial.

9. The season was unfavourable to the production of ganja, and the cultivated area and the yield are estimated at not much more than half those of the preceding year. The deficiency was partly supplied from stocks in hand, and the total export of ganja from Rajshahye amounted to maunds 8,821-7-5, the ordinary average being above 10,000 maunds. Of the above quantity, maunds 633-6-12 were exported to the North-Western Provinces, and the remainder was consumed in Bengal. Compared with 1874-75 the figures of the year show a decrease of 23·9 per cent. in the number of licenses, a decrease of 5·6 per cent. in the quantity consumed, and an increase of 5·8 per cent. in the revenue realized. The actual decrease of consumption was maunds 441-3-6, and the increase of revenue was Rs. 62,171. These satisfactory results were attained by the general extension throughout the country of the system of settling ganja shops by auction.

10. The attention of the Lieutenant-Governor has been drawn to the necessity of a stricter supervision being exercised over the cultivation and storage of ganja, and the services of an experienced Deputy Collector have been placed at the disposal of the Board of Revenue, with a view to his conducting a careful inquiry into the present system during the ensuing cold weather. On receipt of this report, orders will be passed on the proposal of the Member in charge that the duty on ganja should be levied from the wholesale dealer when the drug is purchased from the cultivator, instead of its being realized, as at present, from the retail vendor when the ganja is removed from the wholesale dealer's bonded warehouse.

11. The returns show the consumption of opium, taking all districts of the Lower Provinces together, to have remained stationary during the year, while there was an increase of Rs. 19,036 in the revenue. But on a closer examination of the figures, it appears that there was really an increase of consumption in most districts, which was counterbalanced by a large falling off (amounting to 54 maunds) in Chittagong owing to the cessation of the smuggling of opium from that district into Arracan. The increase in the revenue is due to the selling price having been raised in several districts, and to the levy of license fees on the retail vend of opium. Since the close of the year the selling price has been still further enhanced in Midnapore, Cuttack, and Pooree. The beneficial result of raising the price of the drug is strikingly shown by the figures for Balasore, where the price was fixed at Rs. 27 per seer. The consumption diminished from maunds 129-25 to maunds 122-3; but the revenue increased from Rs. 95,787 to Rs. 1,00,300. The growing taste of the people of Orissa for both ganja and opium has been noticed in the reports of the last few years, and it is satisfactory to observe from the present report that the consumption of ganja decreased in 1875-76 in all the districts of the province; and though in Cuttack and Pooree there was a small increase in the consumption of opium, it may be hoped that this will be checked by the enhancement of price already referred to.

12. The alleged prevalence of habits of intemperance among the Sonthals, and the measures which might be taken for its repression, were discussed in the Lieutenant-Governor's Minute of the 27th May 1876. The result of the orders embodied in the Minute will be seen hereafter; but the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to observe from the present report that effectual measures have already been taken to curtail the number of licensed shops in the Sonthal Pergunnahs, and thus to diminish the temptations to excessive indulgence in drink. The licenses for the sale of country-spirits were reduced from 409 in 1874-75 to 221 in 1875-76, and the actual consumption decreased from 99,666 gallons to 67,381 gallons. As the local officers are of opinion that illicit distillation is absolutely unknown in the district, it thus appears that the consumption of spirits amounted to only one gallon for every 18 persons of the population. The licenses for the sale of imported wines and spirits decreased from 11 to 10; but as these liquors are not consumed by Sonthals, the reduction does not affect the present question. The licenses for tari were 109 against 194, and those for pachwai were 46 against 58, the reduction in the numbers being in both cases accompanied by a small increase of revenue, owing to the shops having been settled at higher rates. From a similar cause there was a decrease in the consumption of ganja, accompanied by an increase of revenue; and the number of ganja shops was reduced from 79 to 54. There was a slight increase in the consumption of opium, notwithstanding a reduction in the number of shops; but the total consumption of opium is insignificant,* and the drug is consumed, not by Sonthals, but by Hindu pilgrims to the shrine of Deoghur. The total excise revenue collected in the Sonthal Pergunnahs amounted to Rs. 99,993 in 1874-75, and to Rs. 1,02,462 in 1875-76.

* 6 maunds 4 seers in 1874-75.
8 „ 7 „ in 1875-76.

13. These figures sufficiently show that if the Sonthals are unfortunately addicted to habits of intemperance, those habits are not encouraged by any undue multiplication of the number of licensed shops for the sale of liquors and drugs. The question of prohibiting the home-brewing of rice-beer by the Sonthals for domestic consumption is one of considerable difficulty, and the Lieutenant-Governor has indicated in his Minute the policy which he desires to pursue, and the extent of restriction which he is at present prepared to enforce. He trusts that these measures will be successful; but if this should prove not to be the case, it may eventually be necessary, in the interests of the people themselves, that the privilege of home-brewing should be taken away.

14. There were prosecutions during the year under the excise laws in every district of the Lower Provinces, but no case of any great importance occurred. In all 2,596 persons were arrested, and of these 2,158, or 83 per cent., were convicted. The fines imposed amounted to Rs. 51,914, of which Rs. 28,163 were realized; and out of this a sum of Rs. 19,697 was distributed by way of reward to informers and apprehenders, besides an amount of Rs. 3,361 sanctioned as special rewards. Both police and excise officers on the whole exerted themselves actively and creditably. In the opium smuggling case referred to in the 105th paragraph of the report, the Lieutenant-Governor has directed the Legal Remembrancer to move the High Court to send for the record of the case, as it is of some importance that the ruling of the Judge on the question of jurisdiction should be carefully examined.

15. By the passing of Act II (B.C.) of 1876 some useful amendments of details have been made in the abkaree law. A measure for the consolidation of all the enactments relating to abkaree is now under consideration.

16. On a general review of the excise administration of the year, the Lieutenant-Governor adheres to the opinion which he expressed in the Resolution upon last year's report, that this department of the public service rests upon a secure and satisfactory basis, and is conducted in accordance with the principles which the Government has laid down for the guidance of its officers. The excise revenue is large, and is collected with very great punctuality and at a very small percentage of cost. The receipts necessarily fluctuate according as the circumstances of a particular year are prosperous or otherwise; but the revenue speedily recovers from any temporary depression, and its steady expansion in ordinary years indicates the improving material condition of the mass of the people. The two points to which the attention of the authorities should now be specially directed are the revision of the rules relating to ganja, and the equalization of the duties on country-made and imported spirits. It has been remarked above that orders have already been issued for an inquiry to be held into the former of these subjects. With regard to the latter, it is to be observed that the excise duty on country rum has already been equalized in Bengal with the customs duty on imported spirits, and that in the case of country-spirits steps have been taken towards a similar equalization by a general raising of the rates. But, except in Calcutta and a few adjoining districts, the rate of duty on country-spirits is still considerably below the customs tariff on imported spirits, and it should now be the object to raise the excise duty, wherever it may be practicable to do so, in order to equalize the rates on the two classes of spirits. If absolute uniformity should be unattainable, as seems likely to be the case for some time at least to come, still no opportunity should be lost of taking such steps as may tend towards a general equalization of the duties. With this object the Lieutenant-Governor would invite the Member in charge to consider whether it would be possible at once to increase the rates on country-spirits in the districts of Gya, Shahabad, Monghyr, and Bhagulpore, in all of which there is a large consumption.

17. The Lieutenant-Governor takes note of the commendation bestowed by the Member in charge on the Commissioners named in the margin for the attention they have bestowed on the working of the Excise Department in their respective divisions throughout the year; and he also observes that the covenanted and uncovenanted officers named in the 118th paragraph of the report are stated to have conducted this branch of their duties with efficiency and success. The department was under the supervision of Mr. H. L. Dampier for a part of the year, and for the remainder under that of Mr. A. Money, C B., and the thanks of Government are due to both these officers for their able administration.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONER OF THE CHOTA NAGPORE DIVISION FOR THE YEAR 1875-76.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.—MISCELLANEOUS.—No. 2832

Calcutta, the 30th October 1876.

READ—

The Annual Administration Report of the Commissioner of the Chota Nagpore Division for the year 1875-76.

This report has been received very late, and the Commissioner does not furnish any satisfactory excuse for the delay in its submission.

2. Both the Commissioner and the Deputy Commissioners of the division appear to have thoroughly discharged their duties in the interior during their cold weather tours.

3. The crops on the whole are favourably reported on, although the outturn over the area of so large a division was necessarily unequal in different places. In Palamow the year " is characterized as having been agriculturally a most successful one." The rice crop, which is the staple crop in Chota Nagpore proper, was exceedingly fine, and in Singbhoom the rice yielded a full average. The harvests were less favourable in Manbhoom and Hazareebagh, but even in those districts the crops were all round little, if at all, below an average. As a consequence, the prices of food were favourable. The wages of labour, it is said, underwent no marked changes during the year under review. The wages of a day labourer are still not more than seven or eight pice per day. The people are poor; but it is generally asserted that they are improving in prosperity, and that they are content and happy. The Deputy Commissioner of Hazareebagh observes that the Kamiahs or bond slaves, heard of in years gone by, are scarcely to be seen now, and that the vicinity of the railway and the extension of coal mines have increased the value of labour, and thereby improved the condition of the poorer classes. The general condition of the people is, however, one of great poverty. There is a considerable emigration to the tea districts, but hardly any to the colonies abroad. Immigration into Chota Nagpore from the Behar districts is rightly encouraged by the local officers, and the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to see that Mr. Forbes, the Assistant Commissioner of Palamow, reports that during his enquiries he has found that about 500 to 600 families, or about 2,500 persons of all sexes and ages, annually settle in the sub-division from the Shahabad and Gya districts.

4. There are now five coal mines at work in the Hazarcebagh district—three at Kurhurbalee, of which the principal one is worked by the East India Railway Company; one at Guddee Serampore, also worked by the railway; and the fifth at Koldiha, belonging to the Bengal Coal Company. The coal mines at Rajhara in Palamow were worked to a very limited extent during the past year in consequence of cessation of work on the Soane Canals. It is well known that the whole of the Chota Nagpore Division is rich in mineral wealth, but it requires to be more opened out by communications before its resources can be fully availed of by the public.

5. With the exception of the collection of vital statistics, no attempt is made to prosecute statistical inquiries. The difficulty in the way of collecting even these statistics is very great. They are collected through the regular and village police, but the police stations have sometimes a jurisdiction over an area of 500 square miles, and many of the chowkeedars have to travel over 40 to 50 miles to report themselves at the police station. Notwithstanding this, however, the results are fairly satisfactory, and show that the local officers exert themselves to secure correct returns.

6. The districts of Chota Nagpore are still very backward in education. It is said that some progress is being made in mass education under the primary school system; but the Lieutenant-Governor much regrets to see that there has been retrogression in Singbhoom, "although every effort was made and monetary assistance afforded." The special attention of the Commissioner should be devoted to withstand this backward movement, which stands out in marked contrast to the progress reported from every other portion of Bengal.

7. The conduct of the zemindars is described by the Commissioner as having been generally good, and this subject has been more fully treated in the report on the administration of the Tributary Estates.

8. Sir Richard Temple has himself travelled through this interesting province during the year, and has considered its condition in consultation with the Commissioner and the district officers. All that he saw and heard fully bore out the favourable reports that have always been made regarding the prosperity of these extensive tracts. The revenues received from the province are, however, remarkably small, as compared with the expenses which the Government has to incur for its administration. It is to be hoped that the local authorities will do all they fairly can to develope local funds and to guard the fiscal interests. Though unwilling to check administrative improvement, the Lieutenant-Governor must beg that every item of cost be examined with a view to such reduction as may not be incompatible with efficiency. He notes with satisfaction the progress made with roads and civil buildings. But as regards roads, he must warn the local authorities that they cannot expect large grants from the Provincial Funds and from other resources to which the productive and revenue-yielding districts of Bengal have a better claim. He trusts, however, that the road cess will enable the authorities to maintain their communications in tolerable order. He would gladly see a tramway undertaken from the railway at Kurhurbalee to the coal mines south of Hazaroebagh if the capital could be raised. He thinks that the private forests in this province are being wastefully cut, and he would fain see some system of preservation devised. Meanwhile, effectual steps have been taken for preserving the Government forests, of which the area is fortunately considerable. The Lieutenant-Governor would add that he found the aboriginal tribes generally prospering, and having their landed rights duly investigated, but that they were somewhat disposed to push their claims to an extreme. It seemed desirable to prevent this important investigation dragging its length over too great a time, and steps have been taken to expedite it.

9. In most places the Lieutenant-Governor saw the local village police in a good status. The regular police is strong—stronger perhaps than can be afforded financially in a province so poor in revenue. On the other hand, the ancient obligations of the zemindars (whose payments to Government are of the nature of tribute rather than of revenue) have not been adequately enforced in respect of the maintenance of police. In some places there were traces of agrarian lawlessness which had been promptly repressed by the magistracy. In most places the bad characters were rigorously kept under watch. Although there is backwardness in education, it is impossible to forget the great obligations which this province owes to the Reverend Missionaries of several denominations: the benevolence and self-sacrifice thus displayed must work a beneficent effect on the minds of the aboriginal population. The need of the new Act for the relief of encumbered estates was sadly apparent. There were also some points connected with the rent law, for which special provision is required from the Legislature; with this view steps have been duly taken. On all sides, and on the whole, the happiest signs were observable of the thoughtful, considerate, and truly paternal administration which this province enjoyed under the late Commissioner, Colonel Dalton, and which it will doubtless continue to enjoy under the present Commissioner, Mr. Robinson, and under future Commissioners.

10. The Lieutenant-Governor gladly acknowledges the good service of the following officers whose names are prominently brought to notice by the Commissioner:—

District Officers.

Colonel H. M. Boddam.
Mr. H. L. Oliphant.
Dr. W. H. Hayes.

Sub-divisional and other Officers.

Lieutenant J. R. Carnac.
Mr. L. R. Forbes.
Moulvi Subhan Hyder.
Mr. C. A. S. Bedford.
Mr. R. D. Hare.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor's thanks are also due to the Commissioner, Mr. W. LeF. Robinson, for his efficient administration during the year.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

Junior Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

HIGH COURT NOTICES.

General Letter No. 14.

Dated Calcutta, the 4th September 1876.

To—All District Judges.

HIGH COURT, ENGLISH DEPARTMENT, Civil.

IT appears that, in dealing with uncontested applications for certificates under Act XXVII of 1860, and other miscellaneous cases in which summons or notice to particular individuals is not issued and no objection is preferred, it is the practice in some districts for the Civil Courts to pass orders in respect of the amount of fee to be paid to the pleader by his client.

2. This practice has no warrant in law, and should be discontinued forthwith. Section 37, Act XX of 1865, and the rules issued with Circular Order No. 22, dated 13th June 1866, provide only for the fees to be paid by the unsuccessful party for his adversary's pleader, while Section 39 of the Act expressly leaves the fees payable by a party to his own pleader to be settled between them by private agreement.

General Letter No. 15.

Dated Calcutta, the 13th September 1876.

To—All District Judges.

HIGH COURT, ENGLISH DEPARTMENT, Civil.

IT having come to the notice of the High Court that Pleaders who had qualified in the North-Western Provinces have been allowed by the Judge to practise in one district of the Lower Provinces, I am directed to intimate that this practice is contrary to rule, and to request that you will take care to see that none but persons duly qualified under the rules applicable to the Lower Provinces are allowed to practise.

2. Any certificates that may have been granted to pleaders or mookhtars who have qualified in other jurisdictions should be at once recalled.

By order of the High Court,

W. M. SOUTTAR, Registrar.

Circular Order issued by Authority of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

CIVIL.

No. 13, dated 4th September 1876.

IN continuation of Circular Order No. 5, dated the 25th March 1876, the annexed copy of a letter, No. 5188, of the 15th July 1876, addressed by the Board of Revenue to the Government of Bengal, is circulated for the information of all Civil Courts subordinate to the High Court.

2. The Court directs that, in dealing with cases to which the provisions of Section 20, Act XVIII of 1869 do not apply (vide Section 28), all officers concerned will strictly comply with the requirements of Section 18 of the Act.

From W. H. GRIMLEY, Esq., Officiating Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department,—(No. 5188, dated Fort William, the 15th July 1876.)

STAMPS

A. Money, Esq., C.S. Government Order No. 2504, dated 7th October 1875. Government Order No. 2857, dated 4th December 1875.

With advertence to the orders of Government marginally cited, I am directed to submit, for the consideration and orders of Government, the following case of evasion of the stamp duty leviable under Article 5, Schedule II, of Act XVIII of 1869.

2. A vender of lime in the district of Hooghly filed in the Court of Small Causes an account book for the recovery of a debt. The book shewed the goods delivered and money paid in excess of Rs. 20, an account balanced, and an outstanding money debt of over Rs. 20. The account so balanced was signed by the purchaser and had no stamp affixed to it. The Judge of the Small Cause Court admitted the account book in evidence, and has recorded an order as follows:—

"The plaintiff in the above case filed a hat-chita executed by defendant without adhesive stamp of one anna as required by law. He offered one anna for stamp duty and one rupee and four annas (Re. 1-4) as penalty,—in all Re. 1-5."

ORDERED—"That the amount be received and a copy of the proceeding be sent to the Government Pleader for his information."

3. The Member in charge desires to bring it to notice that the Small Cause Court Judge appears to have exceeded his powers in allowing the omission of stamp duty to be remedied by payment of the penalty duty under Section 20 of Act XVIII of 1869, inasmuch as the document in question, being chargeable with the duty of one anna, the provisions of that section did not apply (vide Section 28 of the General Stamp Act), and therefore the Court had no option but to hold the instrument inadmissible in evidence under Section 18 of the Act. Mr. Money thinks that it would have some effect in checking evasions of the kind under notice if the attention of the subordinate Civil Courts were specially called to the requirements of the law as above pointed out, and he suggests that the High Court may be addressed on the subject.

No. 14, dated 11*th September* 1876.

It has been brought to the notice of the Court that the attendance book of witnesses does not show correctly the number of persons brought from their homes in obedience to the summons of the Courts for the purpose of giving evidence. There is reason to believe that not infrequently the agents of suitors do not cause their witnesses' presence to be entered if they have no expectation of their causes being called up for hearing, although in fact the witnesses, or some of them, are at hand, if not actually in court.

2. It is, however, important for the Courts to know the true facts that they may be able to deal properly with the various applications made for fresh summonses and compulsory process, with consequent adjournments. It is moreover, manifestly wrong that this register, intended to facilitate supervision, should be used to conceal, where it ought to expose, delay and the consequent harassment of witnesses.

3. With a view to afford some check, the Court directs that in future, in every case adjourned without hearing for want of time to go through the cause list for the day, there shall be recorded as part of the order of adjournment a specific order to the witnesses to attend on the day to which the case stands adjourned, based on a return of the Nazir. The order should be to the following effect: "Whereas, &c., it is ordered that the hearing of this suit be adjourned to the , on which day the witnesses mentioned in the Nazir's return of this date as in attendance on the Court, viz. (No.) for the plaintiff and (No.) for defendant No. 1 and (No.) for defendant No. 2 (and so on), are required to be in attendance."

4. When there are no witnesses in attendance, the order after the date to which the hearing is adjourned may run: "The Nazir having returned that no witnesses are in attendance this day, the parties are required to take notice thereof."

5. Judicial Officers of all grades are requested to see to the careful carrying out of this order.

6. In conclusion, the Court would remind Judicial Officers that when an adjournment is ordered, a future day ought not to be fixed at random as a matter of form. The circumstances of each case, as, for example, the distance witnesses have to travel, and sometimes the season of the year, as well as the state of the files, should be considered. It may well be that in some instances it is a less hardship to detain witnesses from day to day than to discharge them, requiring them to return after a considerable interval. The complaints of vexatious delays and postponements, which unfortunately are too common, cannot be expected to cease unless the Courts will exercise an intelligent discretion in dealing with cases in the stages preliminary to final hearing.

No. 15, dated 16*th September* 1876.

Court fee stamps which are affixed to papers that have to be destroyed periodically under the rules, may, unless precautions are adopted, be again made use of. To guard against this, Record-keepers should be strictly enjoined so to mutilate the stamps, at the time of separating papers for destruction, as to preclude the possibility of their going out with those papers when sold to the public.

Sheriff's Office, the 18th October 1876.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Ninth Criminal Sessions of the year 1876, of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal for the Town of Calcutta and Factory of Fort William and the places subordinate thereto, will be holden at the Court-house, in the Town of Calcutta, on Monday, the Twentieth day of November next, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, and so on from day to day until the said Session be over. An Act to amend the Merchant Shipping Acts.

[15th August 1876.]

BE it enacted by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

Preliminary.

Short title.

1. This Act may be cited as the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876.

Construction of Act.

2. This Act shall be construed as one with the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and the Acts amending the same; and the said Acts and this Act may be cited collectively as the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1876.

Commencement of Act.

3. This Act shall come into operation on the first day of October 1876 (which day is in this Act referred to as the commencement of this Act); nevertheless any orders in Council and general rules under this Act may be made at any time after the passing of this Act, but shall not come into operation before the commencement of this Act.

Unseaworthy Ships.

Sending unseaworthy ship to sea a misdemeanour.

4. Every person who sends or attempts to send, or is party to sending or attempting to send a British ship to sea in such unseaworthy state that the life of any person is likely to be thereby endangered, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour, unless he proves that he used all reasonable means to insure her being sent to sea in a seaworthy state, or that her going to sea in such unseaworthy state was, under the circumstances, reasonable and justifiable, and for the purpose of giving such proof he may give evidence in the same manner as any other witness.

Every master of a British ship who knowingly takes the same to sea in such unseaworthy state that the life of any person is likely to be thereby endangered shall be guilty of a misdemeanour, unless he proves that her going to sea in such unseaworthy state was, under the circumstances, reasonable and justifiable, and for the purpose of giving such proof he may give evidence in the same manner as any other witness.

A prosecution under this section shall not be instituted except by or with the consent of the Board of Trade or of the Governor of the British possession in which such prosecution takes place.

A misdemeanour under this section shall not be punishable upon summary conviction.

Obligation of shipowner to crew with respect to use of reasonable efforts to secure seaworthiness.

5. In every contract of service, express or implied, between the owner of a ship and the master or any seamen thereof, and in every instrument of apprenticeship whereby any person is bound to serve as an apprentice on board any ship, there shall be implied, notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary, an obligation on the owner of the ship, that the owner of the ship, and the master, and every agent charged with the loading of the ship, or the preparing thereof for sea, or the sending thereof to sea, shall use all reasonable means to insure the seaworthiness of the ship for the voyage at the time when the voyage commences, and to keep her in a seaworthy condition for the voyage during the same: Provided that nothing in this section shall subject the owner of a ship to any liability by reason of the ship being sent to sea in an unseaworthy state where, owing to special circumstances, the so sending thereof to sea is reasonable and justifiable.

Power to detain unsafe ships, and procedure for such detention.

6. Where a British ship, being in any port of the United Kingdom, is by reason of the defective condition of her hull, equipments, or machinery, or by reason of overloading or improper loading, unfit to proceed to sea without serious danger to human life, having regard to the nature of the service for which she is intended, any such ship (hereinafter referred to as "unsafe") may be provisionally detained for the purpose of being surveyed, and either finally detained or released, as follows:—

(1.) The Board of Trade, if they have reason to believe on complaint, or otherwise, that a British ship is unsafe, may provisionally order the detention of the ship for the purpose of being surveyed.

(2.) When a ship has been provisionally detained there shall be forthwith served on the master of the ship a written statement of the grounds of her detention, and the Board of Trade may, if they think fit, appoint some competent person or persons to survey the ship and report thereon to the Board.

(3.) The Board of Trade on receiving the report may either order the ship to be released or, if in their opinion the ship is unsafe, may order her to be finally detained, either absolutely, or until the performance of such conditions with respect to the execution of repairs or alterations, or the unloading or reloading of cargo, as the Board think necessary for the protection of human life, and may from time to time vary or add to any such order.

(4.) Before the order for final detention is made a copy of the report shall be served upon the master of the ship, and within seven days after such service the owner or master of the ship may appeal in the prescribed manner to the court of survey (hereinafter mentioned) for the port or district where the ship is detained.

(5.) Where a ship has been provisionally detained, the owner or master of the ship, at any time before the person appointed under this section to survey the ship makes such survey, may require that he shall be accompanied by such person as the owner or master may select out of the list of assessors for the court of survey (nominated as hereinafter mentioned) and in such case if the surveyor and assessor agree, the Board of Trade shall cause the ship to be detained or released accordingly, but if they differ, the Board of Trade may act as if the requisition had not been made, and the owner and master shall have the like appeal touching the report of the surveyor as is before provided by this section.

(6.) Where a ship has been provisionally detained, the Board of Trade may at any time, if they think it expedient, refer the matter to the court of survey for the port or district where the ship is detained.

(7.) The Board of Trade may at any time, if satisfied that a ship detained under this Act is not unsafe, order her to be released either upon or without any conditions.

(8.) For the better execution of this section, the Board of Trade, with the consent of the Treasury, may from time to time appoint a sufficient number of fit officers, and may remove any of them.

(9.) Any officer so appointed (in this Act referred to as a detaining officer) shall have the same power as the Board of Trade have under this section of provisionally ordering the detention of a ship for the purpose of being surveyed, and of appointing a person or persons to survey her; and if he thinks that a ship so detained by him is not unsafe may order her to be released.

(10.) A detaining officer shall forthwith report to the Board of Trade any order made by him for the detention or release of a ship.

Constitution of court of survey for appeals.

7. A court of survey for a port or district shall consist of a judge sitting with two assessors.

The judge shall be such person as may be summoned for the case in accordance with the rules made under this Act out of a list (from time to time approved for the port or district by one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, in this Act referred to as a Secretary of State) of wreck commissioners appointed under this Act, stipendiary or metropolitan police magistrates, judges of country courts, and other fit persons; but in any special case in which the Board of Trade think it expedient to appoint a wreck commissioner, the judge shall be such wreck commissioner.

The assessors shall be persons of nautical engineering or other special skill and experience; one of them shall be appointed by the Board of Trade, either generally or in each case, and the other shall be summoned in accordance with the rules under this Act by the registrar of the court, out of a list of persons periodically nominated for the purpose by the local marine board of the port, or, if there is no such board, by a body of local shipowners or merchants approved for the purpose by a Secretary of State, or, if there is no such list, shall be appointed by the judge; if a Secretary of State thinks fit at any time, on the recommendation of the Government of any British possession or any foreign state, to add any person or persons to any such list, such person or persons shall, until otherwise directed by the Secretary of State, be added to such list, and if there is no such list, shall form such list.

The county court registrar or such other fit person as a Secretary of State may from time to time appoint shall be the registrar of the court, and shall, on receiving notice of an appeal or a reference from the Board of Trade, immediately summon the court in the prescribed manner to meet forthwith.

The name of the registrar and his office, together with the rules made under this Act relating to the court of survey, shall be published in the prescribed manner.

Power and procedure of court of survey.

8. With respect to the court of survey the following provisions shall have effect:

(1.) The case shall be heard in open court;

(2.) The judge and each assessor may survey the ship, and shall have for the purposes of this Act all the powers of an inspector appointed by the Board of Trade under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854;

(3.) The judge may appoint any competent person or persons to survey the ship and report thereon to the Court;

(4.) The judge shall have the same power as the Board of Trade have to order the ship to be released or finally detained, but unless one of the assessors concurs in an order for the detention of the ship, the ship shall be released;

(5.) The owner and master of the ship and any person appointed by the owner or master, and also any person appointed by the Board of Trade, may attend at any inspection or survey made in pursuance of this section;

(6.) The judge shall send to the Board of Trade the prescribed report, and each assessor shall either sign the report or report to the Board of Trade the reasons for his dissent.

Rules for procedure of court of survey, &c.

9. The Lord Chancellor of Great Britain may from time to time (with the consent of the Treasury so far as relates to fees) make, and when made revoke, alter, and add to general rules to carry into effect the provisions of this Act with respect to a court of survey, and in particular with respect to the summoning of and procedure before the court, the requiring on an appeal security for costs and damages, the amount and application of fees, and the publication of the rules.

All such rules while in force shall have effect as if enacted in this Act, and the expression "prescribed" in the provisions of this Act relating to the detention of ships or court of survey means prescribed by such rules.

Liability of Board of Trade and shipowner for costs and damages.

10. If it appears that there was not reasonable and probable cause, by reason of the condition of the ship or the act or default of the owner, for the provisional detention of the ship, the Board of Trade shall be liable to pay to the owner of the ship his costs of and incidental to the detention and survey of the ship, and also compensation for any loss or damage sustained by him by reason of the detention or survey.

If a ship is finally detained under this Act, or if it appears that a ship provisionally detained was, at the time of such detention, unsafe within the meaning of this Act, the owner of the ship shall be liable to pay to the Board of Trade their costs of and incidental to the detention and survey of the ship, and those costs shall, without prejudice to any other remedy, be recoverable as salvage is recoverable.

For the purposes of this Act the costs of and incidental to any proceeding before a court of survey, and a reasonable amount in respect of the remuneration of the surveyor or officer of the Board of Trade, shall be deemed to be part of the costs of the detention and survey of the ship, and any dispute as to the amount of costs under this Act may be referred to one of the masters or registrars of the Supreme Court of Judicature, who, on request made to him for that purpose by the Board of Trade, shall ascertain and certify the proper amount of such costs.

An action for any costs or compensation payable by the Board of Trade under this section may be brought against the Secretary thereof by his official title as if he were a corporation sole; and if the cause of action arises in Ireland, it shall be lawful for any of the superior courts of common law in Ireland in which such action may be commenced to order that the summons or writ may be served on the Crown and Treasury Solicitor for Ireland, in such manner and on such terms as to extension of time and otherwise as to the court shall seem fit, and that such service shall be deemed good and sufficient service of such summons or writ upon the Secretary of the Board of Trade.

Power to require from complainant security for costs.

11. When a complaint is made to the Board of Trade or a detaining officer that a British ship is unsafe, the Board or officer may, if they or he think fit, require the complainant to give security to the satisfaction of the Board for the costs and compensation which he may become liable to pay as hereinafter mentioned.

Provided that where the complaint is made by one-fourth, being not less than three, of the seamen belonging to the ship, and is not in the opinion of the Board or officer frivolous or vexatious, such security shall not be required, and the Board or officer shall, if the complaint is made in sufficient time before the sailing of the ship, take proper steps for ascertaining whether the ship ought to be detained under this Act.

Where a ship is detained in consequence of any complaint, and the circumstances are such that the Board of Trade are liable under this Act to pay to the owner of the ship any costs or compensation, the complainant shall be liable to pay to the Board of Trade all such costs and compensation as the Board incur or are liable to pay in respect of the detention and survey of the ship.

Supplemental provisions as to detention of ship.

12. (1) A detaining officer shall have for the purpose of his duties under this Act the same powers as an inspector appointed by the Board of Trade under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854.

(2) An order for the detention of a ship, provisional or final, and an order varying the same shall be served as soon as may be on the master of the ship.

(3) When a ship has been detained under this Act she shall not be released by reason of her British register being subsequently closed.

(4) For the purpose of a survey of a ship under this Act any person authorised to make the same may go on board the ship and inspect the same and every part thereof, and the machinery, equipments, and cargo, and may require the unloading or removal of any cargo, ballast, or tackle.

(5) The provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, with respect to persons who wilfully impede an inspector, or disobey a requisition or order of an inspector, shall apply as if those provisions were herein enacted, with the substitution for the inspector of any judge, assessor, officer, or surveyor who under this Act has the same powers as an inspector or has authority to survey a ship.

Foreign Ships, Overloading.

Application to foreign ships of provisions as to detention.

13. Where a foreign ship has taken on board all or any part of her cargo at a port in the United Kingdom, and is whilst at that port unsafe by reason of overloading or improper loading, the provisions of this Act with respect to the detention of ships shall apply to that foreign ship as if she were a British ship, with the following modifications:—

(1) A copy of the order for the provisional detention of the ship shall be forthwith served on the consular officer for the State to which the ship belongs at or nearest to the place where the ship is detained;

(2) where a ship has been provisionally detained, the consular officer, on the request of the owner or master of the ship, may require that the person appointed by the Board of Trade to survey the ship shall be accompanied by such person as the consular officer may select, and in such case, if the surveyor and such person agree, the Board of Trade shall cause the ship to be detained or released accordingly, but if they differ, the Board of Trade may act as if the requisition had not been made, and the owner and master shall have the appeal to the court of survey touching the report of the surveyor which is before provided by this Act; and

(3) where the owner or master of the ship appeals to the court of survey, the consular officer, on the request of such owner or master, may appoint any competent person who shall be assessor in such case, in lieu of the assessor who, if the ship were a British ship, would be appointed otherwise than by the Board of Trade.

In this section the expression "consular officer" means any consul-general, vice-consul, consular agent, or other officer recognized by a Secretary of State as a consular officer of a foreign State.

Appeal on refusal of Certificates to ships.

Appeal on refusal of certain certificates under Merchant Shipping and Passengers' Acts.

14. Whereas by section three hundred and nine of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and enactments amending the same, the owner of a passenger steamer as defined in that Act is required to cause the same to be surveyed by a shipwright surveyor and an engineer surveyor, and those surveyors are required to give declarations of certain particulars with respect to the sufficiency or conformity with the Act of the ship and equipments, and to the limits beyond which the ship is not fit to ply, and to the number of passengers which the ship is fit to carry, and of other particulars in the said section mentioned, and the Board of Trade, under section three hundred and twelve of the same Act, issue a certificate upon such declarations, and the passenger steamer cannot lawfully proceed to sea without obtaining such certificate;

And whereas under sections eleven and fifty of the Passengers Act, 1855, and the enactments amending the same, a passenger ship within the meaning of those sections (in this Act referred to as an emigrant ship) cannot lawfully proceed to sea without a certificate of clearance from an emigration officer, or other officer in those sections mentioned showing that all the requirements of the said sections and enactments have been complied with, and that the ship is in the officer's opinion seaworthy, and that the passengers and crew are in a fit state to proceed to sea, and otherwise as therein mentioned;

And whereas by section thirty of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, provision is made for preventing a ship from proceeding to sea in certain cases without a certificate from a surveyor or person appointed by the Board of Trade to the effect that the ship is properly provided with lights, and with the means of making fog-signals;

And whereas it is expedient to give in the said cases such appeal as hereinafter mentioned: Be it therefore enacted that—

If a shipowner feels aggrieved—

(1) by a declaration of a shipwright surveyor or an engineer surveyor respecting a passenger steamer under the above-recited enactments, or by the refusal of a surveyor to give the said declaration; or

(2) by the refusal of a certificate of clearance for an emigrant ship under the above-recited enactments; or

(3) by the refusal of a certificate as to lights or fog-signals under the above-recited enactment, the owner may appeal in the prescribed manner to the court of survey for the port or district where the ship for the time being is.

On such appeal the judge of the court of survey shall report to the Board of Trade on the question raised by the appeal, and the Board of Trade, when satisfied that the requirements of the report and the other provisions of the said enactments have been complied with, may—

(1) in the case of a passenger steamer give their certificate under section three hundred and twelve of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854; and

(2) in the case of an emigrant ship give, or direct the emigration or other officer to give, a certificate of clearance under the abovementioned enactments; and

(3) in the case of a refusal of a certificate as to lights or fog-signals, give or direct a surveyor or other person appointed by them to give a certificate under section thirty of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862.

Subject to any order made by the judge of the court of survey, the costs of and incidental to an appeal under this section shall follow the event.

Subject as aforesaid, the provisions of this Act with respect to the court of survey and appeals thereto, so far as consistent with the tenor thereof, shall apply to the court of survey when acting under this section, and to appeals under this section.

Where the survey of a ship is made for the purpose of a declaration or certificate under the above-recited enactments, the person appointed to make the survey shall, if so required by the owner, be accompanied on the survey by some person appointed by the owner, and in such case, if the said two persons agree, there shall be no appeal to the court of survey in pursuance of this section.

Scientific Referees.

Reference in difficult cases to scientific persons.

15. If the Board of Trade are of opinion that an appeal under this Act involves a question of construction or design, or of scientific difficulty or important principle, they may refer the matter to such one or more out of a list of scientific referees from time to time approved by a Secretary of State, as may appear to possess the special qualifications necessary for the particular case, and may be selected by agreement between the Board of Trade and the appellant, or in default of any such agreement by a Secretary of State, and thereupon the appeal shall be determined by the referee or referees, instead of by the court of survey.

The Board of Trade, if the appellant in any appeal so require and give security to the satisfaction of the Board to pay the costs of, and incidental to, the reference, shall refer that appeal to a referee or referees so selected as aforesaid.

The referee or referees shall have the same powers as a judge of the court of survey.

Passenger Steamers and Emigrant Ships.

Exemption of certain steamers from passenger certificates.

16. Any steamship may carry passengers not exceeding twelve in number, although she has not been surveyed by the Board of Trade as a passenger steamer, and does not carry a Board of Trade certificate as provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, with respect to passenger steamers.

Colonial certificates for passenger steamers.

17. Where the legislature of any British possession provides for the survey of, and grant of certificates for, passenger steamers, and the Board of Trade report to Her Majesty that they are satisfied that the certificates are to the like effect, and are granted after a like survey, and in such manner as to be equally efficient with the certificates granted for the same purpose in the United Kingdom under the Acts relating to Merchant Shipping, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty by Order in Council—

(1) to declare that the said certificates shall be of the same force as if they had been granted under the said Acts; and

(2) to declare that all or any of the provisions of the said Acts which relate to certificates granted for passenger steamers under those Acts shall, either without modification or with such modifications as to Her Majesty may seem necessary, apply to the certificates referred to in the Order; and

(3) to impose such conditions and to make such regulations with respect to the said certificates, and to the use, delivery, and cancellation thereof, as to Her Majesty may seem fit, and to impose penalties not exceeding fifty pounds for the breach of such conditions and regulations.

Provision against double survey in case of passenger steamers and emigrant ships.

18. In every case where a passenger certificate has been granted to any steamer by the Board of Trade under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and remains still in force, it shall not be requisite for the purposes of the employment of such steamer under the Passengers Acts that she shall be again surveyed in her hull and machinery in order to qualify her for service under the Passengers Act, 1855, and the Acts amending the same; but for the purposes of employment under those Acts such Board of Trade certificate shall be deemed to satisfy the requirements of the Passengers Acts with respect to such survey, and any further survey of the hull and machinery shall be dispensed with, and so long as a steamship is an emigrant ship, that is, a passenger ship within the meaning of the Passengers Act, 1855, and the Acts amending the same, and the provisions contained in the said Passengers Acts as to the survey of her hull, machinery, and equipments have been complied with, she shall not be subject to the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, with respect to the survey of, and certificate for, passenger steamers, or to the enactments amending the same.

Provision as to survey of foreign passenger steamer or emigrant ship.

19. Where a foreign ship is a passenger steamer subject to the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and the Acts amending the same, or an emigrant ship subject to the Passengers Act, 1855, and the Acts amending the same, and the Board of Trade are satisfied, by the production of a foreign certificate of survey attested by a British consular officer at the port of survey, that such ship has been officially surveyed at a foreign port, and are satisfied that the requirements of the said Acts, or any of them, are proved by such survey to have been substantially complied with, the Board may, if they think fit, dispense with any further survey of the ship in respect of the requirements so complied with, and give or direct one of their officers to give a certificate, which shall have the same effect as if given upon survey under the said Acts or any of them: Provided that Her Majesty may by Order in Council direct that this section shall not apply in the case of an official survey at any foreign port at which it appears to Her Majesty that corresponding provisions are not extended to British ships.

Power to modify Passengers Acts as to food, space, and accommodation in emigrant ships.

20. It shall be lawful for the Board of Trade, if satisfied that the food, space, accommodation, or any other particular or thing provided in an emigrant ship for any class of passengers is superior to the food, space, accommodation, or other particular or thing required by the Passengers Act, 1855, and the Acts amending the same, to exempt such ship from any of the requirements of those Acts with respect to food, space, accommodation, or other particular or thing, in such manner and upon such conditions as the Board of Trade may think fit.

Provision of signals of distress, inextinguishable lights, and life-buoys in passenger steamers and emigrant ships.

21. Every sea-going passenger steamer and every emigrant ship shall be provided to the satisfaction of the Board of Trade—

(1) with means for making the signals of distress at night specified in the first Schedule to "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1873," or in any rules substituted therefor, including means of making flames on the ship which are inextinguishable in water, or such other means of making signals of distress as the Board of Trade may previously approve; and

(2) with a proper supply of light inextinguishable in water and fitted for attachment to life buoys.

If any such steamer or ship goes to sea from any port of the United Kingdom without being so provided as required by this section, for each default in any of the above requisites the owner shall, if he appears to be in default, incur a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds, and the master shall, if he appears to be in fault, incur a penalty nor exceeding fifty pounds.

Grain Cargoes.

Stowage of cargo of grain, &c.

22. No cargo of which more than one-third consists of any kind of grain, corn, rice, paddy, pulse, seeds, nuts, or nut-kernels, hereinafter referred to as "grain cargo," shall be carried on board any British ship, unless such grain cargo be contained in bags, sacks, or barrels, or secured from shifting by boards, bulkheads, or otherwise.

If the managing owner or master of any British ship, or any agent of such owner who is charged with the loading of the ship or the sending her to sea, knowingly allows any grain cargo or part of a grain cargo to be shipped therein for carriage contrary to the provisions of this section, he shall for every such offence incur a penalty not exceeding three hundred pounds, to be recovered upon summary conviction.

Deck Cargoes.

Space occupied by deck cargo to be liable to dues.

23. If any ship, British or foreign, other than home trade ships as defined by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, carries as deck cargo, that is to say, in any uncovered space upon deck, or in any covered space not included in the cubical contents forming the ship's registered tonnage, timber, stores, or other goods, all dues payable on the ship's tonnage shall be payable as if there were added to the ship's registered tonnage the tonnage of the space occupied by such goods at the time at which such dues become payable.

The space so occupied shall be deemed to be the space limited by the area occupied by such goods and by straight lines enclosing a rectangular space sufficient to include the goods.

The tonnage of such space shall be ascertained by an officer of the Board of Trade or of Customs, in manner directed by sub-section four of section twenty-one of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and when so ascertained shall be entered by him in the ship's official log book, and also in a memorandum which he shall deliver to the master, and the master shall, when the said dues are demanded, produce such memorandum in like manner as if it were the certificate of registry, or, in the case of a foreign ship, the document equivalent to a certificate of registry, and in default shall be liable to the same penalty as if he had failed to produce the said certificate or document.

Penalty for carrying deckloads of timber in winter.

24. After the first day of November one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, if a ship, British or foreign, arrives between the last day of October and the sixteenth day of April in any year at any port in the United Kingdom from any port out of the United Kingdom, carrying as deck cargo, that is to say, in any uncovered space upon deck, or in any covered space not included in the cubical contents forming the ship's registered tonnage, any wood goods coming within the following descriptions, that is to say—

(a) any square, round, waney, or other timber, or any pitch pine, mahogany, oak, teak, or other heavy wood goods whatever; or

(b) any more than five spare spars or store spars whether or not made, dressed, and finally prepared for use; or the master of the ship, and also the owner, if he is privy to the offence, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pound for every hundred cubic feet of wood goods carried in contravention of this section, and such penalty may be recovered by action or on indictment or to an amount not exceeding one hundred pounds (whatever may be the maximum penalty recoverable) on summary conviction:

Provided that a master or owner shall not be liable to any penalty under this section—

(1) in respect of any wood goods which the master has considered it necessary to place or keep on deck during the voyage on account of the springing of any leak, or of any other damage to the ship received or apprehended; or

(2) if he prove that the ship sailed from the port at which the wood goods were loaded as deck cargo at such time before the last day of October as allowed a sufficient interval according to the ordinary duration of the voyage for the ship to arrive before that day at the said port in the United Kingdom, but was prevented from so arriving by stress of weather or circumstances beyond his control; or

(3) if he prove that the ship sailed from the port at which the wood goods were loaded as deck cargo at such time before the sixteenth day of April as allowed a reasonable interval according to the ordinary duration of the voyage for the ship to arrive after that day at the said port in the United Kingdom, and by reason of an exceptionally favourable voyage arrived before that day:

Provided, further, that nothing in this section shall affect any ship not bound to any port in the United Kingdom which comes into any port of the United Kingdom under stress of weather, or for repairs, or for any other purpose than the delivery of her cargo.

Deck and load lines.

Marking of deck-lines.

25. Every British ship (except ships under eighty tons register employed solely in the coasting trade, ships employed solely in fishing, and pleasure yachts) shall be permanently and conspicuously marked with lines of not less than twelve inches in length and one inch in breadth, painted longitudinally on each side amidships, or as near thereto as is practicable, and indicating the position of each deck which is above water.

The upper edge of each of these lines shall be level with the upper side of the deck plank next the waterway at the place of marking.

The lines shall be white or yellow on a dark ground, or black on a light ground.

Marking of load-line on foreign-going British ships.

26. With respect to the marking of a load-line on British ships the following provisions shall have effect:—

(1) The owner of every British ship (except ships under eighty tons register employed solely in the coasting trade, ships employed solely in fishing, and pleasure yachts) shall, before entering his ship outwards from any port in the United Kingdom upon any voyage for which he is required so to enter her, or, if that is not practicable, as soon after as may be, mark upon each of her sides amidships, or as near thereto as is practicable, in white or yellow on a dark ground, or in black on a light ground, a circular disc twelve inches in diameter, with a horizontal line eighteen inches in length drawn through its centre:

(2) The centre of this disc shall indicate the maximum load-line in salt water to which the owner intends to load the ship for that voyage:

(3) He shall also, upon so entering her, insert in the form of entry delivered to the collector or other principal officer of Customs a statement in writing of the distance in feet and inches between the centre of this disc and the upper edge of each of the lines indicating the position of the ship's decks which is above that centre:

(4) If default is made in delivering this statement in the case of any ship, any officer of Customs may refuse to enter the ship outwards:

(5) The master of the ship shall enter a copy of this statement in the agreement with the crew, before it is signed by any member of the crew, and no superintendent of any mercantile marine office shall proceed with the engagement of the crew until this entry is made:

(6) The master of the ship shall also enter a copy of this statement in the official log book:

(7) When a ship has been marked as by this section required, she shall be kept so marked until her next return to a port of discharge in the United Kingdom.

Marking of load-line in case of coasting vessels.

27. With respect to the marking of a load-line on British ships employed in the coasting trade, the following provisions shall have effect:—

(1) The owner of every British ship employed in the coasting trade on the coasts of the United Kingdom (except ships under eighty tons register employed solely in that trade) shall, before proceeding to sea from any port, mark upon each of her sides amidships, or as near thereto as is practicable, in white or yellow on a dark ground, or in black on a light ground, a circular disc twelve inches in diameter, with a horizontal line eighteen inches in length drawn through its centre:

(2) The centre of this disc shall indicate the maximum load-line in salt water to which the owner intends to load the ship, until notice is given of an alteration:

(3) He shall also once in every twelve months immediately before the ship proceeds to sea, send or deliver to the collector or other principal officer of Customs of the port of registry of the ship a statement in writing of the distance in feet and inches between the centre of the disc and the upper edge of each of the lines indicating the position of the ship's decks which is above that centre:

(4) The owner, before the ship proceeds to sea after any renewal or alteration of the disc, shall send or deliver to the collector or other principal officer of Customs of the port of registry of the ship notice in writing of such renewal or alteration, together with such statement in writing as before mentioned of the distance between the centre of the disc and the upper edge of each of the deck-lines.

(5) If default is made in sending or delivering any notice or statement required by this section to be sent or delivered, the owner shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds:

(6) When a ship has been marked as by this section required, she shall be kept so marked until notice is given of an alteration.

Penalty for offences in relation to marks on ship.

28. Any owner or master of a British ship who neglects to cause his ship to be marked as by this Act required, or to keep her so marked, or who allows the ship to be so loaded as to submerge in salt water the centre of the disc, and any person who conceals, removes, alters, defaces, or obliterates, or suffers any person under his control to conceal, remove, alter, deface, or obliterate any of the said marks, except in the event of the particulars thereby denoted being lawfully altered, or except for the purpose of escaping capture by an enemy, shall for each offence incur a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds.

If any of the marks required by this act is in any respect inaccurate, so as to be likely to mislead, the owner of the ship shall incur a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds.

Investigations into shipping casualties.

Appointment, duties, and powers of wreck commissioners for investigating shipping casualties.

29. For the purpose of rendering investigations into shipping casualties more speedy and effectual it shall be lawful for the Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain to appoint from time to time some fit person or persons to be a wreck commissioner or wreck commissioners for the United Kingdom, so that there shall not be more than three such commissioners at any one time, and to remove any such wreck commissioner; and in case it shall become necessary to appoint a wreck commissioner in Ireland, the Lord Chancellor of Ireland shall have the appointment and the power of removal of such wreck commissioner.

It shall be the duty of a wreck commissioner, at the request of the Board of Trade, to hold any formal investigation into a loss, abandonment, damage, or casualty (in this Act called a shipping casualty) under the eighth part of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and for that purpose he shall have the same jurisdiction and powers as are thereby conferred on two justices, and all the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1876, with respect to investigations conducted under the eighth part of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, shall apply to investigations held by a wreck commissioner.

Assessors and rules of procedure on formal investigations into shipping casualties.

30. The wreck commissioner, justices, or other authority holding a formal investigation into a shipping casualty shall hold the same with the assistance of an assessor or assessors of nautical engineering or other special skill or knowledge, to be appointed by the commissioner, justices, or authority, out of a list of persons for the time being approved for the purpose by a Secretary of State.

The commissioner, justices, or authority, when of opinion that the investigation is likely to involve the cancellation or suspension of the certificate of a master or mate, shall, where practicable, appoint a person having experience in the merchant service to be one of the assessors.

Each assessor shall either sign the report made on the investigation, or report to the Board of Trade his reasons for his dissent therefrom.

The Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain may from time to time, with the consent of the Treasury so far as relates to fees, make, and when made revoke, alter, and add to general rules for carrying into effect the enactments relating to formal investigations into shipping casualties, and in particular with respect to the summoning of assessors, the procedure, the parties, the persons allowed to appear, the notice to such parties and persons or to persons affected, and the amount and application of fees.

All such rules, while in force, shall have effect as if enacted in this Act.

Every formal investigation into a shipping casualty shall be conducted in such manner that if a charge is made against any person, that person shall have an opportunity of making a defence.

Power for wreck commissioner to institute examination with respect to ships in distress under 17 and 18 Vict., c. 104, s. 448.

31. A wreck commissioner may, at the request of the Board of Trade, by himself, or by some deputy approved by the Board of Trade, institute the same examination as a receiver of wreck under section four hundred and forty-eight of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and shall for that purpose have the powers by that section conferred on a receiver of wreck.

Power to hold enquiries or formal investigations as to stranded and missing ships.

32. In the following cases—

(1) whenever any ship on or near the coasts of the United Kingdom or any British ship elsewhere has been stranded or damaged, and any witness is found at any place in the United Kingdom, or

(2) whenever a British ship has been lost or is supposed to have been lost, and any evidence can be obtained in the United Kingdom as to the circumstances under which she proceeded to sea or was last heard of, the Board of trade without prejudice to any other power may, if they think fit cause an enquiry to be made or formal investigation to be held, and all the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1876, shall apply to any such enquiry or investigation as if it had been made or held under the eighth part of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854.

Place of investigation.

33. A formal investigation into a shipping casualty may be held at any place appointed in that behalf by the Board of Trade, and all enactments relating to the authority holding the investigation shall, for the purpose of the investigation, have effect as if the place so appointed were a place appointed for the exercise of the ordinary jurisdiction of that authority.

Miscellaneous.

Enforcing detention of ship.

34. Where under the Merchant Shipping Acts 1854 to 1876, or any of them, a ship is authorized or ordered to be detained, any commissioned officer on full pay in the naval or military service of Her Majesty, or any officer of the Board of Trade or Customs, or any British consular officer may detain the ship, and if the ship after such detention or after service on the master of any notice of, or order for, such detention proceeds to sea before it is released by competent authority, the master of the ship, and also the owner, and any person who sends the ship to sea, if such owner or person be party or privy to the offence, shall forfeit and pay to Her Majesty a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds.

Where a ship so proceeding to sea takes to sea when on board thereof in the execution of his duty any officer authorized to detain the ship, or any surveyor or officer of the Board of Trade or Customs, the owner and master of the ship shall each be liable to pay all expenses of, and incidental to, the officer or surveyor being so taken to sea, and also a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds, or, if the offence is not prosecuted in a summary manner, not exceeding ten pounds for every day until the officer or surveyor returns, or until such time as would enable him after leaving the ship to return to the port from which he is taken, and such expenses may be recovered in like manner as the penalty.

Service of order on master, &c.

35. Where any order, notice, statement, or document requires, for the purpose of any provision of this Act, to be served on the master of a ship, the same shall be served, where there is no master, and the ship is in the United Kingdom, on the managing owner of the ship, or if there is no managing owner, on some agent of the owner residing in the United Kingdom, or where no such agent is known or can be found, by affixing a copy thereof to the mast of the ship.

Any such order, notice, statement, or document may be served by delivering a copy thereof personally to the person to be served, or by leaving the same at his last place of abode, or in the case of a master, by leaving it for him on board the ship with the person being or appearing to be in command or charge of such ship.

Any person who obstructs the service of any order, notice, statement, or document on the master of a ship shall incur a penalty not exceeding ten pounds, and if the owner or master of the ship is party or privy to such obstruction, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Ship's managing owner or manager to be registered.

36. The name and address of the managing owner for the time being of every British ship registered at any port or place in the United Kingdom shall be registered at the custom-house of the ship's port of registry.

Where there is not a managing owner there shall be so registered the name of the ship's husband or other person to whom the management of the ship is entrusted by or on behalf of the owner, and any person whose name is so registered shall, for the purposes of the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1876, be under the same obligations, and subject to the same liabilities, as if he were the managing owner.

If default is made in complying with this section, the owner shall be liable, or if there be more owners than one, each owner shall be liable in proportion to his interest in the ship, to a penalty not exceeding in the whole one hundred pounds each time the ship leaves any port in the United Kingdom.

Power for Her Majesty by Order in Council to apply certain provisions of Merchant Shipping Acts to foreign ships.

37. Whenever it has been made to appear to Her Majesty that the Government of any Foreign State is desirous that any of the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1876, or of any Act hereafter to be passed amending the same, shall apply to the ships of such State, Her Majesty may by Order in Council declare that such of the said provisions as are in such Order specified shall (subject to the limitations, if any, contained in the Order) apply and thereupon, so long as the Order remains in force, such provisions shall apply (subject to the said limitations) to the ships of such State, and to the owners, masters, seamen, and apprentices of such ships, when not locally within the jurisdiction of such State, in the same manner in all respects as if such ships were British ships.

Provision as to Order in Council.

38. Where Her Majesty has power under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or any Act passed or hereafter to be passed amending the same, to make an Order in Council, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty from time to time to make such Order in Council, and by Order in Council to revoke, alter or add to any Orders so made.

Every such Order in Council shall be published in the London Gazette, and shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament within one month after it is made, if Parliament be then sitting, or if not, within one month after the then next meeting of Parliament.

Upon the publication of any such Order in the London Gazette, the Order shall, after the date of such publication, or any later date mentioned in the Order, take effect as if it were enacted by Parliament.

Fees, salaries, and costs.

No. 3710.—The 27th October 1876.—Separate Revenue.—Post Office.—By Notification No. 1070, dated 16th June 1876, the Governor-General in Council was pleased to specify certain revised postage duties and to make certain orders and directions with reference to the admission of British India into the General Postal Union.

It being now desired to make certain alterations in the postage duties, orders and directions notified on the 16th of June, as well as to give directions respecting the postage duties which shall be chargeable on correspondence with certain other countries not mentioned in that Notification, the Governor-General in Council is pleased, in exercise of the powers conferred on him by the Indian Post Office Act, 1866, to sanction the postage duties as well as the rules and conditions entered in Section III (Foreign Post) of the Indian Postal Guide of October 1876 which is published below for reference.

INDIAN POSTAL GUIDE.

SECTION III.

FOREIGN POST.

Rates of Postage and Conditions of Transmission by Foreign Post.

Definition of term "Foreign Post."

(1.) The term "Foreign Post" includes the posts under the control of the Government of India named below:—

India and the Straits ... { British India Steam Navigation Company via British Burmah. / Opium Steamers direct to and from Calcutta

India, China, and the United States of America via Hong-Kong ... Opium Steamers via the Straits. India and Ceylon ... ... British India Steam Navigation Company. Coasting Steamers between Calcutta and Bombay.

It also includes the land post between India and Ceylon. Also all mails sent by private ships or vessels, whether from one Indian Post Office to another, or to and from places abroad. Also all mails sent by Her Majesty's British packets (Peninsular and Oriental Company) or by Colonial packets, or by the French mail packets, whether from one Indian Post Office to another, or to and from places abroad.

Foreign Correspondence by private Ship.

(2.) Mails can be sent by any private vessel leaving a port in India, but only such classes of mails are forwarded as can be received under the postal regulations of the country of destination. Banghy parcels cannot be sent to any foreign country by private ship.

Letters, &c., intended for despatch by private vessel should be marked as such by the sender, the name of the vessel being given if transmission by a particular vessel is desired. Letters, &c., not so marked will be forwarded by private vessel only, if there be no regular mail communication with the country of destination.

Letters, &c., intended for despatch by private vessel must be fully pre-paid by stamps at the ordinary Indian inland rates, and they will be liable on delivery in any foreign country to such postage as may be chargeable under the regulations of that country. This rule does not, however, apply to correspondence sent by private ship to Hong-Kong or the Straits, for which see those entries in the Foreign Post Schedule.

Route by which forwarded.

(3.) The route by which an article is intended to be sent should be marked on the upper left-hand corner of the address side. An article marked for a particular route, but not fulfilling the conditions of that route (e.g., in respect of compulsory prepayment of postage) will be treated as if not marked for any particular route. Articles not marked for any particular route will, as a general rule, be sent by the route which stands first in the Schedule, except where there is a quicker despatch by some other route, or where the first route may require the compulsory prepayment of a higher rate of postage than that which has been prepaid, or where the amount of postage paid may leave no doubt as to the route intended.

Correspondence from or to Aden.

(4.) Correspondence passing direct between Aden and places abroad is governed by the same conditions as correspondence between India and such places, except in respect of letters conveyed by French packet, which, in some instances, are charged at a higher rate when sent from Aden. In all such instances, the rate "from Aden" is given separately in the Schedule.

Correspondence from Aden to India or any Indian Post Office is charged at the rates shown in the schedule for correspondence from India to Aden. Correspondence from Aden to Zanzibar by British packet is subject to the rates applicable to Inland correspondence, but prepayment is compulsory.

Letters for Erzeroum and the interior of Armenia, Jedda, Mecca, and West Arabia, Persia, Turkey, Asia Minor, Kashmir, Ladakh, Cabul, &c.

(5.) It is recommended that letters for Erzeroum and other parts of the interior of Armenia be addressed to the care of some agent at Samsoun or Trebizond, and that letters for Kiermaushah and Hamadan in Persia be sent by the Indian inland post to the Indian post office at Bagdad, addressed to the care of some agent there.

Letters for Jedda, Mecca, or other places in West Arabia should be prepaid as far as Suez at the rate of postage prescribed for letters to Suez. From Suez they are forwarded to destination by Turkish post or such opportunity as may offer.

Letters for Teheran, Ispaha, Shiraz, Julfa, or other places in Persia, if fully prepaid with ordinary Indian inland postage, will be sent to the Indian post office at Bushire, and thence forwarded by land post to destination, subject to such additional charge as may there be leviable.

Letters for such places in Turkey and Asia Minor or Syria, as have no British, Austrian, or French post offices (see list of British, Austrian, and French offices in Turkey given in the schedule) should be addressed to the care of an agent at the nearest port at which a British, Austrian, or French office has been established.

Letters and other articles for Kashmir are forwarded during the summer months (15th April to 1st November) through the Indian post office at Murree, and thence by Kashmir post to Srinagar, where an Indian post office is maintained temporarily. During the summer, letters, &c., sent by this route are subject to the ordinary Indian inland rates of postage and to the ordinary rules as respects prepayment; but additional postage equal to half Indian postage is levied on delivery on behalf of the Kashmir Government. During the winter months, letters for Kashmir, if fully prepaid with ordinary Indian inland postage, are forwarded to the Indian frontier post office at Sialkot, and thence by Kashmir post to Jummoo. This route is closed during the summer, when the Murree route is open.

Letters and other articles for Leh (Ladakh) are forwarded during the summer months (15th April to 1st November) through the Indian post office at Murree, and thence by the Kashmir Post to Leh, where an Indian branch post office has been established. During the winter months letters for Leh are forwarded through the Indian post office at Sialkot, and thence by Kashmir post to Leh. By either route letters, &c., must be fully prepaid with ordinary Indian inland postage, and will in addition be taxed on delivery by the Kashmir Government with postage equal to half Indian postage.

Letters for Cabul, if fully prepaid with ordinary Indian inland postage, are forwarded to the Indian frontier post office at Peshawur, and there made over to the Postal Agent appointed by the Ameer of Cabul for delivery under local conditions and rates of charge. Mails are forwarded by the Agent towards Cabul about three times a week.

Letters for Russia.

(6.) Letters, &c., for Russia should have the name of the town added in either English, French, or German, and they should bear as a part of their address the name of the province or government in which they are situated. In addressing all letters, &c., for Russia, the name of the place of destination, as well as the government in which such place is situated, must be correctly given; and further, the address must be plainly written. If these conditions be not complied with, the Russian post office declines to undertake the delivery of the correspondence.

Registration to places abroad.

(7.) Letters may be registered to those places abroad to which registration is available (vide Foreign Post Schedule), provided that the postage is fully prepaid, as well as the full amount of the registration fee shown in the schedule. In some cases the charge on a registered letter is double of the ordinary postage, no separate fee being levied. Registered letters to such places must be fully prepaid at double the ordinary rates. Letters for places mentioned in clause (5) cannot be registered, except in the case of those addressed to Srinagar and Leh, where Indian post offices have been established.

It is to be understood that registration to places abroad applies only to letters or packets prepaid at letter rates, except in respect of the United Kingdom and other countries belonging to the General Postal Union (marked I in col. 2 of Schedule), to which newspapers, books, and patterns may also be registered.

Transmission of dangerous or offensive substances prohibited.

(8.) The prohibition against the transmission of dangerous or offensive substances contained in paragraph 20 of section II applies also to foreign post articles.

Money, Jewels, &c., and articles liable to Customs Duty.

(9.) No letter or packet containing gold or silver money, jewels or precious articles, or any articles liable to customs duty, may be sent through the post.

Printed Papers and Legal and Commercial Documents.

(10.) The following conditions, &c., being those of the General Postal Union, apply generally to all countries, with the special exceptions mentioned in the schedule opposite particular countries.

Attention is drawn to the limit of weight, viz. 2lb, fixed for a packet of printed papers or legal and commercial documents. See schedule and exception opposite the United Kingdom.

Under the head of "Printed Papers" are included newspapers, stitched or bound books, pamphlets, music, visiting cards, catalogues, prospectuses, announcements and notices of various kinds, whether printed, engraved, or lithographed, and photographs. Under the head of "Legal and Commercial Documents" are included acts or deeds of all kinds drawn up by public functionaries, invoices, policies of insurance, copies or extracts of deeds under private seal, written upon stamped or unstamped paper, scores or sheets of manuscript music, and in general all manuscript papers and documents which have not the character of an actual and personal correspondence.

NOTE.—The definition given above is held to include such written articles intended for publication in newspapers as are not of the nature of a personal letter as well as descriptions or sketches of places which are sent for publication.

Articles posted as "Printed Papers" or as "Legal and Commercial Documents" must be placed under bands or simply folded, so as to admit of the contents being easily examined, and, excepting as follows, "Printed Papers" must contain no manuscript writing, figure or mark whatever:—

(a.) Proofs of printing or of music may bear corrections made with a pen, relating exclusively to the text or to the execution of the work. Manuscript may be annexed to such proofs.

(b.) Circulars, notices, &c., may bear the signature of the sender, with his trade or profession, and may also show the place of origin and the date.

(c.) A book may contain a manuscript dedication or a complimentary inscription from the author.

(d.) Passages in the text to which it is desired to call attention may be marked with a simple stroke.

(e.) Prices may be added in manuscript or otherwise on printed or lithographed stock and share lists, prices current, and market reports.

(f.) No other manuscript additions may be made; nor are typographical additions allowed if they tend to take from the packet its general character.

Articles posted as "Printed Papers" or "Legal and Commercial Documents" which do not fulfil the foregoing conditions, or are not fully prepaid, will be treated as unpaid letters, with the sole exception of newspapers and printed papers, such as circulars, notices, &c., which will, in such cases, not be forwarded.

Patterns of Merchandise.

(11.) The following conditions, &c., being those of the General Postal Union, apply generally to all countries, with the special exception mentioned in the schedule opposite particular countries.

Attention is drawn to the limit of weight, viz. 8 ounces, fixed for a packet of patterns. See schedule and exception opposite the United Kingdom.

Patterns of merchandise are chargeable with the reduced postage under the following conditions:—

(a.) They must be placed in bags, or in boxes, or envelopes removeable, so as to admit of an easy examination of their contents.

N. B.—Samples of seeds, drugs, and such like articles which cannot be sent in open covers may if addressed to the United Kingdom, the United States of America, Holland and its possessions, Belgium, Denmark, Greece, Portugal and its possessions, and Switzerland, be sent in bags entirely closed, provided such closed bags are transparent, so as to enable the officers of the post office readily to satisfy themselves as to the nature of the contents.

(b.) They must not have any saleable value, or bear any manuscript writing other than the name or the trade or profession of the sender, the address of the person for whom the packet is intended, a manufacturer's or trade mark, numbers, and prices.

Patterns of merchandise may not be introduced into a letter, or into a packet of any other kind, unless they form an integral part of a particular work.

Patterns not packed in accordance with these conditions, or not fully prepaid, will be treated as unpaid letters, except those which are valuable. The latter will not be forwarded nor any of which the conveyance would be attended with risk or danger.

Unpaid correspondence addressed to places abroad.

(12.) For unpaid or insufficiently paid printed papers (including newspapers), legal and commercial documents, and patterns,—see the concluding remarks under clauses (10 and 11).

Unpaid or insufficiently paid letters (or articles to be treated as such under the rules above referred to) cannot be forwarded by routes marked C (compulsory) in the Schedule, and if there be no other route, will be returned to the sender through the Dead Letter Office. In such case the sender has no claim to a refund of the postage originally paid, but, in the case of recent alterations of postage rates and conditions, the Postmaster-General may exercise discretion in authorizing such refunds in special cases. Where prepayment is optional, unpaid or insufficiently paid letters will be forwarded, the postage paid being taken into account if addressed to a union country, or forwarded through a union country; but if addressed or forwarded otherwise than above, they will be treated as if wholly unpaid.

The charges made on such articles, when delivered in non-union countries depend upon local regulations; but in the case of union countries the charge on unpaid letters delivered is the same as for prepaid letters despatched, together with an additional union rate. In the United Kingdom the additional union rate is 3*d.* per ½ oz.

Correspondence redirected to places abroad.

(13.) Letters, &c., redirected in India to places abroad will be sent forward charged with the foreign (non-union) postage (if any) due at the time of redirection, no extra claim being raised for the retransmission so far as the Indian post office is concerned. The postage levied in the country of destination will be governed by the regulations of that country. Letters, &c., redirected to the United Kingdom or countries served through it will, if originally received from such countries, be forwarded by the route by which they came, and in other cases by the route via Brindisi.

This rule does not apply to articles redirected by Overland Parcel Post.

Correspondence received from places abroad.

(14.) Although post cards are not among the classes of correspondence for the transmission of which by post from India provision has been made, those received from countries of the union (marked I in Schedule) will be delivered in India as paid letters.

By routes marked I.

Letters received from any country of the Union (marked I in Schedule) as unpaid or insufficiently paid will be charged on delivery at the unpaid Union rate of 7½ annas (8½ annas if received via Brindisi from or through the United Kingdom, and 8 annas if received via Brindisi from or through the French Office, Modane,) per ½ oz. The value of any stamps (as marked by the country of origin) which may be affixed to an insufficiently paid letter will be deducted from the amount thus chargeable, fractions of an anna in the remainder being raised to one anna.

The above rule does not apply to letters received from India Offices, viz. Aden (or in Aden from India) and Zanzibar, which, if insufficiently paid, are charged with the deficiency, and if unpaid, with the rate shown in the Schedule. Letters received in Aden from Zanzibar by British packet are subject to the ordinary Indian inland rates and conditions.

Unpaid or insufficiently paid newspapers, &c., are in a few instances exceptionally received from certain places, and are charged at the rates shown in the Schedule for similar articles sent to such places, without reference to any stamps which may already be upon them.

By routes marked II.

Letters received from any Foreign (Non-Union) Country through a Union Country (routes marked II in Schedule), as unpaid, or insufficiently paid, will be charged with the amount of Foreign postage claimed by the Union Office serving as the medium, together with the unpaid Union rate of 7½ annas (8½ annas, if received via Brindisi through the United Kingdom and 8 annas if received via Brindisi from or through the French Office, Modane,) per ½ oz.

Any articles other than letters which may be exceptionally received from such places either unpaid or insufficiently paid, will be charged with the amount of Foreign (Non-Union) postage claimed by the Union Country serving as the medum, together with the rate chargeable on a similar article posted in India for the Union Country serving as the medium.

By routes marked III.

Letters received from various offices in Asia (routes marked III in Schedule) are, if unpaid, charged at the rates shown in the Schedule, those insufficiently paid being treated as if wholly unpaid. Unpaid or insufficiently paid newspapers are, in a few instances, received, and in such cases are charged at the rates shown in the Schedule for similar articles sent from India.

By routes marked IV.

Letters received from Hong-Kong by private vessels (route marked IV in Schedule) are all received as unpaid, and are charged at the rate of 4 annas per ½ oz. each. Newspapers and packets similarly received are chargeable with ordinary Indian inland postage at prepaid rates according to weight in tolas.

Letters and other articles received from the Straits by private vessel (also marked IV in Schedule) are all received fully prepaid and delivered without charge.

Letters and other articles received from any other place (except Hong-Kong and Straits) by prirate vessels are charged with ordinary Indian inland postage at prepaid rates, according to weight in tolas, together with (in the case of letters) one anna each, being the sum paid to the Commander of the vessel.

By routes marked V.

Letters, newspapers and packets are all received fully prepaid (and are delivered without charge from the places and by the routes marked V in the Schedule, viz. —

Australia by British packet.

East Africa (i.e., Cape, Delagoa Bay, Mozambique and Natal) by British packet through Aden.

Ceylon by French or Indian packet or Land Post.

Hong-Kong by French packet.

Mauritius and Seychelles by French packet, or partly by French and partly by British packet.

Netherlands India by British, French, or Indian packet.

Straits Settlements by French packet.

Unpaid or insufficiently paid letters exceptionally received from Australia or other places in the same category are charged at the rates shewn in the Schedule for similar articles sent from India.

Redirection of articles received from places abroad.

(15.) Articles received from places abroad and redirected after arrival in India to another place in India, will not be charged with any additional postage on account of such redirection.

Articles redirected from a Union Country to India will be charged in India with the amount (if any) which would have been due on delivery in the country where the redirection took place; but if the article has only passed through the Inland service of the country where it was redirected, there will be charged, in addition to the amount (if any) due as above, ordinary Indian inland postage at unpaid rates. The exemption from redirection charge does not apply to Overland parcels received by Parcel Post.

OVERLAND PARCEL POST.

(1.) Parcels are received at any Post Office in India under the conditions and rates of charge mentioned below for transmission to the following countries, viz.—

COUNTRIES.	Rate of charge per lb. or fraction thereof. Prepayment compulsory.	Remarks respecting special conditions, &c., applicable to particular countries.
	Annas.
United Kingdom ...	8	The prepayment carries the parcel as far as London, any additional charge which may become due on account of British custom duty or carriage beyond London being realised from the addressee. Parcels must not exceed £50 in value. Any parcel which on examination of the declaration at Bombay may be found to exceed this value will, instead of being forwarded by the Overland Parcel Post, be transferred to the Bombay Agency of the P. & O. S. N. Company for transmission independently of the Post Office, and subject to such regulations and charges on delivery as may be applicable thereto under the Company's regulations. (NOTE.—The Company's present charge is an ad-valorem rate of 2 per cent., which does not include Marine or other Insurance.) The attention of the public is invited to the fact that the British Post Office has no connection with the Overland Parcel Post; all arrangements out of India are made by the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, and enquiries proceeding from the United Kingdom should be addressed to that Company's Office, 122, Leadenhall Street, London, E. C. The rules governing the despatch of parcels from the United Kingdom to India are, however, published in the British Postal Guide, and exhibited in every British Post Office. Persons in India ordering goods to be sent out by parcel post may refer the sender to the above means of information about the transmission of parcels.
Ceylon	8	The prepayment carries the parcel to destination. Should any custom duty become due, the amount will be charged on delivery. Parcels must not contain any jewellery.
Germany ..	8	The prepayment carries the parcel to destination. Should any custom duty become due, the amount will be charged on delivery. See also Rule 9 respecting compensation for damage or loss.
Austria-Hungary ...
Denmark	8	The prepayment carries the parcel to the limit of German conveyance, a separate charge being made on delivery for conveyance beyond the German frontier, as well as for custom duty, should any become due. See also Rule 9 respecting compensation for damage or loss.

COUNTRIES.	Rate of charge per ℔ or fraction thereof. Prepayment compulsory.	Remarks respecting special conditions, &c., applicable to particular countries.
	Ans.
Sweden	8	The prepayment carries the parcel to the limit of German conveyance, a separate charge being made on delivery for conveyance beyond the German frontier, as well as for custom duty, should any become due. From Rule 3 it will be seen that there must be also a second or duplicate declaration of contents and value. See also Rule 9 respecting compensation for damage or loss.
Norway
Switzerland
France	8	The prepayment carries the parcel to the limit of German conveyance, a separate charge being made on delivery for conveyance beyond the German frontier, as well as for custom duty, should any become due. From Rule 3 it will be seen that there must be also a second or duplicate declaration of contents and value, and that the second or duplicate declaration should contain a statement of the weight (lbs. and ozs. or tolas) of the contents, and should, if possible, be written in the French language. See also Rule 9 respecting compensation for damage or loss.
The Netherlands (Holland).
Belgium

(2.) Every parcel should be securely packed in a closed cover or case, and should bear the name and address of the person in the United Kingdom or foreign country for whom it is intended. Parcels containing valuables should be sealed.

N. B.—The public are specially warned against the use of flimsy covers for articles transmitted by the Parcel Post. Heavy articles are sometimes sent with only paper covering insecurely tied with string; friction in transit detaches this cover, and damage and loss ensue. A covering of stout cloth or wax cloth, sewn at the edges, is recommended; but if the contents are liable to suffer from pressure, boxes of wood or tin should be used.

(3.) Every parcel should be accompanied by a separate paper headed with the address of the parcel and containing a declaration of its contents and value under the signature of the sender. Below the signature the address of the sender should be given.

For the parcels addressed to—

The United Kingdom ...	Only one declaration as above described is required
Ceylon
Germany
Austria-Hungary ...
Denmark
Sweden	A second or duplicate declaration is also required.
Norway
Switzerland
France	A second or duplicate declaration is also required, and the sender is requested to enter in the declaration a statement of the weight (℔ and ozs. or tolas) of the contents, and to write the second or duplicate declaration, if possible, in the French language. Should he be unable to do so, the Bombay Post Office will attach to the second or duplicate English declaration a French rendering thereof, but the sender is warned of the delay which may result from this.
The Netherlands (Holland)
Belgium

It is not deemed necessary to require exact adherence to any particular form of declaration, but the following specimen form may be useful to the senders of parcels :—

Specimen form of declaration.

Address of parcel:
Thomas B. Smith,
144, Piccadilly,
London.

Contents.

	Value. £	s.	d.
1 Piece Puttoo cloth	2	0	0
1 Rampore chudder	2	10	0
TOTAL ...	4	10	0

I declare the above to be a true statement of the contents and value.

(Sd.) A. R. ROBINSON, Amritsar.

N.B.—Declarations for parcels intended for France, the Netherlands or Belgium should, in addition to the above, contain a statement of the weight (℔ and ozs. or tolahs) of the contents. This may conveniently be done by adding the words "weight—℔—ozs." underneath the total value, and the words "and weight" at the end of the sentence containing the declaration.

(4.) The parcel so addressed, and the separate paper or papers above referred to should then be enclosed in a substantial outer cover. This outer cover should be superscribed and addressed as follows :—

Overland Parcel Post.	Postage stamp to be affixed.
To THE POST MASTER,
BOMBAY.

The outer cover must contain one parcel only: if more than one parcel be sent by the same sender, such parcel should be enclosed in a separate outer cover to the address of the Post Master of Bombay.

(5.) The parcel so made up must be fully prepaid by means of postage stamps at the rate of 8 annas per ℔ (40 tolas) or fraction of a ℔, care being taken that the stamps adhere firmly to the cover.

(6.) The parcel so made up must not exceed 50 ℔ (25 seers) in weight, or 2 feet in length by 1 foot in breadth or depth. It will be received at any Post Office at the hours fixed for the receipt of ordinary banghy parcels, the usual receipt being given to the sender without reference to the mode of packing prescribed in the case of inland parcels for which receipts are claimed.

(7.) On arrival at Bombay, the Post Master will take off the outer covering, and forward the inside parcel and the accompanying declaration or declarations to the country of inside address.

(8.) It is forbidden to send in these parcels opium or any liquid or any substance or material of a dangerous, damaging, or offensive kind.

(9.) In the case of parcels for or from Germany or Austria-Hungary and the foreign countries served through Germany, compensation will be given by the responsible Post Office to the sender for loss or damage sustained in transit (cases of sea risk or of vis major or of the own negligence of the sender in respect of packing or otherwise excepted). Such compensation will in no case exceed 1½ rupee for each ℔ weight or fraction thereof in respect of parcels forwarded from India, and 3 marks or 1½ florins for each 500 grammes or fraction thereof in respect of parcels from Germany or Austria-Hungary. Should the sender desire it, the compensation will be paid to the addressee instead of to himself.

SPECIAL RATES FOR FOREIGN LETTERS OF SOLDIERS AND SEAMEN.

(1.) Subject to the subjoined Regulations, Non-Commissioned Officers, Band Masters, Army School Masters (not being Superintending or 1st Class School Masters), Army School Mistresses, Private Soldiers, or Seamen belonging to Her Majesty's ships, can send and receive letters by British Packet for a postage of 9 pie; but if any such letters are sent wholly or partly by the post of a foreign country, they are subject, in addition, to the foreign postage, whatever that may be. Thus the postage by British Packet to the undermentioned countries (including the British Packet charge of 9 pie) is as follows:

(c) The letter must not weigh more than half an ounce.

(d) It must relate entirely to the private concerns of the soldier, seaman, &c.

N.B.—Covers sent by or addressed to soldiers or seamen not belonging to a particular Vessel, Regiment, Corps, or Detachment, or not bearing the specification of such, are obviously precluded from the privilege. For instance, persons described merely as belonging to "Adjutant-General's Office," or "Head-Quarters Staff," or "Regimental Office, Royal Artillery," or as "Shipping Agent," or "Bazar Sergeant," &c. &c., without specification of a particular Vessel, Regiment, Corps, or Detachment, cannot be recognized as privileged. Nor can the privilege be recognized in respect of covers superscribed under such signatures as those of Quarter-Master-General, or Adjutant-General, or under any signature other than that of the Officer having the Command of the Vessel, Regiment, Corps, or Detachment to which the writer belongs.

STATEMENT OF THE COURSE OF LEGISLATION.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said:—With the permission of the Council I will proceed to make the statement mentioned in the notice paper regarding the course of legislative business during the ensuing session. I will ask the Council to advert for a moment to the statement which I had the honor of making on the 24th of April last. That statement reviewed the work of what I believe has been the most laborious session that has ever occurred since the constitution of this Council. Well, since that statement was made we have been so fortunate as to receive the assent of the Governor-General to several of the most important Acts which were passed. These are the Acts which relate to mofussil municipalities, to the prevention of agrarian disturbances, to the registration of possessory titles in land, to the partition of joint undivided estates. It will be remembered of course that the Act relating to the Municipality in Calcutta had received the assent of the Governor-General just before my statement was made. So much, then, for the session that has passed.

Well, now for the session about to begin. I will first remind the Council that there are two measures which have been repeatedly mentioned in this Council chamber which we have decided to abandon. The first of these is a measure relating to the appointment of managers in joint undivided estates; the other is a measure relating to the organization of the regular police. The first measure, relating to the appointment of managers, the Council will recollect, is rendered unnecessary by the introduction of a section which has been introduced into the Land Registration Act. The Bill relating to the organization of the regular police has been abandoned in consequence of objections raised by the Government of India as to the questions being aired just now in Bengal which might apply to all other parts of India. So that these two measures must be considered as finally struck off from the list of pending business before the Council.

I will now refer to the measures mentioned in my last statement as likely to come on in the ensuing session. Regarding these we shall now ask leave to introduce Bills into this Council. The first of these is the measure for the prohibition of illegal cesses in navigable channels, high roads, and market-places. This measure has been before the Government of India, by whom various objections have been raised and modifications proposed, most of which, I apprehend, the Council will accept. There is still some correspondence pending, on the completion of which I hope we shall be in a position to ask the Council's leave to introduce a Bill. Then there is the consolidation of the law regarding excise:-on that subject we shall to-day, I hope, obtain leave to introduce a Bill. Then there are some amendments in the law regarding rent in the Chota Nagpore province. These amendments do not involve any principle at all affecting the great provinces of Bengal and Behar; they are of a purely local character. Then there are some amendments required in the law relating to the Court of Wards. Our hon'ble colleague Mr. Schalch, who is a Member of the Board of Revenue, considers these amendments necessary, and I have no doubt leave will be given to introduce a Bill on the subject. Then there is a Bill for defining the status of certain ghatwalee tenures in the Bankoora district. This is a matter which was mentioned during the last session. I have since had the advantage of visiting the district, and examining the papers and correspondence on the subject, in conjunction with the local authorities, and our hon'ble colleague Mr. Bell will ask leave to introduce a Bill. Then there is the consolidation into one law of the existing regulations relating to land revenue. This is a subject on which some papers have been published, and I hope there will be no difficulty in embodying the whole of the existing laws into one code. I hope at the same time, however, it will be understood that the object is purely one of consolidation. The proposal is merely this, to allow our revenue officers, our landed proprietors, and all the various persons who are concerned, to have a manual in their hands to which they can readily refer. At present the law and regulations regarding the land revenue are scattered over a very large number of enactments, some sixty or seventy, which have been passed at various periods, often after long intervals of time, and many of which are often difficult to find when wanted. My hope is that we may be able to place all these laws and regulations together into one combined shape; and that is the purpose, and nothing more. It is not contemplated to alter the existing law regarding the land revenue, nor to raise any new questions, nor to re-open any questions which may have been settled by recent legislation. Of course it is open to any member of the Council to make any motion regarding this legislation which he sees fit. But I am anxious to explain to the Council the limited and restricted character of the purpose with which we propose to bring this measure before the Council.

Then there are certain new measures which have never yet been mentioned in the Council, and to which I will briefly advert. These are—a project of law for giving legal effect to the determination of rents by settlement officers in estates belonging to, or under the management of Government. It repeatedly happens now-a-days that very extensive settlement operations are undertaken by highly paid officers acting in a quasi-judicial capacity, proceeding upon elaborate surveys and local inquiries on the spot; and when all these settlements have been done, and apparently the thing has been decided for a considerable term of years, the whole matter is re-opened by some suit in a Moonsif's Court. This appears nothing more than doing the work twice over, and protracting disputes which we had hopes of settling for a long time. The desire is to give judicial effect to these decisions. Whatever disputes, whatever litigation, is to be carried on, should be carried on once for all before a responsible officer, and after that there should be no more re-opening of the question than is allowed in all cases of ordinary appeal. We have submitted a measure to that effect to the Government of India, and have been requested in reply not to proceed with it until the orders of the Secretary of State shall be received regarding the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Bill; and that is the precise position in which this measure stands at this moment. Then there is a project of law for giving the power of enforcing sanitary inspection among the scattered hamlets in the Darjeeling hills. I dare say you have heard that there have been visitations of cholera, carrying off many labourers and other persons. It was brought on no doubt by the want of sanitation. We find that the existing law does not give sufficient power of inspection, and it may be necessary to ask the legislature to give such power,—some power in these hill villages as in ordinary municipalities in the plains,—for the purpose of preventing insanitary conditions to arise which are prejudicial to human life and health. Then there is a proposed Bill for alterations in certain sections of the Road Cess Act, which are applicable to waste land tenures,—tenures of land granted under the waste land rules. When we come to apply the law to these tenures, we find there are doubts as to the exact interpretation of certain provisions of the Road Cess Act. And if we attempt to amend these sections, there may be one or two other alterations which the Board have suggested likely to be wanted.

Such is the general programme. But to this programme, the Council are well aware, must be added the last, but by much the greatest item, namely, the Bill for the amendment of the substantive law regarding the determination of rent in the provinces of Bengal and Behar. I must ask the attention of the Council for a few minutes to this matter, which I venture to think is one of the most important that can possibly be brought before the Council. Now, regarding this measure I will remind the Council that on the 18th April last I ventured to place before the public of Bengal certain proposals for the improvement of the law in this matter. These proposals were extensively circulated both in official and non-official quarters. We received a great number of valuable replies, which may perhaps be considered to constitute a sort of literature on the rent question. These papers have been or will be printed and placed at the disposal of the Council; and I venture to think a more instructive and valuable set of papers has seldom been presented to the local legislature. I think it will be found that the knowledge and ability displayed by so many gentlemen is highly creditable to the public service in Bengal. I particularly recommend, to those who are inclined to read these papers, the letters received from the Commissioners of the Presidency Division and of Dacca; also from the Collectors of Rungpore, Moorshedabad, Jessore, Kishnaghur, and Midnapore. I am very far indeed from agreeing in all that these distinguished officers suggest: in fact it would be impossible to agree in all that they recommend, for they differ amongst themselves. But still I venture to think that these papers are well worthy of most attentive perusal. I will ask the Council for a few minutes to recollect what was the substance of these proposals which have been thus considered. The proposals may be thus summarised:—

1*st*.—That a Bill be introduced as supplementary to Act VIII (B C.) of 1869, for the further laying down of principles whereby rents should be decided between the landlords and the occupancy ryots as defined by the Act.

2*nd*.—That this supplementary legislation be confined to occupancy ryots (who now form a large portion, perhaps the majority, of ryots), leaving non-occupancy ryots, or tenants-at-will, to the operation of the existing law.

3*rd*.—That in cases of dispute, the rent of the occupancy ryot should be fixed at rates less by at least 25 per cent. than the rates ordinarily paid by non-occupancy ryots in the neighbourhood or in the district.

4th.—That even more favourable rates should be allowed to old occupancy ryots, who had (either of themselves or by those from whom they inherited) held their lands thirty years and more.

5th.—That the ordinary rates payable by non-occupancy ryots should be ascertained by evidence in the usual way, but that if from any cause this ascertainment should be found impracticable, then the Collector should be directed to ascertain, or if he failed, then the rent of a non-occupancy ryot should be calculated at one-fifth (20 per cent.) of the value of the gross produce, as the basis for determining the rent of an occupancy ryot, the result of which would be that an occupancy ryot's rent, calculated on that basis, and being at least 25 per cent. less, would be 15 per cent. of the value of the gross produce.

The criticisms to which these proposals have been exposed lead me to think that they will have to be very much modified if we attempt to pass them into law. I think that the proposition to extend specially the favorable rates to old occupancy ryots, who have held their lands for thirty years or more, cannot be carried out under the circumstances of the country. I am advised by competent authority that these proposals have been highly approved by a large class of ryots and by gentlemen, both European and native, who interest themselves in the cause of the ryot, and I should be very glad if the carrying out of this proposal had been found to be practicable. But what with the difficulty of establishing these periods of occupancy, and what with the temptation that will be afforded to an undue degree of litigation, and what with the extreme difficulty there would evidently be of obtaining the consent, or anything like the consent, of the landlord class to any such conditions, I am afraid that they are, under the present circumstances of the country, impracticable. I say this with great regret, because, if carried out, they would have done a great deal to improve the status of the ryot without unduly detracting from the status of the zemindar. But however good the measure may be if found impracticable, there is not much more to be said.

Then great objections have been made to the determination of the rent of occupancy ryots by reference to the rates which are paid by non-occupancy ryots. It is commonly said that there is not any perceptible difference between the rates of occupancy and non-occupancy ryots. I confess I am not myself convinced, despite all other authority, upon that subject. We have at all events the authority of many well-informed persons, and of the large number of landlords who compose the British Indian Association, to the effect that there is a difference between the rates paid by occupancy ryots and non-occupancy ryots. I think it stands to reason that in many districts there must be some such difference. I feel sure that one of our hon'ble colleagues, Mr. Reynolds, who is one of the best living authorities on the affairs of Eastern Bengal, will tell us, despite what we have heard to the contrary, that there is such a difference in many districts; and in some parts indeed of all districts there must, I apprehend, be such difference. But at any rate there is this to be said, that the Collectors in some districts allege that the occupancy ryot is paying at the same rate as the non-occupancy ryot—at least as much. Well, if that is the case, this Bill would have been a very fortunate one for the occupancy ryot, for in that case his rent could not possibly have been enhanced with reference to the rate of the non-occupancy ryot. And there is this advantage in the proposal, that it is made on the authority of the great landed interest of the country. Then again, in some places the Collectors allege that the occupancy ryot is actually paying more than the non-occupancy ryot. In that case it is better still for the occupancy ryot, because there is no chance of his rent being enhanced. He may not be able to obtain an abatement of rent, because the Bill provides that there will be no abatement claimed under it; but there is no chance of his rent being enhanced. And this remarkable protection he would enjoy in virtue of a rule proposed by the largest society of landlords in the country. Thus this proposal, even in such extreme cases, will not be found so unworkable as some authorities seem to think.

Then we come to the proposal which amounts to this, that the landlord's share may be taken at 15 per cent. of the value of the gross produce. Now, the landed interest affirm that this is much too low. On the whole I believe that this would not be too low in some parts of the country. It would be too low, however, in other parts of the country, especially Western Bengal, perhaps also in Central Bengal, and we may be obliged to ask the legislature to allow some higher proportion to be taken. In reference to this it is proposed that the proportion shall range from 15 to 25 per cent. on the value of the gross produce.

Further in the course of inquiry we have found that some increased, some enlarged definition, will have to be made of the term "occupancy ryot;" for it is found that the term "occupancy ryot" has got to be applied in some parts of the country to a class of persons who may be described almost as tenure-holders—that is to say, there is a class of occupancy ryots who hold considerable tenures, which tenures they sublet to other ryots, who hold from father to son, and who apparently may claim all the benefits of Act VIII of 1869, who are indeed in all respects virtually occupancy ryots. They really are middlemen or tenure-holders. Nevertheless these so-called middlemen are, by common acceptation of official terms, called occupancy ryots. That is the state of things which will require consideration at the hands of the legislature when we come to make the law precise. Inquiries that have been made have brought out into very strong relief the grievances which have been long known to exist regarding the realization of rent. The zemindars affirm now what they have always affirmed, but more than ever now, that if the law is to be amended, there should be some provision for the more speedy realization, not of disputed, but of undisputed rents. This matter has been carefully examined by our hon'ble colleague Mr. Bell, and I am sanguine that if a Bill is introduced into this Council he will be able to insert some sections which shall be satisfactory to the just expectations of landlords without being liable to any abuse as affecting the ryot.

Looking to all these various considerations, with which I am afraid I have troubled the Council at great length, I decided to make a revised proposition, and to endeavour to obtain the assent of the Secretary of State and the Government of India to introduce the measure during this present session. The Council are aware that by existing orders we must obtain the sanction of the Secretary of State before introducing any important measure; and this of course is a very important measure. The following is an abstract of what I propose:—

1*st*.—That in cases where an occupancy ryot is liable to enhancement of rent under section 18 of Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869, such enhancement is either to be regulated by the principle that his rent shall be less than the ordinary rent of a non-occupancy ryot by a certain percentage, from 20 to 25 per cent., or else is to be calculated on a certain proportion of the value of the gross produce, from 15 to 25 per cent.: provided always that no occupancy ryot shall be entitled to claim under the foregoing rule any abatement from the rent which he has heretofore paid.

2*nd*.—The definition of an occupancy ryot, as given in section 6 of Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869, to be somewhat extended, so as to include ryots cultivating under other ryots in certain classes of cases.

3*rd*.—The right and interest of an occupancy ryot to be rendered liable to sale for default in paying rent, and also transferable by private agreement.

4*th*.—The process for realizing arrears of rent in undisputed cases to be simplified by the court or other deciding authority being empowered, on application from the landlord, to issue a notice to the ryot requiring him either to pay or to appear and show cause to the contrary. In the event of the ryot neither paying nor appearing, the court to order attachment and sale of the defaulter's moveable property.

5*th*.—The rents payable by tenure-holders or others possessing a permanent transferable interest in land, intermediate between the proprietor of an estate and the ryot, when not fixed by special agreement or by the circumstances of the tenures, to be determined according to a standard similar to that of the occupancy ryots, but more favourable by 10 per cent.

To these propositions, and to the measures as thus embodied in this abstract, I have been so fortunate as to obtain the general assent of the Government of India. The reply of the Government of India has been printed, and I believe has been placed before every hon'ble member; and the Council, I think, will be glad to see that the Government of India have asked the Secretary of State to be so kind as to telegraph to us his sanction if it be that he has no objection to the measure, as I hope he will not have. I am sure it will be satisfactory to hon'ble members to observe that the Government of India declare that they concur with the Government of Bengal as to the necessity for laying down more definite rules than those at present existing in the lower provinces of Bengal for the guidance of the authorities in determining the rates of rent.

Now, the remarks I have already made may spare me the necessity of troubling the Council with a very detailed description of these several propositions. And as regards the first proposition, I need not repeat what I have just said regarding the rent of occupancy ryots being calculated at a rate of from 20 to 25 per cent. less than the rent of non-occupancy ryots.

But I have a few words to say regarding the proposal for fixing the landlord's share at a certain proportion of the value of the gross produce, namely, from 15 to 25 per cent. There is one particular objection which has been raised, and which will doubtless again be raised to this proposal, to which objection I would ask the attention of the Council for one moment, namely that no such rule can work, because in some parts of the country, as in Western Bengal, the landlords are already receiving much more than 25 per cent. of the value of the gross produce; and in other parts of the country, especially towards the more remote parts of Eastern and deltaic Bengal, the landlords are receiving much less. In Western Bengal they are said to be getting even as much as 50 per cent., and in some parts of Eastern Bengal only one-fortieth of the produce—or, in other words, almost nothing at all. Now, in consequence of this extreme disparity, it is contended that no such proposed rule can possibly work. But notwithstanding this difference, I maintain that it may possibly work. For instance, where the landlord is receiving more than 25 per cent., we simply leave him alone; we leave him and his tenantry absolutely untouched. There will be of course no immediate claim for enhancement allowed under the rule. The landlord will not be injured, nor will the tenant be benefited, because the Bill will contain a provision to the effect that there shall be no abatement in consequence of the provisions of the Bill. It may be that the Bill will give the landlord no assistance in making further enhancement—at least not for a considerable period; not until there shall be some very extensive improvement in the cultivation, or extension of new produce, or a very great rise in prices. But for the present no doubt the effect will be that landlords who are getting more than 25 per cent. will get no further increase; and I venture to think that they would not get it under the existing law, and could not get it for many years to come. I think I may appeal to some of our colleagues who are well versed on the question, and also to some hon'ble members whose attention is given to economic questions, as to whether the landlords ought to get more under such circumstances. If any landlord does get much more than 25 per cent. he is very lucky, because he gets more than he ought to be receiving in the opinion of many authorities. But take the other case, in which the landlord is receiving much less than 15 per cent.; only one-fortieth, or two, or two-and-a-half, or say five per cent. Well, I can only say that in such cases the ryot must be paying a nominal or peppercorn rent for some reason or other, because the land has been recently reclaimed or thrown up by a river, or something of that sort. For some reason of that kind the ryot is paying a peppercorn rent. Possibly there may be some tacit agreement between him and his landlord: perhaps the payment of a large salami, or something of that kind, upon the understanding that full rent would not be demanded afterwards. Now, if there has been any tacit agreement, or anything like the payment of a salami in consideration of the rent being kept at a nominal rate, then that is an agreement. And the Bill will provide that nothing in the Act shall interfere with any existing agreement, whether direct or indirect, and so on. But if the ryot is really paying a nominal or peppercorn rent, then sooner or later he will have to pay a real rent; and if he has to pay any rent at all, then 15 per cent. is a very moderate proportion. It would be impossible to say that if a man has been so fortunate as not to pay any rent in the past, therefore for the future he should not have to pay. There might indeed be the question whether he had been paying the extremely low rent for 20 years and upwards. We must always remember the provision in the existing law, that if a man has been paying a certain rent for 20 years, it is a great presumption in his favour. But if he has paid only a nominal rent for some lesser period than 20 years without any particular agreement, then it is impossible to maintain him in the position of holding an almost rent-free tenure.

As to the second proposition, the extension of the definition of an occupancy ryot, I have already said all that need be said. As to the third proposition, regarding the right and interest of an occupancy ryot being rendered liable to sale for default in paying rent, and also transferable by private agreement, the Council will observe that it is objected to by the Government of India. Still I am not sure that this will be regarded as the final dictum of the Government of India. It is a matter on which it is possible they may be disposed to receive representations; and that may depend upon the advice I may receive from the most experienced gentlemen in Bengal, and also upon what I may find to be the opinions of the Council. It will depend upon that whether I shall make a further representation to the Government of India on the subject. I think, if the Council will refer to my minute and to the papers, they will find that there are a great many apparently strong reasons for putting forth this proposition. I believe it will certainly not injuriously affect the ryot, but quite the contrary; that while it conduces to the convenience of the zemindar, yet, on the other hand, it will give a greatly enhanced value to occupancy tenures throughout these provinces. However, unless we shall deem it necessary to try to persuade the Government of India to allow us to proceed with that particular section, we shall have to omit it. I will not trouble the Council now with any detailed remarks about the process for the realization of arrears of rent, as I am in hopes we shall receive many valuable observations and suggestions from the Hon'ble Mr. Bell.

The fifth proposition may perhaps not be thought to require detailed comment. The existence of these very important tenure-holders or midddlemen is fully recognized. I did not say anything about them in my minute of April last, because I was advised on the best authority that nothing is necessary, that their position is either fixed by individual agreement or lease, or determined by law, and I still believe that this description is applicable to the great majority of these tenures; but many tenure-holders have individually represented to me that their cases are not recognized either by law or by any particular Bill, and therefore they would like to have something inserted in the law for their protection. So I venture to suggest that in such cases they may be placed in the same position as occupancy ryots with a beneficial percentage of, say, 10 per cent. That, however, is a matter of detail which can be considered when the Bill comes before the Council.

Perhaps, also, before I quite pass away from this measure, I ought to add that, in reference to the occupancy rent rate being fixed with reference to the non-occupancy rent rate, some people do consider that there should be a provision for reference being made to the Collector to decide what should be deemed the average rent rate of the district, or part of a district, for the purposes of this Act. Now, that is a matter which I may say must be partly dependant upon the pleasure of this Council, and partly also on the concurrence of the great landlord interest. If, of course, the landlords should agree, and this Council should agree to put in such a provision, then the Government could have no possible objection. My humble opinion is that the thing may be well managed; that the Collector could be called upon to inquire and to lay down an average ordinary rent rate for each district. Such proceedings might be taken under the supervision of the Commissioners and the Board of Revenue; and I believe that the rates thus ascertained would be tolerably satisfactory. There may be cases in which the parties could show the court that particular lands could not be assessed on the average rate. In that case there would have to be that sort of inquiry which does frequently have to be made locally by the courts of justice; otherwise, the average rate would be applicable. But then I must bear in mind that such proceedings rather impinge upon the much-vexed question of making settlements. I know that the term "settlements" has a somewhat strange sound to our ears in Bengal, and the measure will savour, so to speak, of extreme interference on the part of the executive. I mention the matter not because I have any serious hope that any such measure will be carried, unless public opinion should change from what I believe to be its tone at the present moment. But nevertheless the matter is worthy of consideration, and I can only add that if the Council could see their way into the matter, I shall be glad enough.

Another point which I have further to mention is that if you have the rule of proportion, there would arise a particular question, which is this. The proportion of the value of the gross produce will be taken upon the value of that produce of an ordinary kind. By an ordinary kind we mean rice and other cereals. These may be considered as the ordinary produce of the land of Bengal; and when I allude to the value of the gross produce, that is the produce I have in my mind. Of course, I do not say that there are not other kinds of produce which are already increasing, and may increase more, particularly tobacco, mulberry, opium, indigo, jute, safflower, and others. But there is this to be considered, that the landlord's share, which is calculated on the proportion of the value of the produce which would be considered fair as regards common produce like rice, would be deemed to be too high as regards such higher kinds of staples, which are generally thought to require more skill, capital, and labour on the part of the ryot. I believe, even in the most favourable cases, the zemindar will admit that he cannot get so large a share of the gross produce from these superior crops as that from produce of the common kinds. That will involve the difficulty of having two sets of proportions—one for the common produce, another for the superior staples. That, I admit, is a real difficulty. But if it cannot be overcome in any other way it must be overcome by fixing two proportions—one for common kinds of produce, and one for other crops. Either that, or another plan which may find favour with some members is this, that the proportion should be made up as an ordinary proportion for common crops, with a proviso that something should be added in the case of land being cultivated with certain superior crops, which would be specified in the Act.

Such, then, are the remarks I have to make on the original proposition and on the revised proposition. In conclusion, I would wish to urge upon the Council very earnestly the necessity for some legislation, for some rule being fixed, in reference to the determination of rents. There is an improvement at present in the relations between landlord and tenant, and we no longer hear of the agrarian disturbances of which we used to hear some two or three years ago. Although we have an Agrarian Disturbances' Bill, we have never yet had to enforce it, nor have there been any such violent disputes as to require the enforcement of the provisions of the Act. There has, as the Council are aware, been one very sad individual case occurring in the Furreedpore district (a landlord murdered, as it is feared, by ryots), regarding which severe inquiries will be made. But with the exception of that one unhappy sign, I do not perceive any indication of agrarian troubles arising anywhere. Nevertheless I will appeal to all concerned as to whether there is not still a very uneasy feeling lying deep in the hearts and minds both of landlords and tenants. There is a certain sort of underground agitation going on, and which goes on because we have not any proper means of stopping it. This agitation arises because neither party knows whether or not rents can be enhanced. Now, there are many persons who think that the best way is to leave things alone; to let landlords and tenants fight it out: and that the result probably would be that rents would remain absolutely unchanged. I must say definitely that I entirely dissent from that view. I believe it is impossible to prevent cases arising regarding enhancement of rent. That such enhancement of rents should be possible, is distinctly contemplated by the existing law of Bengal, which lays down precise provisions with the view of what shall happen when such a thing takes place. Therefore it is too late to say that enhancement of rent should be out of the question. I yield to none in the desire and the hope of seeing a contented and prosperous peasantry, the ryots having heritable tenures handed down from generation to generation with proper equitable rents which cannot be enhanced except by the decision of a court of justice, and with full security of enjoying the fruits of their labour and a full share of the general advantages which arise from a secure and settled Government. But, on the other hand, it never was contemplated that there should be no such thing as enhancement of rent. However much it may be stated in the permanent settlement that the rights of under-tenures should be protected, it never was asserted that there should be a special and perpetual sub-settlement with the ryots. Nor was it ever suggested that the old pergunnah rent rates, though taken as a guide, should not be open to alteration or to augmentation as time went on. What these pergunnah rates ought to be was never settled. If the intention was to make such a settlement, the Government of the time would have provided for it; and it could only have been done by a regular settlement of rents throughout the country. That has never been done, and I presume never will be undertaken. If the value of land is to increase with the rise of prices and the improvement of produce, it seems to follow that there must be a gradual, though moderate, augmentation of rent throughout the country from time to time—enough to satisfy the demands of the landlord, while leaving a clear and liberal margin of profit to the ryot.

In short, if the material resources of the country are to go on growing; if the culture of new staples is to flourish—the jute of yesterday, as it were, the tobacco of to-day, the flax, as we hope, of to-morrow—if the use of machinery is to spread not only around the presidency towns, but also throughout the interior of the country; if all this is to continue happening, as we trust it will, then we must look forward to an augmentation of rent, equitable and moderate doubtless, allowing also for a stable and valuable occupancy status accruing to the ryot, but still augmentation. This is a necessary outcome of the improvement of the country. If we expect the country to advance we must expect rents to rise concurrently; and having regard to this inevitable circumstance, we ought to prepare our legislation accordingly. We may be sure that the augmentation of rent will never be managed satisfactorily to the two parties concerned—will be nothing but a bone of contention between them, unless some legislation shall be effected by this Council whereby the courts and the parties can know how, and on what principle, the augmentation should be regulated. Moreover, without the principle of augmentation of rent is recognized, one hardly sees how the permanent settlement can work properly. Whether there ought to be a permanent settlement or not, is a question we are now called upon to discuss. The permanent settlement is a great fact, and it is the greatest of all facts in Bengal, and we must legislate on that basis. Therefore I will ask the Council to consider whether it is possible to go on postponing from one period to another the difficulties which exist of determining some rules whereby rents may be justly and reasonably assessed; and when I say reasonably and justly, I say so quite as much in the interests of the ryot as of the zemindar. By putting off legislation, we only defer the evil day until disputes begin and men's passions become excited and settlement becomes more and more difficult.

I would sum up the argument thus. If there is to be enhancement in any class of cases, it virtually cannot be without a decree of court, because although the rent of a tenant-at-will can be enhanced without such decree, some persons say that there is no such class existing any longer: they have all, or nearly all, become occupancy ryots. Those classes, such as korfa, ootbundi, and the like, are said to be not tenants at all, and to be little more than farm-labourers, though this view of their status may be open to dispute. Probably, however, the great majority of ryots are in such a position that their rents cannot be enhanced without a decree of court. The existing law, no doubt, does lay down the circumstances under which there may be cases for enhancement, which, as is well known, are mentioned in section 18 of Act VIII of 1869. The Council will recollect that there are three circumstances under which cases arise for enhancement in the case of a ryot having a right of occupancy: (1) that the rate of rent paid by such ryots is below the prevailing rate payable by the same class of ryots for land of a similar description, and with similar advantages, in the places adjacent; (2) that the value of the produce, or the productive powers of the land, have been increased otherwise than by the agency or at the expense of the ryot; (3) that the quantity of the land held by the ryot has been proved by measurement to be greater than the quantity for which rent has been previously paid by him.

But this law only lays down the circumstances under which enhancement of rent may be possible. Granted that the ryot is paying less than others; granted that the value of the land has been increased by causes other than his own exertions; granted that he is holding more land than is set down to his name: these are the circumstances only which would justify some enhancement of rent. Still there is nothing in them whatever to show how the enhancement should be adjusted; there is nothing to show what are the data, what are the principles, upon which the court should proceed in its adjudication. How is enhancement to be settled? As to that there is positively nothing. Of course we have elaborated what is called the rule of proportion—that rule which, in default of anything better, the highest tribunal has tried to frame as the best rule which you could make under the unsatisfactory condition of the law. You know very well what the rule is, that the new rent should bear the same proportion to the present value of the produce as the old rent bore to the old value of the produce when the said rent was last fixed, or at some subsequent period which may be taken as a starting-point; or, in other words, the old rent should bear to the increased rent the same proportion as the former value of the produce of the soil, calculated on an average of three or five years next before the date of the alleged rise in value, bears to its present value. Now, without denying that this perhaps is as good a rule as the courts could arrive at in the indeterminate state of the law, their business being not to amend the law but to carry it out as far as possible, still I say that this rule amounts to no rule whatever, or is worse than nothing, because it positively bristles with difficulties from beginning to end. In the first place it is only in the event of there having been at some previous period some definite dispute that you have some starting point. But notoriously it is not the case that there has been in all cases a definite dispute which has been determined: usually there is nothing of the kind. The rent has gone on for a lengthened period; we have no village records which are filed in any public office. The zemindar is the only person who has a record, and that cannot be appealed to as an authoritative document, especially as the ryot will refuse to acknowledge it. So that there is no fixed starting point. If, therefore, a point is attempted to be fixed, then immediately the whole arena of dispute is opened. But supposing a starting point is fixed, and that there was some particular rent fixed at some previous period. Even in that case the whole question is absolutely begged, because the question is whether that particular rent was a right one or not. It is utterly unscientific to say that because the rent was fixed a few years ago it was an absolutely right one. The parties will allege that this is a wrong rent, that it ought to be decided according to proper principles of reason and justice, and that the old rent is faulty. The present existence of a dispute virtually alleges that there is a fault in the existing rent and in the old rate; so that whatever faults there may be in the old rent are to be stereotyped and perpetuated by this rule of proportion, a rule which does not even profess to be guided by any principle, but merely takes what was, or is, as a foundation for what ought to be in future. Then of course there is extreme difficulty in finding out what was the produce and what was the rent at some anterior period. We know it is not always easy to find these things out at the present day; but how infinitely more difficult will it be to ascertain what these lands produced, and what was the rent so many years ago—particularly, too, when the character of the cultivation of the land has changed. And it is this change of culture that so often causes disputes about rent: it is perhaps the commonest ground for such disputes Whereas the land grew common crops once, it bears superior staples now. But when and how the change began; whether it began since the time selected as a starting point, can hardly be ascertained in the absence of any records filed in the Collector's cutcherry. It is very well to take into consideration the produce of certain fields as they are now. But to ascertain whether each field grew this or some other crop so many years ago, is an unsatisfactory undertaking in the face of conflicting statements. I say, with the greatest respect to all the eminent authorities who tried to frame this rule, that it is unworkable, and is apt to become a trap for unwary litigants. If, then, this rule cannot work, what is to happen? At present we all know what happens: that no decisions are given, that the subordinate courts are perfectly puzzled, and when in doubt what to do they decide to do nothing, and the disputes remain. The inevitable consequence of economic changes causes disputes to arise, and they are left unsettled to the great detriment of landlords and tenants.

Then I say that there ought to be some modes of arriving at a decision. If there are to be, then how are they to be arrived at? Some say, let them be arrived at by the individual judgment of the courts who might try the cases; some say, let them be decided by juries. Such proposals can however hardly be satisfactory to the great landlord interest, because it is obvious that in the absence of any rule there would be the very widest divergences of opinion: in some districts there would be one thing, in some another, and in no two courts would there be uniformity of decision. In matters in which there is the greatest room for differences of opinion, there will be as many opinions as there are courts; and if the decision were left to juries, the result would be still more unsatisfactory. But if you do not leave it to individual courts and juries, then I want to know what rule and what principle you will follow? We say on behalf of the Government of Bengal that there are two courses open—either take the rent of the non-occupancy ryot if you can ascertain it; or if not, then take a proportion of the produce. These are the two proposals which we offer. If this Council generally, or any hon'ble member of it, or any one outside, or the great landed interest, can propose to us any better rule, we shall most gladly consider that proposal. But in the meantime these are the two proposals which have been submitted for your consideration. I earnestly hope we shall be able to arrive at something like a satisfactory solution of the difficulty. We shall be most willing to defer to any opinions we may receive. But I can only say that if the difficulty shall be solved, as I hope it will, that can only be by the co-operation of the great interests concerned, landlords and tenants, and the wise thoughtfulness of this Council.

GHATWALI TENURES.

THE HON'BLE MR. BELL moved for leave to introduce a Bill to define the rights and duties of ghatwals in the district of Bankoora. He said hon'ble members were doubtless aware, that in the western districts of Bengal there existed a class of police-officers who derived their name from the ghats or passes which their forefathers had been originally appointed to guard. The precise date, or the precise circumstances under which these ghatwals were called into existence, it was at the present time impossible to determine. He believed there could be no doubt that they owed their origin to those troubled times of anarchy and disorder which preceded the advent of British rule. The majority of the ghatwals who would be affected by the legislation which he asked leave to introduce were located in the pergunnah of Bishenpore, a pergunnah which was formerly ruled by a long line of chieftains who took their title from the name of the pergunnah. The pergunnah itself was of wide extent, with a fertile soil and an industrious and quiet people. But during the time which preceded the dissolution of the Mogul empire, these quiet and industrious people were exposed to the ravages of maraudng itribes, who robbed them of the fruit of their labours and too often of their lives; and it was to protect the people against the incursions of these lawless marauders, who appear to have been, though on a more exaggerated scale, the forefathers of the thugs and dacoits of our day, that the ghatwals were originally called into existence. Certain spots were selected along the main lines of communication, and near these spots a colony of ghatwals was located under their own sirdars or chiefs, with tracts of land assigned for their support. For these tracts of land they paid a quit-rent to the Rajah, and they were also expected to perform certain services for the State; to guard the district from the incursions of these marauding tribes, to secure the inhabitants of the villages from robbers, and to protect the persons and property of travellers and merchants who journeyed through the district.

And now he would ask the Council for one moment to consider the position of ghatwals with reference to the Rajahs themselves. They all knew that in Hindoo society there was a great tendency for offices to become hereditary. The priest who ministered at the family altar was succeeded in his ministrations by his son, and the more humble barber handed down his razor to his children, who continued to perform the same service that their father had performed before them This, too, seemed to have been the case with the ghatwals. After the death of the original ghatwals, their sons and descendants succeeded to the office and the lands which their fathers had held, and thus the office of ghatwal and the land attached to the office became as it were hereditary. But there could be no conceivable doubt that the Rajah always kept in his own hands the power of dismissing the ghatwals. In those days there were no civil courts to act as a check on the executive. The whole functions of the Government were in the hands of the Rajah, who was left undisturbed in his pergunnah, provided he did not fail to contribute the stipulated tribute to the Delhi Government.

MR. BELL mentioned these circumstances because at the present time a claim had been set up by the ghatwals to an absolute indefeasible right to the offices and the lands held by them. What he conceived was the position of affairsunder the Rajahs was this :—No ghatwal was interfered with so long as he performed his duty to the satisfaction of the Rajah, but if he failed in his duty it was fully in the power of the Rajah to dismiss him and resume his land. And MR. BELL was fully supported in that view of the case from what was known to be the situation of the ghatwals when the government of the country passed into the hands of the British Government. The first mention he had been able to find of the ghatwals of Bissenpore was contained in a report of Mr. Grant, written in 1787, and printed by order of the House of Commons as an appendix to the Fifth Report.

Mr. Grant there mentions that pergunnah Bissenpore contained 1,30,000 beeghas of chakran land, the occupiers of which composed a provincial militia at the disposal of the Government. The next record MR. BELL had been able to find, which spoke of these ghatwals, was a report of the Collector of the Jungle Mehals (originally Bissenpore was a part of the jungle mehals), in which he stated that he had dismissed 39 ghatwals whose services were no longer required, and had brought their lands to what he called the "revenue account." In other words, he dispensed with the services of 39 ghatwals and imposed a suitable assessment upon the land. This was in the year 1798. The next mention of the Bissenpore ghatwals occurred in 1802, and the document he referred to was a very important one. The ghatwals, as MR. BELL had before stated, were bound, in addition to the services they had to render, to pay to the Rajah a quit-rent for their land. The Rajah complained that the ghatwals were in arrear in their payments, and that while he was expected to pay his revenue to Government with unfailing punctuality, he could not enforce the same punctuality from the ghatwals. On this an agreement was entered into by which the Collector undertook to collect the quit-rent from the ghatwals and to credit the Rajah with the amount of quit-rent in his revenue account. But the Rajah made this stipulation, that if ever the services of the ghatwals were dispensed with, or if on any occasion or for any reason the lands of the ghatwals were resumed, he claimed the right to have the ghatwali lands re-annexed to his zemindary. MR. BELL mentioned this circumstance to show that at the beginning of this century the view taken by the Indian Government of that day, and also by the Rajah of that time, was utterly opposed to the ghatwals having any absolute or indefeasible right in the lands assigned for their support. Both the Government and the Rajah clearly considered that the services of the ghatwals could be dispensed with at pleasure, and that if their services were dispensed with the land would be assessable with rent. From that time to the present the appointment and dismissal of ghatwals in the Bankoora district has remained entirely in the hands of the Magistrate. And it was a very singular circumstance, that although a great many ghatwals had been dismissed from that time to this, there had never been a single suit instituted to contest the award of the Magistrate until within the last two years.

With regard to the appointment of ghatwals, the principle upon which the Magistrate had acted was this, that where a ghatwal had died or had relinquished his office from age or other infirmity, the Magistrate invariably appointed to the office the son or some other member of the family in his place. To this extent the Magistrate had recognized the quasi-hereditary character of the holding; but in other cases, where a ghatwal was dismissed for some gross act of misconduct, it had been usual for the Magistrate to make a more severe example than would result from mere dismissal; and in these aggravated cases it had been generally the custom for the Magistrate to transfer the tenure to some outsider. And, as MR. BELL said before, although there had been numerous instances in which the Magistrate had dismissed the ghatwal and appointed an outsider to the office and the land, there had never, until two years ago, been a single instance in which the authority of the Magistrate thus to deal with the ghatwals, was contested or disputed. The present difficulty arose in this way. In 1872 there was a great increase of crime, particularly of dacoities, in Bankoora, and the District Superintendent of Police, acting under the orders of the Magistrate, thought he might very well utilize the services of the ghatwals by calling upon them to patrol the roads. The ghatwals considered that it was no part of their duty to do so, and they resisted the orders of the Magistrate. Certain suits had been filed, and the result had been that the ghatwals, as he understood, had now struck work altogether, and claimed exemption from the performance of any duty whatever. Up to 1872 they performed whatever duties were required of them, but now, as they insisted upon their legal rights, it was necessary to determine exactly what their precise duties, rights, and privileges, were. MR. BELL had already mentioned to the Council that the ghatwals were spoken of by Mr. Grant in 1787 as a kind of provincial militia, always ready to act under the orders of the Magistrate; and in a letter of the 6th April 1810 the Collector of the Jungle Mehals gives a more detailed account of the duties which they then performed. This document was a very important one, and he would read to the Council a very short extract from it:—

"This part of the road, I am of opinion, is already well protected by two police thanas and a guard of burkundazes which are situated upon the road at equal distances of ten miles from each other, but more specially by an ample establishment of the ghatwals of Bissenpore who are the immediate servants of the Government, and whose duty it is to escort traveller, in safety to the limits of their respective ghats, which are accurately defined, and to watch over and guard the property of merchants and strangers, for the safety of which within their several limits they are held accountable; and in order that they may be ever ready to render protection to travellers or aid in the apprehension of robbers, small sheds are erected at distances of one or two miles on the roadside, where three or four armed ghatwals are stationed by the sirdars of the ghat, whose names are registered at the thana, and who are only removeable from their situations on proof of misconduct to the satisfaction of the Magistrate."

The only other extract with which he would trouble the Council was from a letter of the Magistrate of the Jungle Mehals dated 20th September 1816, which was as follows:—

"The duties performed by the ghatwals are those of dependent police-officers. While the sirdar ghatwal in some places has a superintendence and control over all the ghatwals of the pergunnah, others have a more limited charge of some specific ghat, or of a particular number of villages. The dependent ghatwals are employed in the protection and escort of travellers from one village to another, in guarding different passes through the jungles, and in performing the usual duties of village watchmen"

Such was the account given of the ghatwals in the early part of the century, and the uncontested usage of the district from that day to this bore out the accuracy of the description The Council would now have to decide what duties in future the ghatwals should be called upon to perform. In the course of the last autumn His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor visited Bankoora, and amongst the papers which would be laid before the Select Committee to whom the Bill would be referred was a Minute of the Lieutenant-Governor with regard to this question. His Honor proposed that the duties to be exacted from the ghatwal should correspond with those which are to be found in the Bengal Chowkidaree Act and the General Police Act.

With regard to the hereditary pretensions which were set up by the ghatwals, it was proposed by His Honor that we should take our stand pretty much upon a decision passed by the Nizamut Adawlut in 1816. That decision was alluded to in the 3rd volume of Hárington's Analysis, page 510. It was there laid down that when a ghatwal died his son should succeed him; but when he was dismissed for misconduct, it was discretionary with the Magistrate to appoint an outsider in his place. That seemed to Mr. Bell to be consistent with fairness and equity to the ghatwals, and it was proposed to take our stand upon that decision, and to provide that in ordinary cases the son should succeed the father, but that in case of dismissal for misconduct the Magistrate might appoint to the office and the lands any one he thought fit. To give due security to the ghatwals, it would be provided that any ghatwal who was deprived of his land by the Magistrate should have an appeal against the Magistrate's decision; but when once that question was decided, it would not be again re-opened in the civil court.

These were the main features of the Bill which it was proposed to introduce He might also mention that he had received from Messrs. Gisborne & Co. and Messrs. Erskine & Co., who were zemindars or putnidars in part of Bissenpore, a memorial asking that some provision should be made for giving facilities for realizing the rent of ghatwali tenures. As the ghatwal has merely a temporary interest in the land, the zemindar cannot sell the land: he can only attach the moveable property of the ghatwal, which it was very often somewhat difficult to find. Messrs. Erskine & Co. therefore asked the Council to bear their memorial in mind if any legislation took place on the subject.

Such were the chief features of the Bill. He had before him a very valuable collection of papers on the subject, for which the Council were indebted to Mr Macaulay, and which would be laid before the Select Committee; and he had also a very valuable report by Mr. Larminie, the Magistrate of Bankoora, who had submitted some very valuable suggestions, upon the basis of which he had no doubt the Council would be able to frame a measure which, while securing the rights and privileges of the ghatwals, would at the same time insist upon the performance of those services which law and usage required of them. With these remarks he begged to ask leave to bring in a Bill.

The motion was agreed to.

COURT OF WARDS.

The Hon'ble Mr. Schalch moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend Act IV (B.C.) of 1870. That Act was entitled an Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Court of Wards within the provinces under the control of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal. It was now indeed something over six years since that Act was passed, and it had been found to work well. However, there had been some defects brought before the Board of Revenue, who had represented the matter to the Government, and the Government had now determined to bring in a Bill to amend these defects. The Bill had not yet been prepared, but he would mention the principal amendments which would be made by the Bill.

Section 50 of the Act restricted the investment of surplus profits to "the purchase of other landed property (loans) at interest upon Government security, the purchase of Government paper securities, or such other securities, stocks, or shares, guaranteed by the Government of India and approved of by the Board of Revenue, as to the Court (of Wards) shall seem fit."

In the Board's letter No. 309A, dated 13th August 1872, the Member in charge suggested to Government that it would be well also to permit the investment of the surplus income of one ward's estate in a loan to another ward's estate under the sanction of the Board. Mr. Schalch thought section 50 should be amended, so as to give the Court of Wards a general power to grant or make loans on mortgage, whether such loans were for the benefit of an estate under the Court of Wards or otherwise. It would often be a very advantageous investment for the lending estate; and so long as a fair rate of interest was secured, there could be no objection to it on the ground that the money of one ward was being appropriated to lessen the burdens of another.

Section 75 of Part XII of Act IV of 1870, and Act I (B.C.) of 1875, enabled the Collector to apply the certificate procedure of Act VII (B.C.) of 1868 to the recovery of arrears of rent from farmers, tenure-holders, and ryots in Wards' estates where such persons held direct from the Collector. The Board brought to the notice of Government the difficulties arising from a recent ruling of the High Court limiting the application of the certificate procedure to cases where the Collector himself had actually created the tenure or settled the ryot. The Member in charge would very strongly urge that the Collector ought to be able to employ the summary procedure in all cases where he managed the estate direct, i.e. without the intervention of a manager, and to all classes of tenants on the estate.

These were the points which seemed most to press for notice, but the opportunity would be taken to make also the following amendments.

The definition of "minor" in section 1 would be altered with reference to section 3, Act IX of 1875 (the Indian Majority Act.)

A doubt had been expressed as to whether, under section 2, the words "all proprietors of entire estates," &c., were sufficiently clear, so as to cover the case of several minor proprietors holding one entire estate in joint tenancy, i.e. whether the section might not be construed to mean that each disqualified proprietor must be the proprietor of an entire estate. It would obviate such doubt if the latter part of section 2, Regulation X of 1793, were re-enacted, which ran—"To prevent misconstruction, it is declared that by the terms 'all proprietors of entire estates paying revenue immediately to Government' are meant every such disqualified person who may be the sole proprietor of an estate, and any two or more persons, being proprietors of the whole of an estate, both or all of whom may be so disqualified."

It was not clear whether the appointment of a guardian was compulsory or optional in cases other than those referred to in section 57 of Act IV of 1870 Mr. Schalch thought it should be made clearly optional.

By section 72 no suit could be brought on behalf of a ward without the previous sanction of the Court of Wards. The inconvenience of this was pointed out in the Legal Remembrancer's report for 1873-74, and had come to notice in many quarters since. Mr. Schalch thought that the Collector might be empowered by the Court to represent it in respect of giving sanction to certain classes of suits, like ordinary rent suits. Paragraph 148 of the Legal Remembrancer's report, above referred to, drew attention to another anomaly under this section, as read in connection with the Limitation Act (IX, 1871, section 71, whereby an incompetent female proprietor failed to get the benefit of the stoppage of limitation during disqualification.

Referring to the same report, Mr. Schalch thought it very desirable to provide specifically for levying from all wards' and other estates, the property of individuals under charge of the revenue authorities, such a general rate of contribution to defray the cost of superintendence as might be found necessary. This was done at present, but it would seem that a direct provision of law was required to obviate possible difficulty.

Lastly, section 74 should be amended so as to make it clear that the Lieutenant-Governor's consent to an adoption might be given either in anticipation or in subsequent confirmation of the act of adoption.

These were the general principles upon which it was proposed to draft the amendments; and he thought that if permission were given to him to introduce the Bill, he would be able to place it before them at the next meeting of the Council, and he would take the opportunity of explaining the further details of the measure.

The motion was agreed to.

DETERMINATION OF THE RATE OF RENT.

THE HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS moved for leave to bring in a Bill to amend the law relating to rent. He said, the discussions which took place in this Council Chamber when the Act for the Prevention of Agrarian Disturbances was under consideration would have prepared the Council for the introduction of a general measure for dealing with the question of rent. The remarks made by His Honor in his opening statement, and perhaps the selection of papers which had been circulated to the hon'ble members of Council, would show the outlines and the shape of the measure which the Government thought it desirable to bring forward. He said the outlines and the shape of the measure, because at this stage he wished to be careful in using very general and guarded expressions. He wished to be careful that no one, in consenting to the introduction of the Bill, would go further than, recognizing the general principle that it was desirable that some attempt should be made to legislate on the subject. Further he did not mean at present to go, except to remark that the outline of the measure, as given in the papers before the Council, had not been sketched without very full consideration and very careful consultation with those whose opinions were likely to be of value. If there was at any time any truth in the saying that in the multitude of counsellors there was safety, he thought the course taken by the Government in connection with this measure was sufficient to secure that safety. They had received something like a hundred and fifty different expressions of opinion regarding the form the Bill should take. He did not at present ask the Council to follow him in detail. The Bill was still in the hands of the drafter, and when ready, which MR. REYNOLDS hoped would be at the next meeting of the Council, it would be circulated with a selection of the papers to the members, and then full discussion would take place. With these remarks he begged to move for leave to introduce the Bill.

The motion was agreed to.

ABKAREE REVENUE.

THE HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS moved for leave to introduce a Bill to consolidate the laws relating to the Abkaree revenue in Bengal. He said, it would be in the recollection of the Council that the amendment of the Abkaree law was before them during the last session, and the Bill was then passed and had become law as Act II of 1876. That Act certainly introduced some improvements in the Abkaree law. It was not proposed now to make any further alteration in the law. Indeed he was not aware that any further alteration was required; but if there were any alterations introduced, they would be of the very simplest and ordinary character. At present the law relating to the excise revenue was scattered over five or six enactments, and it was intended to consolidate them into one measure. The Bill had been drafted and was ready to be circulated amongst hon'ble members; but it had not yet been circulated because at present he did not propose to introduce the Bill, but only to ask leave to introduce it.

The motion was agreed to.

CONSOLIDATION OF THE REVENUE LAWS.

THE HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS moved for leave to introduce a Bill to consolidate the laws relating to the land revenue. He was sure hon'ble members would recognize at once the importance and also the difficulty of the subject now under consideration. The Hon'ble Mr. Cockerell, who had perhaps as complete a knowledge of the question as any other person who could be named, had drawn up a memorandum in which he showed that the revenue law was scattered over 65 or 66 enactments, and he had prepared a scheme by which all these laws could be consolidated into one single enactment. If this measure could be accomplished, MR. REYNOLDS need hardly say how great a boon it would be to those who had to administer the law, and also to the very large portion of the population whose interests were affected by that law. This measure, like that relating to the Abkaree law, was intended to be nothing more than a consolidation of the law which was now scattered over the Statute Book, but it might perhaps embody certain rules of practice which in the course of time had acquired the force of law. There was an important distinction at the same time between this Consolidation Bill and the consolidation of the Abkaree law. The amendment of the Abkaree law was a matter which was recently under consideration, and he was not aware that there was any note of fresh alterations for the improvement of that law. But that could not be said to be entirely the position of the revenue law, and therefore it had been determined not to introduce any material alteration of the law in this Bill. It would be necesary if such alterations were made, that a separate Bill should be introduced, the results of which would afterwards be incorporated into the code.

That was one element of difficulty in our purpose to consolidate a law the substantive provisions of which were not all finally settled. There was one other difficulty which he might mention, and which we might attempt to settle, but which he was afraid the Council would find to be a rather troublesome matter. No one at all familiar with our legal literature could fail to have been struck with the very great difference in style between the old and the new Acts. He did not wish to offer any opinion whether the old or the new style was clearer and more precise; but the difference of style was very marked indeed, and that made it a somewhat difficult matter to combine into one homogeneous law a variety of laws which had come down to us from 1793 to the present day. The Bill was still in the hands of the drafter, and at present he was unable to say when it might be ready to be laid before the Council. He should therefore leave any further remarks he might have to make to a future day.

The motion was agreed to.

AMENDMENT OF THE RENT LAW (CHOTA NAGPORE).

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend the law relating to rent in the province of Chota Nagpore. It was, he said, hardly necessary to remind hon'ble members that the land tenures of Chota Nagpore were of a special and difficult character. There was an Act of this Council, II of 1869, known as the Chota Nagpore Tenures' Act, which was entirely devoted to dealing with one class of such tenures. The rent law of Chota Nagpore was Act X of 1859; but that law was found not to be in all respects suited to all the requirements and exigencies of that province, and the consequence was that practically it was in force with certain modifications. Of these modifications, one was that sales of real property in execution of decrees, unless the sanction of the Commissioner had been given to such sales, were not permitted There were also restrictions on the right of distraint and ejectment. These modifications of the law were salutary, and, under the circumstances, indeed necessary. But their strict legality was perhaps open to some question, and at any rate it was desirable that the law should not be open to doubt, but have some fixed basis.

The draft of the Bill had been prepared, but it was merely a first draft, and some further details would have to be settled in communication with the Commissioner of the Division. To-day he merely asked leave to introduce the Bill.

The motion was agreed to.

The Council was adjourned to a day of which notice would be given.

REVIEW OF PROPOSALS FOR IMPROVING THE SUBSTANTIVE LAW FOR THE DETERMINATION OF RENT IN BENGAL.

Minute by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, dated 29th August 1876.

In continuation of my Minute of the 18th April last, regarding the improvement of the substantive law for the determination of rent in Bengal, I desire to record the following observations.

The proposals set forth in that Minute may be summarized thus:—

1*st*.—That a Bill be introduced as supplementary to Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869, for the further laying down of principles whereby rents should be decided between the landlords and the occupancy ryots, as defined by the Act.

2*nd*.—That this supplementary legislation be confined to occupancy ryots (who now form a large portion, perhaps the majority of ryots), leaving non-occupancy ryots, or tenants-at-will, to the operation of the existing law.

3*rd*.—That in cases of dispute the rent of the occupancy ryot should be fixed at rates less by at least 25 per cent. than the rates ordinarily paid by non-occupancy ryots in the neighbourhood or in the district.

4*th*.—That even more favourable rates should be allowed to old occupancy ryots who had (either of themselves or by those from whom they inherited) held their lands 30 years and more.

5*th*.—That the ordinary rates payable by non-occupancy ryots should be ascertained by evidence in the usual way, but that, if from any cause this ascertainment should be found impracticable, then the Collector should be directed to ascertain; or if he failed, then the rent of a non-occupancy ryot should be calculated at one-fifth (20 per cent.) of the value of the gross produce as the basis for determining the rent of an occupancy ryot, the result of which would be that an occupancy ryot's rent, calculated on that basis, and being at least 25 per cent. less, would be 15 per cent. of the value of the gross produce.

2. The points embraced in these proposals are left undetermined in the existing law, though they nearly concern the interests of the people. The proposals were framed after the best consideration which I could give to the respective and relative rights and interests of landlord and tenant. They have been criticised, and will be criticised necessarily, from opposite points of view.

3. The landlords, in so far as they may be supposed to be represented by the British Indian Association, consider the proposals as too favourable to the ryots, and as unduly unfavourable to the zemindars. They are, however, willing that the rent rate of the occupancy ryot should be 25 per cent. less than that of the non-occupancy ryot; but they strongly think that none of the further concessions proposed by me should be made in favour of old ryots of any standing whatsoever. They are willing that, if the rent rate of the non-occupancy ryot cannot be ascertained, in order to form the basis for determining the rent rate of the occupancy ryot, then the rent of the occupancy ryots should be calculated on a proportion of the value of the gross produce; but they think that the proportion should be 25 per cent. instead of the 15 per cent. proposed by me. In short, they adhere to the terms previously put forward by them.

4. It is further urged by the zemindars that if any rule for the future shall be determined by law, it ought not to operate as a ground for the diminution of existing rents, and should not form a ground of application on the part of the occupancy ryots for abatement of rents which they may have been heretofore accustomed to pay. I think that this proviso is reasonable and just under the circumstances, and would therefore adopt it.

5. I find that many of those who are well acquainted with, or have specially ascertained, the views of the ryots, believe that my proposals will be regarded as beneficial to the occupancy ryots, who are probably the majority of the whole body of the ryots. Indeed, there cannot be any doubt that these proposals, if carried through the legislature, would secure the recognition by law of advantages which, whether they be virtually possessed at present or not by the occupancy ryots, have not yet received legal sanction. It seems that in some districts the occupancy ryots would be particularly glad to have their rent rates calculated on a proportion of the value of the gross produce, such as that proposed by me. Also, the further concessions proposed by me in favour of the old ryots of thirty years' standing and upwards are, it is understood, much appreciated.

6. But besides the views of the two principal, and perhaps the opposite, interests in the matter, I have had the advantage of learning the views of many who do not belong to either party, and who are chiefly official, both European and native.

7. In the first place it is thought by many, perhaps by most authorities, that the concession of more favourable terms to ryots of thirty years' standing and upwards cannot be worked; that it would lead to unsatisfactory litigation, each party trying by right means or wrong to prove or disprove a fact so important as the length of the possession. I am not at all sure that this argument is decisive when weighed against the advantages of making such a concession; though I admit that arguments of this description have special force in a province like Bengal, where the devices of litigation are so much practised. On the whole, though I would still wish to carry this particular proposal, if possible, I fear that I may be reluctantly obliged to abandon it. The abandonment would not, however, affect the remainder of the scheme.

8. In the next place it is thought by many that, in some districts at least, there will be difficulty in ascertaining the rent rates of non-occupancy ryots as a basis for determining the rents of occupancy ryots; because in those districts the non-occupancy class no longer exists, having become gradually merged in the occupancy class. In such places the authorities recommend that a proportion of the value of the gross produce be adopted as already proposed by me.

9. Some authorities propose that the question as to what ought to be considered (for this purpose of determining the rent of occupancy ryots) the ordinary average rent of a non-occupancy ryot should be referred to a jury. I admit the primâ facie advantages of this, but the objection is that it would leave to the chance decision, perhaps the varying uncertain opinion, of juries at different times and places, the very question for the solving of which we are trying to find the data and to embody them in law.

10. As already seen, I am myself in favour of adopting some particular proportion of the value of the gross produce as a standard, especially, too, as this method has been recommended by the British Indian Association, and is believed to be approved by the ryots in many places, and also by many official authorities. But though there is much consensus as to the principle of fixing some proportion, there is, as might be expected, difference of opinion as to what proportion should be adopted for occupancy ryots. There is a considerable interval between the 25 per cent. proposed by the British Indian Association and the 15 per cent. proposed by me. Some authorities, who regard the case of the ryot with special consideration, think that 12 per cent. should suffice. Perhaps some intermediate proportion between 15 and 25 per cent. might meet with a sufficient degree of acceptance from all concerned as a sort of compromise. There would probably be difficulty in fixing rigidly one proportion for the whole country, as such proportion would be somewhat lower in Eastern Bengal and somewhat higher in Western Bengal. But it might be enacted that the proportion might be taken at the discretion of the court within certain limits to be fixed by the law, say not more than 20 and not less than 15 per cent.

11. Thus I would still propose that where the non-occupancy rate can be ascertained, the occupancy rate should be fixed at something less than that by a certain percentage; and where that cannot be ascertained, the occupancy rate should be calculated by a certain proportion of the value of the gross produce.

12. In the course of this discussion it has come out that there is doubt in some districts as to who is an occupancy ryot under Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869. By section 6 of that Act it is enacted that every ryot who shall have cultivated or held land for 12 years shall have a right of occupancy in that land, but that this shall not apply to subordinate ryots who cultivate land under occupancy ryots. Now, it is represented that in some parts of the country the occupancy ryots are really in the position of sub-proprietors or middlemen, and have considerable holdings, the lands of which they sublet to cultivators, who cultivate continuously from father to son for long periods, and who deserve to be counted as occupancy ryots. It will be desirable to introduce some wording which would make this matter more clear. The result would be the extension of occupancy privileges to some classes of ryots in certain parts of the country, whose claims, though patent enough, are not sufficiently recognized by the existing law.

It would, however, be desirable to leave untouched that part of section 6 which provides that occupancy rights shall not grow up in the particular lands reserved by the zemindar as his own home farm, and called locally "khomar," "nij-jote," and "seer."

13. As is well known, much of the land in Bengal is held by "dependent talookdars" and tenure-holders, who are defined by law (section 16, Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869) to be "persons possessing a permanent and transferable interest in land, intermediate between the proprietor of the estate and the ryot." The rent due by these middlemen to the proprietors is generally determined by special agreement, or by the circumstances of the tenure. But in some instances this is not the case, and in such instances the tenure-holders claim that their rents shall be determined at least as favourably as those of occupancy ryots, and even somewhat more favourably. There would be no difficulty in giving them terms as favourable as those of occupancy ryots; whether the zemindars would agree to conceding terms still more favourable, say by 10 per cent., may be a question; perhaps they might: at all events, the point would be worthy of the consideration of the legislature.

14. I find that many zemindars desire that the right and interest of an occupancy ryot shall be liable to be sold for arrears of rent, or for the amount adjudged to be due from him by a decree of court. At present a zemindar can recover such dues by distraint; he can also obtain a decree from the court for evicting the defaulter. I would not have any objection to making the occupancy right liable to sale for arrears of rent, if the zemindars desire it. This would not be prejudicial to the occupancy ryots, for the consequence must be that the occupancy tenure would have to be declared transferable by private arrangement (as well as heritable, which it already is). It has never yet been by law declared transferable, though it is believed that private transfers of the tenure are frequently made in some parts of the country. The result would be a certain strengthening of the occupancy tenure, which would in some degree be matter for satisfaction.

15. Then the zemindars have very frequently asked for a process more easy and summary than that of Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869, to enable them to collect, not disputed rents, but rents undisputed or admitted to be due. At present an uncontested case will often cost in litigation as much or nearly as much as a really difficult one; and in the end the ryot has to bear the expense of the litigation. It might be possible to substitute in the law a notice of demand for a summons, and if the ryot does not then appear and contest the claim, to allow the landlord to proceed to execution or to realization by process. Every step would be taken through the court or other deciding authority, the Collector or other, so that the process could not possibly be abused. It may be thought that the carrying out of this summary process should be entrusted to the revenue authorities, on the principle that they are best fitted to deal with the realization of uncontested arrears of rent, while the civil courts are left to deal with contested rents and with cases where there are real disputes.

16. I bear in mind that many, perhaps the majority, of the zemindars desire that the jurisdiction in rent suits should be vested in the revenue courts according to the practice which used to prevail in Bengal, and which prevails in the North-Western Provinces. Possibly some of the ryots may have a similar wish, but it is not certain that such is the view of the majority of the ryots. On the whole, there seems to be hardly sufficient reason for proposing this change now that the Bill for preventing agrarian disturbances has passed into law.

17. For all these reasons, then, I propose to introduce into the Legislative Council of Bengal, in November next, or as soon after as may be convenient or practicable, a Bill, being in continuation of, or supplementary to, the existing rent law of Bengal, Acts X of 1859 and VIII (B.C.) of 1869, and providing specifically for the following matters:—

1*st*.—In cases where an occupancy ryot is liable to enhancement of rent under section 18 of Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869, such enhancement is either to be regulated by the principle that his rent shall be less than the ordinary rent of a non-occupancy ryot by a certain percentage from 20 to 25 per cent., or else is to be calculated on a certain proportion of the value of the gross produce from 15 to 25 per cent., provided always that no occupancy ryot shall be entitled to claim under the foregoing rule any abatement from the rent which he has heretofore paid.

2*nd*.—The definition of an occupancy ryot, as given in section 6 of Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869, to be somewhat extended, so as to include ryots cultivating under other ryots in certain classes of cases.

3*rd*.—The right and interest of an occupancy ryot to be rendered liable to sale for default in paying rent and also transferable by private agreement.

4*th*.—The process for realizing arrears of rent in undisputed cases to be simplified by the court or other deciding authority,—Collector or other—being empowered, on application from the landlord, to issue a notice to the ryot, requiring him either to pay or to appear and show cause to the contrary; in the event of the ryot neither paying nor appearing, the court to order attachment and sale of the defaulter's property.

5*th*.—The rents payable by tenure-holders or others possessing a permanent transferable interest in land, intermediate between the proprietor of an estate and the ryot—when not fixed by special agreement or by the circumstances of the tenures—to be determined according to a standard similar to that of the occupancy ryots, but more favourable by 10 per cent.

18. The precise proportion and percentage set down in the foregoing proposals would be much discussed as the Bill passed through the Legislative Council, and would very possibly receive modification. Indeed, if such a Bill is ever to be finally passed, there must be some compromises between opposite views, especially on points of detail. I should be prepared to yield some points for the sake of carrying some enactment which would help to settle the disputes between landlord and tenant, with which some parts of the country have for some time past been threatened. And though I might be unable to carry all that I would wish to see carried, still I think that any measure of the nature proposed—even though shorn of some of its propositions—would be sure to strengthen the just position and the right of the occupancy ryots, while, on the other hand, it afforded the zemindars satisfactory means of determining and realizing their dues.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE POLICE DEPARTMENT OF BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1875.

POLICE.

Calcutta, the 30th October 1876.

READ—

The annual report on the administration of the Police Department in the Lower Provinces of Bengal during the year 1875.

Read again—

The annual administration report for the previous year with the orders of Government passed thereon by the Lieutenant-Governor.

The annual report on the administration of the Police of the Lower Provinces for the past year, although the second which has been prepared by Mr. Hankey, is the first which deals with a period during which he himself was in immediate charge of the department. In arrangement the report differs somewhat from those which have been previously submitted, but the changes made conduce to clearness and facility of reference. The analysis of crime submitted is very complete. The fluctuations, which are observable under the several heads adopted for the purposes of record, have been carefully traced back to the several districts where they occurred, and, where possible, explained. With all this, brevity has been duly attended to without any unnecessary sacrifice of detail.

2. The system adopted in administering the department was the same in the past year as in those immediately preceding it, and but few changes occurred in the personnel of the force in its higher grades. The chief event of the year was the visit of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to Calcutta. The excellence of the police arrangements then made elicited at the time the approbation of Government. Of the extra duties incidental to the occasion, the Bengal Police undertook a fair share and performed the work required from them with zeal and efficiency.

3. There were no exceptional circumstances during the past year to affect crime, such as the famine and scarcity which prevailed in many parts of these provinces in 1874. Nor were the police required, as during the previous year, to undertake miscellaneous duties of various descriptions connected with the guard and transport of grain, and the general operations of relief which were for several months so extensively carried on, and which deprived the Police Department of the services of many of its most efficient members. In the absence of any general or special causes which have affected crime, or which have interfered with the ordinary duties of the police force, the past year affords on the whole a fair criterion of the normal state of crime in these provinces, and of the general degree of efficiency which has been attained by the police.

4. In so far as the police may be judged by their success in obtaining convictions in those classes of crime which are usually committed by professional criminals, and which require detective ability to repress, by the diminution of such crimes as are for the most part deliberately planned and are not the result of sudden impulse, and by the decrease in the number of cases of proved misconduct which have called for judicial or departmental punishment, it must be held that on the whole there has been an improvement in the general conduct and efficiency of the force. In some districts this improvement has been marked, while in others it has not been so conspicuous. As noticed in the Resolution for the previous year, the efficiency of the police is dependent on the exertions of District Magistrates and of the Superintendents of Police who are placed in immediate charge, and the results attained in each district are shown to correspond very closely with the amount of interest and labor taken by the local officers in superintending and directing the proceedings of the police, with the efforts made to instruct, utilize, and improve the status of the village police, and with the degree of watchfulness and control which has been exercised over the local bad characters.

5. Petty crime it is true has been shown to have slightly increased during the past year, a result which must be looked for as the people become gradually accustomed to look to our courts for the redress of petty injuries, and as with the progress of education they become more keenly alive to their individual rights. But in serious crime, and especially in that class of crime which it must be the first care of an efficient police administration to repress, there has been a very marked decrease. The figures of 1874 were no doubt swelled to some extent by offences attributable to the scarcity which then prevailed; but making every allowance for this, the general results obtained during the past year afford just ground for congratulation and hope for the future.

6. The harmony which throughout the year has characterised the relations of the superior officers of the Police Department with the Magistracy, is to the Lieutenant-Governor a matter for satisfaction. The instances in which he has had to take notice of any misunderstandings or disagreements have been extremely rare and very exceptional in their circumstances.
